Brought here six months ago a nervous wreck and with the odds even that he would never be able to return to the links, he is now planning to return to the golf tournaments next summer. Whether he will attempt to enter the British amateur, an event that last summer almost cost him his life, he has not announced.

"I'll enter the next national amateur, if nothing happens," he said, however, while visiting a hospital where his daughter, Betty, was born Monday.

Plays Despite Illness.

Sweetser, ranked second only in American golf to Bobby Jones, was stricken with pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza while in England last summer with the American Walker Cup team. Physicians warned him to give up his golf engagements, but he persisted.

At St. Anne's, in the British amateur, Bobby Jones, on whom American hopes had been pinned, slipped. Sweetser won his way into the finals against Simpson, a Briton. The morning of the finals, Sweetser had a high fever and was spitting blood. Physicians warned him that to play might cost him his life. He disregarded their advice and won.

He had planned a long visit in Europe. Instead he returned to the United States and he was taken from the ship to a hospital. From there, attended by Mrs. Sweetser, he came to Asheville, where he has been paying the price of victory — months of invalidism.

Barely able to creep about, Sweetser gave the appearance of a man on his last legs physically. His will power appeared to be about all that kept him up. Then came the national amateur and Sweetser was pulling for Bobby Jones to win his third successive national amateur title. When George von Elm won Sweetser had nothing but praise for him, but the failure of Jones was almost like a blow.

Rest and mountain air, however, got in their work. His appetite grew and he could sleep again. He put on weight and soon was playing nine holes of golf two or three times a week. Then in a few weeks he could make 18 holes. To-day he is able to play around the Asheville Country Club course and the Biltmore Forest course in bogey or better two or three times a week.

He plans to remain here this winter, but in the spring will return north "if nothing happens."

BOXER BANNED FOR FOUL BLOW

Suspension of Mickey Andert Automatic Says Plies When Spark Falls.

FOR THREE MONTHS.

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—Mickey Andert, of St. Paul, made his first start in a Michigan ring Thursday. It will be his last for at least three months.

Louis W. Piles, chairman of the Michigan Boxing Commission, announced yesterday that Andert was automatically suspended when he fouled Ward (Kid) Sparks, of Terre Haute, Ind., in the sixth round of their fight at the Moose Temple.

"I do not think that the blow was intentional," said Plies, "but that doesn't make any difference. The ruling is that any boxer who fouls another is automatically suspended for 90 days the minute the blow is struck."

Sparks was far out in front and figured to win on points or by knock out when he was forced to win on a foul. From a flurry of gloves came the low punch that sent the Indian bantam to the floor. When he did arise his manager, Charlie Moore, bounded into the ring and helped the referee, Slim McClelland, lift the fighter to his corner.

Doctor Says 'No.'

"We are going on with this thing," shouted Moore, but he was speaking for himself and not for Sparks. Sparks could not go on. At first he said he would be ready in five minutes but Dr. V. L. Garbutt examined him and forbade him to resume.

Ten minutes after the end of the match, Sparks was still unable to leave the ring. In the arms of Moore and Mike McNulty, manager of Andert, he was carried to the dressing room, but lay nauseated for a half hour, stretched out on a rubbing table. Dr. Garbutt said that Spark's injury is not serious.

In his Detroit debut Andert did not make altogether an unimpressive showing. He steps around with speed and seems to carry a sting in his right hand but he was no time with a right smash to the stomach. He again took a nine count before resuming his feet.

Andert weighed 123 pounds and Sparks 120½. Andert had difficulty in making the weight and his handlers traced his poor showing to a weakened condition brought about by taking off seven pounds in four days.

Sparks went into the lead in the second round when he dropped Andert with a right cross to the nose. The St. Paul youth remained on one knee for the count of nine.

HEILMANN BEST TIGER IN PINCH

New Figures Show That He Drove in 100 Runs.

LAZZERI SURPRISES.

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—Harry Heilmann batted in 103 runs for the Tigers last season, according to official figures released yesterday. He was the only Detroit player to reach the 100 mark in this respect.

Heinie Manush, the league's batting champion, did not rank high in this department, and neither did Robert Roy Fothergill, the third of Detroit's slugging outfielders.

The league leader in driving across runs, as you no doubt have suspected, was George Herman Ruth of the Yankees. He was responsible for an average of more than one run per game and had a wide margin over the rest of the field. His total was 155 for 152 games.

Lazzeri Surprises.

Lazzeri, a comparatively low percentage hitter, but an extra-base driver, ranks with George Burns second to Ruth. Simmons, Goslin, Falk, Gehrig and Heilmann, clean-up hitters, all batted in more than 100 runs.

Ty Cobb batted in 62 in 79 games to show how timely he still was as a hitter. Jacobson and Judge, comparatively light hitters, batted in 90 and 92 runs respectively.

As a drawer of passes, Ruth also led the league with 144. Manush drew only 31 bases on balls, Bishop, Rigney, Gehrig, Blue and Speaker were men who stood high in working pitchers for free tickets.

Mostil's Honor.

John Mostil got in the way of most pitched balls—and twirlers pinked him a total of 10 times.

Joe Sewell still was hard to fan; he struck out only six times in 154 games; Ty Cobb struck out twice in 79 games, in many of which he appeared only as a pinch hitter, however. Johnny Tobin was fanned only three times in 78 games. Tony Lazzeri, whose strike-out in the last game of the World's Series was so decisive, led in striking out, achieving 96 "fannings" for the dubious honor. Ruth fanned 76 times and Gehrig 72.

YOUNG GOLFERS BEAT CHAMPION

AT VANCOUVER.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 4. — Golf history was made here yesterday at the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's new golf course, "Langara," at South Vancouver, when young Charlie McCadden, aged 17, partnered with Roy Hern, the Hastings Park professional, just past his 23rd birthday, defeated Walter Hagen, world champion, and the local pro, Nat Cornfoot, by 2 up and one to go. Hagen returned a 76 against a par 72 with Hern close up with 78 and McFadden a close third with 80. A crowd numbering 764 followed the players, including Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, Miss J. K. Brown, and Vincent Richards, the tennis stars. Hagen secured 2 birdies.

Dempsey Poisoned— By Law Difficulties

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 4. — (Canadian Press.) — "Yes, Jack Dempsey was poisoned just before he fought Gene Tunney—poisoned by law suits, writs, lawyers and attachments," says Gene Normile, the ex-champion's manager.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

I see by the papers that our Mister Irvin Bailey busted into the scoring column in the cash and carry circuit the other night with 3 goals. The former Petes' skipper is earning his cakes with the Saints all right, and him and Mister Doc Carson look about the best of the Irishmen. They don't grow right wings much better than the gent who played that position for the Petes the last 2 seasons, and he oughta have a great season with the green shirts.

Our lads is practising in the great open spaces for their S.p.a. debut next week against Kitchener. The canal is their arena, and they have been doing what they can to get their ice-legs on before they tie into the Dutchmen next Tues. The S.p.a. got away with a surprise when Mister Bailey's old team, the St. Mary's, knocked the Varsity Grads out of the series. They is a suspicion that Mister Conny Smythe's boys had a bet or 2 down on the election and they was busy listening to the returns given out in the Arena over the radio when the winning marker was dipped in on them. At that, however, the Saints has 1 right smart team, with Mister Joe Primeau in the stellar role.

Mister Joe Dwyer has taken a leaf out of the prohibitionists' book by adopting as his slogan for the winter, "Youth refuses to retreat." The rule-makers can't fool the Petes' goaltender. Every time they cut a inch or 2 off the goalie's pads he widens out about the same distance himself.

I hope to have more to tell you about the Petes in my next, Mac. They'll be in action against the Kitchener Dutchmen, and judging by last year's performances, it oughta to be as close as Mister Raney's win in Prince Edward Wed. Neither team will be in mid-season form, of course, but they'll give all they got, and it'll be a snappy set-too.

By next week, too, the customers will be through bickering over the O. T. A. and be ready for some hockey talk.

Until then, so long.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

JOHN M'GRAW WILL TAKE 14 FIELDERS SOUTH

Maguire From Toledo and Thompson From Buffalo Best Prospects.

FRISCH TO REMAIN.

Giants Will Have Forty Players When Training Season Opens.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—John J. McGraw announced yesterday that he will take fourteen infielders South with the Giants next Spring, which indicates that he will have at least forty players at Sarasota when the training season starts. On Tuesday he announced a list of fourteen pitchers who would be on hand at Sarasota. He may bob up with fourteen outfielders tomorrow.

Most of the infielders on McGraw's lists are more or less well known to Polo Grounds fans. These include Frank Frisch, George Kelly, Travis Jackson, Fred Lindstrom, Bill Terry, Andy Cohen, Eddie Farrell and Jack Bentley. Bentley, by the way, is on the pitching list as well as the infield list. He can play first base for a few minutes if Bill Terry and George Kelly are captured by bandits or anything like that. Otherwise he will be a pitcher or a pinch hitter.

Some More Names

In addition to those players noted above, McGraw has Pete Cote, Freddie Maguire, Al Slayback, Frank McCullough, George Hurley and "Al Fresco" Thompson. Some of these names need a little explaining.

Pete Cote came to the Giants from Holy Cross last summer and was shipped to Toledo for exercise and experience. Fred Maguire another Holy Cross product, was with the Giants several seasons back. He went to Toledo and made good there. MGraw thinks that Freddie is about ripe for the big show now. He was always a good fielder, and he hit well in the American Association.

Another highly touted youngster is "Al Fresco" Thompson, once a star player for George Washington High School and later with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He made a brief appearance in the world's series between the Pirates and Senators in 1925. The Giants got him from Buffalo of the International League, to which team he was sent by the Pirates.

Pittsburgh Mistake

It is still claimed around Pittsburgh that it was all a mistake and that they meant to keep a string on the lad. Thompson played a great game for Buffalo all the way through, and made a fine impression in the few games he played for the Giants just before the close of last season.

Al Slayback was with the Giants at Sarasota last Spring. He was purchased from Norfolk and sent back to the club for more experience. Now he is up for another trial. Frank McCullough is a semi-pro infielder from Newcastle, Ia., and George Hurley is a shortstop from the Coast who is highly recommended to McGraw.

The Giant manager took time out to announce for the 'steenth time that Frank Frisch was not for sale or exchange He says that Frank will play for the Giants as usual, and that last year's little squabble has been forgiven and forgotten.

GLADYS ROBINSON JOINS THE PROS

Signs Up Tour With Other Professional Stars.

TORONTO, Dec. 4 — Word has come back to Toronto that Miss Gladys Robinson world's undefeated lady speed-skating champion, who retired from amateur competition two years ago, has now definitely joined the professional ranks.

Gladys Robinson and Arthur Staff, world's professional skating champion, have signed a three months' contract, and will leave Chicago in three weeks' time. Accompanying the speed skaters will be the champion fancy skaters, Miss Gladys Lamb and Orval Baptie. The quartet have been booked for three solid months, their itinerary including a trip across the continent.

It is reported that the quartet will give three exhibitions every week, and that the weekly salary will be $3,000 for the troupe. At the end of the three months' period another three months' contract will be ready for them. It is not known yet whether the quaretet will include Toronto in their tour.

Miss Gladys Robinson of Toronto brought fame to the Queen City when she conquered the best United States lady skaters in 1919, and won the world's championship, the title now held by Lella Brooks Potter, a former clubmate.

The new Toronto Speed Skating Club, which has Harry Cody, former international champion, as its manager and coach, was counting on having Miss Robinson as participant this winter. The ex-world's champion was in active training in Chicago preparatory to coming back here, when the alluring professional offer was made. Mr. Cody is a brother-in-law to Miss Robinson.

Previous to joining the professional ranks, which of course prohibts her further competition in amateur ranks, and precludes any possibility of her competing with Leila Brooks Potter, the former world's champion had danced on the stage on skates. Had she not accepted the recent contract to do actual speed skating, it is said the amateur union would have been faced with the problem of whether dancing on the stage on skates professionalized an amateur athlete.

MICKEY WALKER BEATS FLOWERS

Referee's Decision Which Results in Title Change is Booed.

WILL MEET AGAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion of the world, won the world's middleweight title here last night by virtue of a decision over 'Tiger' Flowers in a 10-round battle.

Walker scored two knockdowns, dropping the Negro in the first round and again in the ninth.

As quickly as the decision was given twenty or more police swarmed into the ring to maintain order until Flowers and the new champion could get to their dressing rooms. The verdict first drew a round of boos, but the crowd quickly broke into cheers.

Walk Miller, manager of the defeated negro, had feared for several days that Flowers would not receive what he would consider a fair decision, provided the contest went the limit. Because of these fears, Miller had demanded a forfeit of $65,000 from Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, guaranteeing to give Flowers a return match within ninety days. Kearns had further agreed that Flowers would be the first challenger.

Insists on Return Bout.

"We had a good referee in there," Miller said. "He decided Walker won, so it must be so. However, Flowers was hit low two times, and these punches took the steam out of him. Walker has to box Flowers again within three months. Kearns has $65,000 up to guarantee it."

The bout was spectacular and savagely boxed, and in the very first round Walker sent Flowers sprawling to his haunches with the first right hand punch fired at the negro's chin. Flowers jumped to his feet as the timekeeper started to bark out his count. The negro apparently was not hurt, although the blow slowed him for a second.

After that furious first round, Flowers, throwing his punches from a variety of angles, peppered Mickey with long lefts and rasping rights, keeping him out of range of a body attack.

Flowers managed to keep Walker out of range until the fourth when Mickey made a furious stand. Again in the ninth when Walker made his best showing he nailed Flowers on the chin with a right that made his knees buckle, and a few seconds later clipped him another right on the chin that dropped Flowers for the second time.

The receipts, according to Promoter Jim Mullen, were between $85,000 and $90,000, a record-breaking gate for glove-fighting in Illinois.

Godfrey Scores Knockout.

Chuck Burns of San Antonio, and Babe McGorgory, an Oklahoma 165-pounder, boxed eight vicious rounds to a draw. McGorgory, a sharp, aggressive puncher, welted Burns with a right to the chin in the third round that made his knees buckle, but he failed to follow up the advantage.

Walker and Flowers entered the ring shortly after 10 o'clock and received great ovations. They shook hands.

COPULOS TRIMMED BY 52-50 COUNT

Willie Hoppe Now Leads in the Blocks Won.

DETROIT, Dec. 4 — Willie Hoppe took another block from Gus Copulos, of Detroit, yesterday afternoon in their 600-point three-cushion billiard match at the Strand Academy. The score was 52 to 50, and the game went sixty-six innings. This gave Hoppe the lead in blocks by three to two, but Copulos is still out in front on the point score, 250 to 232, in 276 turns at the table.

Yesterday's crowd was the biggest that ever attended an afternoon match at the Strand. Since Hoppe has regained his stroke he has been made favorite again in the betting, though he still trails by eighteen points.

Hoppe started off like a champion and in his twentieth inning turned in a high run of seven, which made the count 20 to 7 in his favor. But Copulos picked up after that, and by mixing runs of three four and five with careful safety play, succeded in tieing the score at 29-all in the fortieth inning.

O.H.A. GROUPS TEAMS FOR RACE

Local Intermediates Entered in Lake Shore Group.

KIDS WITH LAKEFIELD.

TORONTO Dec. 4—The O.H.A. Executive Committee met here last evening and arranged the grouping for the senior, intermediate and junior series. The St. Mary's A.C. of Toronto notified the committee that its teams would play under the name of the Marlboro A.C., and this change was made.

The Executive Committee decided not to reopen any cases of players' applications for change of residence disposed of at the June meeting of the committee, when full consideration was given, and at that time declared final. A number of applications were received for reconsideration, but all were refused.

The following new clubs were admitted: Stouffville, St. Thomas Hockey Club, Stayner, Alvinston, Argonaut Rowing Club, Royal Canadian Air Force of Camp Borden, Queen's University, Lakefield Preparatory School of Lakefield, London East A.A.

The ban on the Ingersoll rink was lifted. J. Russell Boyle of Picton was refused reinstatement, while the suspension on Reginald Fleming formerly of the Irish-Canadians was raised.

President George McKay of Kitchener, Secretary W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, and Treasurer Sheriff J. F. Paxton of Whitby were appointed the sub-committee for the year. Mr. Hewitt will represent the O.H.A. at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada at St John's, New Brinswick, next week.

The eastern grouping is as follows:

SENIOR SERIES

Group No. 1

Convenor—O.H.A. executive.

EDINBURGH, Dec. 4 (Associated Press). — Mrs. Robin Welsh of this city has decided to join the professional tennis ranks and become a teacher of the game with headquarters at Glasgow.

Mrs. Welsh has won the tennis championship of Scotland six times and has played in many international games.

Mrs. Larcombe, a well-known British player, became a professional in 1922.

Cavanaugh Is Mentioned As Fordham's New Coach

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (Associated Press).—Fordham has a new football captain, but no coach to-day. The squad elected Bill Feaster, tackle, to lead the eleven Wednesday just as Frank Gargan, coach for five years, was announcing his resignation. Frank Cavanaugh, who resigned as coach at Boston College at the close of the season, is considered a possible successor to Gargan.

SUGGESTS DEATH AS PENALTY FOR GRAVE OFFENCE

TIME REDUCTION.

Judge Should Have Ordered Whipping With Term in Prison.

TORONTO, Dec. 4. — On the ground that Justice Rose should have imposed the maximum penalty of death, instead of 15 years' imprisonment on Frank de Young, Walter Liddiard and Richard Darling, convicted of rape at St. Catharines, the Attorney-General has filed an appeal to the Appellate Division.

In the alternative, the appellant claims that the judge, in addition to sentencing the accused to a term of imprisonment, should have ordered them to be whipped.

The men were tried at St. Catharines last October on a charge of having stopped an auto at night on the road from Pt. Dalhousie, and attacking a young woman, aged 20, compelling her escort to remain quiet. The men were J. R. Gough, aged 45, father of four children, and grandfather of two; Richard Darling, 30, married, with children; Walter Liddiard, 30, married, with children and Frank De Young married, with 4 children. Gough was found guilty only of assisting in the offence. The only excuse the men offered was that they had misjudged the character of the girl.

Worst Case.

"It is the worst case of such a nature in the annals of the province and in view of the circumstances the Crown is of the opinion that the sentence is inadequate," stated an official of the Attorney-General's Department.

"The Criminal Code provides for sentence and whipping, but in this case no whipping was ordered by the trial judge. The Crown is of the opinion that, owing to the brutal nature of the case, whipping should be part of the sentence and appeal is being made on that ground."

It is pointed out that the "good behaviour" reductions on a 15-year sentence, without any additional remissions that might be granted, would take three years and six months off a 15-year sentence. The Attorney - General's Department feels that such imprisonment is not sufficient owing to the repugnant nature of the case. The Crown holds that there are no mitigating circumstances and that the girl's life has been ruined through no fault of her own.

OBITUARY.

PEARL CARTON.

The death occurred last night in Buffalo of Miss Pearl Carton, nurse-in-training. The remains will arrive to-night on Local C. P. R.

Funeral announcement later.

ELIZA LATCHFORD TAYLOR.

The death occurred at the home of J. M. Lowes, Otonabee, of Eliza Latchford, widow of W. H. Taylor, in her 91st year.

She leaves to mourn her loss, two daughters, Mrs. Richmond, Nogie's Creek, and Mrs. Freeburn of this city, and one son, Buton Taylor, of Vancouver.

The funeral will be held on Sunday, from Comstock's Funeral Chapel, with interment in Lakefield Cemetery, Rev. Brown officiating.

NOEL H. ("John") DE LaPLANT

The death occurred at ten o'clock last night, at St. Joeph's Hospital, of Noel Hermidas de LaPlante, better known as John de LaPlante, after an illness of three weeks following an accident in which the deceased sustained a broken hip.

The late Mr. de LaPlante, who was eighty-three years of age, was one of the oldest and most respected residents of this city. He was a native of LaPrairie, Quebec, and came to Peterborough in 1849, spending more than three quarters of a century here, during which time the village of those years has expanded and grown to its present dimensions. Like the late Mr. Martin McFadden, whose close personal friend he was, and whose death took place a few days ago, he was one of the builders of commercial life in the city, being engaged for forty-four years in the butchering business, first with his brother, Mr. N. T. de LaPlante, and later with Mr. L. D. Letellier in the same line. He retired from active business life over thirty years ago.

The deceased, who never married, was one of a family of sixteen children only one of whom, the eldest, survives now in Mr. N. T. de LaPlante. A host of nephews and nieces, in the city and in other places, also survive.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, the home of Mr. John Gibson, at 27 Crescent Street, on Monday morning, with services at nine o'clock at the Church of the Sacred Heart, and interment in St. Peter's Cemetery.

The late Mr. de LaPlante was a fine example of the older generation in his consistent Christian life and his quiet, unassuming ways. He was a self-educated man, studious and possessed of a wide knowledge along many lines. A man of decided views, he had the fine manners of the old school, and had made a wide circle of friends. Familiarly known and loved as "Uncle John" de LaPlante, he was liked by all with whom he came in contact, and his unknown charitable works were constant and unflagging. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and took an unceasing interest in an unassuming way in all matters connected with the good of the community and the church of which he was a loyal member.

MARTIN McFADDEN.

The funeral took place this morning, with a large attendance of relatives and friends, of the late Martin McFadden. The solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated at nine o'clock at St. Peter's Cathedral by his son, Rev. V. G. McFadden, of Trout Creek, and the Libera was sung by His Lordship, Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Bishop of Peterborough. Rev. Ray Clancy, of Watertown, Wisconsin, acted as deacon, Rev. W. Meagher as sub-deacon, and Rev. J. Finn as Master of Ceremonies. Present in the sanctuary were the following priests: Very Rev. Dean O'Leary, of Bracebridge, Very Rev. Dean O'Sullivan, of Port Hope, Rev. P. Galvin of Downeyville, Rev. J. McAuley, of Ennismore, Rev. M. J. McGuire, of Douro, Rev. J. Ferguson of Warkworth, Rev. J. O'Sullivan of Woodville, Rev. J. Garvey of Lakefield, Rev. C. Carroll, of Lindsay, Rev. J. Black of Lindsay, Rev. J. McCarthy of Norwood, and from the city: Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, Rev. P. McGuire, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Rev. P. Costello, Rev. J. Guiry, Rev. J. Moloney, Rev. W. Meagher, Rev. K. Corkery and Rev. J. Finn.

The funeral sermon was preached very eloquently by Rt. Rev. W. J. McColl, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and the services at the cemetery were conducted by Rev. V. G. McFadden, assisted by Rev. Ray Clancy, Rev. J. McAuley, Rev. J. Finn, Rev. P. Galvin and Rev. Father McGuire.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. W. S. Merrell, F. Fairen, E. Conroy, C. Rutherford, J. Murty, W. Belleghem, W. Comstock and T. Lane.

The funeral was conducted by Mr. O. Fallis, of the firm of M. McFadden and Son.

WEDDING BELLS.

BULLOCK—TRENNIM.

The wedding was solemnized at nine o'clock this morning by the Rev. J. E. Todd, of Gladys Trennim and Howard Bullock, at the home of the bride's parents, Hilliard street.

After a wedding breakfast to immediate friends and relatives, the happy couple left on the noon train for Ottawa, where they will spend a short honeymoon. On their return they will reside in Smith township.

MOORE—DAVIS.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Rectory on Saturday forenoon, Nov. 27th, at five o'clock, when Emily Mary, daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. Davis, of Renfrew, Ont., was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert H. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Moore, of Lindsay. The couple were attended by Miss Irene Conroy and Mr. Louis LeBarr. Mr. and Mrs. Moore left later for Toronto, where they will spend their honeymoon.

On their return they will reside in Oshawa.

SORG—HUTCHINSON.

The wedding took place at Bedford, Ohio, on October 27, of Melvina, daughter of Miles E. Hutchinson, of Fraserville, and L. D. Sorg, of Cleveland. Mrs. Sorg was a graduate nurse of the Cobourg Hospital, and at the time of her marriage was employed at the City Hospital, Cleveland.

PETERBOROUGH CITY AND THE DISTRICT

With the death of Senator McHugh early in the week at Lindsay, a vacancy has been created in the Senate, and it is claimed here that the appointment of a Peterborough man should be made. That Peterborough has a strong claim, it may be pointed out that the following vacancies have occurred in recent years:

Senator Cox, who was looked upon as a Peterborough man on account of his connection and affiliations with this city;
Senator Beith of Bowmanville;
Senator Bennett of Midland;
Senator Sir MacKenzie Bowell of Belleville;
Senator Kerr of Cobourg;
Senator Dobson of Lindsay;
Senator McHugh of Lindsay;

And now the only representative in the Senate of the whole district from Midland as far east as Brockville is Senator Mulholland of Cobourg. All the other appointments have been taken away and given elsewhere.

From the above facts it is quite apparent that the claim of the appointment of a Peterborough man would be a just one.

THAT COLD

To successfully combat a cold, it is necessary to speed up the elimination of poisons and accumulated waste from the body. The best way to do this is by restoring normal nerve energy to the liver, kidneys, bowels, lungs and skin by releasing constriction from spinal nerves. CHIROPRACTIC SPINAL ADJUSTMENTS PROVE EFFECTIVE in warding off a cold or in breaking up a cold which has become either acute or chronic.

It isn't altogether a question of eyes. But, again, perhaps not—for according to statements that the Foreign Ministers gave to the press here everything was agreed upon between them before the train left That is, ...anbo far as the League of Nations Council agenda is concerned. But ...there is a good deal more in prospect ...than that.

Whether M. Briand, Sir Austen Chamberlain, M. Zaleski of Poland and M. Vandervelde of Belgium continued to exchange views on European and Chinese affairs before they adjourned to their sleeping cars, or merely indulged in pleasant anecdotes does not much matter, as it undoubtedly is true that the big business which begins in Geneva today will not occur in the Council meeting.

Sir Austen Chamberlain is reputed to hold the hope of bringing France and Italy together. M. Briand and Herr Stresemann are known to be concerned in getting together. Whether all four manage to have a quadrilateral conversation only time can tell. But in that event, Belgium has asked a place in the meeting, and if Belgium be given a place then other members of the Council, and especially Poland, could not be refused admission.

However distasteful general conversations may appear to the French at a time when, in their opinion, it is all important to give Germany a chance to show cause why the Allied supervision of armaments should be modified, and thus insure a continued existence of the present German Government and a continued atmosphere favorable to reconciliation between the former military enemies, it is quite possible that they will adhere to Sir Austen's wishes for a wider European understanding.

COLD IN KINGSTON.

TORONTO, Dec. 6. (Canadian Press).—With relief in sight, Ontario generally is digging itself out to-day from under yesterday's heavy snowfall, which in this city at least was the heaviest at this period for the past 28 years. The gale which whipped up the snow yesterday brought temperatures down around the zero mark, but to-day Kingston, with a temperature of two below zero, is the coldest Ontario city. At Ottawa the thermometer eased to two above, while it is four above at Toronto and zero at Sault Ste. Marie.

To-day the weatherman forecasts that while to-day will be fair and cold, with moderates in lower and eastern Ontario, it will be milder tomorrow, probably followed by some light snow. In Northern Ontario milder weather is expected to-day.

Prosecute All Smokers Friends Of Weed Retort

LONDON, Dec. 6.—"All smokers should be prosecuted as nuisances, and the manufacture and sale of tobacco should be prohibited," was the statement issued here Saturday by George Bernard Shaw.

Lord Ashfield, who recently caused more accommodations for smokers to be set aside in London underground trains, said: "Smokers are not nuisances. It is the non-smokers who grow sour and dour. The answer to Shaw is that there are not enough non-smokers to provide the necessary judges and juries to prosecute smokers."

C. B. Cochran, a showman, declared that those who try to interfere with others' pleasure should be prosecuted.

GOVERNOR SMITH OPPOSES LEASE OF POWER RIGHT

IN ST. LAWRENCE.

Has Retained Well Known Lawyer To Have Injunction Issued.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Governor Alfred E. Smith, bitter opponent of private ownership of State water-power developments, will probably carry his fights to the courts.

The Democratic Governor has retained Samuel Untermyer of New York as special counsel and legal adviser to obtain, if necessary, an injunction to halt the State Water-power Commission, controlled by the Republicans, from granting a lease to the development of a $200,000,000 Hydro-Electric plant at Barnart Island, on the St. Lawrence River.

The Governor has requested the Water-power Commission, if it still persists in its announced determination to grant the lease before it passes out of existence on December 31, to postpone action for two days when it meets on Wednesday to give Mr. Untermyer time to complete an investigation already begun and to prepare papers for injunction proceedings.

QUEBEC, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—At least fourteen steamers, most of them outward bound, are at present in difficulties on the St. Lawrence, due to ice conditions, which took an added turn for the worse during the week-end. Several ships have been carried back and forth by the ice for hours at a stretch, unable to put into harbor or remain stationary on account of dragging anchors. This morning, as far as the eye could see, the river was covered with a coat of ice about six inches thick.

"Three On One Match" Superstition Is Traced

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 6 (United Press).—That burning question, why do most smokers shudder at the idea of lighting three cigarettes from one match? has been answered by a Harvard professor.

After tireless research, Professor A. M. Tozzer, curator of the Peabody Museum, believes he has traced the origin of this pet American superstition.

Boer sharpshooters were responsible for this eccentricity, according to Tozzer. He says British "Tommies" discovered that two cigarettes might be lighted one one fuse, but that if time were taken for a third, fatalities followed.

QUEBEC PREMIER RETURNS AFTER EUROPEAN TOUR

Included Visits To England, France, Belgium and Italy.

Interviewed Officials.

Says French People Have Great Confidence in Poincare Governmnt.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.— (Canadian Press.)—Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec, and Madame Taschereau, left here last night for Montreal on the last lap of their return journey to the dominion after a two months' trip to Europe, which included visits to England, France, Belgium and Italy.

The premier and his wife, who returned on the Roma from Naples on Saturday, will spend a few hours in Montreal before continuing their journey to Quebec. Hon. Mr. Taschereau will be the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Reform Club at 1.30 this afternoon and will leave for the capital on a special train two hours later.

Speaking to a representative of the Canadian Press whom he received at his hotel Saturday evening, Hon. Mr. Taschereau said they had an enjoyable trip and were in the best of health.

During his stay in London, the premier said he had watched the interests of his province in the case before the judicial committee of the privy council concerning the ownership of the Labrador Peninsula, claimed by both the Province of Quebec and Newfoundland. Dechion has been reserved in the case, and pending judgment by the privy council Hon. Mr. Taschereau declined to make any comment beyond pointing out the vast amount of wealth in timber, minerals, fisheries and fur bearing animals that would accrue to the province should its claim be upheld.

Hon. Mr. Taschereau attended the inauguration of the Canadian building at the Cite Universitaire in Parc Monsouris, Paris, during his visit to France. The Canadian building, which was built largely through the generosity of Senator Wilson, of Montreal, had accommodation for 41 students and already 27 Canadians had taken up residence there. Every possible comfort was provided at reduced rates, he said. Other countries, including France, Belgium and Argentina were also providing dormitories for their students.

The people of France, Hon. Mr. Taschereau said, had great confidence in the Poincare government, from whose efforts to stabilize the finances of the country good results were already evident. The premier said the Poincare administration meant business and that after attending several sessions of the French chamber he was convinced all political groups realized that co-operation was necessary if the finances of the country were to be rehabilitated.

During his visit to Italy Hon. Mr. Taschereau had an audience with Pope Pius, but missed meeting Premier Mussolini by an unfortunate incident. The Italian premier's secretary arranged an interview for the Quebec premier for a time two hours after Mr. Taschereau was to leave the city. Mr. Taschereau said the duce was regarded by the Italian people as their idol, and he expressed great disappointment at not meeting him.

Premier Taschereau said he believed the recommendations of the Imperial conference, if ratified by the British and dominion parliaments, would tighten the bonds which bind the British Empire. The recommendations had been favorably received in England, he said. All the dominions were anxious for autonomy without breaking away from the empire, and he thought the imperial conference satisfied all concerned in this respect.

Discussing the recent election in Ontario, Mr. Taschereau said he was very pleased to hear that Quebec's western neighbor had voted to discard prohibition for the government control and sale of liquor. He thought it would be a benefit to Canada as a whole. The results of government control had been beneficial elsewhere, he said. Drunkenness had been reduced and the system had resulted in real temperance. In addition to these benefits the provincial government were reaping the harvest of revenue which formerly went to the bootleggers. Mr. Taschereau was proud of the fact that the province of Quebec was the first province to institute the government control system as a solution of the liquor problem.

VITAL DIFFERENCES.

Says Co-operation Is Needed Between English Speaking People.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Differences in the national ideals of the various English-speaking nations and the hope of harmonizing them for the betterment of internations, was the subject of an address by Sir Hugh R. Denison, recently appointed Commissioner for Australia in the U.S., at a luncheon given in his honor at the British Luncheon Club Saturday. Representatives of British and Canadian patriotic societies, as well as British American business and financial houses were present to welcome the Commissioner, who succeeds Sir James Elder.

"There is a good deal of nonsense spoken by visitors who come here and tell you that the ideals of Great Britain, the U.S., Australia and Canada are essentially the same," said Sir Hugh. "This is not so. Whenever British people leave the Old Country and settle in different parts of the world they at once begin to acquire not only a new accent, but a new vision and a new angle on their attitude toward life.

"Americans, however, much as they may have derived from the same stock, have many vital differences of this kind. We must recognize these differences and make an effort to harmonize them, to bring about more complete co-operation and understanding among the English-speaking peoples!"

WORKMAN HURT BY MACHINERY

G. A. (Captain) Hamilton Caught in Shafting at W. Hamilton Plant.

CUT AND BRUISED.

G. A. Hamilton (better known as Captain Hamilton), 499 McDonnel Street, was seriously injured this morning at the William Hamilton Foundry shortly after he had commenced work. Mr. Hamilton was caught in a shaft, and his clothing was torn from his body. He received many cuts and bruises, and it is not known whether he is hurt inwardly. Mr. Hamilton is about 60 years old, and was formerly a marine captain. After the accident he was rushed to Nicholls Hospital in the ambulance of D. Belleghem and Sons.

MARTIN GETS CUP.

Ontario Minister of Agriculture Has Won For 21 Years.

Service Goes Right Ahead While Firemen Save Church

BRANTFORD, Dec. 6— While the congregation of the First Baptist Church was proceeding with its service this morning, the city fire department was at work in the basement, an overheated furnace pipe having set fire to the woodwork. The fire was soon extinguished, and the service went on without interruption.

Man Works Too Hard So Sayeth This Doctor

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Modern man works too hard, eats too much and plays too little, Dr. Charles B. Piper, medical director of the Guardian Life Insurance Co., told members of the Society of Methodist Preachers' Sons Saturday.

"Two vacations a year are not too much," Dr. Piper said, "and a month for each is not too long. Vigor, happiness and longevity are natural inheritances of the race, and to suffer early illness and premature decay and to terminate a productive career at an untimely hour is unchristian and unrighteous."

GERMANS SEEK CESSATION OF ALLIED CONTROL

Will Make Determined Effort at League Council Meeting.

PEOPLE BITTER.

GENEVA, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Germany will make make a determined effort before her delegates leave Geneva to secure a definite agreement upon an early date for cessation of the inter-allied military control.

This declaration was made to the Associated Press to-day by a member of the German delegation at the end of the first meeting of the 43rd session of the League of Nations Council.

Bitterness among the German people over inter-allied control is steadily growing, the spokesman continued, the question must be reckoned with as ever more important than that of reducing the army of occupation in the Rhineland.

Moreover, Germany will insist upon modification of the project to invest the League with the right to investigate German armaments, which it is expected will be substituted for inter-allied control.

The Council convened at 11.45 a.m. under the chairmanship of Foreign Minister Vanderveld of Belgium, and after disposing of routine matters, adjourned until afternoon.

It was deemed significant that Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany did not insist, as was expected, upon immediate discusston of the plan for investigation of German armaments by the League.

He thus created the impression that he hopes to secure concessions in private conversations which will be pursued outside the Council. Failing to get what he wants there, he undoubtedly will push the matter publicly in the Council.

STILL LOOKING FOR NOVELIST

Mrs. Agatha Christie Has Been Missing Since Friday.

PONDS DRAGGED.

LONDON, Dec. 6 (United Press) —A hundred policemen were searching today for Mrs. Agatha Christie, novelist, who left her home at Sunningdale, Berkshire, last Friday and has not been seen since.

Her automobile, containing feminine clothes, has been found near Giuldmord. Five nearby ponds have been dragged.

Mrs. Christie is a daughter of the late Frederick Miller of New York City and wife of Colonel Archibald Christie.

First Cageless Bank Opens In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The first cageless bank opens its doors this morning when the University office of the Hamilton National Bank begins business at the southwest corner of 110th Street and Broadway. There are no tellers' cages, no wickets, no high grills. The new counter has two levels, the first being three feet six inches from the floor with a ledge eight and one-half inches wide. This is used by the depositor to count his currency. Over the marble surface the second level ,which is a few inches higher, the deposits are received and cheques cashed.

Just to make it a little less easy for gunmen with taking-ways the bank has installed certain devices known only to a few higher officers in the branch.

SAILOR PRINCE IS GREETED BY WINTRY BLUSTER

Braves Zero Weather in His Eagerness To See Canadian Life.

ATTENDS CHURCH.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Canadian winter weather of a rugged type yesterday greeted H.R.H. Prince George, the 24-year-old son of King George V. and Queen Mary, who is staying at Government House over the week-end, the guest of the Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon. The storm, however, failed to keep the sailor prince indoors. He braved the stinging east wind which forced the mercury well below the zero mark to attend divine service at Christ Church Cathedral. On his way back to Rideau Hall he drove through a snowstorm which, starting about noon, raged all afternoon and well into the night, turning out the snow-fighting apparatus of the city for the first occasion this season.

The Prince had luncheon at Government House and spent the afternoon and night privately with his hosts. He left this afternoon for Saint John, where he will embark for England.

His Royal Highness, eager to see Canadian life and enjoying to the full the wintry weather, had a busy day Saturday. His private car reached Ottawa early in the morning and at nine o'clock he was greeted by Col. H. W. Snow and Major R. Willis O'Connor, of the Governor-General's staff. Hon. J. A. Robb, acting Prime Minister; Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Hugh Guthrie, leader of the Conservative party, were presented to the Prince before he left his car from which he proceeded to Rideau Hall.

In the afternoon the Prince visited the paper mills and factories in Hull, Que., and was given an enthusiastic reception, particularly by the great number of girls who are employed there. He dropped in on the Badminton Club and then was the guest of the Minto Skating Club where he watched the fancy skaters and skated himself.

In the evening he as the honored guest at a dance party at Government House, where some 200 young people were presented to His Royal Highness and he danced with several of the young ladies. The guests were thrilled by the presence of the handsome young prince. He danced well, the guests relate, but not with the untiring enthusiasm which characterizes his elder brother, the Prince of Wales. Prince George, slightly taller than the Prince of Wales, impressed them as of a more serious temperament, strikingly like that of his father. However, when dancing with Miss Isabel Cockshutt, daughter of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, the young couple broke into the Charleston with a pronciency that brought expressions of admiration from all sides.

THE WEATHER.

We have had some cold weather over the week-end and these conditions prevailed largely over Ontario. On Saturday morning the thermometer was at 3 below zero; on Sunday morning at 7 below and this Monday morning at 9 degrees below zero. Considerable snow has also fallen. This is believed to be the earliest advent of winter for some twenty-eight years. Milder conditions are likely to-morrow.—W. P.

Dr. Oskar Klotz, Canadian professor of pathology, who has just returned from Nigeria, West Africa, where he was six months with the Yellow Fever Commission of the International Health Board of the Rockfeller Foundation which is interested in the control of yellow fever in all parts of the world.

Radio Sets Not Needed In the Holland Capital

THE HAGUE, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—Holland's capital offers telephone users the benefit of radio programmes without the assistance of a special radio set.

All the telephone subscriber has to do is insert a plug into a contrivance attached to his instrument, and he can immediately listen to the English and French radiocast services. The ordinary telephone service is not interfered with. A call automatically cuts the radio off and connection is re-established when the call is finished.

CHINA DECIDED TO TERMINATE UNEQUAL PACTS

Plans To Act As Those With Sixteen Powers Expire.

IS CONCILIATORY.

Minister's Attitude Suggests Purpose To Deal With Canton Government.

GENEVA, Dec. 6.— (A.P.)— China has decided to terminate all unequal treaties on their expiration, Chu Chao-hsin, Chinese representative to the League of Nations, announced Saturday in a statement on China's recent denunciation of the Sino-Belgian treaty of 1865.

The statement says China will refuse to submit to the World Court the question of interpretation of the treaty, as it considers the controversy political rather than judicial. China, however, is willing to submit the case to the League Assembly, the statement declares.

Sixteen powers have treaty rights in China, including Belgium. The others are Brasil, Denmark, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Mexico, The Netherlands, Norway, Peru, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States.

Denunciation early last month by the Peking Government of the Sino-Belgian treaty was the first cancellation by China of one of its series of treaties which have long been in force, and led to fears that China would denounce the remaining treaties as their terms expired.

The statement by Chu Chao-hsin at Geneva is the first official word indicating the realization of this fear.

The Sino-Belgian treaty was denounced after Belgium had refused negotiations of a new treaty based on "equality and reciprocity," and had proposed reference of the question to the World Court.

On Nov. 18 it was stated that the Belgian Government would soon submit the Sino-Belgian treaty controversy to the World Court unilaterally, the Chinese Government having formally declined to submit it jointly.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Chinese reports from Foochow say all is quiet there.

Latest wireless despatches record the situation at Hankow Saturday as easier. A number of strikes are in progress and all classes of laborers are forming unions but there does not appear any immediate prospect of a general strike.

GARIBALDI WILL TELL EVERYTHING

His Revelations Include Two High French Officials.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—Ricciotti Garibaldi is so determined to make a clean breast of his past activities, according to the Presse, that the magistrate examining him has been distressed to the point of consulting the highest judicial authorities, for two former heads of the French Government are involved in his revelations, the paper says.

The alleged turncoat anti-Fascist is to be tried specifically for complicity in plotting on French soil, the abortive Catalan revolt against Spain. But he refused to be tied down to such a minor trial, demanding a hearing in the Assizes with wide publicity, hoping, it is said, to put his case on a political, diplomatic level.

The Presse states Garibaldi has told the magistrate in charge of the case that he was entrusted with execution of confidential business by two former heads of the Government and certain politicians whose names are being whispered are considerably disturbed by the Italian's promised revelations.

OTONABEE RIVER OUT OF BOUNDS IN SOUTH END

High Water Penned Up By Ice Somewhere Below City.

UNUSUAL EVENT.

Residents in the southern portion of the city between the river bank and King George Street are experiencing the sensation of an Arctic winter as a result of the River Otonabee overflowing its banks yesterday morning and inundating the entire street.

To-day the street is a solid block of ice, which renders it impassable for traffic, the street cars being forced to stop at King George Street. Considerable inconvenience is being caused the people who wish to come up town as they are forced to use the Park Street route.

This is the first time that this condition has prevailed at this particular time of the year since 1913. The excessive rainfall since August and the ice making conditions existing since December 2 are the direct cause of the overflow which has resulted, it is believed, from an ice jam in the river between the city and Rice Lake.

The Examiner is informed that the water level at the locks bridge is 7½ feet higher than during the summer, also that the level as Hastings is at normal summer level.

Similar conditions prevail at all points on the Trent waterway, but are particularly bad at Glen Miller, Frankford, Crow Bay, and Trent Bridge.

NO CLUE FOUND OF ESCAPED MAN

Much Information Sent To Toronto Police, But Proves Valueless.

MORE GUARDS ON.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—No clue to the whereabouts of Norman W. Neal, who escaped from Toronto Jail on Friday morning, has yet been obtained. Information of a varied sort has been telephoned to the police and jail authorities by citizens, but beyond giving said officials a busy time, nothing has come of it.

In regard to a story going the rounds, suggesting that the saw with which Neal cut his way to freedom had been taken into the jail in a pair of boots, Governor Basher flatly denied this. He stated that the saw was the remaining one of six thrown over the prison wall by someone outside over a week ago. But as to where Neal had managed to conceal it, he has not been able to learn.

Instructions were issued by the Provincial Secretary's Department Saturday morning, to the Sheriff of Toronto, to add to the strength of the jail guards. Deputy Provincial Secretary Robbins said that he had ordered two additional men, so that an adequate day and night watch might be established. Mr. Robbins added that he had not yet received the report of Inspector McPherson, the official who made the investigation for the Department into Neal's escape.

Wealthy New Yorkers Pay High For Sleighrides

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (United Press).—New York's "400"—they were the only ones who could afford it—went sleighing today at bootleg prices. A ride in one of the six surviving sle ighsthat apeparel magically before the Hotel Plaza at the height of the storm on Sunday cost $25 an hour.

Jealous taxi-cab drivers, who were forced to operate under the 15 and 5 cent rate, stopped kidding the bewhiskered sleigh driver about non-heated cabs when the latter reported $100 a day was a poor day's business.

Herbert Simpson, dean of the drivers, who paid only $3 for his rig, said he took several society families for $75 drives.

CHILDREN'S RECITAL.

First of Series of Special Programmes Given For Children.

A pleasing innovation in the musical world of the city was inaugurated on Saturday morning in the hall of the Conservatory of Music, when the first of a series of recitals for children was held, under the auspices of the Women's Music Club, presided over by Mrs. J. Forbes Allan. This recital was attended by over three hundred children, with many parents, and proved to be exceptionally interesting and very successful, the president receiving many enthusiastic comments over the new experiment at the conclusion of the programme, which commenced with the singing of the National Anthem.

Miss Edwina Palmer opened the programme with an interesting short story addressed to the children, illustrated by Miss Mary Agnes Logan at the piano, playing "The Hurdy Gurdy Man," by Goossens. Then Miss Palmer told a story about a violin, playing later for the children Martini's composition entitled "Arietta." Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park sang several songs appropriate to the occasion and the audience, her selections including "Mister Bear" and "The Wasted Crust," and then the children sang, in unison, "O Canada." Miss Palmer told them a story of Schubert's boyhood, and Miss Logan played some of the ballet music from the composer's opera, "Rosamonde." Miss Palmer played the "Liebesfreud," by Kreisler, and Mrs. Park sang another charming trio of juvenile numbers from the Song Cycle, "When We Were Very Young"; in "The Rabbit Song," "Three Foxes," and "Buckingham Palace."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

The above group is a part of the 300 representatives of the railroad men who voted to strike if their wage demands remain unsatisfied. The photograph shows the delegates leaving the Union Hall in Montreal following the endorsation of the strike ballot. The representatives are from every local in Canada. At Ottawa Presidents of the C.N.R. and C.P.R., Sir Henry Thornton and E. W. Beatty, conferred with Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, during the afternoon. Mr. Dunning expects to discuss the situation with representatives of the unions immediately concerned in the threatened strike.

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1926, by Hearst, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 9

If the question were asked: "Which do you enjoy the more, winning or losing," practically every auction player would reply: "winning." That is probably right and yet it is a well known fact that the winning player is always willing to quit while the losing one will play all night if he can get a game. It seems to be human nature to desire to cash in on one's profits, to quit a winner, and yet that is one of the greatest mistakes a player can make. The time to keep on playing is when you are winning. "Push your luck and limit your losses," is one of the greatest maxims of the game and yet the one least followed. When you are holding good cards during an evening's play, don't think about taking home your profits. Keep on playing while your luck lasts and don't stop until it changes. On the other hand, if you are losing, don't keep on playing. A bad luck streak is one of the hardest things to break there is, so don't try it. One of the best "money" players in the country, and by "money player" is meant a man who plays auction bridge for high stakes and wins, makes it an invariable rule to stop playing if he loses three rubbers in succession. It may not be good sportsmanship but it certainly is good judgment. Think it over and see whether you are getting the most out of your good cards and losing as little as possible when you are holding poor cards. If you can learn this lesson and stick to it, you have made great strides toward becoming a winning player.

The other night a point was raised in one of the New York Card Clubs that caused considerable discussion. The dealer bid one club, second hand passed, and the dealer's partner held the following hand:

Hearts — 10, 8, 4, 2
Clubs — none
Diamonds — 10, 9, 7, 6, 3
Spades — J, 8, 5, 3

Should he deny his partner's club bid or pass? As a general rule a player should overbid his partner's bid when he has two or less of the suit, but to justify such procedure he should have at least one trick in his hand, either in the suit bid or half a trick in the suit bid and half a trick on the side. Never deny your partner's bid without a trick in your hand. Such procedure is as bad as passing with many tricks in the other suits but only one card of your partner's suit. Auction is a partnership game and you can get the best results only by telling your partner the truth. When you deny his suit bid you should tell him two things: First, that you have only two small cards or less of his suit; and second, that you have at least a trick in your hand and a suit worth playing for. If those elements aren't both present, pass and let your partner bear the burden. In the hand given, the dealer's partner should pass. A bid of two diamonds is very unsound for the hand doesn't contain a trick of any description.

Answer to Problem No. 5

	Y
	Z

Hearts — K, 9, 7, 3, 2
Clubs — 8, 7, 3
Diamonds — J, 10, 7
Spades — A, 3

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart, A passed, and Y bid two diamonds. If all passed, what should B open? The eight of clubs is the proper opening lead. It is a close hand but the only other alternative, the ace of spades, gives up command of that suit and may, therefore, be very disastrous. The trump lead is not sound. Three trumps to the jack ten are strong enough either to support partner's trump holding or to trump opponent's high cards. For that reason they should not be led. The eight of clubs is the only real sound lead.

Answer to Problem No. 6

Hearts — none
Clubs — 10
Diamonds — A, K, 7, 2
Spades — none

Hearts — 9 Clubs — none Diamonds — 9, 8, 6, 3 Spades — none	Y A B Z	Hearts — none Clubs — none Diamonds — Q, J, 5 Spades — 8, 3

Hearts — none
Clubs — none
Diamonds — 10, 4
Spades — 10, 7, 2

Spades are trump and Z is in the lead. How can Y-Z win every trick against any defense? Z should lead the four of diamonds, winning the trick in Y's hand with the king. He should then lead the ten of clubs from Y's hand. B should discard a diamond, for if he trumps, Z will overtrump and thus make all his cards good. When B discards, Z should trump the club, although it is a winning card. If he doesn't trump, but discards the ten of diamonds, B must make a trump trick as Z will be forced to trump the next diamond trick. When Z trumps the ten of clubs with the deuce of spades, he should lead the ten of diamonds, winning the trick in Y's hand with the ace. He should now lead the seven of diamonds and must win the rest of the tricks as he has the ten, seven of spades over B's eight, trey. This problem is an example of the grand coup.

WEDDING BELLS.

DUNK—MILNE

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Dec. 6.—A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, when Miss Gertrude Milne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Milne, 11th Concession, became the bride of Mr. Will Dunk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dunk, English Line. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Gardiner, Springbrook, at 9.30 a.m. At 7.30 p.m. the bridal supper was held at the home of the bride's parents at which only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends were present. The happy young couple will reside on the groom's farm at the English Line. They carry with them to their new home the very best regards of the whole community.

OBITUARY.

MRS. EMILINE MITCHELL

MARMORA, Dec. 6 — A highly respected former resident of Marmora passed away at her home in Toronto on Tuesday evening last in the person of Mrs. Emiline R. Mitchell. The deceased lady was born sixty-five years ago in the village of Stirling, being a daughter of the late John Mills who moved to this village with his family when the deceased was quite young. The late Mrs. Mitchell is survived by two sons and four daughters, Alex and John, eJnnie, Mary, Sarah and Christina, all resident in Toronto. Her husband predeceased her about eighteen years ago and but a few years have passed since a daughter was called home. Mrs. M. E. Carscallen of Marmora is a sister of the deceased. During her residency in Marmora, the late Mrs. Mitchell had many friends and was highly esteemed for her excellent qualities of character. She was an active member of the Methodist Church. The remains were brought to Marmora on Friday and interment was made in Marmora Cemetery.

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

(United Press Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 4— (United Press).—Fur-trimmed cloth coats have been very popular this Fall and it begin to look as though many women intend to wear them right through the winter, since few fur coats have appeared to date. Dull-finished broadcloth is by far the smartest coat material although velours and other heavy fabrics are used to some extent. Black is the most popular broadcloth color. Lynx and light shades of fox are the most effective trimmings adorning, borders pockets, sleeves and long collars.

Among the smattering of fur-coats which have been worn thus far are bronze, brown and black caracul, leopard, pony, sheered lamb, nutria, kidskin and calfskin. Most all of these are semi-sports type with slender lines and with collars and cuffs of long-haired furs. There is a prevalence of brown furs.

Pony and leopard coats are popular youthful models. Leopard this year is being trimmed with beaver or red fox. Calf fur coats are conspicuous by their colors rather than their numbers. Brown and white spotted jersey and black and white Holstein effects are startling without being attractive. These models are of three-quarter length sports type.

Krimmer is the newer gay fur used for coats as well as trimming. What squirrel coats one sees seem to be of last years vintage. Moufflon, an inexpensive gray sheep fur is used on some of the youthful evening wraps. For instance, a silver cape in the junior Misses' department of a popular shop has a deep hemborder of this fur and a shawl collar which extends to the hem. Trimmings on fur coats match the garment or are of the light-hued variety. Yellowish shades of taupe are among the popular dyed shades.

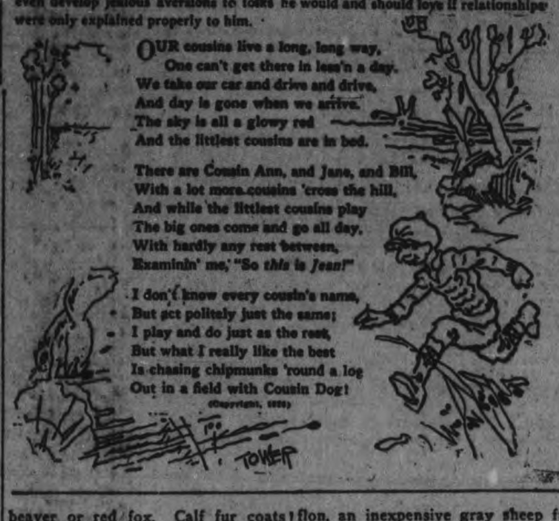
Cousins

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

FAMILY relationships are often bewildering to a small child. Relatives, to him, are just like other folks who don't live at his house and yet these chosen few seem to feel they belong someway and often take decided liberties with one. They talk about one, they kiss one, and monopolize one's parents—they even try to discipline one sometimes. Grandparents are very nice as a rule, but the little degree of jealousy comes crowding in when one's parents call them father and mother. That's a bit too much. The child's troubles and bewilderment regarding relationships should be taken seriously and explained carefully, perhaps over and over. Laughing at a child may cause him to keep his worry to himself and even develop jealous aversions to folks he would and should love if relationships were only explained properly to him.



OUR cousins live a long, long way,
One can't get there in less'n a day.
We take our car and drive and drive,
And day is gone when we arrive.
The sky is all a glowy red
And the littlest cousins are in bed.

There are Cousin Ann, and Jane, and Bill,
With a lot more cousins 'cross the hill,
And while the littlest cousins play
The big ones come and go all day.
With hardly any rest between,
Examinin' me, "So this is Jean!"

I don't know every cousin's name,
But act politely just the same;
I play and do just as the rest,
But what I really like the best
Is chasing chipmunks 'round a log
Out in a field with Cousin Dog!

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

It's an old request, but nevertheless a perfectly reasonable one, that is being made of the citizens of Peterboro by the local merchants in regard to Christmas shopping.

The suggestion is made that this seasonable buying should be spread out as much as possible instead of being crowded into rush periods when it is impossible for customers to get a proper opportunity to choose wisely or for store staffs to give good service.

They are in a position to be able to buy as readily now as a day or two before Christmas; they can as easily shop on Tuesday or Wednesday as on Saturday, and many of them could help to relieve congestion in the stores by shopping in the morning, if they realized how much early shopping would be appreciated both by the merchants and their employees.

Many of the worst features of Christmas shopping could be avoided if a little more thought for the convenience and comfort of others were to be exercised.

ANOTHER PIONEER PASSES.

Within the last two weeks it has been the painful duty of The Examiner to record the loss of a number of Peterboro's oldest citizens, Thomas Fortye, Harry Rush and Martin McFadden.

On Friday another pioneer resident passed in the death of Noel H.—known everywhere as John—de Laplante, whose connection with Peterboro dated back to 1849, in which year he came here from the Province of Quebec as a child of six years.

In the little town that Peterboro was in the middle of the last century, Mr. de Laplante became one of the pioneer merchants, and for over forty-four years was engaged in the butchering business, well remembered by old-time citizens in that connection, although younger generations will recall him not as the business man but as the genial, kindly "Uncle John" of his later years, a friend to all who knew him and a fine old gentleman of the old school.

The community that loses such citizens loses something from its citizenship that cannot be replaced; their passing is like that of splendid old trees that seem to have been always with us and suddenly they are gone.

WHY NOT PETERBORO?

The claim of Peterboro to a senatorial appointment rests upon firm ground, and it is the belief of local citizens, regardless of their political affiliations, that the Government should take cognizance of the fact that the representation of this entire district in the Upper Chamber has gradually decreased until in the section of the Province from Midland to Brockville there is but one Senator.

As vacancies have occurred among senatorial representatives in this part of Ontario they have been filled up by appointments from other districts until only Senator Mulholland, of Cobourg, remains.

This situation and the fact that no resident of Peterboro has ever been made a Senator—Hon. Geo. A. Cox had left this city before he was appointed—gives Peterboro an honest claim for consideration when the latest gaps in the Upper Chamber are being filled.

From the viewpoint of ability and service to their party, Peterboro can offer citizens who are eligible in every respect for preferment, and the feeling in the community generally is that among the new Senators there should be one from this city.

THE NEW CONTROL ACT.

Premier Ferguson has asked for the assistance and co-operation of those who opposed him in making his Government control policy as effective as possible.

In this connection it is significant that The Toronto Star, which before the election could see no merit in Government control, came out on Saturday with an article from its Edmonton correspondent in which it was indicated that the system in force in Alberta had to a large extent elliminated bootlegging and the manufacture and sale of moonshine, that it had reduced drinking in "smart" society, that it had restored respect for the law and made law enforcement easier, and that while there was more individual drinking and drunkenness, this was largely due to the beer parlours, which are not to be a part of the Ontario system.

The Ontario act can be and should be made better than any of the control systems now in force in Canada, and anything that can be suggested from any quarter that would lead to such a result should be welcomed by the Government.

The point brought out by W. H. Bradburn, member-elect for Peterboro City, during the present campaign is of much importance.

Mr. Bradburn announced his intention of urging, when the details of the control act are being considered by the Legislature, that any form of advertising by brewers and distillers be prohibited.

The desirability of such a restriction is readily apparent, and there seems little doubt that Mr. Bradburn's suggestion will meet with approval both in and out of the House.

HOPE FOR UNITED EUROPE.

Of all the plans for the restoration of war-worn Europe perhaps the most hopeful is the movement for the removal of restrictions on European trade. On this Continent we have no adequate conception of the harmfulness of trade barriers, because of the vast area of the countries which are surrounded by tariff walls but have free trade within. Here in Canada and in the United States one may travel thousands of miles without being stopped by a customs official and having his baggage searched. Those who are engaged in production and trade have some conception of the huge bulk and value of commodities shipped through the country without governmental interference.

But Europe is in a condition such as Canada would be in if every Province had its own tariff. Worse, because most of our Provinces are of vast extent, averaging much larger than a European country. Imagine the United States with more than forty separate commercial units, each surrounded by tariff walls, and you may realize the enormous handicap under which Europe labors. American industry and commerce would be paralyzed by the introduction of the European evil.

The New Statesman, London, England, is skeptical about the success of the movement for a European customs union. Politicians, it says, will not take the advice of men of business:

"To suggest, for example, the lowering of some one else's tariff walls would be an unwarrantable interference with the internal affairs of another State. Not to be thought of! These business fellows do not understand the intricacies and delicacies of 'foreign affairs'; what they say may be right enough, but 'we simply can't do it.' We are not going to let anybody else interfere with our own tariffs and the trade regulations which we think it proper to impose in this country, so how can we suggest any modification of theirs? If we once raised the question the fat would be in the fire and there would be nothing to prevent Guatemala from criticizing our import and excise duty on artificial silk. We must preserve our national sovereignty, even in the matter of peanuts, or where should we statesmen be? We should be mere hangers-on of the financial magnates?"

Yet there is a school of thought which says that business and commerce and finance are the instigators of war for their own selfish purposes. Now it is argued that even if they work for peace they will be obstructing the politicians. Probably the truth lies between the views of the economic determinists who regard the greed of gain as all-powerful and those who contradict them. Human nature is not a simple but a very complicated thing. Pride, jealousy, patriotism, prejudice, racial and religious hatred, love, thirst for glory play their part as well as greed. Some of the worst calamities in the world, as Buckle says, have been caused by the zeal of conscientious men.

The evil has been due in the past to the fact that all these emotions worked together. Those who desired war from base motives of greed or personal glorification could work upon the better feelings of others, camouflaging their real designs in high-sounding words. If the weight of business opinion be thrown upon the side of peace much will be gained. If financial magnates of France, Belgium and Germany combine to work the national resources of coal and iron, their motives may be selfish, but it will not be in their interests to inflame the passions of one people against another. French, Belgian and German workers will tend to draw together through community of interest.

It is not to be expected that the tariff walls of Europe will go down like those of Jericho at the blast of the trumpet. The process will be gradual. As benefits are experienced in one place, the example is likely to influence others. If out of the movement a united Europe should emerge, the outside world may be no more endangered by such a nation than it is today by the United States of America or by a united British Empire. In the same way the outside world has probably little to fear from a united China. It is a distracted China with no assurance of law and order that causes the trouble. Similarly the crimes and blunders of European nations have threatened the world, and the hope of universal peace will be stronger if Europe decides to live a more rational life.—London Advertiser.

WOULD ROB PETER TO PAY PAUL.

There is one aspect of the railway employees' demand for higher wages which has not been much stressed, but which may properly be pointed out. It is that any substantial wage advance will, so far as the Canadian National Railways are concerned, simply come out of the pockets of the public.

During the past year the Canadian National has done very well. But while it is true that it may end the year with an "operating" surplus of about 45 millions, it is also true that that will not begin to absorb the railways' fixed charges. These, speaking roughly, total a sum between 65 and 70 millions; so that at the very best the Canadian National will end the year with a deficit of at least 20 millions—in other words, the Government of the Dominion will have to put up at least that amount for the railway system.

Anything adding to that deficit—and that, of course, is what increased wages would do—simply adds to what must be shouldered by the rest of us. In other words, an advance in wages for the men just now would simply be paid by the public.

If the Canadian National Railways were producing sufficient of an operating surplus to take care of all their fixed charges, and doing that with reasonable rates, the demand of the men for higher pay would be perhaps reasonable. The position being what it is, however, and the existing scale of pay being a fairly substantial one, their claim seems hardly a strong one. It is largely a matter of asking that Peter shell out to make things better for Paul. —Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Don't make it a last-minute rush. Do your Christmas shopping early in the month, early in the week, early in the day.

This is starting out as a pretty fair imitation of those old-fashioned winters some folks like to talk about.

Football matches under the conditions facing Ottawa and Varsity on Saturday prove very little. Championships might just as well be decided by tossing a coin when winter arrives before the finals.

A libel suit has developed out of the election in Northumberland. These actions usually eventuate before the voting and are not heard of afterward, but the Northumberland suit is a new variety.

One Conservative candidate held no meetings and received a record majority. There may be a moral there for other politicians.

Premier Ferguson is going to take a holiday in the northern woods. And it is a safe wager that in order to escape from the Toronto Star's broadcasts he won't take a radio set with him.

STERLING EXCHANGE

Sterling demand $4.84 9-16.
Sterling cables $4.85 1-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press). — Active buying in which houses with connections East took the lead brought about a sharp advance in wheat values Saturday. Export bids for all-rail shipment of wheat from Chicago were close to a working basis, and in some quarters talk of a probable early end of lake navigation was considered bullish regarding domestic wheat.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 7-8c to 1 1-8c higher, with corn 3-4c to 1 1-4c up; oats unchanged to 1-4 and 3-8c advance, and provisions varying from 45c decline to a rise of 10c.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—There was no improvement in the foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market on Saturday and in consequence business in this respect was again very slow. The trading in coarse grains on spot was also limited but the tone of the market was firm.

The export and local trade in Spring and winter wheat grades of flour was inactive, but values ruled steady.

Considerable business was again transacted in all lines of millfeed and the undertone to the market was stronger, but there was no change in prices. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was fair and prices were unchanged.

The demand for fresh and storage eggs continued good and a large volume of business was done. Prices were steady. The receipts were 581 cases.

The strength that has characterized the butter trade of late was continued on Saturday and prices were advanced another 1-2c per pound. The receipts were 387 packages.

The feature of the cheese trade was the improved demand from English importers and a moderate amount of business was transacted. The receipts were 1,549 boxes.

CHURCH CONCERT

WELCOME, Dec. 6.—A concert was held in Welcome United church last Monday night, when Rev. E. Crossley Hunter, of Carleton Street United church, Toronto, delivered his noted lecture, "Ford and His Ford." Mr. Hunter introduced his subject by a number of bright jokes on the Ford car. Then he told the story of Mr. Ford's early life. In early childhood, he turned to mechanical things rather than playing with the other children. After his mother's death, he ran away from home and hired with a manufacturing firm at $2.50 a week to learn to make engines. Later he left that firm and engaged with another firm at lower wages, because he had learned all he could with the first firm and wanted to learn how to make a different kind of engine. Then he told of the recall home to the farm on account of his father's illness, his marriage and his struggle on the farm against the desire to be making things. The little workshop was described and the growth of the model of the first Ford automobile. Then the "try-out" at 2 o'clock in the morning, with his wife running along beside him.

Later was the completion of the automobile and the winning of the first automobile race in the United States. His refusal to join with wealthy men who wished to make expensive cars, was because Ford's idea was to make a cheap car for the working man. The growth and struggles of the company was described. Then his division of the surplus with his employees—the first profit-sharing firm in America. At last success, and Ford a multi-millionaire.

As Mr. Hunter unfolded scene after scene in Ford's life, he held his audience, not only by the intense interest in the story but by his splendid impersonation of the different characters, his personality and humorous style of delivery.

Mr. W. Bickle of Canton, was the soloist of the evening and gave several selections in his usual good style.

Y. P. League Meeting.

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Thursday evening at the Young People's League. Rev. D. R. Clare took the devotional exercises. His subject was "The Blessings derived from the Christian life." A number of the members responded with Scripture verses illustrating the subject.

The social and literary vice-president took the chair. Miss Hazel Ramsay sang very sweetly. Miss Marjorie Runnals gave an instrumental on the piano.

The main feature of the programme was a debate, "Resolved, that character is more beneficial to the world than money." The affirmative was taken by Misses L. Hamilton and Eliza Dickenson, while the negative was taken by Mesdames Schulthorpe and Staples. Strong arguments were given on both sides.

During the social hour, homemade candy was passed.

Personals.

Mr. Wade and family of Toronto, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Thos. Wade.

On Tuesday the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Morley Osborne. There was a good attendance. The afternoon was spent in sewing for the Children's Shelter at Port Hope.

The first skating party of the season was held on Mr. C. Symon's pond on Thursday night after League.

Mrs. Joseph Austin was removed from Port Hope Hospital to her sister's (Mrs. Will Ramsay), on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac McConnell returned on Wednesday from a week's visit with friends near Belleville.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Winslow, Ark., Well Pleased With Rule of Ladies.

WINSLOW Ark., Dec. 6.—With a woman Mayor and women filling offices as recorder, postmaster and aldermen Winslow the highest village in the Ozarks is making steady progress. The administration has proved so satisfactory that the entire womens' ticket was returned to office at the last election. Political party lines were ignored.

The resident population of Winslow is approximately 400, but some 2,000 guests form all parts of the United States spend their Summers here. It is a progressive community. It has substantial schools and churches. Disorder is almost unheard of, the residents are busy and to a moderate degree prosperous.

The roster of Winslow officials is: Mrs. Duncan, Mayor; Mrs. Duda Crowder recorder; Miss Lida Winn, treasurer, and Mrs Daisy Miller Mrs. Lyda Cole, Mrs. M. E. Williams, Mrs. Bee Cherveny and Mrs. Etta Black aldermen.

Besides being Mayor, Mrs. Duncan owns a store. She is the first woman member of the Chamber of Commerce in the state and a charter member of the Winslow Chamber of Commerce.

APSLEY NEWS

APSLEY, Dec. 6—A well attended and enthusiastic meeting to discuss the Red Cross Nursing Outpost was held in St. George's Institute on Wednesday evening. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence was elected chairman and gave a lengthy and detailed account of the negotiations with the Red Cross Society, starting last April and ending with their decision to establish an "outpost" in Apsley two weeks ago. He also explained exactly how the work is carried out by the co-operation of a local advisory board with the Red Cross Society, and announced the amount of subscriptions that had already been promised. Reeve Brown of Burleigh and Anstruther was the next speaker and told of the generous support given by the County Council last week. Reeve Scott of Chandos followed and said that he had had some experience of the magnificent work done by the Red Cross overseas, and felt they couln't do anything better than establish an outpost in Apsley. He also gave his views on the matter of raising the necessary amount for the building. The Rev. J. W. Ogden gave an interesting account of the outpost which he was instrumental in having established at Wilberforce four years ago and has proved such a blessing to that district. Mr. Tom James also spoke favorably of the movement, but thought all the money should be obtained before the building was procured. After the whole business had been discussed from every angle the following advisory board was unanimously elected: The ministers of the Anglican and United Churches, the Reeves of the two townships, and Messrs. T. Tanner, J. Downing and W. Lean. The following ladies were chosen as a social service committee: Mesdames Spence, Ogden, J. Downing, Woods, C. S. Windsor, Dean, A. Wilson and W. Lean.

A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Spence for the work he had done in connection with the Red Cross Society was passed on motion of Reeves Scott and Brown and the proceedings closed with the singing of the National Anthem. Subscriptions amounting to over $200 were procured by Mrs. Downing from those present at the meeting, which evidences the spirit of enthusiasm that prevailed.

Social Evening

A pleasing evening of progressive 500 was held by the A.Y.P.A. on Saturday evening. George Carr won the prize for the highest score, and Phyllis Spence took the booby prize. Four tables were in play. Refreshments were provided by Mrs. Spence and C. Smith.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. A. O. writes—I have two little girls. They are troubled with bedwetting. Will you please tell me what is best to do?

ANSWER: If you will send self addressed, stamped envelope, I will send you a complete article which is too lengthy to print in this column.

QUESTION: John S. asks—Could you kindly tell me through your column a diet suitable for heartburn and waterbrash?

ANSWER: Heartburn and waterbrash can be cured by living on the right food combinations, and avoiding the use of an excessive amount of food. Overeating must be cited as one of the principal causes of these troubles. Continue to study my articles each day, and you will soon learn how to combine your food properly so they will not form incompatible mixtures.

QUESTION: C. M. Writes—I have eczema on my hands. Would you please advise me what to do? I am 15 years old. I have been troubled now for a year. It comes on the same place every time. For about three months out of the year it heals up and then comes back again.

ANSWER: Hyper acidity of the stomach is the fundamental cause of many skin eruptions as eczema. Such over acidity of the stomach causes an irritation in the entire system which causes an irritation of the skin with a great many people who are subject to this trouble. The same cause is responsible for many other disorders which develop in other parts of the body.

QUESTION: M. A. M. asks—Would you kindly explain the most positive symptoms of stomach ulceration? Is there any dieting or medical cure for ulcer of the stomach without surgical operation?

ANSWER—If a stomach ulcer has really developed, there will be intense pain in the upper gastric region which is located between the ribs and the navel. This pain is usually accompanied by vomiting of blood and even pus, and under this condition a patient is in danger of having the ulcer perforate through the wall of the stomach or intestines. An operation is sometimes advisable in order to positively save the patient's life, but if taken in time when the first symptoms develop a short fast followed by the milk diet will so reduce the irritation that the ulcer can heal by itself without surgical interference.

QUESTION: B. L. S. writes: I am 39 years old, enjoying splendid health most of the times, but of late my right hand gets numb early in the morning for several minutes; and when it gets back to normal it starts to sting. I do the daily dozen, eat wholesome food, so my circulation must be good.

ANSWER: You are, no doubt, suffering from some form of heart derangement. Your heart apparently does not have the strength to pump your blood into your right arm if you lie in a cramped position. Keep up your daily exercise and dieting, and this trouble will soon disappear, as your heart regains its normal tone.

QUESTION: Miss B. L. asks—What is the thing to do for white spots on your hand?

ANSWER: Of course, I can't diagnose your trouble through the columns of a paper, but the white spots are no doubt caused by the destruction of the pigment of the skin. This comes from a variety of causes, principally of which is a system toxemia producing acidosis of the tissues. No matter what you do, it is not likely these spots will ever return to their normal color, but you can at least prevent a more from forming by learning to live with good food habits.

NIGHT SCHOOLS

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Did you ever think of the vast pains to which the community goes not only in providing an education for all children in the public schools, but in giving training to those who cannot attend the public schools through the means of night schools?

There they teach various trades, home making for women, and English for the foreign born.

A very large force of teachers has been organized for these schools for the season in New York City. All the night schools operate under the Regent regulations and the night courses duplicate the daytime high school course.

One who wants to train for the job of clerk or secretary can find opportunity here.

It has been pretty well demonstrated that the man or woman who is decided most out of luck in the United States is the one who has no training.

Such a one in New York has only himself to blame, for night schools are everywhere.

The youth who is compelled to leave school before graduation can finish his course at night and get the diploma just the same.

The courses in the evening high schools offer a complete curriculum that leads to academic diplomas and entrance into college.

The requirements and standards are about the same as in the day school.

Every facility for studying languages, American history, mathematics and the sciences is offered.

By application to the school a special prospectus may be obtained.

Many a youth is impatient to get to work and make money, but there is nothing better that one may do with his years between eighteen and twenty-five than to devote them to proper training.

When he finally goes to work his efforts will be more effective.

GOT HER FEET WET CAUGHT BAD COLD

Mrs. Ernest Hall, Cardinal, Ont., writes:—"Last winter I got my feet wet and I caught a terrible cold. I took different kinds of medicine, but none did me any good and I seemed to be getting worse all the time.

One day I was reading about what your medicine had done for others, so I thought I would get a bottle. After I had taken a few doses I found that I was helping me, so I took a few bottles and was completely restored to health. I cannot praise Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup too highly, as I believe that if it were not for it I would be an invalid today."

SES WAREHOUSE FOR BOOTLEGGING

Export Company's Bonded Building Good For Nothing Else.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—A bonded warehouse which, according to the Customs Collector at the Port of Grand Forks, B.C., exists for the purpose of supplying liquor to be bootlegged into the United States, was discussed before the Customs Commission Saturday.

W. J. Cook, Collector of Customs at Grand Forks, which lies about four miles from the boundary, was the witness, and he said that the Consolidated exporters of British Columbia had a warehouse in his town.

"Is it of any use except for smuggling liquor into the United States?" asked Judge Wright of the Commission.

The witness said that it was not.

The sitting Saturday was featured by the evidence of Hon. H. H. Stevens, member of Parliament for Vancouver Centre, and former Minister of Customs, and a prominent member of the Parliamentary Committee on Customs last session. Mr. Stevens told the Commission, that when Minister at Ottawa, he had given instructions that clearance to United States ports should be denied vessels carrying cargoes of goods which were excluded by the laws of that country. The law officers of the crown, however, had ruled that in giving these instructions he had exceeded his authority. Again, said Mr. Stevens, his authority had been questioned when he made a ruling that Canadian distillers must not pack liquor into boxes with bags.

At the Ottawa sitting, it was explained that this practice assisted bootleggers who broke open the liquor packages and stored the contents in the flour or sugar bags enclosed. Subsequently, Mr. Stevens' order was rescinded.

There was some laughter when, during the examination of Mr. Cook, he explained that the transportation equipment allowed him to patrol an eighty mile boundary was one horse, or rather an allowance of $15 towards the up-keep of a horse.

The United States Customs men were equipped with automobiles, he said. But they caught very few smugglers.

MARIE AT HOME WITH FERDINAND

King Well Enough To Meet His Wife at the Station.

QUIET WELCOME.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 6. —(Canadian Press.)—Home from her turbulent and perhaps triumphant tour of America, Queen Marie spent Sunday in the palace with her ailing spouse and sovereign, King Ferdinand. Although the King's affliction was not severe enough to keep him from meeting his family at the station on their arrival Saturday, well wishers found little to reassure them in the bulletin issued by Prof. Henri Hartmann, French specialist, and Dr. Regaud, noted radio-therapeutist, who have just been called for consultation. The bulletin reads:

"The results of the first consultation of Doctors Hartmann and Regaud show that the recto-sigmoidal affection from which the king is suffering presents no modification. The general condition, appetite and sleep are satisfactory."

The arrival of Queen Marie, Princess Ileana and Prince Nicolas at Bucharest lacked the punctual dignity which it is customary to expect at royal functions. The entire diplomatic corps, state officials, prelates and native aristocracy, arrayed for the occasion, reached the station at 10 o'clock in the morning to await the train, which was due at 11. Shortly before noon they were informed that the train would not arrive until 2 in the afternoon. The red carpets were rolled up and with the flowers were carefully put aside in the waiting room. Everyone withdrew for lunch.

When the welcoming groups came back at two o'clock they learned that the train had pulled in at one and that the queen had proceeded to the palace with the king; someone had the presence of mind to order the train to wait in the yard for thirty minutes until King Ferdinand could be hurried to the station. Premier Averescu also was notified in time to get back and extend his greetings.

The king and queen warmly embraced and both wept, as did others, affected by the sight of their re-union. There were few onlookers, however, to this scene, but half an hour later crowds began to gather in the streets around the station to witness what had already transpired.

STYLES FOR ROYALTY.

English women generally look to their royalty to set the racing fashions. Queen Mary appeared at the Cambridgeshire dressed in a grey street suit with a grey turban hat. The Duchess of York wore an attractive wine-colored hat and a brown coat with a heavy fur collar.

WILL NOT INSIST.

That Commission Reverse Referee's Decision on Flowers-Walker Bout.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press)—Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, announced yesterday that while he protests, he will not insist that the Illinois Commission reverse the decision of the referee, which Friday night gave the Georgia fighter's middleweight crown to Mickey Walker of New York.

The decision Miller protests and which was generally greeted with boos at the end of the 10-round encounter, was accepted by the State Board Saturday after a review of the bout.

Chairman John Rhymer of the Commission, did not pass on the possibility of poor judgment on the part of the official, but it was made plain the Commission accepted the decision as a thoroughly honest opinion.

NEW LOCARNO

what lesser degree. But M. Briend, who less than an hour before train time was discussing every angle of the situation with Premier Poincaire and other colleagues of the Cabinet, would prefer to limit conversations outside the scope of the League Council agenda to renewed talks with Herr Stresemann.

Since Thoiry both have drifted apart, because each has been under continuous bombardment by those of their countrymen who are playing an active part in national affairs. Some of this bombardment has come from bitter-enders, eager to pick flaws, and some from well-wishers who honestly hoped for greater results than those which have appeared until now.

France's spokesman wants to span this breech, and Germany's is understood to be equally desirous of a frank and friendly discussion. For this reason, while larger conversations may result from this week's assembling at Geneva, it is quite certain that M. Briand and Herr Stresemann will meet privately, with all the good wishes of the other delegations who know that such an understanding is the only basis for European peace.

PARIS, Dec. 6 (A.P.)—The much-talked-of "Big Four" conference, with Premier Mussolini of Italy sitting in with M. Briand, Sir Austen Chamberlain and Gustav Stresemann, the Foreign Ministers of France, Great Britain and Germany, respectively, has apparently come to nothing, if indeed it was ever contemplated.

M. Vandervelde, the Belgian statesman, disposed of the matter by asserting, after a long talk with M. Briand Saturday afternoon, that there was no though of such a conference. He and M. Briand, however, discussed nearly everything coming before the League of Nations Council, over which M. Vendervelde will preside.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand are expected to have an important conference, although officially no such conference is planned. It is taken for granted that these three leaders are likely to talk things over informally; they will know how to meet by chance, if there is objection to a formal prearranged affair.

ALBANIA MADE PROTECTORATE

New Treaty Substitutes Italy For League of Nations.

FRANCE DISTURBED.

PARIS, Dec. 6—The keys of the Adriatic Sea are now in Italy's hands and Albania has become an Italian protectorate. This is the interpretation made in Paris of a new Italo-Albanian Treaty, which surprises, and at the same time disturbs Allied diplomats.

The treaty was signed at Tirana, November 27, and is taken as proof that Italy does not abandon her old ambitions in the direction of Albania. The French regard it as much more than a treaty of friendship, as a real treaty of alliance, placing Albania under the influence of Italy, and in effect establishing a sort of protectorate and giving Italy absolute mastery of the Adriatic. Italy, by the terms of the treaty, guarantees the status quo, thus substituting herself for the League of Nations, under whose protection Albanian territorial status is placed. The French fear the new situation may be a source of trouble in the Balkans.

"LITTLE GIRL" FROCKS.

Grown-up society misses are wearing coats and hats which make their friends look twice to see if it is really the grown-up miss or her young sister. The high-waisted little coats look as though their wearers should be out rolling hoops instead of attending dignified social functions.

The new evening frocks reflect the "little girl" influence. One charming frock made of green taffeta was seen with a long pleated skirt attached to a little high-waisted bodice and had tiny puffed sleeves. A small velvet muff for the wrists served the purpose of a vanity bag.

Frank Reed, one of the early settlers of the Peace River district, who, carrying his trusty pack sack, "trekked" from that district to Ottawa to tell the government of his section's need for better transportation.

CHINA MAY HAVE NEW CAPITAL

Peking Too Far North To Be Seat of Central Government.

SUGGEST WUCHANG.

By RANDALL GOULD.

PEKING, Dec. 6 — (United Press).—How long will Peking remain the official capital of China?

Already it has lost the substance; soon, observers declare and many interested parties hope, it may lose the semblance as well. Unfortunately located from a geographic point of view—in north China, where communications are poor and contact with the central and southern portions of the country difficult—Peking today has only one redeeming feature, and that is the power of its name. All else has been cast into the turmoil of the new, tumultuous China.

Active protest against recognition of Peking is heard in many quarters, both foreign and Chinese, while concrete suggestions of a new capital fly thick and fast. The star of Canton is apparently waxing, but Canton itself is too far south to make a good capital, and many of the Cantonites advocate that Wuchang on the Yangtse be named China's capital. Wuchang is the place where the republican revolt first broke out.

At present, the Powers are still pursuing the old policy of according recognition to anybody who can establish the semblance of a central Government in Peking, no matter how helpless this Government may be outside Peking's city walls. Signs are not lacking that this policy has about reached the end of its tether because of the comic-opera aspect which it has assumed in late years.

Commercial interests, particularly British, are agitating for removal of the legations to some port city such as Shanghai where contact with foreign traders could be kept and where, it is argued, there would be no loss through the enforced surrender of the present empty round of social amenities with Chinese political fly-by-nights.

An interesting angle on this point of view is exhibited in a letter to the press by one who appears to be British but who contents himself with the signature "Fairplay," declaring:

"Of all the pitiful and degrading sights that Englishmen have had to watch during the past few years in this country, the worst is that one which compels the Representative of H. B. Majesty Government to visit and be polite to so-called 'Governments officials' who represent nothing and nobody, who have no powers of any kind, and to prepare and send letters and notes to a Foreign Office that cannot at all times even discipline its own officials and which has no power outside the gates of Peking."

Having unburdened himself in the foregoing, "Fairplay" continues that "whatever Peking might have claimed for itself in past years, it can no longer pretend to govern anything or anybody. It is not in touch with the great commercial centres, being cut off time and again by reason of civil war and brigandage from the outside world.

"As a Legation city it has many amenities. A good climate, interesting surroundings and a life sparkling with all kinds of social pleasures make it attractive but inasmuch as there is not, and has not been for the past twenty-four months, anyone who has power of any kind to do business with on behalf of China, a Senior Consul-General could do everything necessary just as well as the present Legation staff. The Legation could then be moved to Shanghai or somewhere where it would be in greater contact with British trade and British necessities.

Though this represents the view of a number here, without doubt, it is safe to say that no foreign Power will make any such shift. If a move comes, it will be as a result of the definite rise of some Chinese faction demanding, with authority, a move of the capital.

"ARTY" SPORTS COSTUMES

Futurist art is having its heyday in the new British sports costumes. Queer-shaped points, zig-zagging down the front of dresses and up the sleeves, have made their appearance. Kasha cloth in light biege and warm bright scarlet seem the favorite colors on the London golf links. Designed for wearing with the new sports frocks is an amusing feminized version of the Scots bonnet.

SHIPS BATTERED ATLANTIC STORM

Two Steamers and Two Schooners Bear Witness of Fury.

MOTOR BOAT ADRIFT.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 6—(Canadian Press.)—As the wintry gale that had lashed the North Atlantic for 48 hours moderated last night, battered shipping along the coast line from Newfoundland to Nantucket remained to bear witness to its fury. Two large steamers were aground, one on the Miquelon group and the other in Sydney, N. S., harbor; two disabled schooners were lying in Massachusetts waters; and an unknown motor boat, reported drift off Nauset Thursday night, had not been found.

The crew of the German steamer Totila, which grounded on Little Miquelon Island Thursday morning, last night were camped on the beach at White Sails, a fishing settlement of the island, awaiting fair weather for an attempt to salvage the vessel. The British Hindustan, engaged in the coal carrying trade between Sydney, N. S., and British ports, was hard aground in Sydney harbor, but apparently in no danger.

The four-masted Boston schooner, Horace A. Stone, which was reported in distress off Chatham last night with both anchors gone, sails gone and holds partly flooded, drifted during the night to a point 45 miles south-east of Nantucket lightship. She was sighted to-day by the British steamer City of Lebourne, Hamburg for New York. The coast guard cutter Acushnet, which went to her assistance, was crippled in the battle with the gale and put into New Bedford for repairs, and the destroyer Burrows went to the schooner's rescue.

The British four-masted schooner Whitebelle, also a victim of the gale, last night was riding at anchor off Chatham. Her sails were blown away and she will be assisted to Vineyard Haven for a new rig.

The collier Lemuel Burrows, disabled Tuesday night off Nantucket by the breaking down of her main engine, was safe in port here last night after a fierce struggle with wind and sea. The coast guard cutter Mojave towed the collier towards Boston in seas so high that twice towing hausers parted. The Burrows carried a coal cargo for Baltimore.

IRISH MIGRANTS CROWD SCOTLAND

Present Structure of Scottish Life Threatened, Say Delegates.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 6.—(By Canadian Press).—Scotland is being invaded by immigrants from the Irish Free State to an extent which according to the Presbyterian churches, is threatening the whole structure of Scottish life. Sir John Gilmour, Parliamentary Secretary for Scotland, has received a deputation from the Presbyterian churches, which urged the Government to appoint a Commission of Enquiry. Dr. John White, Glasgow, Church of Scotland, said there has been uncontrolled immigration of non-Scottish people in such numbers that their institutions, educational, civic, and political has been seriously affected. They did not object to immigration from the Irish Free State. They asked to have it regulated. Unregulated immigration was always a menace to the homogeniety of a community and to its institutions. Many of those who came in remained non-Scottish in ideas and ideals. They were educated apart and continued to remain apart. Many of the immigrants did not represent their own civilization at its best and some not even at average.

The Scottish Secretary, in reply said the subject raised very broad question as between not only the United Kingdom and Southern Ireland, but—if anything was going to be done of a definite nature—between this country and the Dominions.

He did not say that this subject did not require close inquiry, but he would like some real indication as to what steps might be taken by the government. It was easy to see difficulties ahead, but great problems might be raised by trying to get rid of them.

APPOINTED DIRECTOR

Former Assistant at Upper Canada College Has Had Striking Career.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 6.—(By Canadian Press).—E. R. Peacock, well-known in Toronto, where for some years in early life he was an assistant-master at Upper Canada College, has been appointed a director of the Underground Electric Railways of London. This company controls the network of tubes and underground railways running all over the metropolis, and is very closely associated with the London General Omnibus Company, which has a considerable preponderance of this latter class of traffic.

Mr. Peacock has had a striking career in the financial centre of the Empire. He is a managing-direcor of Baring Brothers, the famous financial house, and is associated with a number of other powerful interests.

Fifty million sterling worth of orders for motor cars were booked at the London Motor Show. Most orders were for the medium priced car.

"Down and Out, Nothing left"

THE "Bread line!" Have you ever seen a line-up of destitute, shivering men waiting for a free breakfast?

There are "bread lines" in many a private home today where the humiliations are even greater than those of the street. Perhaps you have seen one yourself.

Maybe there is just one person in it, an elderly relative or friend of the household, not overly welcome, who must always take the end seat, the last of the loaf, the weak cup, because of poverty and helplessness.

No—charity is not always or intentionally heartless, but—it is always charity!

What will you do in your old age? Only three persons in a hundred are able to lay by enough in their productive years to keep them in comfort and independence when their earning powers are gone.

You do not want to be slaving for a bare living, or be dependent on relatives or friends for a little food and shelter, do you?

Then let us tell you how surprisingly easy it is to provide now for your future independence. Send us the coupon today.

THE "EXAMINER" PICTURE PAGE

Patience and perseverance rewarded a British photographer with these exceedingly rare pictures of an eagle's aerie, perched high in a lofty evergreen in Scotland. Despite their keenness of vision, the great birds appeared totally oblivious that the camera's unerring eye was watching them. Above, the mother bird (centre) and two fledglings. One of the parent eagles is shown in the view on the left just departing to forage for the two young eagles and, on the right, the parent, having returned, is seen dismembering a hare for the young.

How Ontario is being linked up with Quebec power interests. This map shows the district between Toronto and the Saguenay River which will probably be traversed at an early date by continuous trunk transmission lines. The Hydro is about to build a line to the Ottawa River to bring to Toronto 260,000 h.p. of power privately generated on the Gatineau River. It is also contracting to buy 100,000 h.p. at Carillon, on the Ottawa River, from the Holt-Shawinigan interests. From Carillon the Holt-Shawinigan interests will have transmission lines extending to Quebec City. The Shawinigan Company is at present building a trunk line from Quebec City to Isle Maligne on the upper Saguenay, where 480,000 h.p. is being developed by the Duke-Price Company. Nearby, at Arvida, the Aluminum Company of America, has started work on what it hopes will become a million-horse-power development. The heavy lines on the map suggest transmission lines now built or in contemplation. The ticked line indicates how these may be linked together.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"I wish to the Lord we could move out of this dump," Cherry grumbled at breakfast the next morning. "It's the worst looking shack on Myrtle street and heaven knows this is no boulevard of palatial mansions."

"You're lucky to have a home at all, young lady." Her father looked at her severely over the top of his morning paper. "Me and your Ma slaved for ten years to get this place paid for, and we owe two years' taxes, as it is."

"Couldn't you put a mortgage on it to get money to paint it and buy some new furniture?" Cherry insisted, unabashed. "I nearly die of shame every time a new person calls and sees how we live. Muggy says Selma Britt was here with George last night. I know she just came poking her nose in to get something on us—to make fun of us to her friends."

"I been figerin' on paintin' it next spring or summer, if I have a slack spell," Jim Lane acknowledged reluctantly.

"The walls haven't had a new coat of paper since the flood," Cherry went on petulantly. "Just look at this dining room—faded old brown oatmeal paper, with that awful border of poisonous looking purple grapes spilling over a Paris green trellis. And a plate rail! Good heavens! Nobody has a plate rail any more! And those terrible souvenir plates from Chicago and Niagara Falls and the Dallas Fair—"

"This is your Ma's home, more'n yours, Cherry," her father reproved her sternly. "And if she thinks them plates is pretty, they're pretty, and that's all there is to it."

"And mustache cups and the cups with our names on them in gold letters and those hideous fruit and fish pictures, and that awful bowl of artificial fruit—good Lord, Daddy, how can I ask a man like Mr. Cluny to eat a meal in a room like this?"

"The further that old cradle-snatcher stays away from me and mine the better I'll like it," Mr. Lane retorted. "I've heard about enough of this nonsense about you marryin' that old grandpa, Cherry—"

"Hello, folks." Junior came noisily into the room, smoothing his glass-like pompadour. "Say, Dad, where do you think this angel child of yours was last night?" He took his seat, jerking his head toward Cherry. "Fay and I saw her and Chris Wiley at Tony's speakeasy joint—"

"That's a lie, Jimmy Lane!" Cherry sprang from the table and slapped him stingingly on the cheek. "I was dancing at the Warrens, wasn't I, Faith?" she appealed to her sister, coming in from the kitchen with the platter of crisp-fried sausages and buckwheat cakes.

"That's where you said you were going," Faith answered evasively. "How did you happen to see Cherry—or someone you thought was Cherry?" she asked Junior with quiet emphasis.

"Oh, me and Fay dropped in for some spaghetti, and when the door swung open into the back room, where the private booths are, I caught a glimpse of Cherry's red head—"

"That's a lie!" Cherry shrilled at him. "I guess I'm not the only red-headed girl in this town! And the next time you take that fast little hussy, Fay Allen, into a speakeasy, you'd better not be in such a hurry to advertise it."

"They don't serve drinks in the front room, where we were." "Long" Lane shouted at her angrily. "And you'd better be mighty damn careful who you're calling a liar, young lady! I saw you and Chris Wiley, and you know damn well I did!"

"If you use any more cuss words to your sister or to anyone else in my presence, young man, I'll make you wash your mouth out with soap!" Mr. Lane rose from the table to shake his fist in his son's face. "As long as you live under my roof, Junior, you've got to behave yourself. As for you, Cherry, if you've disobeyed me and been out with that Wiley scoundrel, you can pack your things and get out of my house. No child o' mine is going to live off me and flout my authority in my face like that! Understand me?"

"I didn't do it, Daddy," Cherry burst into tears. "I was dancing at the Warrens! You can call Frances Warren up and ask her, if you don't believe me!"

"What's going on in here?" Mrs. Lane, a vast, tottering bulk in rumpled, long-sleeved, high necked nightgown, stood in the doorway.

Both Cherry and Faith ran to her side, each putting a supporting arm about her shoulders. Cherry managed to laugh shakily, dashing at her tears with her free hand.

"Just one of our usual breakfast rows, Muggy darling!" she cried. "Junior was teasing me and Dad took his part. It's nothing serious, honest it isn't. Junior was just mistaken about something, weren't you, Junior?" she appealed to the boy who had dropped his head sheepishly.

"Yeah," he muttered. "I—I was mistaken."

"And Muggy," Cherry cried excitedly, rubbing her lovely young cheek against her mother's, "Dad's going to paper the living room and the dining room. We'll all help, Dad. We can do it in a couple of nights. I'll pick out the paper today."

"I can't lay my hand on the money for the paper right now, I'm afraid." Jim Jane sank back into his chair, defeated, and reached for the sausages.

"I'll buy the paper," Cherry beamed on them all. "I saw the loveliest patterns at Robinson's—"

"Where's Joy?" Mrs. Lane, supported by her daughters, waddled slowly to a place at the table. "She'll be late for school. Bring me my flannelette wrapper, Faith. Oh, dear! I feel so dizzy! I'll take just a mite of that sausage, Jim, and a couple of buckwheat cakes."

"Don't you think we can get the house fixed up by Friday, Dad?" Cherry slipped into her chair again, and leaned over to pat her father's cheek lovingly. "For—you know what!"

"Course he can," Mrs. Lane spoke for her husband. "I been tryin' to get him to fix up this place for a coon's age, but nothin' I say makes any difference to him. Well, Joy, I must say this is a fine time for you to stroll in for your breakfast And a shoe lace draggin'! Faith, I wish you'd wash Joy's socks yourself. The laundry fades all the color out of 'em. My land! What are you all swelled up about?"

"Nothing!" Faith protested in a strangled voice, but she left her sausage untouched on her plate.

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, Dec. 6.—Miss M. Haig has been the guest of Mrs. B. Sharpe, Ebenezer, and Mrs. R. S. Staples, Ninth Line, for the past week.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Staples entertained at tea for Miss Haig, giving her the opportunity of a visit with her former pupils, the girls of S.S. No. 7, and their parents.

On Thursday evening the Ladies' Aid of Cavan United Church held their regular meeting in the basement of the Church. The devotional and business meeting was completed within an hour, after which Miss Haig addressed the meeting, the men forming with the ladies for this part of the meeting. Miss Haig gave a very interesting talk on the work being done in Formosa. She had a number of curios and articles from that island to exhibit, which were very intetesting, also a number of snapshots, showing a number of their classes of girls, and also of adults. Before commencing her address, by request, she sang "What a Friend we have in Jesus," in the Chinese language.

There was a good attendance. The ladies served lunch at the close of the meeting, and the social hour was pleasantly spent, the opportunity being given to examine Miss Haig's collection and hear her tell of the uses of the different articles.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lang, Peterboro, visited friends in Millbrook on Wednesday.

Miss Gwen Hunter was the guest of Miss Alma Perrin on Wednesday evening.

Messrs. Ray Staples and Will Swain returned from Guelph on Tuesday evening. Durham team stood eighth in judging contests with twenty-six teams.

OBITUARY.

ALEXANDER WATTS.

WARSAW, Dec. 6.—The funeral of the late Mr. Alexander Watts took place on Wednesday afternoon and was perhaps the largest in Warsaw for a long time. There was a short service at the house, and one at the church where Rev. H. B. Herrington spoke of his life, devotion to duty, and regular church attendance. The hymns were "Asleep in Jesus" and "Forever With the Lord." Henry Batten sang "And I Shall See Him Face to Face."

Mr. Herrington conducted the services at the house, at the church, and also at Warsaw cemetery.

The pallbearers were Messrs. William and Herman Payne, Bert and Richard Batten, David Payne and Frank Greystock, nephews of Mrs. Watts. There were many beautiful floral tributes, for all knew how the deceased had loved flowers and how generous he had been with them.

After being really ill for only a few hours the late Alexander Watts passed peacefully away on Monday morning, November 29, but his passing on Monday morning was quite unexpected.

Mr. Watts will be much missed by the community. He was well known as he had lived here for fifty years, ever since, as a young man of twenty-two, he came to Canada. He was a man of sterling worth and those who knew him best loved him most. He was a Christian in every sense of the word, and a great Bible student. No matter how tired he studied his Bible and not all the commentaries he could. He was really fond of controversy, for he always had proof for anything he might say, and no matter how another might disagree with him he was always kind, but staunch in his own beliefs obtained by intense study.

He was a member first of the Bible Christian church a little north of the village, where he taught in the Sunday school. After the union he went to the Methodist church, again teaching the Sunday school. After a time he became a member of the Presbyterian church, where again he taught in Sunday school and continued to do so until the Union in June 1925. His increasing deafness made him wish to give up his Bible Class a few years ago, but the members of the class, who all thought a great deal of him, persuaded him to keep on. For several years he was an elder in the Presbyterian church, which office he held until the union when he cast in his lot with the United church of Canada.

He was very fond of flowers, and always had beautifull plants. Last summer he had, as usual, beautiful flowers in his front garden and a wonderful collection of gladioli, and the other plants out where the soil was better. He always wanted to share the joy of his plant with others, and was glad to give them away. He was a good neighbor and kind and devoted in his home.

Over fifty years ago he married Martha White, who survives him. To the couple were born three children, William, Clarence and Edward. Edward died about thirty years ago. Clarence lives at Warsaw, and William at Port McNicol.

Except his own family Mr. Watts had no near realitves in this country. Had he lived until February he would have been eight-one.

He had had several severe illnesses during his life, and he was a man, who while careful, never spared himself in helping appointments, doing what he should, going to see the sick. Still he had a good measure of health and his quite, sudden passing with perfect consciousness to the last was probably what he would have wished.

He was a member of the Order of Foresters. His one pastime was the hunt which he had taken this fall.

His life was an example. For what was right he stood firmly. Though he could hear nothing he was always in his place at Divine service unless there was some good reason why he should be absent.

MARMORA PERSONALS.

MARMORA, Dec. 6.—Mrs. M. J. Tamplin is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. Bruce Johnston is seriously ill.

Mr. H. R. Bruce spent the early part of this week in Toronto.

HIAWATHA NEWS

HIAWATHA, Dec. 6 — On Sunday there was considerable ice along the shore of Rice Lake but on Thursday morning Mother Nature spread an even transparent coat of crystal over its surface.

Skating will soon be the evening fun.

Mrs. (Rev) Garrett is spending a few days at Wellington and other places in Prince Edward county, visiting her friends.

Mrs. John Muskratte was in Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. A. H. Monk of Bethany held an aluminum demonstration on Monday evning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Coward, Cedar Brook farm.

In a weighing contest Miss Mary Collins was the winner. The prize was a pudding dish.

Mr. Monk, with the help of some of the ladies cooked a small portion of meat and potato for each person attending the demonstration. Waffles or pancakes were also served with molasses.

In his address he gave out some very valuable information regarding food values and methods of cooking.

Mr. Harry Thompson of Peterborough visited over the week end at the home of his brother, Mr. Russell Thompson.

Mr. Frank Hawkins, who has been visiting some weeks at his home here and enjoying duck shooting has left for his new position as foreman on a large cattle ranch in the state of Oklahoma, near the Texas boundary.

Returns of the election were received over the radio by Mr. Dan Cowie. Some of his friends listened in with him.

OLD MASTERS

When to the sessions of sweet silent thought
I summon up remembrance of things past,
I sigh the lack of many a thing I sought,
And with old woes new wail my dear time's waste:

Then can I drown an eye unused to flow,
For precious friends hid in death's dateless night,
And weep afresh love's long-since-cancell'd woe,

Then can I grieve at grievances foregone,
And heavily from woe to woe tell o'er
The sad account of fore-bemoaned moan,
Which I now pay as if not paid before:

—But if the while I think on thee, dear Friend,
All losses are restored, and sorrows end.

—Shakespeare: Memory.

Capt. G. B. McKean, V.C., Canadian war hero, who died at Cutley, Hertfordshire, England, recently, from injuries received when a circular saw in use in his sawmills broke, a section of it lodging in his head. Captain McKean was born in England, but had lived in Canada from the age of 15. He enlisted in 1915 and was commissioned in 1917. In 1918 he was awarded the Victoria Cross for most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty during a raid on the enemy's trenches in the Gavrelle sector on the night of April 27-28.

SHORT STORY

CAMERON

That was what they called him, the silent, strapping Scotsmen, who had been sent so many times into far places after fugitives from justice. It had come to be a habit, whenever news came to headquarters of some escaping miscreant, for the Chief to send for Hugh and say tersely, "Go get him, Cameron!" And invariably Cameron both went and got.

Little was known of his life before he had joined up with the Northwest Mounted some four years ago. Rumor had it that, back in Winnipeg, he had had an unfortunate love affair, but as that sort of gossip is likely to attach itself to a man who reaches his middle thirties without marrying, too much credence was not given to it.

At the time of the sensational bank robbery in Winnipeg, then, Hugh Cameron was a weather-hardened, clear-eyed man with no apparent interest in life beyond his duty.

He had already heard the main facts of the case before he was summoned by the Chief—how the teller had been killed by a fellow clerk, aided by a confederate who was said to have been a woman, and how the murderer had got away with a large sum.

"An ugly customer," warned the Chief. "He seems to have struck north and there is a chance the woman may be with him, although I doubt that. But he ought not to be difficult to find by so clever a man as yourself."

Three months later, Cameron was still searching. There had been clews, yes, but clews which ultimately led him nowhere, until at length he fell in with a band of roving Blackfeet.

"Yes," they told him. "Man and squaw living in trapper's cabin. At big bend in Heron River."

So Cameron, restocked with some of their dried fish, once again headed north. Two days later he reached the Heron River and made camp a mile or two below the bend. Then he calmly waited for darkness.

When at last he set out for the cabin, he was pleased to discover a trail sufficiently worn to indicate recent use. Stealthily, with his automatic ready for instant service, he crept along, reached the small weather-stained dwelling, flung open the door, then stepped back violently, his brain in terrible confusion at sight of the slender figure which had sprung up at his entrance.

"You—Janet?" he gasped.

Her face, drained of all color, quivered, but before she could answer there came a delirious murmur from the bunk and at once, with evident tenderness, she stepped over and patted soothingly a form that lay huddled beneath the blankets.

"Is—is that Fred Dallas?" he demanded.

The girl shivered, then nodded.

"It—it can't be that you, Janet!—that you—oh, was it!"

She made no denial of his unspoken accusation.

"I have no choice," said Hugh grimly. "Nightmare although it all seems to me. I place you both under arrest and you must go with me to Tamarack Post. I suppose you have a boat—"

The next hour was a hideous one for Cameron. Carrying the gaunt, unshaven man down to the dug-out, packing away their small amount of stuff, silently helping the girl into the bow and thrusting a paddle into her hand.

It was not until they had paddled nearly opposite Hugh's camp where he intended to put aboard his own belongings, that Janet, without turning her head, spoke in a low, tense voice.

"Fire into that clump of dwarfed cedars. As you once loved me, fire!"

There was an urgency in her tone to which Cameron involuntarily responded. Twice he fired and his first shot was answered by a bullet which fortunately for the occupants of the canoe went wild. Then a dark figure pitched forward to the bank.

But not for some time did Hugh altogether understand. Not until he had paddled ashore and found a badly disabled man who would further complicate their journey to the Post and had turned to Janet, who clung wildly to his arm, hysterically explaining.

"Oh, it's been terrible, Hugh! I found I loved you, after all, and although it took me several years to conquer my pride, at last I decided to find you and see if you were still free and still loved me. Jack, my brother, came with me. We found you had left for the north, and Jack said it would be a lark to try to find you. It was a lark until Jack came down with this dreadful illness. We found the cabin and decided to stay until he was able to travel. But he grew worse.

"Then, one day, that man you just shot appeared. He made us feed him. Tonight he had seen your camp and told me that unless I pretended we were the ones you were after, he would shoot both Jack and me. He was hidden outside as you came in, and had you covered. He intended to make his getaway after we left, but said he would follow us downstream, so that if I gave any sign—, took that wild chance, however. Oh, if you had missed him!"

Together they managed to bind the man's wounds and get him aboard. Then, for one brief moment, for time was precious, Hugh took the girl in his arms.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.)

That newspapers go into every home.

That they carry messages from the business concerns as to what they have in the way of service and goods.

That they make it possible for you to sit at home and select what you want in the way of service or goods of any kind.

That they keep you posted on prices and advise you of new goods arrived.

That merchants who have bargains advertise them for your benefit.

That this opportunity to save is before you. Keep posted; read the ads and buy where the best buys are.

The service given by the newspapers is what lifts the scattered homes and country communities out of isolation into daily contact with the world.

The Turning Point in Fred Bickley's Career

THE secret of Fred Bickley's success has been an unswerving confidence in himself that has helped him master difficult jobs and shoulder big responsibilities. He has outstripped scores of chaps who had equal opportunities.

Yet at the outset Fred Bickley lacked the very quality which had so much to do with his later success.

Married, totally dependent on a small salary, his greatest handicap was a lack of initiative. He feared that if he were outspoken in his convictions he might imperil his slow but sure advancement. His added family responsibilities gave him a haunting fear of poverty in old age. Fred Bickley, in plain words, was "afraid of his job."

Then one day, in the course of events, he decided to insure. He selected a North American Life Endowment at 65 Policy. This marked the turning point in his career.

His own financial future secure, and his family protected, he experienced a new sense of independence. Before long he developed an assured personality and a keen initiative that quickly lifted him "from the ranks."

• • • •

No man who carries a haunting dread of the future can succeed in business. Fear saps self-confidence, destroying the quality most vital to success.

A North American Life Policy will be your solid foundation for future success and lifelong happiness, just as it has been for many other men.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SURPRISE

It was one of those rather warm, windy days which come now and again, even in December, when Christmas isn't so far away. Had Uncle Wiggily lived farther toward the North Pole he would have had to hop through snow. Had the old gentleman rabbit lived nearer the sunny southland, he would not have had to give a thought to Jack Frost.

But, as it was, Uncle Wiggily lived in that part of the country where it gets cold in December; only, as I have said, this was a warm day and the wind was blowing on the bunny's pink nose.

"I think I shall hop me to the woods and look for an adventure," Uncle Wiggily said to himself. "And I'll go before my forty 'leven little bunny children—forty twelve counting Baby Bunty—I'll go before they get home from school to tease me into taking them out to look for more Christmas trees."

Uncle Wiggily hopped to the woods and, finding a smooth, mossy log on which to rest himself, he sat down under an oak tree, as it happened. I hope you children know what grows on an oak tree besides leaves and bark, or else you may not understand what is soon going to happen. But I think you will.

Anyhow, Uncle Wiggily sat himself down upon the log and, all of a sudden he saw Jennie Chipmunk, the little striped creature who was a distant cousin to Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels. Jennie was scampering up the side of the oak tree.

"Hello, Jennie!" called Uncle Wiggily.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily," answered the striped chipmunk girl, but she did not stop.

All of a sudden, a little while after that, something fell with a bounce down out of the tree, and struck Uncle Wiggily on his head, or on his "pate," as Chicken Licken would say when she went out, as you have read in the story. He thought the sky had fallen.

"Dear me!" exclaimed the rabbit. "I wonder what is dropping down on me?" Hardly had he spoken when a lot more things fell, and, after they had bounced off Uncle Wiggily's head and his pink nose, he looked to the ground where they had landed and saw—yes, you have guessed it, acorns. A lot of acorns fell off the oak tree.

Down they clattered, banging the rabbit gentleman in many places, and he saw Jennie Chipmunk scampering around in the branches and Uncle Wiggily cried:

"Oh, Jennie! I'm surprised at you!"

"Surprised at me?" chattered the chipmunk. "Why so?"

"Pelting me with acorns in this way," went on bunny. "You have hurt my pink nose very much."

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, I didn't do it at all!" said Jennie. "I am being pelted up here where I am as much as you are down where you are. You see this oak tree kept its acorns very late this year, but now with the warm day after the cold frost last night, and with the wind to blow them, the acorns are falling. Really I'm not dropping them on you! I'll come down and you will see that they'll fall just the same."

Surely enough, when Jennie sat beside the bunny gentleman on the log, the acorns were blown down and pelted them both. So Uncle Wiggily knew Jennie hadn't done it and he asked her forgiveness for thinking she had surprised him.

Then Jennie scampered home, taking a few acorns with her to make a cake, leaving Uncle Wiggily alone on the log. And as he sat there along came the Bob Cat with his silly little tail.

"Ha! I have surprised you; haven't I?" snarled the bad chap, as he sat close beside the bunny so he couldn't get away.

Oh, Jennie, I'm surprised at you!

"Yes, this is twice I have been surprised to-day," answered Mr. Longears, but he didn't tell what the first surprise was. Then, all of a sudden, when the Bob Cat was going to nibble the bunny, some acorns fell down and pelted the bad chap hard upon his head.

"Who is doing that?" he snarled, looking up into the tree. But he could see no one, for no one was there. And more acorns fell, banging the Bob Cat in his eye, so he snarled. "Well, I'll fix you all right. I'll climb up there and scratch you, and then I'll come down and nibble Uncle Wiggily!" So the Bob Cat climbed up into the oak tree thinking he could scratch whoever was pelting him with acorns, but he couldn't scratch the wind; could he? And no sooner did the Bob Cat climb up into the tree than Uncle Wiggily ran home. And when the Bob Cat came down he was greatly surprised.

JOLLY JINGLES

In Peterborough Churches

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

In spite of the inclement weather, the attendance at the unified service of church and Sunday school was good. At the communion service nine adults were welcomed into membership.

In the evening the announcement of the coming of Prof. L. H. Marshall of McMaster University, on Sunday, December 19, was made.

Nearly a year ago, Prof. Marshall was invited here, but owing to the multiplicity of his engagements, he was unable to accept. When word was recently received that he could spend Sunday, the 19th, with the Murray street church, the deacons decided unanimously to accept that date. He will preach both morning and evening, and address the pastor's Bible class.

GOSPEL HALL.

Although yesterday was a hard day for church-goers, Gospel Hall was well attended. Mr. Richard Irving of Hamilton was the special preacher for the day, and his addresses were very much enjoyed, morning, afternoon and evening.

At the evening service he spoke of three questions: 1st, John the Baptist said, "Art Thou He that should come or do we look for another?" This question brought from the Lord Jesus the Divine evidences as revealed in His miracles and added a little postscript, "Blessed is the man that believeth in Me."

2nd question, "Have any of the rulers believed on Him?" asked by the Pharisees. Jesus showed that He came not to call the righteous but sinners to be saved; not many rulers yet saved, the common people heard Him gladly.

3rd question dealt with was, "Are there few that be saved?" and Jesus answered, "Strive to enter in, for many shall seek to enter in and shall not be able, for the day of grace will have closed," and Mr. Irving entered on an earnest appeal for all to accept God's offer now.

Mr. Irving will speak to-night and to-morrow and Wednesday nights at 8 o'clock. All are invited.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Speaking from the text, "Art thou he that is to come, or do we look for another?" taken from the Gospel according to St. Matthew, 11: 2-10, Rev. W. Meagher delivered an eloquent discourse at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday.

Recording the many prophesies that had to do with the coming of a Redeemer, the reverend speaker said that the Jews of the day looked on John the Baptist as the Messiah who had been promised them. His miraculous birth, his preaching and the manner of his life in the dessert all inclined them to this belief and thousands flocked to listen to him. But when they asked Christ this question, He told them to return to John and say what they had seen: "The blind see, the lame walk, the deaf hear, the lepers are cleansed and the poor have the Gospel preached to them. Blessed are they that are not scandalized in Me."

But the Jews of that day looked upon Christ as a stumbling block. They had thought of the Messiah as an earthly ruler and king; pride personfied and they could not believe that Jesus, with his poor and humble life, was the One they had waited for so long. John the Baptist was sent only as a forerunner of divine Master, to exhort the people to penance for the remission of their sins, "because the kingdom of God is at hand."

Thus, the season of Advent is a preparation for the coming of Christmas, and it should be a period of penance for sin and sanctification of the soul.

KNOX UNITED.

Anniversary services were fittingly observed at Knox church yesterday. Despite the inclement weather prevailing during the day a large congregation was present at each service.

The special preacher for the occasion, the Rev. George A. Brown, M.A., B.D., of Kingston, and president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, delivered inspiring sermons at the morning and evening sessions.

Special music by the choir, under the direction of R. R. Devey, the organist of the church, was also rendered, and was of a nature that would make the occasion a lasting one in the history of those in attendance. Miss Mae Higgins, soprano soloist of Toronto, sang at both services.

Rev. G. A. Brown.

"We make a mistake when we look on life in the words of the hymn: 'I'm but a Stranger here,'" declared the speaker. A person cannot doubt that there is dreariness in life, but despite that God does not want his people to make it "a Desert Drear," as the words of another hymn puts it. The text, 'I will lift mine eyes to the hills from whence cometh my help,' makes a person ask himself the question, 'From where cometh my help?' People speak of the enduring goodness of God, of His wealth, of His strength and steadfastness, as one who is greater than themselves, realizing that the great help of life lies above the hills.

God has used the hills for his own purpose. They speak of God, consequently people should strive to look above the level and see what is above. "We try to pull ourselves and our children up to certain standards by looking up at the hills. If we were content with what was on the level and accepted the standards of material gain as the standards of life, there would be no greatness in our nation," he declared.

As a person gazes at the hills the outstanding peaks that command his attention are three in number—Faith, Hope and Love. As a person looks at these he gets a security of feeling that is God's.

Faith, he said, was the realization that there were greater things in life than we could see. "It's only the lives of men who have lived by faith that you will find recorded in history," he declared. With faith comes a life that is steady, purposeful and quiet.

Hope, he declared, should predominate in life, as a life with the fire of hope dying was a dead thing. Jesus never lost hope in men for the reason that he bounded his life by faith; faith in the larger fellowship of man.

God's love was not attracted by merely beautiful things, but was a love that went out to everything in order that it might make beautiful that which it came in contact. Our eyes, he said, should constantly be lifted to the outstanding peak of all; that of love always shining clear because of the spirit of holines that within it.

In concluding Mr. Brown said: "The God of Faith, Hope and Love is the keeper of our souls, and there no life, lonely as it may be but can be lifted to the divine fellowship of Him who is above."

Anniversary music was admirably selected and well rendered. Coming after a choral concert on November 19th, the choir rose to the occasion; hymns and anthems being sung in a way that showed careful preparation. Jackson's festal "Te Deum" and "I Was Glad When They Said Unto Me," a dedication festival anthem by Simper, with solo by Mr. Sydney Willis, were sung in the morning. In the evening the compositions were "Come Let Us Join Our Cheerful Songs," by Churchill, including solo by Miss May Higgins and quartette by Misses Buckham and Crocker, Stanley Willis and Arthur Pitchford, and the "Gloria" from Mozart's 12th Mass.

Miss May Higgins, soprano soloist from Toronto, easily sang her way into the hearts of all who heard her splendidly-sung numbers, which were, "The Voice in the Wilderness" by Scott, in the morning; and "Consider and hear me," Wooler, in the evening. Possessed of a clear soprano voice, the enunciation was as pleasing as was the reverent manner of the singer.

Mr. R. J. Devey presided at the organ in his usually capable manner, his voluntaries including selections from Mendelssohn and Wely.

PRINCE ACCEPTS INVITATION FOR JUBILEE FETES

Premier Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain, Also Hopes To Come.

GREAT CELEBRATION.

Salutes and Beacons From Coast To Coast Will Mark Event.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (Canadi Press).—His Royal Highness t Prince of Wales and Rt. Ho Stanley Baldwin and Rt. Ho Great Britain, have been invited t Canada to participate in the Dia mond Jubilee celebration of Confed eration, it was learned here today on very high authority. It is understood, too, that both the Prince and Premier Baldwin have accepted the invitations. Although both His Royal Highness and the Prime Minister of Great Britain are unable to make definite engagements so far ahead ,both, it is said, have expressed the hope that circumstances will permit their taking part in Canada's birthday celebrations on July 1, 1927.

The Jubilee celebration will be Dominion wide in character and will be marked by patriotic festivities in all communities. There will be a noon-day salute fired from Ottawa, which will reach across the country and beacon fires at night from Atlantic to Pacific. During the day there will be sports and national games. It is hoped that the Prince of Wales will officiate at the opening of the new international brige between Fort Erie and Buffalo.

It is expected that some announcement will be made respecting the Royal visit during the course of the session of the new Parliament.

FOREIGNERS HELD.

Two Men in Jail at Timmins For Attempting Murders.

TIMMINS, Ont., Dec. 6.—Tony Salvador is held without bail on a charge of attempting to murder Rock Gentile, his son-in-law. Gentile alleges that Salvador pointed a revolver on two occasions, but due to some defect the gun failed to go off. Salvador declares, however, that he used only a toy pistol for the purpose of frightening Gentile. It is understood that the two men have been at loggerheads for a long time and this is the culmination of the feud. Gentile is known in the district as a bootlegger and was recently fined heavily while attempting to bring a large quantity of liquor from Montreal.

Luigi Celini is also held here after stabbing a compatriot with a stiletto. The victim had a narrow escape as the blade penetrated the body within half an inch of the plural cavity. Jealousy over a woman is believed to have been the cause of the attack. Both cases will be heard before Magistrate Atkinson on Wednesday next.

Coasting

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

SOMETIMES I get positively maudlin with sentiment over city children who can't know the glorious freedom of the country. There is coasting, for instance, on a great snow-crusted hill which slopes swiftly from its bald top down, down, down—clear to the pasture and ice-coated brook below. Oh, the thrill of throwing oneself onto a sled and, with face only a few inches above the flying snow, go speeding breathlessly into the valley!

ENGLISH TOURIST PRAISES WOMEN

A. Duff Cooper Says American Ladies Are Not Flippant.

LONDON, Dec. 6 (United Press) —Flippant, selfish women, if they exist in America, were not seen by A. Duff Cooper, M.P., on his recent lecture tour of that country. "I should be prepared to defend the American woman to any one," said the husband of Lady Diana Duff Cooper, adding that they are attractive, extremely well dressed, tremendously interested in the world, and sincere.

Mixing women and politics, an idea he may have obtained on his tour, Cooper remarked that if Al. Smith runs as Democratic candidate for President—and he probably will —there is more than a probability that he will be elected.

Babies Kissed To Death Chicago Doctor Asserts

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (United Press).—Entirely too many babies are "kissed to death" by affectionate relatives, Dr. Herman N. Bundezn, Chicago Health Commissioner, said in his weekly Health Bulletin.

"Babies do not die because they are unfit," the Bulletin sets forth. "They die from the sanitary sins of their parents and the community at large. They die in the summertime from the combined effect of heat and bad diet and in the wintertime from impure air and nose, ear and mouth infection brought to them by people with coughs and colds who insist in kissing and fondling them."

Mothers, Do This—

No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then's when your'e glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt relief.

As first aid, Musterole is excellent. Keep a jar ready for instant use.

It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frosted feet and colds of the chest ((it may prevent pneumonia.)

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Maps are becoming more and more popular, and if you are fortunate enough to have a really old map stowed away in your attic anywhere, by all means bring it forth and make use of it. Lacking such good fortune you may buy all sorts of new and highly attractive maps. There are copies of quaint old maps and quaint-looking new maps that show interesting historical events or placesof literary association. Maps, you know, are used to make lampshades and are sometimes put under the glass of tea trays. You may think that a more appropriate place for the picturesque or old map may be on the wall. The library or study of your house is perhaps the most appropriate place for a map and there it may be useful as well as ornamental. Maps on the wall of the children's room serve to impress the locations of important countries, cities and waterways on the minds of the young. There are some very attractive and instructive maps made especially for children nowadays, and one of these hung on the Christmas tree would make a very sensible sort of Christmas present.

SOMETHING FOR CHRISTMAS

Your Christmas list is no doubt longer than you had expected—longer no doubt than your purse. But there are many little gifts that may be made at very, very small cost and there is still enough time to make them. If you know a number of children whom you would like to remember at the holidays—and you have almost nothing to spend on them—why not make them each a pair of doll's shoes. You can buy a piece of soft leather for a very little. Sometimes you can pick up a piece of colored suede at a ten-cent store large enough to make a good many pairs of tiny shoes. To make them just cut out little leather soles and then cut a slightly shaped strip that will make the entire upper section of the little slippers. The center of the strip should come at the back of the sole with the ends at the front. Let the ends be somewhat higher than the center and slant it off so that when the two ends have been sewn together they will slant properly from toe to instep. Use a fine needle and double strand of sewing silk and stitch the uppers neatly to the little soles, and then buttonhole neatly around the top of the slippers. A pair of such slippers to fit a favorite teddy-bear or a beloved doll will fill any child's heart with cheer.

A rubber-lined toilet case is an inexpensive present that any adult would appreciate. Several of these may be made at small expense. Get good heavy rubberized cloth and cut to form the cases large enough to hold wash cloth and toothbrush. Stitch the pieces up at the edges, leaving all of one side open. You may stitch across so as to make compartments for toothbrush, toothpaste and nailbrush beside the washcloth. After this is done, make enveloped-shaped covers from cretonne. Stitch these up at the two sides, finish the other edge and flap with tape and make a little buttonhole on the flap which fastens over on a little button at the other side.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

WELL, WELL, WELL,

"Well, well, well," was just about
All Uncle Ezra had to say,
Yet other folks might talk and shout
A half an hour, a half a day,
And yet not say a half as much
Of sympathy the heart to touch
As in the kindly tones would dwell
Of Uncle Ezra's "Well, well, well."

And when he met you on the street,
And hadn't seen you for a while,
"Well, well, well, well!" he would repeat,
And grip your hand, and smile a smile.
Though other folks say pleasant things,
We judge a coin by how it rings,
And there was nothing more to tell
When Uncle Ez said, "Well, well, well!"

He didn't need to argufy,
Or wave his arms, or shake his head,
When other people told a lie—
"Well, well, well, well," was all he said.
Yet ev'ry liar he ever caught
Knew just exactly what he thought,
Yes, many a liar's features fell
When Uncle Ez said, "Well, well, well."

For, after all, it isn't words
That mean so much, some great amount;
There'd be no music in the birds
If words were all that ever count.
You maybe think that you're so smart
That you can fool the human heart,
But no one can—for folks can tell,
Although they just say, "Well, well, well."

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

By Alma Whitaker.

BRAIN-CHILDREN

Interesting case in the courts recently. A wife is insisting that if the children which she has borne belong to her and her husband equally, then his brain-children are equally hers.

You see, in that state they have a community property law which declares that anything either husband or wife acquire after marriage belongs equally to both of them. Anything they own before is their separate property.

And hubby had worked on a patent years before he married. He had the whole idea and the final model completed before he married. But he patented it afterwards. And the rewards from it did not begin to come in until afterwards.

So, in a regrettable divorce suit the wife is claiming a full share in that patent—not just set alimony but a complete possessive half-share of the patent itself for all time. In fact, she considers that its custody should be awarded to her along with the children. She says she is just as much the mother of his brain-child and he is the father of her regular children!

Hubby on the other hand, insists that he bore that brain-child long before he married and it is very much his separate property. Wife says the patent was not actually born until it was officially patented—and that therefore it was born in wedlock and she is entitled to regard the brain-infant as half hers.

As things stand at present, the case seems to be going against the husband. Anyway he is going to have a very difficult time proving to the court's satisfaction that that brain-child belongs exclusively to him. You see, it is a fat, handsome brain-child of money-culling proclivities—even as regular human child-wonders can often prove so profitable to their parents.

And it is when the children are profit-makers—brain children or little human beings—that their parents are apt to make the biggest fight to establish parental rights.

It is very doubtful whether this wife wants to claim any other of hubby's brain-children—especially the ones that cost a lot to get born and then prove a liability rather than an asset.

Of course most wives do get in very successfully on the unsuccessful, unprofitable, liability sort of brain-children. If this wife has mothered some of these with this husband of hers, her claims upon the profitable one might sound more reasonable.

It opens up all sorts of arguments. Authors—either sex—can claim that they had the idea for a successful book drafted out before marriage and therefore it is their exclusive property. Almost anyone who earns money through the production of "brain-children" could use this alibi in community property law states.

If this husband's case stands, there isn't any good reason why a man should not claim that he had all the ability which made it possible for him to get jobs and earn money before he was married, so all he earns after should be his separate property, too!

But it is the sort of "Brain-child" that can be copyrighted or patented that is going to be in dispute. The evidence will be more tangible.

I am afraid, however, that courts are not going to treat brain-children with quite the same respect and consideration that the human ones receive. This fellow's brain-child, for instance seems very likely to be declared a mere "available asset" and ordered apportioned to the contesting parties in equal halves—and even the rightful parent will fail to respond to Solomon's psychology and waive his share that the child may not be dismembered.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The emerald is both the talismanic and natal gem for today. This stone has the power to interpret future events. Wearers of emeralds are believed to see far into the future and to direct their lives according to the glimpse vouchsafed them. The ancients used it to touch the lids of inflamed eyes, and the great physicians of the early days have left testimonials to that effect.

A bit of orange should be worn today if the good will of the gods is desired, according to an ancient superstition.

The rose of Sharon is today's significant flower. Worn by a woman, it is believed to bestow unusual loveliness.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The large bag is much in vogue The sketch shows one of red suede with rhinestone initials and matching red umbrella, with rhinestones in handle—one of green alligator skin—and one of black and white calfskin and black leather.

• • •

The idea now seems to be to have your hand bag big enough—big enough to hold everything that you need to carry. The effect of the smart ensemble cannot be spoiled by a really enormous hand bag providing it is well chosen, but bundles and little packages are most unattractive. One's hand should be free—the bag under being or over the arm.

But remember, the larger the bag the better it must be. You can sometimes pick up a little bag on a bargain counter for an amazingly small amount, but the cheap large bag is a poor investment. It must be of very good quality indeed—or else the smartness of your ensemble will really be ruined.

It has been remarked that as clothes become scanter and shorter, hand bags become larger—and large though many of these new bags are, it is amazing to know what they will contain. There must be a purse, of course, perhaps cigarettes and a latch key, a checkbook, pencil or pen and memorandum blank, a trip ticket, powder and perhaps rouge and lipstick, a small brush and comb and maybe a tiny prayer book—for the modern girl may be devout. A night gown may be rolled up into very small space and so may a little dance frock and an extra pair of stockings. The girl who works may even have a sandwich and an apple hidden in the recesses of her good-looking hand bag and no one is the wiser for her little economy.

There is something very attractive about some of the really good quality large bags. You may choose green alligator to go with green accessories, red suede when you have a touch of red about your costume or one of the lovely new blue leather bags. If you must economize and still have need of a large bag perhaps the best thing to do is to get an imitation tortoise-shell top and then make a bag of the best velour you can find. You may have patience enough to work a lovely bit of tapestry—"petit point" on canvas—following if you can, the design of some old tapestry. You used to be able to spot the woman lawyer or journalist—once upon a time—by her business-like portfolio or brief case. Now the chances are that she hides her briefs and manuscripts in the smartest large hand bag that she can afford.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

DIET FOR HYPERACIDITY

(By Winifred Stuart Gibbs, Food Specialist.)

A friend who signs herself "Daily Reader" is interested enough to send me a list of questions, the answers to which I should have a rather wide appeal. "May I have a food list for a person suffering with hyperacidity? Is tea injurious when prepared in the right way? Are the dark breads, such as graham, rye and whole wheat, better than white bread?" The final question is, "I would also like to have a food list for a person suffering with intestinal indigestion."

The first thing that strikes one reading this list of questions is a fresh realisation of the fact that the questions brought out by Mrs. Daily Reader are concerned with the most widespread form of digestive disturbance, namely, hyperacidity and intestinal indigestion. So let us take care of these two questions first.

The hyperacidity victim has an interesting diet list as follows: Cream of vegetable soups, and hot cooked vegetables, both dishes prepared from peas, beets, carrots, beans, squash, asparagus, soy beans, potatoes, and celery; flaked and puffed prepared cereals; crisp toasted bread; sweet apples, pears, bananas, cantaloupe and other melons and grapes; macaroni and spaghetti prepared with eggs or mushrooms or creamed vegetables from the above list, buttermilk, cream, malted milk, lightly sweetened custards, ices, ice cream, olive oil, cottage cheese, cream and fresh butter.

When intestinal indigestion is present, several points may be considered. Close attention may be paid first to intestinal cleanliness with complete evacuation daily established as a habit. An exact diet cannot be given since intestinal indigestion may arise from several causes. If it comes from too high a proportion of aft in the diet than this must be reduced. If it is merely from constipation then one must act accordingly. If it is caused by putrefaction in the intestines, then animal foods—meat, fish and eggs, must be cut out until normal conditions are restored. So I must have a little more information before I can answer this question.

The dark breads are certainly wholesome food and undoubtedly contain certain elements not present in white, but they are not "better" for us. This is a generalization that should never be made in regard to any diet question. When white bread is preferred, then see that the diet is especially well provided with milk, fresh fruits and green vegetables and you need not worry about not having dark bread. The best plan is to use both types of bread so as to make a wholesome variety.

Finally, as to tea. Well-made tea will not harm a healthy adult. It should not be given to children, but there is no doubt but that its genital stimulation is both restful and frequently advisable for an adult who enjoys it.

HOROSCOPE

'The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

This should be one of the rarely lucky days, according to astrologers who find that Mercury, the Sun, Jupiter and Uranus are all in benefic aspect. Saturn is adverse.

Under this planetary government there will be manifested great extremes in human experience, the seers foretell. Immense wealth and grievous poverty are to contrast strongly, except during the holiday.

Again the stars smile on all efforts to settle debts or to adjust financial matters. This rule is supposed to incline men to be honest.

There is a most promising sign for merchants and manufacturers who may be assured of much buying.

Lavish expenditure is to mark the remainder of this month and there will be much extravagance in hospitality it is foretold.

While the holidays are always times for unusual spending this year is to reach the high water mark.

This should be a first rate rule under which inventors or their promoters should be able to obtain financial support.

There is a sign presaging the most intense interest in aviation, especially in that branch of it which would be needed in serial warfare.

This is an auspicious time to prepare for a new year of extraordinary effort, for they who plan today will profit by and by.

Saturn appears to forecast trouble for farmers who will continue to encounter many difficulties in way of obtaining fair profits.

There may be much idleness and serious labor troubles in several quarters before the winter advances beyond next month.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of prosperity in which household comforts will increase.

Children born on this day may be gifted but too sensitive for their own good.

Ottawa Senators Capture Eastern Canada Championship

VARSITY DEFEATED IN THE FINAL FOR EASTERN CANADIAN HONORS REPULSE LAST MINUTE ATTACK

Senators Out-Manoeuvre Intercollegiate Title Holders in Every Play.

PLAYERS OUT.

Victory May Mean Second Consecutive Dominion Title To Ottawa.

TORONTO, Ont., December 6. — Canadian Press. — Courageously repulsing a determined assault on their goal in the last few minutes of play, Ottawa Senators, 1925 Dominion champions defeated the highly touted University of Toronto machine by 10 points to 7 in the Eastern Canada championship Rugby final at Varsity stadium on Saturday afternoon. If Calgary Tigers, the Western Canada champions, fail to come east in quest of the title, Saturday's victory will give the Interprovincial Union Champions their second consecutive title.

Senators deserved their win Saturday. Playing for most of the game without Joe Tubman, their star kicking half, who has an injured knee, they out-manoeuvred the intercollegiate title holders in every department of the game. True, Varsity were for a goodly part of the game without France Trimble, their kicking half, whose absence greatly weakened them, but the Toronto booter while he was on got nothing more than an even break in the kicking duel with Joe Miller. Trimble was injured early in the third quarter and played for only short periods thereafter.

The game was played on a snow-covered field in weather that was more suiting for ski-ing than Rugby. Scarcely 6000 people attended the game compared with th. 17,000 who saw a much poorer exhibition of football the Saturday before when Varsity defeated Queen's for the Intercollegiate title Fans who had bought tickets hoping that the weather would be good, stormed the box office before the game asking for their money back but no refunds were made. Those who did come were wrapped in every conceivable kind of windshield and some brought hot coffee and other stimulants in patent warmth-retaining bottles.

For the Senators' supporters Saturday's victory was a glorious vindication of their assertion that they were truly a Dominion championship team. Rated by experts as the third best team in the interprovincial union this year, Ottawa streaked through their schedule of six games with only one defeat and won the play off game with the Ontario Union champions, Balmy Beach, by a wonderful comeback in the last period. Still the critics were not satisfied, but Saturday's defeat of Varsity, admittedly a great team, under conditions that were very trying, entitles Senators to recognition as one of the best teams of all time in Canadian Rugby.

As they usually do, every man on the Ottawa team played wonderful football yesterday. Joe Miller, playing his last game of Rugby, as he reports to the New York Americans Hockey team this week turned in a game that was easily on a par with the exhibitions he gave in Ottawa against the Hamilton Tigers and Balmy Beach. While Trimble was on he easily held his own with the great Varsity booter, and when Warren Snyder took the latter place, Joe out-hoofed the great Warren.

Miller was ably assisted on the back field by Charlie Connell and by Joe Tubman, while the latter was able to play. Tubman, although his playing did not come near equalling the great exhibitions he has formerly given, played an heroic game yesterday. Starting with a knee that has given him trouble for some time, the great Ottawa back played steadily until the second period when he attempted to kick and strained a tendon in his knee. He continued gamely, however, and it was not until some time later that he was induced to leave the field.

Of the linesmen, Harold Starr, Don Young, Stem Bruce and Ketchum were the best, but everyone turned in good games. Charlie Lynch gave his usual brilliant performance at quarter, and the Ottawa victory can be largely credited to him.

For Varsity, Francis Trimble was outstanding. He gave a great exhibition of kicking and running until he was injured and came back after this and played his best. Snyder was good on the secondary defence.

Sinclair turned in a good game on the second line and Young, Roos, Irwin, M. Snyder, Don Garrick and Stollery were the best of the linesmen.

Ottawa's ten points were made up of an unconverted touchdown by Lynch and five single points, while Varsity scored all their seven singly. The Senators began to assert their supremacy early in the first period, when they chalked up two singles in quick succession. Both were rouges, made when Ottawa tacklers bore down on Sinclair and Trimble behind the line after they had taken Miller's hoists.

Varsity secured their first point when Miller fumbled a punt on his 25-yard line and a Varsity man dribbled it down the field. The Ottawa hoister out-distanced his opponent in the dash over the line for the ball and fell on it, Varsity getting credit for only a single whereas they would have had a touch had one of their players beaten Miller to the ball. Varsity evened the score a few minutes after when Trimble kicked to Tubman for a rouge.

A Varsity fumble later in the period gave Ottawa a break as the Varsity man was forced to kick the ball into touch on Varsity's 10. The first buck, giving Ottawa 7 yards, Lynch took the ball himself on the next down and just squirmed through for a a touch. He failed to make the convert.

Because of the effect of the cold weather on the players' hands fumbles were frequent throughout the game, but particularly in the second period . Ottawa's margin over the Collegians would have been greater had not four Ottawa players lost the ball in this session, as Ottawa were able to convert four Ottawa fumbles into the same number of points for themselves. Each of them occurred around Ottawa's 25, and each time Varsity got possession of the ball here they kicked for a rouge, bringing the score at half time to 7-6.

As a result of this batch of fumbles in the second things looked black for the champions but they still had a one point lead and they came back for the third session with confidence, with Thimble off, Miller kicked at every opportunity, and the Senators were able to add three to their score to make a total of 10. Miller's first boot was to the dead line about half way through the period after Ottawa had carried the Varsity line 30 yards down the field. Miller next kicked a touch-in-goal and the third point came when a Varsity man fumbled a short punt by Miller and Bruce dribbled it across the line. The Ottawa snap was beaten to the rail by a Varsity back, the Collegians thereby averting a touch down.

The final period was featured by Ottawa's endeavor to hold their lead, and the Intercollegiate's desperate attempts to get within scoring distance of the Ottawa goal. Varsity came very near getting a field goal near the end of the session when they were on Ottawa's 18 and Warren Snyder attempted a drop. The Varsity's captain's hoist was wide h wever and it went for a rouge.

The Ottawa players were carried off the field by their supporters after the game and continued their celebration of their victory until late in the evening when they entrained for the capital.

LOOKING FOR GOALIES.

London and Windsor After Murray—London Wants Dwyer.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 4.—Late last night the local pro hockey club was unable to make any announcement that a new goalkeeper had been definitely signed. Goldie Prodger and Percy Leseuer of the Windsor Hornets were both on the trail of Mickey Murray of Galt at the Stratford game last night. Joe Dwyer of Peterboro has also been offered terms by the London Club. The situation in which Windsor found itself when Farrell was hurt has emphasize the need of two net-minders, and Prodger is making every effort to avoid any such problem cropping up here.

MARTHA NORELIUS BREAKS RECORDS

Broke Three and Equalled in Buffalo Aquatic Meet.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press)—Martha Norelius, of the Women's Swimming Association, New York broke three world's records and equalled another at the acquatic meet in the Buffalo Athletic Club natatorium Saturday night.

Miss Norelius swam against time, lowering the 880 yard free style mark by 36 4-5 seconds, covering the distance in 12 minutes 21 seconds flat. The former record of 12 minutes 57 4-5 seconds was held by Ethel McGarry.

Miss Norelius set a fast pace from the start, being timed at 600 yards in 8 minutes 25 2-5 seconds, just a fifth of a second under the former record for that distance. She equalled the 700 yard mark of 9 minutes, 32 2-5 seconds and then put forth her final effort, cracking the world's record for 800 yards in speeding to her new mark in the 880. Miss Norelius accomplished this feat in a regulation 25 yard tank, swimming 35 lengths and five yards.

RANGERS LOSE TO DETROIT COUGARS

Scored in Break of Defensive Play By Both Teams.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press)—A sudden break in an almost perfect demonstration of defensive play by both teams gave the Detroit Cougars a one to nothing victory over the New York Rangers in a National League Hockey game here Saturday night. Practically the only time that a wo man attack was let near a goal was when Sheppard passed to Loughlin who goaled the winning score.

PLAYERS INJURED IN CAR SMASH-UP

Received Severe Injuries After N.H.L. Game on Saturday Night.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—The Ottawa National Hockey League team were seriously injured in an automombile smash-up early yesterday morning which will result in Denneny being out of the game for several days, and Finnegan will probably not be out of hospital for three weeks or a month. The two players spent some time in the teams' rooms in the Auditorium under the showers and getting rubbed down after their game with the Montreal Canadiens Saturday night. They left in Finnegan's closed car, taking John Bogue, an official of the Ottawa Hockey Club with them, and first went to Mr. Bogue's home, where they had a light lunch. They left shortly after midnight to take Denneny home and when going along Daly Avenue the car skidded, crashing into an elm tree. It struck with such force that it is believed both the players were hurled through the windshield.

Although badly cut they were able to reach the residence of Dr. R. Chevrier nearby He and the club's physician, Dr. Whitley, who was summoned, sewed up the wounds. Finnegan had seven cuts about the head, necessitating some two score stitches. Denneny suffered a severe cut across the forehead. The Senators will feel the loss keenly in their swing around the Western circuit this week, when they play Detroit and Chicago.

BAILEY STARS AS TEAM LOSES

SCORE 1-0.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—In what was easily the fastest and best played game of the local professional season to date the New York Americans defeated St. Patrick's by one to nothing at the Arena on Saturday night before the largest number of patrons the Irish have attracted this year the only goal of the game coming about a third of the way through the final period, when Burch and Simpson staged a rush and the former gave the latter possession about six feet from Roach who had no chance to save. The Americans have always been favorities in Toronto because of their speed and combination but on Saurday they did not have a thing on the locals in this respect and on the play as a whole the score could just as well have been reversed. At that the Irish had more scoring chances than did the winners, but something went wrong just at the crucial moment.

The Irish front line was good all the way, and they continued to show improvement. Day started at centre with Carson at left and Bailey at right and the combination was good, Bailey was perhaps the best of the trio, while Cox and Denenay were dangerous all the time. Cox is going to be a very valuable man after a few more games. Brydge and Bourgeault were given more opoprtunities on the defence and appeared to advantage. The teams:—

St. Patrick's—Roach, goal; Corbeau and McCaffrey, defence; Day, centre; Bailey, right; Carson, left; Brydge, Bourgeault, Dennenay, Cox and Bellefeuille subs.

Referee—W. O'Hara, Ottawa.

BOSTON BRUINS DEFEAT PIRATES

Rallied To Tie the Score in the Third Period.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press)—After rallying to tie the score in the third period of a National Hockey League game here last night, the Boston Bruins continued their offensive in an extra period and defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3. The winning goal was shot by Harry Oliver. Successive scores by Shore, Oliver and Herberts deadlocked the tally in the third period after Milks had added the Pirates third goal early in the same period. Only two penalties, both minors, were handed out during the contest.

SENATORS ADD TO THEIR LEAD CIRCUIT RACE

Well-Oiled Combination Attack Accounts For Victory Over Canadiens.

LENGTHENS RECORD.

Both Teams Show Smart Play Throughout Whole of Game.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—A well-oiled combination attack Saturday night carried the Capitals Senatorial squad in the National hockey league to a 4 to 1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens, lengthened the undefeated record of the locals for this season and added to their point lead in the circuit race. The game throughout was marked by smart team play on the part of both clubs and was the fastest seen here this season.

The fast-skating Habitants were not as far outplayed as the score might indicate. They, too, had a smooth combination machine with the sparkling Howie Morenz as a pivot, operating on the ice, but so formidable was the back checking and other defensive cogs of the Red-White and Black team that the efforts of the visitors were forced down to defeat.

The game served as a denial to the well-worn belief that Ottawa has a one-man team with Frank Nighbor poke-checking centre, as the king pin. Nighbor was not in uniform owing to a severe cold, but "Hooley" Smith, regular left wing, stepped into the breach, checked charging Canadiens and led his wings in convincing style.

But for a major penalty which "Hooley" drew for slugging Larochelle as the second period ended, the game was fairly clean. The locals had seven minors also chalked against them, while the visitors were afflicted with five, but none of the offences were serious and served only to keep the interest of the some 5,000 fans present at fever heat.

The two, three and four man rushes of the Senators were used from the opening gong and Goalie Hainsworth absorbed no less than ten shots in the first five minutes of play. During the period a total of twenty were sent in his direction and but for a long one that Capt. George Boucher sent from just inside the Canadien's blue line and which sizzled past him, the tiny tender bore the withering fire well.

On the short end of the score, Morenz who started in the second frame after playing scarcely half of the opening period, thumped away with W. Boucher and A. Joliat lanking him in a succession of threatening rushes, but Alex. Connell turned them back from the Ottawa citadel. It was after such a play that "King" Clancy, hooked the puck from behind his own net and lazed through to the Habitant defence. On his pass to right, Frankie Finnegan bored clean in on top of Hainsworth and flipped the puck through the goalie's legs. A double-barrelled attack by Mantha and Pete Lepine resulted in the visitors' lone tally. The two man had just come on as relief when the former raced in close to dribble the puck over to his centre-man who in turn sent through a stiff one that was waist high on Connell.

"Hooley" Smith and Alex. Smith were responsible for the Senator's goals which came in the last stanza, both on one-man rushes. When men shy owing to the fracas which sent "Hooley off with the major and A. Smith and Larochelle off with minors. The league leaders resorted to ragging the rubber until one of the offenders returned, but these tactics drew the boos of the gallery which, as usual, was as sympathetic to the Canadiens as it was to the home squad. The Canucks did not threaten greatly, however, even after the puck was brough into play, for they appeared to have tired more than the Senators from the stiff pace of the battle.

MAROONS LOSE FOURTH GAME

Chicago Played the More Finished Hockey Accounts For Victory.

TALLIED FIRST.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press). — Unable to emerge from the slump into which they fell on November 25, when beaten by New York Americans, Montreal Maroons suffered their fourth straight defeat at the Forum on Saturday night, when beaten 5-3 by Chicago Black Hawks. The victory was accounted for by the fact that Chicago played the more finished hockey, and although Montreal tallied with the counter, the visitors held command almost throughout the hour's play.

Benedict was playing below his standard and allowed two easy ones to beat him when saves would have encouraged the lagging players in front of him. Even with a goal or two in hand Chicago avoided the defensive style of play and keep the Maroons packed up into their own territory the greater part of the time.

As a spectacle, the game was most interesting, being one of the best exhibitions witnessed here this winter. The greater thrills were furnished by the visitors through their novel style of combination play, time after time, drew the local defence out to give opportunities to the Black Hawks waiting for a pass. Chicago comprise a lot of husky players who can hold their own at any style of game and Lehman, their goal-keeper, was almost weird in the manner in which he stopped shots which looked to be tagged for the net. On the Maroons Munro was the outstanding player. He gave a good exhibition of defensive work, while he was the leader in the majority of the local attacks. Munro's greatest support came in the third period when the Montrealers became almost desperate in their efforts to even up the count.

The first tally came for Montreal, when Munro who had carried the play up the ice on several occasions, went through and drew out the visiting defence. He passed to Phillips who was uncovered, the latter scoring. The fans had hardly been given a breathing spell when Dye evened the count by sending one past Benedict from the side of the rink and far out.

Coming back in the second session, Black Hawks opened the attack. Fraser putting his team in the lead within a minute of play. Montreal rallied and Broadbent evened the count for the second time, while the teams were playing five men a side, Hay and Stewart being on the penalty bench. Play travelled up and down with the visitors holding the edge until Trapp tallied. In the closing moments of this period Montreal had a chance when Hay was serving a major for roughing Phillips.

Within two minutes of the commencement of the final twenty minutes, Fraser added another to Chicago's count. Broadbent tallied from a scramble still leaving the visitors one in front. With two minutes remaining, Hay and Trapp went up together. Hay took the puck in behind the Montreal net, and in doing so, was followed by the defence. He whipped it out to [illegible] who was unchecked and scored the final goal. Stewart and Siebert were desperate in their attack but unable to beat Lehman.

LADIES' LEAGUE Y.M.C.A.

The first series of the Ladies' league of the Y.M.C.A., which finished last week, developed into a real race and the winners, the large, captained by Miss M. Stenton, nearly turned into a tie series by dropping two games to the thrushes this week. But they managed to retain their lead of one game over the next two in the contest. The Canaries, led by Miss E. Rae, and the Bluejays led by Miss T. Paxman. The Bluejays and the Canaries met this week and the Bluejays by taking two games eliminated the Canaries chances to make a tie-up in the league. The Swallows, captained by Miss G. Stinson, finished one game behind the Bluejays, the Canaries having won 17 and lot 10. The last team in the standing of the first series, the Nightingales, led by Miss G. Coulter, were handicapped by not having full turnouts for the games at the beginning of the series, but they promise to furnish stiff opposition in the 2nd and 3rd series. The final standing in the series was as follows:

	Won.	Lost.

OSHAWA TEAMS PRACTICE HARD

Juniors Have Been Working Out on Toronto Ice

BOTH TEAMS STRONG.

OSHAWA, Dec. 6. — Oshawa Shamrocks, local entry in the O. H.A. junior series and winners over Toronto Canoe Club in the first round of the S.P.A. junior competition, are practising hard for their second game. The youngsters were out at the Arena in Toronto on Saturday and will work out again there to-day. Ice will likely be available at the local rink about the middle of this week.

The Oshawa intermediates have been doing indoor training, and they also expect to hold ice practise here, this week. The Motor City's teams in the O. H. A. this year are stronger than they have been for many seasons.

O. H. A. BULLETIN

Group convenors and clubs are warned that group winners must be declared not later than February 5. The Allan Cup finals will be played in Vancouver this season and the Eastern championship will have to be decided earlier than usual.

Woodstock has decided to enter a team in the Junior Series and it will be included in Group No. 11 with Ingersoll, Watford and St. Thomas.

Brantford Junior will play in Section A. of Group 10, instead of in Group 9.

Owing to the Dunnville rink having been destroyed by fire a few days ago the Dunnville O.H.A. Juniors will play their home games in Cayuga this season.

Murray Rutherford will referee the first game of to-night's S.P.A. Junior double-header between Newmarket and Weston. Harold Farlow will be the official in the second game, which brings together Marlborors (St. Mary's) and St. Michael's College.

Group conveners are asked to have their schedules competed not later than Friday of this week.

TWIN CITY TEAM IS DISSATISFIED

Asked O. H. A. For Single Group—No Competition Now.

TOO MANY GAMES.

KITCHENER, Dec. 6.—Twin City hockey fans, the hockey management and the players are dissatisfied with the group in which the Kitchener seniors have been placed. A request was sent to the O.H.A. that all senior teams be placed in one big group, but instead the locals are placed in a four-team group with Galt, Preston and Parkdale. The objection which local fans have is that competition will be lacking, except in the case of Parkdale. Locally the Preston and Galt teams are not feared.

The one redeeming feature of the local group is the fact that travelling expenses will be light. Despite this, the Twin City team would much rather have been placed in the same group as the Grads and Peterboro, for such group would have provided the closest competition, and that is what the Twin City fans want.

Another objection which some fans have raised is that the Twin City team must play a double schedule of twelve games, whereas the teams in Group No. 2 will play only eight games to get into the play-off, with fewer chances of injury.

NEW BOWLING LEAGUE STARTS

Teams Form Four Alleys Will Compete on Saturdays.

STRONG OUTFITS.

A new bowling league was launched on Saturday afternoon when the Knights of Columbus met a team from the Y.M.C.A. alleys on the 'Y' bowling alley, and a team from Duffus' alleys met a Water Street alley team

This new league is to be known as the Senior Inter-City Alley League, and its formation has been due to efforts of Tom Curvin. An executive has been elected and rules set down. One member of each alley is on the executive, and Max R. Sloan is the fifth member and secretary-treasurer of the league. L. W. LeBarr is president, and T. A. Curvin, M. J. Duffus and H. Folger are the other members.

Two dollars a week will be collected from the teams and will be expended at the discretion of the executive. A handsome cup which has been donated by W. H. Bradburn will be competed for, and the team winning the trophy three times in succession will permanently own it.

Each of the alleys is represented by a strong team, and all games are to be played at 2.00 o'clock on Saturday afternoons. There ought to be large numbers on hand to see these games.

The schedule is as follows:

First Series.

December 11—
Water Street at the Duffus Alleys.
December 18—
Y.M.C.A. at the Duffus Alleys.

At the conclusion of the meeting, tea as served by the Entertainment Committee.

"KING" CLANCY "CANNED"

Ottawa Police Seeking Man Who Assaulted Player.

OTTAWA, December 6. — Auditorium officials and the police combined on Saturday night without success in attempting to apprehend a hoodlum who threw a tin can at the players during the excitement of a scrimmage around the Canadien net in the last period of the N.H.L. scheduled hockey game. The can hit 'King' Clancy on the head stunning him and causing him to fall The game was stopped until the injured player could play again.

ROTARY CLUB TO HOLD ICE CARNIVAL

Citizens of Peterboro who enjoyed last season's event so much, will be glad to know that among the winter activities of the Peterboro Rotary Club will be an ice carnival to be held in the Brock street rink, likely in the month of Janaury. This tip will be enough for the wise ones, who will begin planning their costumes.

SMALL DEMAND FOR LUMBERMEN

Employment Bureau's List of Men Growing Longer.

This year the Government Employment Bureau has found great difficulty in placing men in the lumber camps as it seems the local lumber companies have their holdings pretty well cut. The demand for laborers has not been very great and as a result the number on the unemployed list has increased. This year the only demand for lumbermen seems to be in the country north of Port Arthur and Fort William. Last week the Employment Bureau placed 20 men and had 48 new applicants. At present there are 130 on the list.

THEATRE

"THE HOUSE OF USSHER"

A personal invitation is extended to you to visit "The House of Ussher," which comes to the Grand Opera House next Friday night direct from the Mayfair theatre on Broadway where it played for seven months. "The House of Ussher" is the last play writen by H. V. Esmond, whose "When We Were Twenty One will be recalled readily, and occupied a London stage for a solid year.

It was brought to this country and produced here by one of the outstanding figures of the English, stage, Mr. Clarence Derwent, whose Shakespearean characterizations brought him the honor of starring in the Benson productions at Avon for five years in succession.

In "The House of Ussher" Mr. Derwent has the opportunity of vivifying one of Esmond's finest characters in Jacob Ussher, the wealthy and unscrupulous head of the household. His portraiture of this character has been called by the Metropolitan critics as a combination of David Warfield and David Belasco, but Mr. Derwent strenuously denies any intention of such duplication.

'The House of Ussher' deals with a battle of wits between himself and his daughter, the latter as near a chip of the old block as a girl may be. The clash comes when the daughter announces her intention of marrying her father's secretary at a moment when old Jacob has very definite and different plans for her future. From the moment of her declaration of intentions the battle is on and the dramatic interest and suspense mount steadily up to the climax just before the final curtain. The contrast between the shrewd and resourceful old financier and his sophisticated offspring who is wise enough to use her father's methods against him, makes one of the most interesting and exciting plays seen in many a season.

AT THE REGENT

CLEVER MAKE-UP FOOLS EVERYONE.

Owen Moore's Disguise in "Money Talks" Best Ever Screened.

Owen Moore may not be a perfect lady, but he was recently mistaken for the Governor of Texas, a well-known fan magazine correspondent, a character actress and Lon Chaney.

In "Money Talks," which Archie May directed, and which is coming to the Regent Theatre to-day, Moore has one of the cleverest make-ups that has ever been photographed. In this metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, the popular actor had to disguise himself as a female physician, a "Dr. Murray," and through half the picture so masquerades.

When the picture was started, Archie Mayo, the director, was going to fix Owen up in frills, and try to make him an alluring vamp, but somehow his features and shoulders did not seem to fit into the landscape with any degree of ease. Consequently they dressed him in a tailored suit, with the inevitable fox fur and turban, and aside from a stride that few women would be able to equal with safety, Owen could pass unnoticed in any crowd.

PETES PLAY IN TORONTO TO-MORROW

Peterboro's seniors will get into action for their first game to-morrow night, when they clash with Kitchener in an S. P. A. game at the Toronto arena. The Petes ha e had one work out in Toronto and several outdoor practices here, and will be in fair shape for their first test.

FRENCH PAINTER MONET IS DEAD

86 YEARS OLD.

PARIS, Dec. 6 (United Press).—Claudet Monet, famous impressionistic painter is dead at his home in the village of Givernya, near Vernon. Former Premier Georges Clemenceau, his old friend of many years, was at the bedside when death came to the 86-year-old artist.

Among the best-known works of Monet are "Views of Argentui," "Cathedrals," "Views of Vetheuil," and "Le Bassin des Nymphes.'

A FITTING TRIBUTE.

Among many letters heceived by Mr. William Buller in regard to the death of his brother is one from Archdeacon Davidson, who says in part:—

"Ever since my boyhood days in Uxbridge on the then "Toronto and Nipissing Railway," I have travelled with "Conductor Buller" and his death causes a feeling of loneliness. He was indeed a kindly, polite and obliging man with an attractive manner and address—the best type of railway man—and that is a very fine type. He had a wonderfully long life of useful activity and must have been known to a vast number of persons who will now be sympathizers. I gladly take my part in doing honor to the memory of a solid, virile, kindly and reliable man."

MUCH OF THE LIFE OF THE EARLY EGYPTIANS CENTERED ON PREPARATION FOR THE HEREAFTER. THE ART OF EMBALMING, WHICH THEY DEVELOPED INTO A SCIENCE, AND THE PYRAMIDS TESTIFY TO THEIR KEEN INTEREST IN THE AFTER LIFE.

THEY BELIEVED THAT UNLESS THE BODY WAS PRESERVED THE SOUL WOULD BE HOMELESS. HENCE, THEY PREPARED THE BODY WITH PITCH OR "MUMIAI." TO PREVENT DECAY. THE BODY WAS ENCLOSED IN AN ELABORATE CASE.

IN THE BEGINNING THE MUMMIES WERE ENTOMBED IN THE DESERT AND ROCKS WERE PILED TO KEEP ROBBERS FROM STEALING TREASURES FROM THE COFFIN.

A SMALL HEAP OF STONES FAILED TO DISCOURAGE ROBBERS. FOR THIS REASON AND BECAUSE EACH FAMILY ASPIRED TO A BIGGER STONE HEAP THAN ITS NEIGHBORS THE MOUNDS OR PYRAMIDS INCREASED IN SIZE.

LEGION AUXILIARY TEA.
In the account of the tea held on Friday at the home of Mrs. Tamblin, Victoria avenue, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, the name of the accompanist for the musical programme, Mrs. Buckton, was inadvertently omitted. The ladies realized the sum of $27 from the tea and sale of work.

WATCH THE KIDNEYS
Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried. m-th-31-442

TWO FATALITIES FROM FREEZE-UP

Two Men Drowned Through Hole In Ice Of Neebish Channel.

NO RELIEF EXPECTED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 6. — Canadian Press. — The ice jam in the Mary's river, on both sides of Neebish Island, which has gripped 121 grain freighters and other vessels has caused two fatalities.

Two men whose names are unknown at present, were drowned through a hole in the ice in Neebish Channel, it was reported to-day. The vessel to which the men belonged was not stated.

Doubts that the big ice-locked fleet can be released before next spring, are expressed by the local marine men. The car ferry Sainte Marie, brought from St. Ignace to act as an icebreaker, appears to be making little progress in its attempts to free the boats.

Fifty five of them were down bound and 66 up-bound.

A tug to-day took provisions and fuel to one of the vessels. Coal supplies are being restricted by the local mercahnts, and it is believed the Lake Carriers' Association may commandeer coal cargoes on any upbound boats that may reach the Sault. Some of the stalled boats short on coal and provisions, are making strenuous appeals.

The fact that the steamers Coulee and Garretson are frozen in in the narrow channed at an angle,is adding to the difficulties of the ice breaker in opening the way for the downbound fleet.

Five vessels, the Hagarty, Assiniboia, Lake George, Clement and Ontadoc, were released yesterday.

GASOLINE CAUSE OF SMALL FIRE

Kitchen in Charlbond Apartments Scorched By Explosion.

WOMAN JUMPS OUT.

What might have been a serious fire in the downtown section of the city broke out this afternoon at about 2.00 o'clock in Apartment J of the Charlbond Apartments at 190 Charlotte Street. Mrs. Harry Sarginson, who lives there, was going to do some cleaning with a jar of gasoline. At the same time she had the gas fire going and in some manner which she cannot explain the gasoline exploded and went up in a mass of flames. Mrs. Sarginson rushed to get out of the kitchen, and went by the nearest way, which was out the back window. This meant a drop of some seven or eight feet.

Men who were near rushed into the house and put out the fire. The kitchen will have to be re-decorated and the cabinet is badly scorched where the flames ran up it.

Chief Gimblett, ever since he took over the head of the fire department in this city, has tried to impress upon the minds of the citizens the danger of gasoline in private dwellings, and he wants to warn the citizens again of this danger. He also states some thing that is unknown to many people, that a quart of gasoline has 83.5 times as great an explosive power as a stick of dynamite.

BIG SALMON PACK.

All Previous Records Broken in British Columbia This Year.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 6 — (Canadian Press.)— All previous records have been broken by the salmon pack in British Columbia for 1926. It is estimated that the total pack for this year, when all returns are in, will be, in round figures, 1,900,000 cases. The nearest approach to this was in 1924, when slightly more than 1,700,000 cases were put up. The pack by species are: Sockeye, 323,815 cases; pink, 739,450; blue-back, 19,314; spring, 65,993; cohoe, 149,207; chum, 595,423 and steelheads 1,779.

ELEVEN DEATHS CAUSED BY STORM

North Eastern States Suffered From Heavy Snow Falls.

WEATHER WARMER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. —(Canadian Press.)—Sunshine and rising temperatures to-day came to the rescue of the North-eastern States, after the heaviest snow fall and coldest weather of the season. Eleven deaths were caused ,railroad and motor traffic was crippled, and coastwise and inland shipping hampered. New England was fettered by a snow fall ranging from seven to fifteen inches, with a death toll of seven. New York State reported three deaths, all in Buffalo. There was one death in New Jersey.

WEDDING BELLS.

O'BRIAN—DENEAU.
A pretty wedding was celebrated at St. John the Baptiste Church, Amherstburg, on Monday morning, November 22, when Miss Irene Deneau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antome Deneau, of Amherstburg, became the bride of Mr. John O'Brian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Brian, of Peterboro, Ont. The young bride looked very sweet and charming in a white crepe dress and bridal veil and carried a large spray of white carnations set in green fern leaves. Miss Aldea Bornais, of Amherstburg, acted as bridesmaid, and was gowned in pink georgette and wore a large black velvet picture hat. The best man was Mr. Edward Finn of Merlin, Ont. The bride, having been a member of the Blessed Virgins' Sodality, was married in the Sanctuary of the church with all Sodality honors, Rev. Father Beuglet, pastor of St. John the Baptiste Church, being the officiating clergyman. Miss Mildred Wilcox played the wedding march and the Sodality girls' choir rendered appropriate songs throughout the service. After the ceremony, the wedding party returned to the home of the bride's parents, where a lovely wedding breakfast was served the guests.

OBITUARY.

JOHN DE LAPLANTE.
The funeral of the late John De Laplante took place this morning, attended by a large number of friends, from his late residence on Crescent street to the Church of the Sacred Heart, when the funeral mass was solemnized by the pastor, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, with Rev. J. Ray Clancy, of Watertown, Wisconsin, Rev. V. G. Mefadden, of Trout Creek, and Rev. Father Moloney in the sanctuary. Rev. aFther Moloney officiated at the cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Dr. A. Letellier of Seneca Falls, O. De Laplante, Alex Gordon of Gananoque, F. Laplante of Rochester, N.Y., A. Guerin of Toronto, and Alric Letellier.

Illeana's Yankee Soldier Boy

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(A.P.) — Cadet William J. Glasgow withstood the concentrated hazing of the West Point corps Saturday, as he denied, like an officer and a gentleman, that he had been favored especially by Princess Ileana during her recent visit to the academy.

Instead of "Soccer Bill"—he is captain of the team—the tall Washington, D.C., soldier boy has become "lghness" and "kink" to his classmates since a circumstantial newspaper yarn linked him, as special escort, to Rumania's royal debutante.

But Bill expects to see her again. His brother is military attache at Paris, and, after graduation next spring, William said to-day, he hoped to spend part of his leave there.

GALE DESTROYS MANY VESSELS

North-easter Sweeps Coast of Nova Scotia on Sunday.

NO LIVES LOST.

HALIFAX, Dec. 6.— (Canadian Press.)— The rock-bound coast of Canada's North Atlantic seaboard was strewn to-day with the wreckage of vessels unable to survive one of the worst north-easters of recent years, which blew up late yesterday afternoon and at noon today showed little sign of abating. The gale was accompanied by a heavy snow fall, sub-zero temperatures, and one of the highest tides on record. Six vessels in all had been reported as total wrecks up to an early hour this afternoon, thousands of dollars' damage had been occasioned fishing gear along the shore, and communications generally throughout Nova Scotia were in a state of dislocation. But so far as was known there had been no loss of life.

SCHOONER WRECKED.
LIVERPOOL, N.C., Dec. 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Floating debris scattered over a turbulent sea remains of the coastal schooner W. C. Smith, formerly of the Lunenburg fishing fleet, wrecked in the storm early last night at Port Herbert, twenty miles west of Liverpool, but Captain J. M. Petipas, of Halifax, master and owner of the schooner, and his crew of five, are safe.

PRIZES WON BY LOCAL TROOPS

AT EXHIBITION.

Forty exhibits were entered by the Peterborough Life - Saving Guard and Scout Troops at the Inter-Divisional Handicraft Exhibition, held on Thursday and Friday last in the Salvation Army Temple, Toronto.

It is of interest to the local Scouts and Guards, that, although nearly 800 exhibits were entered, the Peterborough Troops came away with a goodly number of prizes.

Life-Saving Scouts

Life Saving Guards

The certificates of merit will be distributed by Adjutant Frank Ham at the Sunday afternoon meeting December 12.

Scout and Guard work is in full swing and all who desire to be connected with this splendid training are invited to join up at the next parade, Friday night at 7.15, in the Y. P. Temple, Aylmer Street.

On Friday last the Life-Saving Guard Troop held their social evening. Convened by the Guard Leader, Mrs. W. Jones, assisted by Mrs. G. Thomas and Assistant Leader G. Sutherland, the event was a great success. Adjutant Frank Ham and Young People's Sergeant-Major R. C. Braund were present and gave short inspirational addresses. A program of Winter activities was outlined by the Guard Leader.

BEQUEST RUMORS ARE CONFIRMED

Millar Left Brewery Stock To Ministers—Other Legacies.

TORONTO, December 6. Canadian Press. — Reports of strange bequests such as legacies of brewery stocks to Protestant ministers, and of an unnamed residue to go to the mother of the largest number of children born in Toronto ten years after his death, were confirmed by the publication to-day of the text of the remarkable will of the late Charles V. Millar, the horseman and lawyer.

The will disposes of an estate conservatively estimated at a million and a half dollars.

Downward Tendency On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—(Canadian Press.) — Despite occasional firm spots, the tendency of prices during this morning's active session of the Toronto exchange was downward. British American Oil, the active leader, sagged to 76 before recovering to 77 1-4, three quarters higher than yesterday, at noon. City Dairy firmed 1 7-8 at 84, and Imperial Oil was a half higher at 33 1-2, but elsewhere recessions were general. Brazilian lost 1 1-4 at 107 1-4, British Columbia Fishing 3-8 at 99, Davies "A" one at 32, and Page Hersey, preferred a quarter at 119. Seagram, active in the unlisted section, eased an eighth at 13 7-8. Banks were firm, notably Montreal, which advanced three at 276.

Mine Market Dull Many Drops Recorded

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press). — Very few bright spots showed through the general depression during this morning's fairly dull session of the Standard Mining Exchange. One of the isolated firm issues was McIntyre, gaining ten cents at 24.50. Small recessions occurred throughout the list. Teck Hughes sold down four at 481, Dome fifteen cents at 11.15, Canadian Lorraine 1½ at 62, and Argonaut 2½ at 54¼. Trading was very light in volume.

Wheat Prices Go Up On Liverpool Firmness

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Influenced by the firmness of Liverpool quotations and by scarcity of December offerings here, wheat values generally averaged higher here to-day. Warmer weather in Argentina, however, tended to bring about re-actions.

Starting at 1-8 to 1 1-8 cents advance, wheat scored a slight additional upturn and then fluctuated within the limits of about one cent. Corn and oats displayed relative strength, corn opening 1-8 cent to ¼ cent up, and subsequently hardening further. Provisions were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Dec. 1.40 5-8, May 1.41 7-8; corn, Dec. 74 5-8, May 83 3-8; oats, Dec. 43 7-8, May 48 5-8.

Speculators For Advance Gain Control In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.— (Canadian Press.)—Speculators for an advance regained control of the price movement in to-day's market after an early period of irregularity. Call money renewed at 4 1-2 p.c., but advanced to five as the banks called about $30,000,000 in loans to repair the deficit in reserve shown in the weekly clearing house statement.

Prospects of special dividend action continue to influence buying of many stocks, Otis Elevator jumping over five points to a record high on anticipation of a dividend this month.

Railroad Equipment and Sugar shares were bid up briskly on reports of unusually good trade conditions. Heavy accumulation of American Woollen also was construed as a turn for the better in the textile trade, which benefits from the present low price of cotton. International Harvester rallied from 145 to a new record high at 151 1-2 and similar recovery was registered by South Porto Rican Sugar. U.S. Cast Iron Pipe, United Drug, General Gas and Electric "B," Loose Wiles Common, and Second Preferred also were marked up four to six points, while Continental Baking 'A' dropped nearly 6 points.

BARREN LANDS FOR FOX FARMS

British Columbia Coast Will Produce Great Wealth.

CLIMATE GOOD.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—Barren islands off the northern British Columbia coast are being converted into wealth producers as the breeding grounds of foxes. Within the past few months several farms have been established at various islands, stocked with animals brought from fur farms in Alaska, and those promoting the various enterprises believe that this territory will soon be able to compete on even terms with any other pelt - producing district. Climatic and other conditions are said to be well suited for the early production of prime fur on these islands.

Five pair of blue fox, the first stock for the new farm established on the Kinahan Islands by Captain Alfred Swanson, have been turned loose during the past few days, and another batch of five pair will arrive from Alaska shortly. The Kinahan Islands farm is typical of a group of small fur farms that have recently been established and whose aggregate output is expected to be an important item soon in the province's commercial revenue.

AROUND THE CITY.

After the heavy snowfall and storm yesterday employees of the the Board of Works had to get out this morning and draw the snow off George Street, as many cars were being stuck in the drifts by the curbs.

Over the week-end the fire department received calls to five chimney fires. On Saturday there were calls at 11.35 to 132 Park Street north, and at 1138 to 308 Townsend Street. Yesterday they had calls to 612 Stewart Street at 12.59 p.m. and at 1.55 to 472 Stewart Street. While they were at this one, the chimney on the house next door caught fire.

What to Eat in December

Good nourishing food is required — food which will strengthen and build up tissue and energy. This is specially true of growing children.

Clark's Pork & Beans are so rich in calories and vitamins that they are one of the best foods for this purpose and should be served several times a week.

Pumps and Pumpers Are Considered By City Council

Aldermen Decide on Purchase of American LaFrance Combination Pumper For Fire Department—Permit Double Gasoline Pumps.

LONG SESSION LAST NIGHT TO WIND UP 1926 AFFAIRS

Pumps, run by gasoline, for use in the fire department, and pumps, run by man power, for use in selling gasoline, caused most of the discussion at the final regular meeting of the 1926 City Council last night. The discussion ended with a decision to buy an American-LaFrance pumper for the fire department at a cost of $15,400.00, and to allow the substitution of double pumps where single ones are now installed, provided a fee of fifty dollars be paid instead of the twenty-five charged for the single equipment.

Another item of interest transacted by the Council was the by-law authorizing an agreement for the paving of Rubidge street. This will be constructed next spring and the agreement contains a clause protecting the city in the event of a fall in price.

The Aldermen were in good humor last night, even though the meeting lasted until 11.40. They came to the council chamber from the Empress Hotel, where they had been guests of His Worship Mayor Holloway at the customary dinner to celebrate the final meeting of the year. His Worship's innovation in having the banquet precede the meeting instead of follow it was appreciated by all who were present.

During the discussion on the gasoline pump business the Aldermen yielded to the plea of Alderman Cotton that they should avoid making themselves look ridiculous. They had passed a motion allowing the substitution of the double pump drawing different varieties of gas from different tanks, and then were asked to vote on a motion ordering all gasoline pumps removed from the curbs within six months. This matter was hotly contested, every vote being taken by the "Yeas" and "Nays."

A feature of last night's meeting was the large gallery. Altogether there were eighteen people in the bleachers. Most of them were there in connection with some item of business and before the meeting was over only three were left. The suburban area commission, headed by Harry Gainey, presented a report on its work, Arthur Blade of the Imperial Oil Co. appeared to ask consideration of double pumps, sales men for a couple of pumper firms were present, and other citizens attended for various reasons.

The Pumper Debate.

The purchase of the pumper was the most important item. Alderman Turner, chairman of the special committee appointed to view the different types in operation and under construction, brought in a report, recommending the Godfredson-Bickle apparatus, while an amendment recommending the American LaFrance equipment was presented by Alderman Cotton, who was a member of the committee. Alderman Denne moved an amendment to the amendment that the matter be left until other factories had been visited and more information secured.

A clause contained in the original motion and in the amendment that provided for the successful tenderer agreeing to give a stated sum for the American-LaFrance apparatus now in the fire hall if it should be turned in on new apparatus to cost at least $6,500 was objected to by the Mayor on the grounds that it bound the company to half a second transaction. Alderman Phelan also objected, as he thought the apparatus could be used by the city, especially if a new sub fire station should be constructed.

Alderman Hancock asked if the present equipment could not be turned in on the deal in hand, and Alderman Turner replied that the Utilities Commission had agreed to buy the pumper, so that the Council would keep the combination apparatus now in use and have two, possibly trading in the older piece next year on a motor ladder truck.

Criticism of the committee's report was voiced by Alderman Greene. He said that the members

Prince Promotes Fight Dog. Vs. Rubber Kangaroo

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Associated Press).—The Prince of Wales, his favorite Cairn terrier, Cora, and a large inflated rubber kangaroo make quite a vaudeville team, as spectators discovered on a railway station platform while the Prince was waiting for a train.

Having purchased a kangaroo from a book stall, the Prince amused the spectators by holding a sparring exhibition between the kangaroo and dog.

MAYOR IS HOST TO CITY COUNCIL

TO WIND UP YEAR.

Mayor Holloway was host yesterday evening to the members of the City Council and a number of civic officials, at the annual dinner which marked the final session of the Council for the year. The gathering was held at the Empress Hotel, where a splendid meal was served, after which short speeches were made.

As senior member of the Council, Alderman Nagel Phelan moved a vote of thanks to His Worship for the invitation. He commended him on having it before instead of after the meeting, a decision which proved wise in view of the late hour at which adjournment was made. He congratulated the Mayor on the way in which he had handled the City's business in the past year and assured him that his opponent of last year at least, would not oppose him for the Mayoralty.

Speaking as one of the junior members of the Council, Alderman Charles Ackerman, in seconding the vote of thanks, also congratulated the Mayor on the fine manner in which he had conducted the business of the city and presided over the meetings. In his first year in the Council, said Mr. Ackerman, he had learned a great deal about the affairs of the City, especially about things which he had criticized before.

The Mayor said that credit for the smooth way in which the affairs of the City had been transacted belonged to the Aldermen, who had co-operated with him and made the year a most pleasant one. He announced his intention of seeking a second term and said he hope to see most of the Aldermen back with him next year.

Speaking on behalf of the City officials, City Solicitor Joseph Wearing expressed their thanks to the Mayor for the invitation, and congratulated him on his success in office.

There were present Aldermen Phelan, Fife, Turner, Meyers, Denne, Greene, Hancock, Cotton and Ackerman, City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, City Solicitor Joseph Wearing, City Assessor W. J. Henry, City Treasurer Frank Adams, City Engineer R. H. Parsons, Tax Collector W. J. Green, Chief of Police Samuel Newhall, and Fire Chief George Gimblett.

First Marriage Annulled Young Couple Again Elope

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. — Mary McClintic, 19, daughter of Rep. James V. McClintic, Dem., Oklahoma, and Richard W. Lieber, 23, organist at a Washington theatre, eloped for the second time yesterday. They left Washington shortly after 1 p.m., saying they were going to Baltimore to be married.

Four years ago Miss McClintic and Liebert eloped to Marlboro, Md., were married, and returned at once to the bride's home here. Rep. McClintic sent his daughter home to Oklahoma and the marriage was annulled. He told the young couple, they said yesterday, they could marry again if they wanted to when they became of age. Taking him at his word, they staged their second elopement — but they didn't bother to tell their families about it.

RAILWAY PLANS NOT ANNOUNCED

Expect They Will Be Made For Three Years in Advance.

H. B. R. A PROBLEM.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 7. — Canadian Press. — Branch line construction on the Canadian National Railways during the next three years, probably will be revealed when the Minister of Railways brings down his "little budget" next session. It is not known when the Minister will make his annual statement to parliament on National Railway problems nor is it indicated what his programme will be. But gossip has it that the practice of planning extensions of the National Railways three years in advance will be followed. This system was adopted three years ago.

No official statement has been issued on the subject. At this stage no official of the Department of Railways cares to discuss the matter but it is generally supposed that the programme will not be an extensive one. It can be always added to if immigration and business conditions in the next few years warrant it.

One of the most important problems in Government Railway administration is the Hudson Bay Railway. The government has repeatedly stated its intention of completing construction of the road, and all the major parties in the house have declared themselves in favor of it so long as the cost is not unreasonable.

Last years estimates, which probably will be voted when the House reassembles, provides for the construction work now under way. A further vote will be asked for or possibly a government bill will be brought in to provide for a programme which will take more than a year to complete.

Some work has been done this summer and during the winter materials are being hauled over the snow to complete the track laying from the end of steel to the seaboard. The possibility that the terminus may be changed from Port Nelson to Fort Churchill is not admitted, but it is significant that the government has engaged a prominent British port engineer to study the conditions at Port Nelson before any more money is spent on terminals at that port..

Some $6,000,000 has been spent on Port Nelson terminals. In any case the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway is the policy of the government.

Rideau Hall Guest List No Longer To Be Published

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—A new rule for large social functions at Government House has been established under the regime of Viscount and Viscountess Willingdon. Under previous Governors-General it was customary to issue lists of those invited to balls and other outstanding events at Rideau Hall, these lists sometimes running into hundreds of names, and constituting more or less a directory of the Capital's "four hundred." Social reporters now attend Rideau Hall functions on the distinct understanding that they will not compile lists of guests. In consequence of this new rule no list of those attending the ball in honor of H.R.H. Prince George on Saturday night was prepared.

TROUBLE CAUSED BY ANCHOR ICE AT POWER DAMS

Only Two Power Houses Running Last Thursday Morning.

SOME FLOODED.

All the power houses on the Central Ontario system have been experiencing considerable trouble from anchor and frazil ice during the past several days.

Last Thursday morning the Utilities Commission was forced to considerably curtail the power to the factories in the city. The usual morning load of 4,000 horse power had to be cut to 2,000 horse power. This condition, however, was remedied about 1 o'clock, after which full power was available.

At this time only two power houses on the system were running, the others being frozen up, and every morning since a large number have been in a similar condition.

A rather dangerous condition has also developed as a result of the enormous amount of frazil and anchor ice rushing down the river. Parts of the river are practically a solid mass of ice from surface to bottom, and it has dammed the stream so that the water is flooding several of the plants on the river bank.

Sunday, being a very dull day, with no sun and considerable wind and low temperature, large amounts of frazil ice were formed.

It is this ice that is causing the trouble, the situation being somewhat mitigated by the bright sun that shone during yesterday and today.

Since Thursday the water wheels at the Waterworks pump house have been frozen up part of every day, and the De Laval steam turbine pump has been called on to supply the city with water. On Thursday morning the pump ran for five hours, on Friday morning for two hours and Saturday morning for seven hours.

The water wheel driven pumps froze up on Saturday morning at five o'clock and did not thaw out until yesterday. During a record run of 26 hours all water used in the city was pumped by steam, and should a fire have taken place, water under sufficient pressure would have been available. Thus, once more has the judgment of the Commission in installing the steam auxiliary been upheld.

It may be significant that the present tie-up which established a record for this locality was almost approached in 1921, just after the Dominion election on December 6. Perhaps the sudden cessation of heated air which comes after a hard fought election has something to do with all these troubles.

INVALID LADY SAVED BY SON

BUILDING DESTROYED.

BEAVERTON, Dec. 7.—About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the brick farmhouse of William Nix, five miles east of Beaverton, was completely destroyed by fire. Mr. Nix carried his invalid mother, 83 years of age, from the burning house, partially suffocated by the smoke. She has been in bed the greater part of the time for months, and was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Montgomery, where she received medical attention, but is still in a semi-conscious and very critical condition.

The cause of the fire is supposed to have been a defective chimney. The value of the house was about $2,500; insurance, $500.

Motorists who visit Ireland as tourists will soon find direction signs at main road junctions printed in Irish and English.

You've Rights Enough Woman Warns Women

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (Associated Press).—Women's position—in some cases superior to man's—is about as advantageous and as high as it safely can be, Mrs. Frank Evans, attorney of Salt Lake City, Utah, told women delegates to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention here.

If women continue to demand further rights, they are liable to lose what they already have gained, Mrs. Evans declared.

"If we are not careful," she said, "men will rise to fight for the rights they have lost through our elevation. We should be careful not to go too far."

POULTRY SHOW OPENS TO-DAY WITH BIG ENTRY

More Than 1,000 Birds Entered in 19th Annual Exhibition.

COMPETITION KEEN.

This afternoon saw the opening of the nineteenth poultry show of the Peterborough Poultry Association in the Armouries. Over one thousand birds are entered, the biggest list in the history of the Association, since it started holding its shows in the Armouries. All classes are well filled, with a great many entries in the Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, White Leghorns, Buff Cochin Bantams, and the geese classes.

The drill hall of the Armouries is filled with rows of wire chicken pens and by noon today these were practically all filled. The officials are very optimistic about the show and they expect it to turn out the best ever.

Judging from the class of poultry that is on exhibit, the competition will be very keen. There are many birds present which were winners at the Toronto Royal last month. Exhibitors are there with birds from all over Central and Eastern Ontario.

Judging started this afternoon at 2.00 o'clock.

L. Hutchison, Warkworth, with turkeys and water fowl; R. H. Crosby, Markham, all varieties; R. Hope, Keene; Wilson of Campbellcroft; Descheune, Deseronto, with a fine exhibit of Barred Rocks; Dr. Hayden of Cobourg, with Buff Orpingtons; Mrs. Knox of Baltimore with Buff Orpingtons and Red Caps; M. J. Bowie of Agincourt with Rhode Island Reds and Bantams; G. Randall of Toronto with Dark Cornish. Local exhibitors are George Buller, Charles Sanderson, E. L. Bell, E. Kelk, W. Finnie, V. J. Tully, Charles Barton, Morgan Brown, with a large exhibit of all varieties; Harry Lush, all varieties; Bruce Law, large exhibit of White Wyandottes; R. Bendelow, and many others.

Little & Jones are there from Whitby with the Royal winners in the White Leghorn class. There is a very large class of geese entered, and more room had to be made for them.

OFFICERS INSTALLED FOR NASSAU LODGE

Last night at the regular meeting of the Nassau Lodge No. 457 the installation of officers for the coming year took place. The new officers were installed by Jonathan Brown, District Master of No. 1 district.

Brother J. J. Cunningham, Past County Master, addressed the meeting after the regular routine business had been disposed of. Arrangements were made to hold an old time basket social with card playing and dancing at the home of Robert Bolton, who lives one mile north of the hall on the River Road, Dummer side, on this coming Friday evening.

FISHING VESSELS DESTROYED IN ATLANTIC GALE

Worst North-easter of Recent Years Plays Havoc With Shipping.

NO LOSS OF LIFE.

Reported Thousands of Dollars Damage To Fishing Gear.

HALIFAX, N. S., December 7. — The rock-bound coast of Canada's North Atlantic seaboard was strewn yesterday with the wreckage of vessels unable to survive one of the worst north easters of recent years, which blew up late on Sunday afternoon, and at noon yesterday shows little signs of abating. The gale was accompanied by a heavy snowfall, sub-zero weather, and one of the heaviest tides on record. Six vessels in all had been reported as total wrecks up to an early hour yesterday afternoon, thousands of dollars damage had been occasioned fishing gear along the shore, and communications generally throughout Nova Scotia were in a state of dislocation. But so far as was known there had been no loss of life.

Vessels Wrecked.

The vessels wrecked were as follows:

The three masted schooner Southead in ballast from St. Pierre for Halifax, a total loss at the entrance to Herring Cove, Halifax County; the schooner W. S. Smith, lumber laden for New York, a total loss at Port Herbert, Queen's County; schooner Coreau, lumber-laden for New York, a total loss at Quody, Halifax County, fishing schooner, R. L. Mackenzie, ashore at Lockport, Shelburne County; unknown schooner, ashore at Gull Cove Grand Manan, N. B.; schooner Atlanta, laden with potatoes, a total loss at Low Point, Cape Breton.

In addition the ocean-going tug Ocean Osprey, which had gone on the rocks near Canso last week, broke in two during the gale and disappeared.

Rum Runner still Visible.

But the rum-running tug Western, which piled up on Budget Rock, near Northeast Harbor, Shelburne County, recently, and suffered the full force of the gale could still be seen during the lulls in the storm. And the gale which had proved so disastrous to six vessels was the salvation of the steamer Hindustan, ashore in Sydney Harbor, which taking advantage of the northeaster, worked herself off the rocks.

When the schooner Southead piled on the cliffs at the entrance to Herring Cope yesterday morning in the swirling snowstorm, and immediately began to go to pieces, Captain Stanley Shaw and his crew of six men, took the one desperate chance available in order to reach shore. Tying themselves to a rope at intervals of a couple of fathoms, Alpine fashion, they dropped one by one over the stern and were swept by the seas on to the rocks, to which they managed to cling and work to safety. Capt. Shaw and a seaman were severely injured in the operations.

Waded Ashore.

The captain of the schooner W. C. Smith managed to wade ashore at Port Herbert with two dories but it was an hour before they reached a shelter from the driving snowstorm.

Reports from St. John were that desperate efforts were being made to rescue the crew of the unknown schooner ashore at Grand Manan.

At Lockport the tug Lillie M. Hawkes, breaking from her anchorage rammed and sank a gasoline boat and the schooner Arcanian also ran amuck to the wharves, and poked her main boom through the cold storage plant before she was finally secured.

Canadians Are Sufferers From U.S. Radio Pirates

BRANTFORD, December 7. — Brantford radio station is the latest to suffer from United States wave-jumping and pirating.

WEAO, Ohio State University, Columbus, has moved its wave length up eight meters, killing reception of the Brantford station as near by as Simcoe, the two wave-lengths heterodyning. The local fans are aggrieved over a Buffalo broadcasting station, which causing annoyance to other Buffalo stations, jumped its own wave-length up until it is but half point from Toronto stations, despite the international agreement between Canada and the United States to get away from this very danger.

Turkey's Baton To Beat Only To Foreign Tunes

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 7. —Under her present rulers Turkey has gone "modern mad." The latest reform which Angora has instituted is the abolition of the Turkish music in the Constantinople Conservatoire. In future only foreign music will be taught there, preference being shown to German, Austrian, Italian and French composers.

This reform of course has not met with universal approval as some of the old Turkish folk songs are really tuneful, although it cannot be said that they possess any marked individuality or cadence.

In any case in Anatolia, where the peasants reign supreme, it is unlikely that the native music will die out as the villagers are fond of chanting their songs and anthems on their way to and from work, while of a summer evening they often gather in the marketplace and join in the chorus of some ancient ballad.

PREMIER KING ARRIVES TO-DAY

TO BE WELCOMED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Canada's delegation to the Imperial Conference, headed by Premier Mackenzie King, will arrive here to-day aboard the Majestic from Cherbourg and Southampton, which is expected to dock at about 11 o'clock in the morning. The Canadian official party aboard the liner includes, in addition to the Prime Minister, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice; Hon. Vincent Massey, recently appointed Canada's First Minister Plenipotentiary to Washington; Prof. O. D. Skelton, counsellor of the Department of External Affairs, and Dr. A. G. Doughty.

A delegation of Canadian and British officials will greet the party at the pier. St. John Betts, acting Canadian Government Trade Commissioner, in the absence of Frederic Hudd, who is at present in Western Canada; M. M. Mahoney, representative in Washington of the Canadian Department of External Affairs, and Sir Harry Armstrong, British Consul-General in New York, have expressed their intention of meeting the liner.

Captain J. E. Webber, executive secretary of the Canadian Club in New York, will also be present to extend the hospitality of the club to the distinguished Canadians during their brief stay here before proceeding to the Canadian capital.

The Prime Minister's special car arrived here yesterday morning. It will leave here at 8 o'clock to-night and will arrive in Ottawa at 11.40 on Wednesday morning.

GIVEN LIFE TERM.

John T. Rogers Sentenced For Fourth Offence Against Arms Law.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—John J. (Bumpy) Rodgers, notorious criminal and escaped convict, who was captured as he slept on Thanksgiving Day, to-day was sentenced to life imprisonment in Sing Sing Prison. He had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging violation of the Sullivan law (illegal possession of firearms. As a fourth offender, the sentence was mandatory under the new Baumes law.

RAIL SHOPMEN WILL PRESENT WAGE DEMANDS

To Proceed With Negotiations Commenced Early in the Spring.

AFFECTS 30,000.

Forty-five Grades Will Be Involved in These Negotiations

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—Following wage concessions to the conductors and trainmen which averted a strike of these classes on Canadian lines, the railway companies are confronted with the necessity of dealing with other wage demands, long-standing, which also press for settlement.

Important among these is a demand for wage increases by 20,000 rail shopmen who as far back as the early spring put forward requests for an increase, and with whom the railways have carried on intermittent negotiations throughout the summer.

"Our division have in mind proceeding with the negotiations commenced early in the spring for a general wage increase in accordance with the prevailing rates for similar grades in the United States," R. J. Tallon, president of division four, railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor, which represents all shop crafts in Canada, said yesterday. He pointed out as one of the anomalies now existing in shopmen's pay that rail shopmen on United States lines which enter Canada, such as at St. Thomas, Windsor, Wabash and Niagara Falls, receive six cents more per hour than do rail shopmen on Canadian lines.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Rail road Employees, comprising some 18,000 men, sent in a request for an increase of wages to the companies on August 2, and they look to the opening of wage negotiations early in the New Year. Forty-five grades will be involved in these negotiations, including freight handlers, roundhouse men, office staffs in the freight department, employees in motive power and car department, general office clerks and ferry boat crews between Mulgrave and Point Tupper, N.S.

THE WEATHER.

The temperature this mornisg was down to 12 degrees below zero. The air was perfectly calm, the smoke from numerous chimneys rising vertically to a great heighth, and a hoary grime being attached to all objects—a sure token that a change was due. Milder conditions are now coming. —W. P.

UPBOUND FLEET FREED FROM ICE

Every Vessel Moving Towards Soo at Eleven This Morning.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—The entire up-bound fleet of coal carriers, trapped in the ice here since Dec. 1, was moving at 11 o'clock this morning, the United States coastguard announced.

The movement began when two vessels started under their own power in wake of tugs. The remainder of the upbound fleet immediately went into motion behind the lead vessels.

As the movement in the upbound channel began, the giant railroad ferry Sainte Marie went again at the task of ramming and hauling the steamer Coulee from its position at the head of the line up of ice trapped downbound grain carriers. The car ferry was attempting to snake out the Coulee and General Garrison, which lie crosswise in the downbound channel. Should the ferry be able to get the two vessels out and then follow her plan of breaking a passage to Hay Lake there is a possibility the whole downbound fleet, which stretches for miles in a panorama of smoke and steel, may be set in motion.

Temperature Rise Helps

A marked rise in temperature contributed to the success of the rescue work today. Yesterday saw the release of ten of the captive upbound freighters. The Government tug Sabin smashed a narrow lane through the 30-foot anchor ice in East Neebish Channel and soon the first of the trapped ships was moving. With whistles rumbling every moment the steel hulks felt their way up river. Some tied up for coal and fuel, joining the fleet of twenty-two moored temporarily at the local docks, while the remainder proceeded to Lake Superior where more difficulties await them in the vicinity of Round Island.

Downbound Ship Released

The steamer Coulee, heading the long line of downbound grain carriers trapped in the ice-choked channels here, was released at noon today. Tugs and the car ferry Sainte Marie now are working on the steamer General Garrison, next in line, with indications the blockade will be broken today.

HAPPY FAMILIES CROSSING SEAS FOR CHRISTMAS

FOR MANY LANDS.

Some Have Not Been in Europe For Many Years.

KENORA, Ont., Dec. 7.—There is no need for red ribbons and holly berries on the Canadian Pacific Christmas special consisting of 14 cars which left Winnipeg on Saturday and will pull alongside S.S. Montroyal at West St. John, N.B., on Tuesday morning. The faces of 75 little children on board going to see what kind of reindeer the English Santa Claus uses are decorations enough.

The passengers who have come from all over the west number 350 people.

The men and women having come to Canada, ten, fifteen and twenty years ago to settle on farms and who are now making their first trip home. One little woman from Manitoba has been saving her egg money for eight years to be able to take her two little children home to see the old folks at Christmas.

Miss Emily May Middleton, age five months is the most interesting passenger. Fourteen years ago a young girl left Ashton-on-the-Tyne near where Lord Beaverbrook lives to marry an architect whose health compelled him to come to Alberta and take up farming. They located on a bit of land at Blue Sky in the Peace River country 300 miles north of Edmonton. They now own and operate a quarter section on the banks of the Burnt River have a fine log bungalow with all modern conveniences and are now taking their first born wee Emily home for three months.

Carrying $700 worth of transportation Mr. and Mrs. J. Jensen of Tofield, Alta., are leading a party of five Norwegians to Oslo. The Jensens immigrated to the United States 35 years ago but seven years later moved to Tofield where they established a Norse colony. With them is Mrs. Hagen a widow of 71 years who has not seen her native land for 40 years and Mrs. Brecken who left home 25 years ago. Hans Larsen goes to find a bright haired Helga to grace his home—none too soon hints Mrs. Jensen since he has lived 19 years in Canada and is still a bachelor.

Perhaps the most picturesque norizon on the Christmas special is Peggie Hann, cow girl. Seven years ago she came to Canada as a soldier's bride and settled on a ranch in Alberta. The fortunes waned and she went on a ranch later going to a chicken farm in Southern Alberta until the quota law caught her, when she moved to Vancouver Island and got work on a dairy farm. Now clad in the regalia of a cow girl only minus chaps and spurs she is starting for her old home in Derbyshire.

Next to meeting Santa the children are anxious to see Prince George who is also sailing on the Montroyal.

One and all are glad to be going home, but they are anxious to let everyone know that they are coming back to Canada.

SALES AND BAZAARS

FESTIVAL OF THE SEASONS.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 7.— The town hall was probably never more tastefully arranged than for the "Festival of the Seasons", held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the United church, on Friday afternoon and evening, the twelve months of the year being represented by the various booths.

Much work was entailed in carrying out details of the scheme, but so succesfully was it all accomplished that expressions of admiration were continually heard as prospective purchasers came through the entrance doors the evergreen trees set round at intervals, the pink and green shades on the lights and the music supplied by a victrola in the gallery, adding to the attractiveness and enjoyment of the occasion.

Fur-clad figures, fur robes covering the counter where children's wear was exhibited, snow shoes, red draping sprinkled with 'snow' and a "Happy New Year" sign proclaimed the "January" booth, Mrs. F. H. Howard and Mrs. F. W. Smith being in charge.

"February" was the home of the candy for sale, the containers being dainty baskets, and boxes of varying size, red hearts on a white ground giving appropriate expression to Saint Valentine's Day—the outstanding one of the month. Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Mrs. Ross Edmunds and Miss May Byam were the "salesladies."

There was no mistaking which month was represented by the green shamrocks, the big green hat and "Paddy" might be well proud to wear, the pot of the growing plant, and the green candles in brass holders, decorating the booth where aprons found a brisk sale, Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, and Mrs. H. A. Fallis giving ready attention to the customers.

"April' naturally suggests Easter and for this booth the color scheme was gold and white, with growing plants, Easter lillies, and dozens of yellow balloons fastened on its standards as features of its decorations. This was the "linen stall", Mrs. P. Stinson and Miss S. Hetherington being behind the counter.

A tall May-Pole, with many colored streamers fittingly represented the next month occupying the centre of the floor space. Handkerchiefs, pinned to the streamers, were for sale in this section, Miss M. Duncan, Mrs. G. Raper and Mrs. G. Freelove disposing of the wares.

The girlish-looking bride, with conventional white dress, veil and orange blossoms, proclaimed the "June" booth, where an abundant supply of dainty fancy work found ready purchasers. This as one of the prettiest booths at the "Festival", its lattice work of shell pink, and branches full of pink blossoms, readily bringing to mind the first of the summer months. Mrs. G. Locke Mrs. W. E. Ball, and Mrs. J. McKnight were in charge here.

A big sign, "Dominion Day," its standards wound with red, white and blue, plenty of flags and streamers in the three colors, gave the "July" booth a patriotic atmosphere, its counter laden with tempting homemade baking adding to its general attractiveness. Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. J. L. Byam, Mrs. H. A. Earle, and Mrs. Arthur Fallis sold the goods.

A crowd of happy children was nearly all the time in the vicinity of the "August" section, digging in the sandpile for the hidden parcels never failing in its lure until the stock was exhausted. Mrs. William West supervised the kiddies' activities with the shovels in the four compartments of the daintly-covered, big box.

The 'Country store" took in three months; lighted, pumpkin-head lanterns, runners with black cats, witches, etc. easily pointed to October; the "Harvest Home" appearance of the apples, fruits, and vegetables in the blue and white trimmed department, spelled September and the Christmas tree, "Santa" cut-outs, red and green roping, intermingled with silver, left no doubt as to the December quarters. Mrs. E. Armstrong, Mrs. O. Williamson, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mrs. F. P. Johnson, Mrs. David Lunn, Mrs. Allie Fallis, and Mrs. Will Armstrong were the "clerks" in the "Store."

The cosy tea room on the stage, with fire-place and mantel and with orange and black predominating in its decorations, filled "November's" place. Mrs. W. Fred Fallis, Mrs. A. J. Henderson, and Mrs. Weston served afternoon tea on Friday and again at the supper hour on Saturday evening.

Mrs. G. W. Sayles was the convenor in charge of the hot supper served on Saturday, beginning at 5.30 p.m. and continuing for more than two hours before all comers had been catered to. Quite a number of the business men were among those who patronized this feature of the bazaar. Members of the C.G.I.T. group acted as waitresses.

Miss M. E. Needham, President of the Aid, had a general oversight of the sale, and acted as hostess, as far as was possible, to the incoming purchasers, and the guests during the team hour.

The "Festival" idea was used for the first time locally and proved a decided success. Over $270.00 was realized by Saturday evening, with more money still to come in. The proceeds go to make final payments on the extensive improvements made in the church auditorium last spring, the financial responsibility being assumed by the Ladies' Aid. The total amount involved was over $1,300.00.

Hon. Simon F. Tolmie member-elect of the House of Commons for Victoria City, who is the provincial Conservative choice for permanent leader of the party in British Columbia.

DRIVERS LIABLE FOR ANY INJURY

Men Who Give Lifts in Cars May Face Damage Suits.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 7. (Canadian Press).—Motorists should not encourage the practice of giving "lifts" to children unless they are prepared to bear the full burden of responsibility in case of accident, according to legal experts of the Automobile Association of British Columbia.

"There has been an increasing tendency on the part of children to ask for rides from motorists and now is the time to bring this practice to an end," reads a statement issued by the association.

"It must be remembered," the statement adds, "that if an accident is partially caused by the negligence of a third party, this does not in any way excuse the driver. Motorists who give children "lifts" are liable for any injury that they may sustain by reason of negligence. The fact that they are passengers for hire makes little difference as to his responsibility."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited,

MILLBROOK NEWS

MILLBROOK, Dec. 7.—Miss Shirley Muir, principal of the Continuation school who has been at her home in Toronto for the past two weeks owing to illness resumed the duties of her position on Monday morning. Miss O'Connor of Peterboro, supplied as principal during Miss Muir's enforced absence. The students from the Normal school, Peterboro, resumed their periods of practice teaching on Monday; these being discontinued while Miss Muir was away.

Mrs. William Gray recently spent a few days visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Yake, and baby boy, have reurned to Millbrook to reside, Mr. Yake resuming his former partnership with Mr. W. Thorne in the local meat market. Mr. Yake's store at Brighton was recently destroyed by fire. Mr. and Mrs. Yake will live in the house beonging to Mr. James Francey, taking possession as soon as the present tenant, Mr. Russell Smith, can find another residence; vacant houses are scarce in the village. Mrs. Francey is returning with her daughter, Mrs. Yake, and her many friends will welcome her back again to her home town.

Mrs. H. Nattrass has returned home from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Russell Howe, Toronto. The latter's many friends will regret to learn that she is still seriously ill.

PUMPS AND PUMPERS ARE CONSIDERED

had been appointed to visit different places to investigate. Some had gone; others had not; sometimes one had gone alone; at others two or three had been in the party. It was hard for the rest to come to a satisfactory conclusion when the committee members were more or less at loggerheads.

Committee Delayed.

The chairman reolied that there had been delays. Various events, private or business, had kept members from going. The Mayor had got information in Toronto; Alderman Cotton, Chief Gimblett, and R. L. Dobbin of the Utilities Commission had visited Toronto, Hamilton, and Woodstock. Mr. Dobbin had also gone to Walkerville while he himself had visited Toronto only yesterday.

Alderman Cotton reported that he was recommending the American-LaFrance because he had found that it gave perfect satisfaction to all cities where it was in use. There were many of them in Canada and it was an old company, while the Gotfredson-Bickle people had none in service, being a new company.

Mr. Dobbin said that he hadn't seen the inside of the American-LaFrance pumper. He had seen parts of the Gotfredson apparatus going through and they appeared well made. On what he saw he said he would recommend the Gotfredson although if he had seen the others being made he might have a different opinion.

Chief Gimblett said he had favored the Ahrens-Fox pumper before the trip and he had seen no reason to change his mind. When the committee had decided that the rotary-geared pump was the proper kind he had decided on the Gotfredson because it was more than half made in Canada.

The similarity of the two machines was pointed out by the chairman of the committee. He said the only advantage in buying the Gotfredson was that a larger portion of it was made in Canada. This contention was later spiked by the mayor's recital of the various parts which were made across the line and his statement that 90 per cent of the Gotfredson stock was held in the United States.

Alderman Denne seized upon Mr. Dobbin's statement that he might have reported differently if he had seen more, and moved that the matter be laid over until a small committee could see the LaFrance plant. Alderman MacDonald objected saying that too much time had been spent already. He charged that the purchase of anything that was bought was allowed to drag along. The Gotfredson was nearly $2,000 cheaper and there was no reason why it should not be bought. Alderman Ackerman supported Alderman Denne's motion, saying that it would be fair to both firms. Alderman Meyers gave his support to the immediate purchase of the American-LaFrance truck.

Mayor Holloway said that the committee had not gone as far as was originally planned because of the expense. He told of his own investigation, which favored the American-LaFrance outfit. In Philadelphia there were 52 in use and they had never been opened up for repairs.

Throwing A Monkey Wrench.

The amendment to the amendment was characterized by Alderman Fife as useless. If they were not careful they would throw a monkey wrench into the machinery and the Utilities would refuse to buy any pumper. The difference in price must be due to difference in quality and he felt the aldermen should be able to say they had bought the best possible. The citizens were really paying for it and would expect the best.

When the vote was taken Alderman Denne's amendment was supported only by himself and his seconder, Alderman Ackerman. The amendment, to buy the American-LaFrance combination pumper, at a price of $15,400, was supported by Alderman Ackerman, Denne Meyers, Hancock, Cotton, Phelan, and Fife.

Gasoline Pumps.

Discussion almost as full took place regarding the substitution of double pumps for single ones. Arthur Blade of the Imperial Oil Company attended the meeting and asked that this be considered. He said Mr. Parsons had objected to them because he regarded them as two pumps and an extra tank. Alderman Hancock also questioned the right of the city to rent part of the street for business purposes, expressing the belief that the city would be liable for any damage resulting. The time was opportune for ordering them removed and the citzens wanted them taken off to clean up the streets.

Aldermen Phelan and Fife moved that a double fee be charged for the double pumps although they occupied only the same amount of sidewalk space. Aldermen Greene and MacDonald moved that no action be taken but that when any pump were removed to close a business, no other should be allowed in its place. Some confusion was caused when Alderman Hancock added a resolution favoring an order for the removal of all pumps from the street within six months.

The first vote taken was on Alderman Phelan's motion favoring a double fee for any of these pumps. This as supported by Aldermen Phelan, Cotton, Turner, Fife, Meyers, and Denne, while the Mayor and Aldermen Hancock, Ackerman, MacDonald, and Greene opposed it when the yeas and nays were called. Alderman Greene's motion urging that no new pump be permited after one had been definitely removed was also carried.

Alderman MacDonald pointed out the hazard of the pumps on the streets and seconded the motion for their removal. The revenue obtained was mentioned by Alderman Fife, who also urged that the council would look ridiculous in passing a motion ordering the pumps off the streets just after permitting the substitution of double pumps. It would not be good business, he said, although he was personally in favor of having them all removed.

At this juncture, the time limit of eleven o'clock having been nearly reached. Alderman Turner moved that it be extended two hours, giving, as he said, a chance for them all to discuss the matter.

Alderman Ackerman said that those who voted in favor of changin the double fee had not given proper consideration. They were all in favor of the removal of the pumps and would have to start sometime.

Alderman Cotton recalled that a number of garage owners had no room on their property to erect pumps and the order for removal would be a bardship on them. It would be ridiculous to pass the order. Alderman Meyers said there would be nothing ridiculous. They would tell the people they could erect the double pumps if they liked but would have to remove them within six months.

Alderman Turner prophesied that the service stations would drive out many of the single pumps soon, and Alderman Phelan said that there were districts which would be left without gasoline service. When the vote was taken Alderman Denne called for the yeas and nays. Those favoring immediate removal were Alderman Hancock, MacDonald, Ackerman, and Greene, while Aldermen Phelan, Cotton, Turner Fife, Meyers and Denne, opposed it. Mayor Holloway would not vote.

Paving By-Law Passed.

The by-law giving the contract for paving Rubidge street to the Warrenite Bitumious Paving Company was opposed by Alderman MacDonald. He said that prices had be obtained and then no action had been taken, but now a by-law was being rushed through at the last minute. He charged that the prices had never been discussed in council, which Alderman Fife denied. It was decided then that the prices had been read and tabulated, but that no discussion had ensued. Alderman Phelan recalled that when the matetr had been discussed before Alderman MacDonald and Hancock had favored the use of amiesite, but their motion had been defeated. The by-law carried, Alderman MacDonald dissenting.

An application from Peck, Kerr, and McElderry, acting for Fred Atter, asking that the order of the Fire Marshall ordering his building demolished be not enforced, was received. It was stated by the City Solicitor and the Fire Chief that the Council could not set aside the order, which had been confirmed by the county judge.

O. Dela Plante appeared on behalf of Mr. Kearns, asking the Council to straighten out a difference which arose between Mr. Kearns and the Tax Collector over two houses. He will confer with Alderman Phelan.

Mr. Miller's Sucecssor.

Plumbing Inspector A. G. Metheral will take over the duties of Relief Officer on January 1, succeeding Finch W. Miller who is retiring. It was felt by the aldermen that most of Mr. Metheral's present duties come in the summer, while the Relief Officer is busiest in winter. Mr. Metheral will get an increase of $100 in salary, the City thus saving $800. Alderman Fife opposed the procedure, saying that it would seem as if neither of them had been doing enough work. He said that if this could reasonably be done there must be other offices which could be combined, and Alderman Denne concurred in this, saying there was too much overhead.

The usual grants for Christmas cheer at St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Shelter were passed. A resolution urging the appointment of a Peterborough man to one of the vacancies in the Senate of Canada was also passed.

Regret at the resignation of Mr. Miller after thirty years faithful service was expressed in a resolution, while one of condolence and regret at the passing of ex-Mayor Harry Rush was also recorded.

Seek Better Rate.

Alderman Phelan, as Chairman of the Finance Committee, and the Mayor will interview the Bank of Montreal officials in another attempt to get a better rate of interest for the City. If not successful it is proposed that they consider changing the account.

The request of the firemen that they be paid every other Friday instead of twice a month was granted.

Alderman Greene will look into the matter of having proper skating accomodation for the children in the west end of the city. It was felt that no interference could be made with the street car service to protect children sleighriding on Sherbrooke street.

The engineer was instructed to require the Canadian National Railways to comply with the fire by-laws in re-erecting a shed on their property. This was taken down when the grain warehouse as being moved and no permit for its re-erection was taken out. The aldermen were somewhat displeased by the action of the company in going ahead with the work without applying for a permit.

A resolution of appreciation of the efforts of the Dominion department and its local representative, Frank Sherwood, in locating and eliminating radio interference, was passed.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

It was just before two o'clock when the telephone called Faith from her task of preparing an egg-nog for her mother.

"It's me, Faith!" Cherry's excitement-thrilled voice came over the wire. "I've just picked out the most gorgeous wall paper you ever saw! At Park and Sons'. They're going to send it out special this afternoon—"

"At Park's!" Faith echoed, dismayed. "Why, Cherry, how in the world could you afford to buy even one roll there? They're the swankest place in town—"

"Hold your horses!" Cherry laughed. "I had lunch with Mr. Cluny and when I told him I had to go shopping for wallpaper, he insisted on coming along, and he had it charged to him. Isn't he a ducky darling? He's standing right here by me now, looking as pleased as Punch with himself."

"Why not?" Cherry asked pertly. "Don't grouch, darling. Won't we have a peach of a time sloshing paste about? They're sending enough cheesecloth, too. I though we ought to rip off all those layers of old paper and do the job up right. Don't you think so?"

"I suppose so," Faith said helplessly. "I'll do all I can this afternoon, but I promised Aunt Hattie I'd help her with her black and white voile. She's to be here at two. Oh! Here she is now. Good-bye."

Faith felt as if her feet were weighted with lead, as if her heart had turned to stone in her breast, as she walked slowly into the dining room, where her aunt's voice was raised in staccato greeting of her sister-in-law. Where was Cherry's headstrong determination to marry a rich old man leading her and the whole Lane family?

Any fool could prophesy that she would not content herself with the love of an old man, no matter how rich he was. What were they all thinking of to allow her to do it? Faith stood in the doorway for a minute, her somber brown eyes fixed upon her mother, seated at the window, her complaining, sighing voice droning on monotonously of her ailments. The girl felt, for a moment, that she hated her mother—the woman who for years had done nothing for her family but rule them with the tyranny of tears and the threat of death by heart failure. Then pity for her mother rose up in her throat, and she was ashamed. After all, who could blame her mother for loving Cherry with an idolatrous worship? Wasn't Cherry the spice of her dull, discontented, sickness-ridden life?

"Hello, Faith! Pity you can't speak to a body!" Aunt Hattie deposited her packages with a bang upon the dining table. "What's this I hear about you giving that nice Pruitt fellow the gate?"

"I don't know, Aunt Hattie." Faith smiled affectionately at her aunt. "What do you hear?"

"Joy told the kids at school and that little Cuttle boy told me that he'd proposed and you'd turned him down. Well, what I say is, there ain't no fool like a young fool. Guess you're waitin' for a Rockefeller. Turned him over to Cherry, I reckon. Just like you! Hear she's sportin' a diamond big enough to choke a pig."

Faith made frantic gestures to silence her aunt, frowning toward her mother to indicate that she had yet not been told of Cherry's engagement.

"Don't believe all you hear, Hattie." Mrs. Lane shook her head dolefully. "If Cherry'd been engaged to anybody, she'd a-told her own mother, I reckon."

"Of course she would, Mother." Faith breathed a quick sigh of relief. "She's just telephoned me that she's sending out some wallpaper for the living room and dining room. Do you know how to make wallpaper paste, Aunt Hattie?"

"Think I was born yesterday?" Aunt Hattie sniffed disdainfully. "I'll mix the stuff and get it on to boil, while you peel them walls. But it looks to me like this brown oatmeal's good enough for anybody."

Her head bound in a towel, her dress almost hidden under a soiled old bungalow apron, Faith was slashing at the living room walls with a paring knife when the doorbell rang. Without descending from the stepladder she shouted a "come in!" expecting to see the delivery man from Park and Sons' Interior Decorating Company.

"Good heavens, George! This is a fine time of day to make a call!" Faith flushed with annoyance and embarrassment. "We're papering—or getting ready to."

"I'm the best little paper hanger in twelve counties," George Pruitt grinned at her. "I papered my studio in New York, and it was the talk of the town—absolutely! The cubists used to gather there and wrangle over the motifs. Where's an apron? You look adorable, darling—positively edible, dust and all."

He helped her descend the ladder, then, without warning, flung his arms about her and held her hard and fast against the breast. "Faith, honey—oh, Faith!"

Because she was so grateful for the tiny flicker of a thrill that quivered along her nerves—a— ghost of a thrill that somehow made her decision to accept him seem a little less wrong—Faith laid an arm around his neck and did not flinch when he tilted her face to his.

"Faith, there ain't half enough flour—oh, ex-cuse me! Good Lord! Don't break the clinch jest because I butted in!" Aunt Hattie chuckled wickedly. "Well, young man, for a rejected suitor, I must say you're lookin' pretty chipper! Person-ly, I like a chap that won't take no for an answer."

Faith withdrew herself from George's arms with a slight, embarrassed laugh, then turned her face away from Aunt Hattie's. For Faith knew that there was no glory of love in her own eyes.

"I haven't said 'yes' yet, Aunt Hattie. George'll run over to the store and get some flour, won't you, George? Oh, that must be the wallpaper man! You go to the door, Aunt Hattie. I look a sight." To herself, she was praying a frantic little prayer: "Oh, Lord, I can't, I can't! Show me some other way to help Cherry, dear Jesus! I can't, I can't!"

Young People Hold Regular Meeting—Instructive Topic.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 6. — The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Young People's Society was held in the Sunday school room on Monday evening. There was quite a large gathering and the meeting was interesting.

The business matters were brief some being left over for the executive meeting at the close of the regular meeting. The roll call showed that the "Blues" are quite ahead of the "Reds" in the contest. Miss Jean Anderson rendered a piano solo which all enjoyed.

The topic was very instructive, and given by Miss Buchanan, one of the senior members. It was based on "The Burning Bush," and its significance as an emblem of the Presbyterian church, burning but not consumed. Many good points were illustrated in the topic. The hymn, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life," and the repetition of the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

...DEFENDER OF CIVIL LIBERTY... STRENGTHENER OF LOYALTY ... PILLAR AND STAY OF DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

Chief Gimblett's warning against the use of gasoline in private houses should be noted by citizens generally.

The temptation to use this dangerous explosive for cleansing purposes is often yielded to by housewives, and the fact that they "get away with it" for a while causes the risk involved to be ignored.

It should be remembered that there is an ever? present danger of an explosion, and fire, and fatal accidents have been a frequent aftermath of taking a chance with gasoline in the home.

This practice nearly caused a bad fire here yesterday, and the Fire Chief is once more sounding a strict warning calling attention to the dangerous nature of gasoline.

Safety first is a good slogan for housewives, as well as for the general public.

TAXATION AND PRODUCTION.

Just how serious is the handicap of heavy taxation is shown by a bulletin by the Citizens' Research Institute, which shows that in this country in 1924 taxation consumed 18.6 per cent. of the annual net production of Canada.

The net production of all Canadian industries, including farming, fishing, lumbering, mining, etc., in 1924 amounted to a total of $3,013,182,081, while the total taxes levied by all governmental authorities—Dominion, Provincial and municipal—in the same period amounted to $560,464,540.

Taxes, unless confiscatory, must come out of annual income or net production.

The smaller the amount taken in taxation the greater the amount left for the taxpayers' own use, and the greater the amount that is likely to be added to the productive capital of the country.

And, of course, the amount of capital available for productive enterprises has a direct bearing upon the prosperity of a young country with large resources.

It is evident, therefore, that the greatest service Canadian governmental authorities—Federal, Provincial and municipal—could render to the nation would be to so regulate expenditures so as to bring about an ever-decreasing ratio between taxation and production.

HOW MANY HERMAN TRELLES?

The fact that Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Peace River district, is the champion international wheat and oat grower is not only a wonderful advertisement for the Peace River country and for Canada generally, but it should also be a sharp reminder to many Canadian farmers that they are failing to take advantage of Government efforts on their behalf.

Trelle's unique record—he is the first individual to ever win both the wheat growing and the oat growing championship of the world—can be traced to one factor; he has been a close student of all the farm information issued by the Government.

Ten years ago when he took up land he knew nothing of farming.

How many farmers of this district are making use of the information that produced a wheat-growing crack out of a man who did not even understand the rudiments of farming ten years ago?

Agricultural departments are maintained at very heavy expense, the burden of which falls upon the urban resident even more heavily than upon rural dwellers, for the purpose of keeping Canada's farmers alive to the latest developments in agriculture.

And yet it is to be feared there are not as many Herman Trelles in the country as there should be.

SPLENDID SPIRIT SHOWN.

Canada breathed easier when it was announced the other day that the danger of a general railway strike had been averted.

A tie-up of Canada's transportation system, especially at this season of the year, would have been fraught with very serious consequences, and the successful termination of the negotiations is a matter for general rejoicing.

The representatives of the railway employees in agreeing to accept a compromise and refusing to resort to force to try to secure all they were asking for deserve great credit.

While they had to yield on some points, they have gained the respect and good-will of the public, something that in the final analysis will amount to much more than the demands they sacrificed.

The statement of the employees' representatives is worthy of note, especially the following section:

> "They (the men) are, however, not unmindful of the calamity and suffering that would have been occasioned if a strike went into effect, and out of consideration for the public in general, they agreed to the compromise rather than cause a dislocation in transportation services and the serious consequences which would inevitably follow a strike at this time."

If all labour difficulties were tackled in the same spirit as this the economic waste caused by industrial disputes would be very materially reduced.

FLOW OF CAPITAL.

It came, no doubt, as a surprise to Canadian followers of finance, to learn from an estimate published in The Financial Post last week, that the people of this country have invested some $700,000,000 in enterprises in other countries. That this young and growing country, imploring men and money from abroad to find opportunity here, should at the same time be spreading its own accumulated savings throughout the corners of the continents, suggests an anomaly not easily to be explained. Of course, Canadian investments in other countries are small in comparison with the investments of other countries in Canada; about $700,000,000 as against $5,800,000,000, but they are large enough to set the average Canada to pondering.

Some of this Canadian capital has gone abroad because its owners felt that opportunities in other nations presented more attractions than in Canada, just as many of our sons have found the road to the United States the short road to prosperity. Some of it has undoubtedly been frightened away by our heavy taxation. Much of it has gone as the result of the expansive ideas of a few of our leading financiers and bankers, who have learned to do certain things better than any one else was doing them and have found it profitable to take South America, the West Indies, or some other area into their sphere of work in addition of their home field of Canada. And, lastly, much of this capital has been sent abroad by Canadians, who have learned the art of diversification in their investments and have thought it wise to make that diversification geographical and national as well as financial.

Canada has little to fear from having mortgaged its $25,000,000 of national assets to the extent of the $5,000,000,000 owned by citizens abroad. It has less cause to congratulate itself on the $700,000,000 it has sent abroad. Looking ahead, though, there can be seen two tendencies likely to develop. One will be "profit taking" in our foreign investments, the money coming back to Canada to take advantage of the larger opportunities here. The other will be the continued investment of increasing amounts of both British and American capital here.—Financial Post.

OUR NEIGHBORS' VIEW.

"The outcome of the election in Ontario is a cruel reminder of how much liberty we have lost in the United States," says The New York World.

"There are about three million people in the Province of Ontario, English-speaking like ourselves, belonging in general to the same religious and political tradition, living under much the same social circumstances. They voted in 1919, as we did, to try Prohibition. They voted the day before yesterday, as we in New York, Illinois, Wisconsin did a month ago, to modify Prohibition.

"But their will prevails, and our will does not. Their vote means a change in the law. Our vote is dismissed by the tyrannical organization which governs us as a fake, as treason, as disloyalty. The will of a majority among 3,000,000 inhabitants is law in Canada. The will of a majority among 10,000,000 people in New York gets as much respect as if it were a protest from a conquered and inferior race.

"What a contrast! In January, when the Legislature meets, the law will again be changed to conform to this new expression of the popular will.

"That is democracy. That is self-government. Here in concrete form is the liberty Americans have boasted about for a century and a quarter. Today they have lost it. They have got themselves into a fix where a majority in New York, where a majority in twenty States, where a majority in thirty-five States is powerless to repeal the law.

"The people of Canada have tried Prohibition. But they have preserved intact through it all, as we have not, the sovereign right of a free people to change its mind."

The New York Times says:

"Premier Ferguson must be surprised by the size of the majority which has endorsed Government control.

"Mr. Ferguson is a clever reader of public opinion. He made his preparations astutely. By a long-delayed re-distribution of seats he gave the cities a more adequate and juster representation. Nine sure dry seats were abolished. In October he risked the fate of his Government on the policy of Government monopoly of the liquor business.

"Reduction of taxes, lowering of the income tax exemption, were also on his program. In 1925 he said that he would countenance no more referendums. It may be urged with some truth that he owes part of his victory to his sagacity in making the main issue a party issue, appealing to Conservative habit and discipline. His success in a number of dry ridings may so be accounted for.

"The last great fortress of Canadian prohibition has surrendered. Will tolerant medical prescriptions and cheap sea-borne rum continue to content the Maritime Provinces? Are they likely to keep on waving away revenue for the sake of a theoretical prohibition?

"To Americans seeking some practicable way of settling their 'liquor problem,' made visibly worse since 1920, the almost continent-wide sweep of Government control in Canada is a strong reason for encouragement and hope. But the Canadians are more fortunate than their neighbors. Alberta doesn't have to depend upon the wisdom of Parliament assembled at Ottawa to decide whether she may legally have a drink."

The New York Herald-Tribune says:

"The outcome of the election is so frank a statement of general opinion that no doubt can be left in any one's mind.

"Canada is furnishing us with a series of valuable lessons. The various Provinces are remedying the conditions created during the war period. They are not satisfied to let matters drift, closing their eyes to the evils about them. Experience is the best of teachers. Our neighbors across the border are practical people with strength enough to admit error and correct wrong. We are moving steadily in the right direction, but sometimes our pace is surprisingly slow for a people who enjoy the reputation of making quick decisions."

The New York Sun's comment:

"In each Province the wets have won by the argument that Government control of liquor was more productive of temperance than a prohibition law which encouraged bootlegging and the issue of fake medical prescriptions."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It looks as if the usual crop of mild winter stories has been already nipped in the bud.

A reduction in license fees of $5 per car is the Ontario Government's Christmas present to the 340,000 owners of pleasure cars in the Province.

Rumour has it that His Honour Col. Cockshutt is to go from Government House to Government control.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the municipality.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—The week-end storm did not prevent a moderately heavy run of cattle for the opening market yesterday morning. Nearly 6,000 cattle came through, and about the same number of sheep and lambs. There was a light run of calves, and about 2,000 hogs.

Cattle market good and strong, averaging about 25c higher than last Thursday's closing market. Choice heavy beef steers sold up to $7.25. Choice handy weight butcher steers and heifers, $6.50 to $7. Fair to good butcher, $5.50 to $6.50.

Good to choice butcher cows, $5 to $5.50. Bulls steady, $4.50 to $5.

Calves strong, $11 to $13.

Export trade was light, buyers taking about 150 heifers for Manchester at $6.50 to $7. Next week will bring a demand for the heavy export steers for the Christmas trade.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Wheat values took a zig-zag course yesterday, December delivery advancing in price, whereas later months declined. Unsettlement was ascribed largely to trade complications which are resulting from much wheat both afloat and ashore being tied up by lake barriers of ice. Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, 1-2c net lower to 1c advance, with corn unchanged to 1-4 gain; oats 3-8 off to 1-8 and 1-4c up, and provisions unchanged to 30 cents down.

Unfavorable weather for field work tended to give firmness to the corn market. Oats were governed chiefly by the action of corn.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—The demand from United Kingdom and Continental buyers for Manitoba Spring wheat on the Montreal grain market yesterday showed quite an improvement ,but as the prices bid in most cases were about one shilling per quarter below working basis little business of importance was done. On the other hand the demand from exporters here for wheat was quite active which was attributed to the tie-up of the large quantity that was on the way to Bay ports. It was reported that purchases of between 500,000 to 600,000 bushels were made at Bay ports and Buffalo, including rought No. 2 Northern at 2c to 2 1-4c under the Winnipeg May option. There was also a good enquiry for New York exporters for wheat here and bids of 10 1-2c per bushel over the May option were made for round lots of No. 1 Northern, and the May price for No. 3 Northern.

A feature of the trade was the announcement of a decline of one shilling per quarter in ocean freight rates to all United Kingdom ports and room is now offering for December-January loading at five shillings per quarter with the exception of Hull, which is sixpence lower at 6s. 6d., and the rate to Antwerp, Rotterdam and Hamburg was quoted at 25 cents per hundred pounds for heavy grain.

PETERBORO MAY NOT HAVE A GOVERNMENT LIQUOR STORE.

To the Editor:
Dear sir:

On Friday the Hon. Howard Ferguson, replying to the challenge that Ontario would be flooded with liquor stores, made the statement that the educational purpose of the Government control legislation would not be served, he thought, by establishing for instance a liquor store for legal sale in some centre which, while strongly favorable to the store, might be surrounded by a territory of preponderatingly dry sentiment. And we must certainly hold Mr. Ferguson to his convictions. This certainly does apply to Peterboro as well as our neighbor, Lindsay. While the Government control candidate in the city was elected by a substantial majority every constituency surrounding us gave a very substantial majority for the dry candidate. Now it is up to every organization and individual that has looked upon control as a backward step to leave no stone unturned in support of Anderson of East Peterboro Robertson of Northumberland, Bragg of Durham, Newman of North Victoria, and Sandy of South Victoria, who are dry spokes being driven into the wet hub Bradburn of Peterboro City. And we are sure that Sinclair of South Ontario, Widdifield of North Ontario, and Raney of Prince Edward, near bys, will deal a blow or two to burst the wet hub of Peterboro City. So far as Peterboro is concerned the fight is not over yet. Thanking you, I remain

Yours and etc.,
W. H. MERRILL.

Young's Point, Ont.,
December 3, 1926.

The Editor,
Peterboro Examiner, Peterboro.
Dear Sir:

Referring to a letter which appeared in the issue of the Peterboro Examiner of Tuesday, November 30, 1926, from A. H. Allen, I quote as follows:

'At Mr. Bradburn's meeting at Young's Point the other evening Mr. Dwelly called for the wiping out of prohibition. Mr. Peck and Mr. McElderry called themselves temperance men and yet did not object to Mr. Dwelly's sentiments, neither did Mr. Bradburn. This shows you the kind of temperance men these gentlemen are, viz.: More liquor, less restraint, more drunkeness, less business, more cases for the Salvation Army and Social Welfare, and less happiness in many homes, more loss of time by the working men at factories."

In these remarks a slur is cast upon the characters and integrity of Messrs. Bradburn, McElderry and Peck, and also upon my own. It is just another case similar to that of the religious fanatic who quotes some obscure biblical text in order to substantiate some fanatical idea of his own. To do this he generally tears a text entirely away from its context to suit his own particular views. Mr. Allen, (I presume it is a gentleman who signs the letter), has taken one remark from my speech at Young's Point entirely away from its context, and therefrom most unjustly assumes that I am not a temperance man, and further infers that Messrs. Bradburn Peck, McElderry, and also myself are desirous of such a state of affairs which would make the citizens of Ontario nothing better than beer-swillers, or worse.

I hereby request your space, Mr. Editor, to assure Mr. Allen that I AM a temperance man, and I also think Messrs. Bradburn, Peck and McElderry are, BUT I am by no means an advocate of Prohibition. Prohibition is not true temperance. Articles and statistics which have appeared in the daily press have proven that people are not any better for the O.T.A. Prohibition did not do away with liquor, because of its many weaknesses. It was with these thoughts expressed at the Conservative Rally at Young's Point that I called for a doing away of a so called temperance measure known as the O.T.A. which has failed in its object, and made a great many law-breakers. In its stead I asked for the inauguration of a system which would induce a more temperate state of affairs in the truer sense of the word.

Yours truly.
R. T. C. DWELLY.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

A REMARKABLE PERSONALITY
By Dr. Frank Crane.

One of the most remarkable personalities that the world has ever known was the dual personality known as Gilbert and Sullivan.

A new book has just been issued in England, giving a critical estimate of this remarkable pair.

It speaks very highly of their product and has some opinions to express about the two personages.

Neither of them was particularly a success independent of the other.

Sullivan aspired to write wonderful music, but he never did anything apart from Gilbert that was very striking. He seemed to be of ordinary, mellifuous tissue.

Neither did Gilbert excel apart from Sullivan. Few people remember his "Bab Ballads' nowadays, although at the time they were published they were supposed to be very clever. Time has set them down merely as pretty jingles.

The combination of Gilbert's poems and Sullivan's music, however, produced an exquisite flavor of humor found nowhere else. Time, the severest of critics, has passed upon it, and even today they are as popular perhaps as the latest production.

Gilbert's pawky humor seems to b e admirably adapted to Sullivan's melodies, and some of the lines have entered permanently into English speech.

The author of the book referred to considers Pooh-Bah as their greatest male character, and Katisha as the greatest female impersonation.

Older people will remember when at the time it was published "Pinafore" spread like wildfire through out the world.

Critics found fault with it and pointed out the various weaknesses of Gilbert and Sullivan's other works, but critics also almost unanimously condemned "Abie's Irish Rose," which at the present writing is in its fifth year in New York. Critics are often right, but they are sometimes wrong.

It is somewhat rare for humorous works to attain permanent popularity, but Gilbert and Sullivan's operettas have stood the test of time and they are still today remarkable examples of a certain delicate and subtle humor that is appreciated throughout the English-speaking world.

ABOLITION OF ALLIED CONTROL BELIEVED NEAR

Results of Secret Conference Held By "Big Five" Powers.

FURTHER MEETINGS.

GENEVA, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press). — Abolition of inter-allied military control in Germany is believed to be a step nearer realization, although the 'Big Five' powers meeting in secret conference yesterday failed to reach an agreement.

The powers represented were Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy. Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, acted as chairman. On emerging from the conference the statesmen appeared hopeful.

Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, who came to Geneva rather downcast, but hopeful that what Germany wanted would be granted, seemed more optimistic than at any time since his arrival.

M. Vandervelde, Belgian Foreign Minister, remarked: "It was not so bad. An agreement will be reached."

M. Briand of France had nothing to say, and Signor Scialoia, appearing in behalf of Premier Mussolini of Italy, was also silent. An official communique contained this comment: "We are satisfied with the progress made. We will have further meetings, and hope that an agreement will be reached."

This conference of the "Big Five" was subsequent to the opening session of the forty-third Council of the League, which is to take under consideration the relations between Germany and the other powers, particularly with respect to the Rhineland occupation and the inter-allied military control in Germany. Merely routine business was transacted by the Council.

With respect to military control, the German spokesman said that if the modernization of the German fortresses along the Polish frontier alone was holding back French and Polish acquiescence in the plan to substitute investigation of Germany's armaments by the League of Nations for inter-allied control, Germany was willing to blow up the fortress improvements because fortresses without heavy artillery were valueless anyway.

It is generally thought that Dr. Stresemann would prefer to come to some terms with the other powers in the way of conversations rather than have the entire question debated in the Council. Lack of definite news from the Ambassadors' Council in Paris hampered further progress last night but the conversations will continue to-day.

The Foreign Ministers also discussed the internal situation in China which was strikingly brought to the attention of this session by the Canton party's communication, declaring that Canton alone has the right to negotiate new treaties to replace the old and "unfair" treaties. This communication, in the form of a petition, was presented by the European delegation of the Kuomintang party in behalf of the Cantonese Government. The petition denounces the Peking Government as not representing the desires of the Chinese people.

LAKE VESSELS STILL IN GRIP OF FROST KING

Anchor Ice Proves Irresistible Force Against Giant Traffic Car.

NONE RELEASED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Apparently an immovable object, the tons of anchor ice around Neebish Island continued yesterday, to hold fast and demonstrate that the tremendous crushing power of the giant car ferry Sainte Marie was not an irresistible force. While the number of lake freighters caught in the worst ship blockade in the history of lake navigation remained at 121, not one having been released yesterday.

The Sainte Marie, built to keep open the car ferry route from Mackinaw City to St. Ignace ,terminals of inter-peninsula rail traffic, has been declared the most powerful ice crusher in the world. Yet with her engines racing at top speed and her huge bulk creaking and groaning with every vicious forward thrust, the great steel battering ram was practically impotent against the ice barrier.

Some concern was expressed yesterday lest the Sainte Marie herself become trapped in the ice, in which event rail traffic between the two peninsulas by way of Mackinaw City and St. Ignace would be seriously affected. On the other hand, the big car ferry is the sole hope of the stranded ships. Should it be sent back to St. Ignace, the bulk of the big freighters in the Great Lakes services which, with their grain and coal cargoes, represent a combined value running into millions of dollars, would be frozen in for the winter. Other car ferries might be called into service, but hope for their success where the Sainte Marie failed, is not very great.

The bottle neck, extending for more than 100 miles from Detour to Whitefish Bay, through which all traffic between Lake Superior and Lower Lake ports must pass, last night was clogged and navigation on the lakes virtually was at a standstill. Lines of great steel ships, extending for miles ,but locked motionless and silent, with smoke floating from their funnels, presented a sight somewhat akin to a thickly built industrial district seen at a distance.

About forty-five of the downbound steamers are huddled close together in Hay Lake, communicating freely over the ice in which they are frozen, swapping beans for corned beef, gum for cigarettes or in other ways equalizing the rations remaining on board. However, no acute shortage of food has been reported.

The more than 2,000 seamen aboard the blockaded vessels watch with eager eyes the efforts of the car ferry and the assisting tugs, hoping some miracle will free them so they may join their families by Christmas. The joking which was common during the first few days of the ice jam is not so frequent. Every tug that pounds its way near to any vessel is appealed to, to carry mail from the stranded sailors.

An enterprising local dealer in tobaccos and candies took a truckload of his goods to the river's edge ten miles below the city yesterday and hauled them on a great toboggan across the ice to the ships huddled in Hay Lake. The dealer and his helpers were almost mobbed by the seamen. A bundle of outside newspapers sold instantly.

Code messages from the ice-bound ships are making life hideous for broadcast listeners ashore. The air is not clear of the spark for an instant, day or night.

Communications by wire pour into the city in constant streams, seeking information as to the progress being made toward releasing the valuable ships and their cargo.

Most of them come to Captain Alton Cornwall, of the Great Lakes Towing and Wrecking Company, who is directing the rescue work.

SITUATION IN "RED" CHINA IS LIGHTENED

News That Threatened General Strike Has Failed To Materialize.

MAY WITHDRAW AID.

Indicates That Cantonese Government Has Effective Hold on Situation.

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—News that the threatened general strike in Hankow has failed to materialize and that the situation there has become easy enough to made it likely that British marines may withdraw from the foreign concession, has removed a great deal of anxiety from official quarters and the public mind.

These developments were interpreted here as indicating that the Cantonese government has an effective hold on the situation and as justifying the government's refusal to be drawn into any precipitate action in China.

That the government, however, is fully alive to the still existing seriousness of the question was seen in the fact that Premier Baldwin yesterday assumed personal control of the Foreign Office during the absence of Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain in Geneva, with a special eye to Chinese policy.

Former Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, the Labor leader, yesterday added his voice to that of former Premier David Lloyd George and the Liberal and Labor press in opposing the employment of coercion in China and advocating an attempt to negotiate with the Cantonese government. In a statement to the press, Mr. MacDonald expressed the opinion that the government at Canton has reached a point where Great Britain can recognize it.

"I think that the Powers ought frankly to recognize that a new China has been born," Mr. MacDonald said, "and that whatever influence Russia may have in Canton or elsewhere, it occupies a very secondary position in the situation we are facing there. . . . We have to make up our mind whether we are going up our mind whether we are going to subdue China by force or whether we are going to give China an opoprtunity to place nationalist footing. The latter is the only practical policy to pursue."

The former Premier contended that the treaties made imposed upon the Chinese government by foreign governments had outlived their usefulness and that new agreements on customs and other disputed treaty subjects should be negotiated with the Cantonese. "It would be far better if we could get the signatories of the Washington agreemnt to act with us, but if they refuse we should act independently," he said.

Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs Locker-Lampson, answering a question in the House of Commons said that he hoped that the British naval guards would be withdrawn from the British concession in Hankow sometime yesterday.

OBITUARY.

MARY TANNER

APSLEY, Dec. 7—After a protracted and painful illness borne with exemplary patience and fortitude, Mary Ann Elizabeth, wife of Philip Tanner, passed away on Thursday evening at the family homestead in Chandos. In her death the Anglican Church loses a loyal and devoted worker and the community a charitable and hospitable neighbour. The funeral service which was largely attended, was held on Saturday afternoon in St. George's Church, Apsley, during which the Rev. C. A. G. Spence who officiated, paid a very warm tribute to the many estimable qualities of the deceased. Interment took place in the churchyard. The pallbearers were Robert, Thomas, Edward, Charlie and Harry Tanner and Mr. Hinchcliffe of Peterborough. Besides her sorrowing husband three children, Ernest, Gladys, and Victor all at home, are left to mourn her loss. Among those attending the funeral from a distance were Fred Haggart, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, Capt. Dodds, Mr. and Mrs. Simmons, Miss Martyyn and Miss Garside, all of Peterborough.

MARSHALL MAYBEE.

MADOC, Dec. 7.—The death occurred suddenly on Sunday night, November 28, of Marshall Maybee aged seventy-five years. Mr. Maybee was well known in this district, having been a resident of Madoc for many years, where he conducted a furniture store and undertaking business which a few years ago he sold to Messrs. Tafts and Thompson. Since then Mr. Maybee has been connected with the Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Mr. Maybee had not been strong for the past two or three years, but his last illness had been of only suddenly in the night, before the doctor could be summoned. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife to whom he had been married for fifty-three years, and one son, George, a resident of Madoc. Mr. Maybee was the last of his father's family. The funeral was held on Tuesday, the services at the house and at the grave being held under the auspices of the I.O.O.F., and the service in the United church being conducted by Rev. A. H. Foster, pastor of the United church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Marshal of St. Peter's Presbyterian church. Rev. Mr. Foster preached the funeral sermon and an anthem, "Abide With Me" was sung by the choir, solo parts being taken by Miss Lenore Vandervoort and Mrs. Ashley.

Many beautiful flowers testified to the esteem in which the late Mr. Maybee was held, among them being wreaths sent by the Mutual Fire Insurance Company, the Board of the United church, the Ladies' Aid, the Men's Bible Class and the Oddfellows Society.

Among the relatives and friends who were present from out of town were: Mrs. J. Sherman of Toronto, Mrs. E. Diamond, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Maybee of Napanee, Edison Vandervoort and F. E. O'Flynn of Belleville and George Brimacomb of Montreal.

After spending a great deal of money on medicines without results, a woman who had suffered from a long-standing case of rheumatism, got quick and complete relief by a simple home treatment.

"I have suffered from rheumatism for 16 years and I have spent a great deal of money in trying to get something which would ease the pain," she writes. "I am grateful to say that in Sloan's Liniment I have found instant relief."

Sloan's helps when other remedies fail because Sloan's doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the bodily forces to throw off the poisons that are causing the pain. Then relief comes as a natural consequence.

So easy, pleasant and clean to use, too. You don't even have to rub it in. Just apply gently, and the medicine brings the relief.

Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

WILL NOT GIVE UP CHILDREN

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 7.—Mrs. Charlie Chaplin refused a compromise offer of her estranged husband yesterday for mutual custody of their baby boys, and reiterated her intention of fighting to retain both her infants.

The film comedian agreed, through counsel, to let his wife have Charlie, Jr., 17 months old, if he were given custody of Sidney Earl, born last March.

"I will not divide my babies with Mr. Chaplin," said the young wife, who left the Chaplin home with her offspring a week ago.

"He shall not have either one of them; I will fight for both."

Mrs. Chaplin refused to meet her husband at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Curry, to discuss a settlement of their troubles out of court.

B. C. FARMERS BREED THOROUGHBREDS

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—British Columbia farmers plan the breeding of thoroughbred horses on an extensive scale in future, and the Association for the Improvement and Breeding of Horses has been formed to engage in the horse industry on a well organized basis.

The association has received the backing of British Columbia racing interests to feature special races, with adequate purses, solely for horses owned and foaled in the Province. The first of such events is to be known as the "B. C. Futurity," a handicap for two-year-olds to be run in 1919, and to be continued annually thereafter so long as nominations warrant.

MEDAL PRESENTED FOR ESSAY WRITING

Ronald Richardson Receives Prize Offered By Captain Hyland.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7. — Large numbers have attended the picture, "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," featuring Mary Pickford, which has been shown at the Regent Theatre during the past week. On Friday evening the handsome medal offered by Capt. T. E. Hyland for the best composition on the part Canadian soldiers played in the Great War was presented to the winner, Master Ronald Richardson. Mr. Charles Haig, Principal of the Public School, called Ronald to the platform for the presentation.

Mr. Haig, in a few remarks, congratulated Capt. Hyland for the good choice of pictures he was showing to the public; also the interest he took in the community. Mr. Haig thought these pictures were beneficial to all and gave the children a chance to put forth the best that was in them.

He also congratulated Miss Mildred Dunk, the other contestant for the medal, for her excellent essay. Mr. Haig said it was with great pleasure that he presented the medal to the winner. Ronald in a few well chosen words thanked Capt. Hyland for his medal and said he was sorry there had not been one also for Miss Dunk.

The Radio Four.

The ever-popular Radio Four male quartette of Belleville gave an excellent high-class concert in St. John's Church on Friday evening. There was a large attendance present and much praise and comment went to prove that this concert was highly enjoyed by all.

The quartette of the Tabernacle Church, Belleville, comprising of Dr. Haffner, Mr. Al. Stillman, Mr. J. A. Thompson and Mr. Mormon, were in reality a quintette with the presence of Prof. Riggs as accompanist for the evening. Prof. Riggs is a wonderful musician and has no doubt been heard by many radio fans when he has broadcasted from New York City, station WEAF.

Prof. Riggs opened the program for the evening with an organ prelude, after which Rev. Mr. Elliott spoke a few words of welcome to the visitors. He said it was a double pleasure for him, for he had had pleasant associations with the quartette during his stay as pastor of the Tabernacle Church.

The following program was given:

"In This Hour," by the quartette.

Solo, "There's a Land," by Dr. Haffner.

Mr. J. A. Thompson then gave a humorous selection, an Irishman's version of "Annie Laurie," which was heartily encored. He gave as an encore the action of a man sawing wood and cleverly sounded the "buzz" of the saw. He also gave a sketch of a small lad who had an artificial arm and was reciting, "Bingen on the Rhine." This was very humorous as he went through the various motions.

Piano selection, by Prof. Riggs.

Solo, "The Pirate's Song," by Mr. Thompson, with an encore, a Scotch ballad, "A Standard of the Braes of Mar."

Organ selection, "William Tell Overture," by Prof. Riggs.

Sacred quartette, "That Beautiful Land."

Solo, "I Pass By Your Window," by Mr. Mormon; encore, "Mate O' Mine."

Solo, 'That Old Irish Mother of Mine," by Dr. Haffner.

Rev. Mr. Elliott then spoke a few words of appreciation to the quartette and the Professor for their excellent entertainment, and the audience joined in a hearty clap as evidence of their pleasure.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN

(Contributed.)

Many were the expressions of surprise and delight among those who attended St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Sunday on observing that to all outward appearances the great new organ that has been in process of installation for over a month past was apparently complete. It presented a most attractive and impressive appearance. The beautifully carved quarter-oak casing, rising up to a considerable height and extending some five feet on each side beyond the space occupied by the old organ, and surmounted by an impressive row of new organ pipes has changed and beautified the whole appearance of this part of the church. However, the organ was not ready for use. All this week the voicer will be perfecting it ,and has yet to complete the connections with the echo organ and chimes in the tower. At next Sunday morning's service the organ will be dedicated at a short dedicatory service. It will be used for the first time, in order to demonstrate its possibilities, at a special organ recital to be held Monday evening, December 13, when one of Canada's leading organists, Mr. John W. Beader, Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., will officiate.

For several weeks past a large augmented choir, composed of members of choirs of most of the churches of the city, has been practising for a rendition of "The Messiah," which will be given December 16th. Sunday afternoon between 90 and 100 rehearsed and heard a section of the new organ used for the first time. The co-operation they are giving the choir of St. Paul's Church and the interest they are showing in the new organ as an instrument that does credit to the City of Peterborough, is greatly appreciated by the members of St. Paul's choir and congregation.

Sunday Services

Two excellent sermons were delivered on Sunday by the Pastor, Rev. William Allan. In the morning he effectively combated the all too-prevalent belief that God has left the affairs of this world to pretty nearly run themselves. Basing his text on Isaiah 46, 9, he showed by reference to God's dealing with the Children of Israel that He not only had foretold their future, but, through the prophets, had showed them by fulfilled prophecy that He had been dealing with them according to His own plans. By means of prophecy God has outlined future events. He knows the end from the beginning, and He is working to a well-conceived plan. This plan determines His relationship to men and nations.

The great danger today is that people will become too engrossed in present problems, their present position and their present pleasures and thus forget the past and its lessons and the world to come. By reference to a number of passages in the New Testament, including Ephesians 2, 7, and 1, 10, in which reference is made to the different ages, Rev. Mr. Allan showed, First, that time has been divided into periods long or short, according to God's plan; Second, that certain great events have taken place in orderly arrangement according to His foreknowledge; Third, that God has a goal towards which He is steadily moving, not by chance but according to His own plans.

Evening Prelude

Much interest was taken in the questions asked and answered during the prelude to the evening service, especially to the question that had been asked, If Rev. Dr. Ottman, who conducted a series of special services in St. Paul's Church last week, was correct in stating that there is no one in Hell now?

By reference to different passages of Scripture in the New Testament, including Matthew 25, 41 and Revelation 20, 10 and 14, Rev. Mr. Allan showed that Hell has been prepared for the reception of anti-Christ and for the Devil and his angels. During His lifetime Christ referred to a judgment still to come, showing that the wicked dead had not yet been judged, and therefore could not have been cast into Hell. The fact is, Scripture teaching shows that Hell has not yet been opened, and therefore people can not have been condemned to it as yet.

Wheat Prices Go Up Liverpool Market Strong

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Wheat scored an early upturn in price here to-day, helped by unlooked for strength of the Liverpool market and by unfavorable weather conditions in Argentina. December wheat here continued to narrow its discount under May. Starting at 1-8 to 3-4 higher, Chicago wheat values soon showed further gains. Corn, Oats and Provisions were also firmer, with Corn opening unchanged to 1-4 up, and subsequently establishing a moderate general advance.

Opening prices were: Wheat: December 1.40 7-8, May 1.41 5-8. Corn: December 74 5-8, May 83 3-8. Oats: December 44, May 48 1-2.

Stock Prices Firmer In Wall Street To-day

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices displayed a strong undertone to-day, but the chief speculative activity was again centred in a few high-priced industrial issues.

President Coolidge's message to Congress was favorably received by the financial district, the highest prices of the day being recorded after its recommendations became known.

Industrial Alcohol Leads Prices Remain Firm

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—With Industrial Alcohol outstanding the active leader, tradrexged over a wide list on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, and the volume of sales reached a heavy total. Princes generally were firm, though a few weak spots showed. Alcohol set the pace by climbing 2 1-8 at 31 1-8 at the noon close. British American Oil strengthened another eighth at 77 1-2 and Brompton coming into demand sold up 1 1-8 at 38 1-8. Atlantic Sugar advanced one at 27 1-4, Consolidated Smelters three at 263, and Page-Hersey Common 3-4 at 5 1-2. On the weaker side Brazilian eased a half at 106 1-2 and City Dairy a half at 84. Gooderham and Worts, in unlisted section, advanced 7-8 at 38 7-8.

Price Changes Small With Very Light Trading

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Trading was again very light on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning and price changes, which were nowhere substantial, were without significance. Stocks generally held steady despite a number of very small recessions. Dome Mines was sold up 40 cents at 11.50, and Noranda firmed 25 at 20.70, while Osisko gained two at 140, but McIntyre eased 15 at 24.30, and Kirkland Lake was 2 lower at 179. Teck Hughes at 479 and Tough Oakes at 59 were each a point lower.

"Narcissus" and "Minuet in G," by Ethel Dobson.

EIGHT LIVES LOST

Seven Men and One Woman Die When Schooner is Wrecked.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press.) — Eight lives were lost when the schooner Ella M. Rudolph drove ashore at Brook Cove, near Catalina, during the height of last night's storm. Duke Blackwood, a son of the owner of the vessel, managed to reach shore and walking to Catalina, gave details of the disaster. The dead are: Elazor Blackwood, master; Walter Attwood, Joseph Vivian, Samuel Carter, Henry Blackwood, Noah Vivian, Bert Blackwood and an unidentified woman.

Belleville Schools Close Because Of Cold Weather

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 7. — Flooding of cellars on the east side of Front street was one of the results of the rise of the water level in the Moira River, through the cold snap and formation of anchor ice. No damage of account resulted. Owing to the severity of the cold several schools had to be closed yesterday until they could be warmed sufficiently for the classes.

On account of their services in bringing food to London during the great plague, Charles II. granted permission in perpetuity for the Dutch to moor their ships in the Thames.

CORNS

Your poor tortured feet—drawn by overshoes and rubbers—how they burn and throb with pain! Why will you suffer when it is so easy to be free of corns! Stop at your druggist's and buy a pink package of Radox Bath Salts. Use it at once.

HOW RADOX REMOVES CORNS

When you dip your foot into a foot bath containing Radox Bath Salts, the dead skin combines with the Radox Bath Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This protein salt dissolves in water like ordinary salt, and so loosens the corn that it may be lifted out bodily, root and all. Radox does not affect the living skin; it is only the dead skin of the actual corn which is dissolved. Your druggist can supply Radox. Half Pound Pint Package, 60c.

KNOX CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

Fowl Supper and Concert Conclude Annual Celebration.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

The anniversary services of Knox Church had a fine conclusion last evening in a fowl supper and concert, attended by a very large number of people. The supper rooms, where a bountiful repast was served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, were crowded from five to eight o'clock, and the concert which followed also had a good audience, who encored the programme enthusiastically. The visiting artists, Miss Mildred Lloyd, elocutionist, of Belleville; Miss Daisy Murray, soloist of George Street Church, and the Willis brothers, were applauded again and again, and a hearty vote of thanks to them, which also included an appreciation of the excellent repast served by the Ladies' Aid Society, assisted by ladies of the congregation, was passed at the conclusion of the entertainment.

The programme, for which Rev. Mr. McDonald acted as chairman, and which he introduced in a brief, humorous speech, was as follows: Vocal duett, by the Misses Violet and Edna Buckham; piano solo by Miss Mildred Hetherington; reading by Miss Mildred Lloyd of Belleville; vocal solo by Miss Daisy Murray; vocal quartette by Mrs. C. Scholey, Miss Cotton, Messrs. Sydney and Stanley Willis; piano duett by the Misses Jean and Marion McCannan; vocal solo by Mrs. Ross Williamson; reading by Miss Mildred Lloyd of Belleville; vocal solo by Miss Daisy Murray; piano solo by Miss May Pollock; vocal solo by Miss Ethel Kennedy; piano duett by Masters Bob and Tom Allen; vocal duet by Mrs. Cutmore and Miss A. Crocker; reading by Miss Mildred Lloyd, and vocal duett by the Willis brothers.

Miss May Pollock, Miss Gwen. Donley and Mr. R. J. Devey acted as accompanists during the evening.

SOVIET ENVOY MAKES ATTACK AGAINST BRITAIN

Charges Her With Attempting To Form Anti-Russian Union.

NO RESPONSE.

Would Be Dangerous To Russia If Other Nations Agreed.

BERLIN, Dec: 7 (Canadian Press).—A bitter attack against Britain was made by Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Soviet Russia yesterday in a talk with newspaper men at the Soviet Embassy. M. Tchitcherin arrived here last Wednesday on a trip for his health.

Britain, he charged, was making attempts to isolate Russia by forming an anti-Russian union of nations, and "if this programme met with response on the continent, it would represent the greatest danger for further peaceful development of political relations." He added that "the bonds of friendship uniting us to Germany are already so firm that I fully rely on them."

With emphatic gestures he reiterated that Soviet Russia would never enter the League of Nations, and disavowed reports that subversive propaganda in China, the Dutch East Indies (where there was a revolt recently) and elsewhere, was led from Moscow.

Peace with all nations was Russia's first desideratum for internal progress, he asserted. Referring to the Chinese situation, he said:

"I can only voice astonishment over the unbelievable narrow-mindedness of the English Conservative politicians and press, who ascribe the development of the national (Cantonese) movement to us."

He painted an optimistic picture of Russia's relations with France, Lithuania, Persia, the Balkans and China. He omitted reference to the United States, but in his discussion intimated that it was as impossible to discuss Russo-American relations as relations with another planet.

LADY CHEYESMORE IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Says Her Husband Wanted To Get Rid of Her.

In connection with the case, Lady Cheylesmore made an affidavit that the house on the ranch in Alberta had never been properly furnished and that it did not even contain a wash stand or any covering for the floors. She stated that her husband wanted to "get rid" of her.

LEMIEUX SPEAKER.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—Preparations for the opening of Parliament are almost complete. Accommodation for a bigger crowd than has attended for some years have been made on the Senate side, where the Governor-General on Friday meets members of both houses and reads the speech from the throne in the presence of a brilliant gathering of men and women from all parts of Canada, who sit on the floor of the Senate for the occasion.

The activity of the Commons side will begin one day earlier. On Thursday afternoon the members-elect will gather in the Commons chamber at the call of the Clerk of the House, who will previously administer the oath to them. The clerk, Arthur Beauchesne, K.C., will ask for nominations for the Speakership. It is a foregone conclusion that Premier Mackenzie King will propose the re-election of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Liberal member for Gaspe, and Speaker since 1921. It is not likely that Mr. Lemieux will be opposed, so that the proceedings will be brief.

The routine formalities having been disposed of, the House will adjourn until Friday, when the Governor-General, Viscount Willingdon, will drive up to the buildings on Parliament Hill for his first official visit. He will find official Canada waiting him in the Senate. The Premier in Windsor uniform, the judges in scarlet and ermine on the woolsack, official representatives of the churches, the army, the navy, the air force, and every branch of public and private life in Canada will be there. Their wives, and their unmarried daughters who have been "presented" will have places in the Chamber.

"Black Rod" will summon the members of the Commons to hear the Speech from the Throne. Headed by Mr. Speaker and his staff the Commoners will crowd into the foyer behind the bar of the Senate to listen to the forecast of the sessional programme. The ceremony over, the Senate will adjourn, while members of the Commons will return to their own hall to give first reading to the House of Commons bill, traditionally the first business of the session. It asserts the independence of parliament.

A few returns may be tabled, a few brief announcements may be made; then L. Auger, Liberal member for Prescott will claim the floor preparatory to moving the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. If the House follows the practise of former years, he will not begin his speech until the House reassembles on Monday next for a crowded week before the Christmas holidays. In that week the Government hopes to dispose of the debate on the address, which has taken more than a month on one occasion, in one day. The rest of the week, if the Government's programme goes through, is to be devoted to voting estimates left over from last year. The Senate probably will not meet again until after the holidays.

Comparatively few parliamentarians have arrived here yet. Seating in the chamber and office space upstairs in still a subject for debate. Government supporters are more numerous this year and it will be difficult to give them all seats to the right of the speaker. The Progressives will split, and the Independents will sit to the left. There is some talk of the Labor group—three instead of two this year—going over to the Opposition side this year, but whether this means that they will oppose the Government or not has not been disclosed. It may be merely to balance the seating capacity. The final arrangements for seating will not be made until most of the members are here—perhaps Wednesday next.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Dec. 7 (United News). — Intoxicated from wine which they had obtained from a "speak easy" run in connection with a candy store, two 11-year-old boys were found staggering through a Brooklyn Street Monday.

After questioning the children, police went to the confectionery shop of Mrs. Anna Puchat, where they found another boy, 13 years old, lying in a drunken stupor in a rear room. The proprietor of the shop was arrested charged with impairing the morals of minors.

FIVE HUNTERS LOST NEAR SOO

Search Party Has Set Out To Try and Locate Them.

GONE THREE WEEKS.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 7—The five hunters who left Algonquin Michigan, on November 15th, for Tahquamenon district, in Luce County, are still missing, and a search party consisting of Fred Clair and Albert Johnston, has left the Soo for Emmerson to try and locate them.

The five hunters, who are believed lost, snowbound or dead, are: Paul Clair, Carl Alexander, Edward Hagman, John Hagman and Frank Bjorklund.

They left the Soo by boat on Nov. 15, and succeeded in reaching their camp, according to word received by their relatives. With the hunting season over for some time, the fear is held that something has happened to them. The men intended to return home by boat but it is felt that they may be snowbound or have met with ice difficulties.

Their camp is some 15 or 20 miles from the nearest railway and, if still alive, they will probably hike for there.

Now that coal is being liquefied we wonder how long it will be before the bootleggers find out how to distill a kick out of it.

FIRST LIBERALS IN THIRTY YEARS

East Northumberland and East Durham Have New Members.

WOMEN CREDITED.

COBOURG, Dec. 7.— Discussing the election of Dr. W. G. Robertson, Colborne, to the Provincial Legislature, an East Northumberland elector stated here, that it is over thirty years since East Northeumberland last gave a Liberal majority. That was when John Douglas of Warkwork was elected as Liberal standard bearer for the riding of East Northumberland. In West Northumberland Sam Clarke was elected as representative for twenty-nine years. Thus it was that in Provincial political circles West Northumberland was regarded as Grit, and East Northumberland Tory. In the contest just past, however, the two former constituencies each rolled up a Liberal and O.T.A. majority. One politician who would have liked the result to have been otherwise, blames it upon the women voters. That is an element that politicians have got to conjure with from this on, and it is not always that the wife marks her ballot as her husband suggests. The result would not have been altered materially if some married couples had failed to exercise the franchize last Wednesday in this constituency.

Cavan Liberals Jubilant

MILLBROOK, Dec. 7.—Liberals in this section of Durham are rejoicing in the fact that, for the first time in forty years, they have not lost their vote, the Liberal-Prohibitionist candidate, W. J. Bragg, of Bowmanville, former member for West Durham, being returned by a majority of at least 975.

T. B. Chalk, the Conservative candidate, received majorities in his home town of Port Hope, Hope Township, Manvers, and Millbrook, but Darlington, Clarke, Cavan and Bowmanville gave such substantial figures in Mr. Bragg's favor, he was elected to represent the county riding. Durham went strongly Tory for the Federal House, and but for the liquor issue, would probably have followed its former record, and returned a Conservative to the local Legislature. The merging of the two ridings in one was the undoing of Mr. Chalk.

CANTONESE HATE BRITAIN AND JAPAN

Society For Overthrow of British Formed By Soldiers and Workers.

HANKOW, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press) — The "Society for the Overthrow of the British," sponsored by the political bureau of the advancing Cantonese army, reached the organization stage today when army and trade union heads met here.

The meeting was the result of an intense undercurrent of anti-foreignism, which has prevailed in the southern camp for many months.

A new book in catechism form issued to Cantonese officers and non-commissioned soldiers, the contents of which are to be taught to the troops, shows the greatest animus towards Great Britain and Japan.

Restaurant Man's Family Starving In Cold Apartment

JERSEY CITY, NJ., Dec. 7 (United News).—"We have had no food for two days," Mrs. Josephine Giganti told the police who visited her unheated flat and found her ill and shivering with three children, the youngest a 16-month-old girl.

"Who is your husband?"

"A restaurant keeper."

An officer of the S.P.C.C. interrupted an order of "ham" to place Larence Giganti under arrest.

HONEY INDUSTRY PAYS BIG PROFIT

British Columbia Production This Year Nearly Million Pounds.

VERY VALUABLE.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 4.—(Canadian Press).—British Columbia's honey industry returned a profit of 43 per cent. on the capital invested this year, according to figures issued by the Department of Agriculture.

Statistics for the year show that the crop will amount to 898,257 pounds, valued at $197,616, based on a selling price of 22 cents per pound. To this is added the value of beeswax produced to the amount of 10,000 pounds, worth $5,000. Comparing these figures with the estimated value of apiary equipment, on a basis of 16,988 hives at $424,700, the percentage of profit is shown as 43 per cent., constituting the highest record ever attained in the Province. The next highest yield was 771,356 pounds of honey in 1922, and the first statistics available are for the year 1911 when the honey crop was only 40,000 pounds, valued at $6,800.

Although there are a few apiarists devoting their time to honey production exclusively, the work is generally carried on by farmers as a sideline to which spare time is devoted. In this way they look upon their apiary returns in the light of found money, in somewhat the same way as the old-time farm housewife looked upon her "egg money."

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness and have buzzing, ringing noises in your head — don't waste time with unknown unreliable medicines, but go to your nearest druggist and ask for an inexpensive package of Geero Wormwood Balm.

No atomizers, no syringes and nothing to take internally—you simply apply a little of this clean, fragrant balm right into your nostrils, and then comes sweet relief! Clogged nostrils quickly open up, breathing is easier, head noises vanish and the annoying mucus stops dropping into the throat. This is a simple, pleasant and inexpensive home treatment that anyone bothered by catarrh or catarrhal deafness should give a good trial at once. All good druggists—only cost a few cents.

DRAKE NEVER VISITED CANADA

Judge Howay Says He Sailed North To 48th Parallel.

OFF WASHINGTON.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Francis Drake never visited the shores of British Columbia, notwithstanding the claims of unnamed fellows of the Royal Geographical Society whose references to the famous British sailor's adventures in the North Pacific have recently been given prominence in London newspapers.

The statement that Drake anchored his vessel in a bay in the vicinity of Vancouver Island is refuted by Judge Howay, of New Westminster, authority on British Columbia's early history, who states that Drake at no time sailed further north than the 48th parallel of latitude, which would bring him within less than thirty miles of the present international boundary — somewhere off the coast of Washington State.

"We must not forget what Drake was doing at the time," said Judge Howay. "He was not exploring. He was looking for a route home to England via the Northwest passage in order to avoid the Spaniards. He was not anxious to go by way of the Cape of Good Hope or Cape Horn because the Spaniards were on his trail, and his treasure from the loot of Cacafuegos alone was worth 300,000 pesos. The suggestion that he anchored in the Straits of Juan de Fuca is quite untenable, because, had he found anything in the nature of an eastward passage, such as this, he would have followed it to its limit, instead of anchoring.

CANADA BEHIND IN CIVIL FLYING

British Columbia Leads in Progress Made Since War.

NO INTEREST SHOWN.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—With Victoria connected for some years with air mail routes down the Pacific Coast, with a flying station at Jericho Beach, near Vancouver, and planes used every summer for forest and fisheries patrol, British Columbia has made substantial progress in developing the commercial phase of aviation, but those who have taken the initiative in bringing about much of this development declare that Canada is ignoring many opportunities for profitable advancement in the realm of aeronatics.

"Too many people are waving the red flag of danger," explained one aviation supporter describing Canadian apathy towards flying. "The Canadian business man knows little of aviation when one considers that 12,000 young Canadians served in the flying corps during the Great War. Thousands of them returned, bringing with them a keenly aroused interest in flying, but the interest appears to have lapsed.

"It is felt that the Post-master-General has not gone far enough in developing an air mail service, and that the Federal Government has not shown interest in the lighter-than-air club idea, so successful in other countries. There is no R. C. A. F. reserve in Canada, where thousands could get training every year. There is need for a national association which could function as a clearing house for aviation affairs throughout Canada, and finally, it is felt there is as much need for an aviation league as there is for a Navy League."

Buck Killed By Crashing Into Car on Vancouver Island.

ANOTHER STUNNED.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Vancouver Island's deer have become weary of being "peppered" at by huntsmen's rifles and are now seeking death in a much more novel manner.

An enormous buck dashed into the road recently when Mr. Harry Smith, of Chemainus, was driving home, and, blinded by the headlights, crashed into the car with such force that it was killed on the spot. This incident, however, was outrivalled by the experience of W. T. Hamilton, manager of a lumber company at Crofton. While he was driving alone the Island Highway, near Tyee, a buck dashed out into the road, struck his car and was stunned.

Believing the animal dead, Mr. Hamilton got out of his car to investigate and, much to his surprise, found the buck very active and ready to attack him. Fighting the buck with his bare hands, he managed to kill it by breaking its neck.

COAST INDIANS ARE ORIENTALS

Lead To Belief of Scientists in Contact Via South Seas.

EASTER ISLAND LINK.

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 6 (by Canadian Press)—Centuries ago a contact betwen the islands of the tropical South Seas and the coast of South America, in the opinion of Dr. Barbeau Ottawa anthropologist who has been here recently continuing his studies of the native races of British Columbia.

"Physical similarities alone would distinguish the origin of the British Columbia Indian as Oriental," said Dr. Barbeau, "but the Indian of the interior plateau had his origin from the prairie stock The actual story of the settlement of the entire Americas may never be known, but here is reason to believe that contact exisited between the South Seas groups and the Indians of South America.

"The presence of a negro strain in some of the North American Indians may only be explained through these channels, but as in British Columbia the presence of similar customs almost proves that the migration of Asiatics of the Polynesia group must have taken place with Easter Island with its fantastic carvings, the half-way mark in the voyage."

COCKSHUTT WON'T HEAD COMMISSION

Would Refuse Job If Asked To Take It, He Asserts.

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Contradicting a report that he was probably to be chairman of the Government Control Commission, His Honor Henry Cockshutt, the Lieutenant-Governor, today declared he had not in any way been approached in the matter. If he had, he stated, he would not consider it for a moment.

ANNUAL XMAS TREE.

Under Auspices of United Church Sunday School at Pontypool.

PONTYPOOL, Dec. 7. — The Sunday School meeting held in the basement of the United Church Friday night was well attended. It was decided to hold the annual Christmas Tree on Monday, Dec. 20 in the I.O.O.F. Hall, and the fee to be 25 cents. Mr. W. Hall's resignation as superintendent was accepted. The following officers were elected:

Superintendent—Mr. Ernest Bowins.

Secretary—Mr. John Payne.

Treasurer—Mr. Delbert Bowins.

Organist—Mrs. Albert McMahon.

On election day the voters in this polling sub-division turned out in good numbers to exercise their franchise when about 75 per cent of the available vote was cast. In the last general election Mr. Fred Bowen, the Conservative candidate, received a majority of 599 in this township, while on Wednesday, Mr. Chalk received only 188. The returns for this village were Chalk 151, Bragg 56, leaving a majority of 95. Small adverse majorities were received at Fleetwood and Janetville. This was the first time in the memory of most of the settlers here that a Conservative candidate did not receive a majority in all sub-divisions in Manvers Township.

Shooting Match

One of the best shooting matches of the season will be held at Mr. L. Jamieson's, two miles east of the village, Saturday, Dec. 11 at 1 p.m. About fifteen young geese will be disposed of. Both shot guns and rifles will be used.

Christmas trees will be held at Carscaddens School on Friday night, Dec. 17; Drum School, Wednesday, Dec. 22nd; and Nerryrack School, Tuesday, Dec. 21st. It is over twenty years since a concert has been held at night in Carscadden's School.

The Ladies' Aid are holding their annual bazaar on Friday, Dec. 10, at 3.30. Lunch will be served from 5 to 7, after which a small programme will be given.

Miss F. Little of Lakefield spent the week-end the guest of Mrs. W. Whiteside.

LINDSAY PEOPLE DISCUSS STORE

Don't Know Whether They Want Liquor Vendor or Not.

VIEWS DIFFER.

LINDSAY, Dec. 7.—The question now uppermost in the minds of the citizens of this town is: Will Lindsay get a liquor store following the introduction of the Ferguson policy of government control?

Lindsay registered a wet vote nearly 900 majority on December 1st, and while this vote will have no bearing on the government policy with regard to the location of stores, it indicates that the sentiment in this town has not changed very much since the date of the last local option vote in January, 1913. On that occasion the town registered an emphatic vote against the policy of local option, and as the three-fifths rule which prevailed on that occasion is to govern the action of the government in relation to stores, Lindsay is one of the centres in which a government vendor will be located.

Some of the outstanding temperance people in the town, however, disfavor the opening of a liquor store. They expressed themselves strongly on election night, when F. G. Sandy, the successful Liberal-Progressive candidate in South Victoria, announced that he would like to see to it that his riding would continue dry and that he would show Premier Ferguson that he could not coerce the people of the riding. Some of the ardent temperance men, and especially those who are in business, are now sizing up the the situation from a business viewpoint. They point out that should Lindsay not have a store, considerable business would be diverted to Peterboro where such a store is bound to be located. It is also pointed out that if such a situation was created, summer tourists would undoubtedly give Lindsay a wide berth, which would mean the loss of thousands of dollars of good money in the summer months.

A great many temperance business men are, therefore, between two fires. They hate to go back on their convictions in regard to the liquor traffic, and they would loathe to see business go past their door for a more favored centre.

WARDEN PUZZLED BY BEAR'S ACTION

Doesn't Know Whether Settler or Animal Has Prior Right.

QUESNEL, B.C., Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Is all meat, fresh or otherwise, within the newly-created game sanctuary at Bowron Lake, twenty miles northeast of Barkerville, the property of the grizzly bear, black bear, timber wolf, coyote, or any other predatory animal which may happen to see it first

That is the question which is worrying Frank Kibee, veteran big game hunter, trapper and guide, who has recently been appointed game warden for the sanctuary.

Several weeks ago a grizzly bear wrecked the home of a settler at Bowron Lake and ran off with a side of bacon and a quarter of fresh killed caribou. The point that Kibee has to settle is whether settlers' rights take precedence over those of the bear, inasmuch as the sanctuary was established for wild animals and not for settlers. The settler has offered to settle the question for him if he catches a glimpse of the bear.

LEAGUE MEETING.

Large Attendance at Regular Service Held on Thursday Evening.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Dec. 6—Fifty-five persons were in attendance at the regular League service on Thursday evening. The meeting was in charge of the 2nd vice-president, Mr. Earl Fairman, convenor of the missionary department. A short programme was given, consisting of a hymn by the "Blue" group; Scripture lesson read by the leader, Aylmer Petherick, and a violin solo by Miss Fern Wetherall which was well received and drew hearty applause. Rev. Mr. Daniel then presented the second of a series of lantern slides which are to be given on the missionary nights throughout the year. This set featured a missionary's trip through the province of Foyama, Japan and was very interesting and instructive. A complete report of each picture accompanied the showing of the set and this enabled the audience to appreciate the real meaning of the various scenes presented.

The meeting next week will be in charge of the convenor of the devotional department, Mr. Thos. Fry.

Officers at the Petherick's polling booth on election day were: Mr. George Dunk, D.R.O.; Mr. Victor Krwin, poll clerk; Mrs. Thomas Dunk and Mr. Alfred Barnum, scrutineers for McArthur and Robertson, respectively.

This booth had the honour of being the first in Seymour to report results.

Mr. Thomas Fry had his car somewhat badly smashed on election day when the front of his car was struck by the skidding of a larger car, which he was meeting.

FLAVORING DRESSING.

A tablespoon of tomato catsup added to the French dressing will give it an unusual flavor. Minced chutney is also an addition.

His Grace, Aptimios Opiesh, Archbishop of Brooklyn, Primate of the Syrian church on the American continent, who visited Toronto recently. As a result of his visit it has been decided to build a Syrian church in the city. Around his neck he is wearing the Panajea, or jewel worn by bishops.

Sir Samuel and Lady Hoare, shown above, will be passengers on the first airplane to fly from London to Karachi on a new air route to be opened by Britain in January. Sir Samuel is Air Minister in the Baldwin Government.

Dr. Silas Rogers Corwith, 59, Bellport, Long Island, physician, and Miss Viola Alter, 18, immediately after their marrige at Brookhaven, Long Island. One of the bride's attendants was Mrs. Tilman Thompson, the groom's daughter, and the flower girl, little Miss Constance Thompson, his granddaughter.

Two of the men who, it is alleged, were connected with the sale of poisoned alcohol in Ontario last summer. They have been committed for trial at Hamilton. Left is Harry Sullivan; right, Edward Fred Miller. Miller, who testified in Sullivan's case, is only 20 years of age.

Mrs. Ursula Montgomery, widow of the late Lieut. Neville Montgomery, 29th Battalion, C.E.F., and daughter of Mrs. A. E. Phipps, of Toronto, whose marriage to Hon. Harold Robert Montgomery took place on November 12 at Nairobi, British East Africa. The Hon. H. R. Montgomery, who is commissioner and member of the Legislative Council of Kenya Colony, British East Africa, is the son of the Right Rev. Bishop Montgomery and Mrs. Montgomery, of Donegal, Ireland.

Mrs. Annie Besant, noted theosophist, who is seeking Canadian support for the Indian commonwealth bill, which received its first reading under the Ramsay MacDonald Government and which the Labor party is pledged to support. "Unless Indians are free," she says, "they will die, ancient nation as they are. We want freedom in peace and not by war. India does not desire to break with the Empire, but you cannot deny her a right to be as free as you are. How can England read her own history and yet refuse India freedom when she demands it?"

Lord Beaverbrook sketched "in repose" by the New Statesman artist. In "Clissold" Mr. Wells refers to Lord Beaverbrook as "clever as seven foxes, but impish," and asks what does he expect—the premiership? This sketch could illustrate even more directly "saviors of society," in which the author mentions Beaverbrook several times and makes his hero Sheridan suggest the Canadian Empire-strategist and modern Warwick. But it still more aptly illustrates what Beaverbrook thinks he knows about the decadence of England than Dean Inge in "England" does not.

Anna LaBrun, ABOVE, 25 years a nun at Montreal, Canada, left New Bedford, Mass, for Boston to buy her trousseau. She obtained release from nunnery vows by special dispensation from the Pope. On November 3rd she became the bride of Sergt. Frank Levesque, of the United States army. Pleading to be set free from nunnery, she said her mind and heart were starving. The couple will reside at Hampton, W. Va., army post. Photo shows Miss LaBrun in robes of the cloister.

The Duke and Duchess of York are shown ABOVE, photographed in the locomotive of the train which carried them to Ashford, where they laid the cornerstone of a new hospital.

Rev. T. T. Shields, pastor of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, recently expelled from the denomination's convention in that city after refusing to apologize for statements about the faculty of McMaster University, the denominational college. Mr. Shields, pastor of one of the largest Toronto churches, states he will found a college of his own, free of the teachings of "modernism."

In Havana, the picturesque capital of Cuba island, 250 persons lost their lives while much destruction has been wrought both throughout the city and in the harbor where docks and shipping suffered severely by the recent hurricane. The ABOVE views indicate Havana's tropical beauty and show the lower part of the city, including the famous Malecon, a waterfront drive, which was inundated during a similar storm in 1919. This district was reported to be engulfed during the recent devastating tempest. The picture at the RIGHT shows the beautiful Prado, now a scene of desolation.

MAKE PRESENTATION.

Trent River School Receive Gift of First Aid Kit.

TRENT RIVER, December 7. — The Women's Institute of West Seymour presented Trent River school with a first aid kit one day recently.

Two ounces iodine, bottle peroxide, Lypsol, 2 inch bandage, 1 inch absorbent cotton; vaseline, mercury ointment, tooth picks, paper straight pins, safety pins, needles, thread, scissors; dozen paper towels and some old cotton.

Personals.

Mrs. H. A. Christie and Miss Marie Davey left on Saturday for Toronto, after spending the past eight months at their cottage.

The first skating party of the season was held on Thursday night on Huidah's pond, the ice being in the best of condition.

Messrs. A. H. McKeel, Campbellford and N. Garneau of Trent River, completed building a large ice house for the summer resort on McKenzie Island, on Thursday.

NURSERY GARDENS

An English woman writer, in The Bystander, mades a plea for nursery gardens for children. She says that children in a nursery may have their own little gardens, not only of flowers, but of little trees as well, and goes on to explain the method.

Almond trees, it seems, may be started by running a thread through an almond, tying it to a pin stuck in the wall above the mantlepiece, and putting a tumbler of water underneath. One has to be careful that the water does no more than touch the almond, or it will be drowned. When the almond sprouts, it is planted in a pot. The same thing can be done with acorns, and mustard and cress may be grown on wet flannel.

Bowls filled with fibre may be used for bulbs, narcissus, daffodils, hyacinths, and tulips, and the bowls of fibre may be used for minature forests also, with a handful of acorns, chestnuts and beech nuts for the beginnings.

Grapefruit seeds placed in water are supposed to form a slender bit of foliage in time, and a garniture for a window needs only a moist sponge, with a few seeds of rye, red clover, oats and millet to finally turn into a mass of vivid green.

Anyone who has read Hans Andersen's exquisite story, "Five Out of a Pod," where the fifth pea takes root and becomes a garden of delight for a sick child, will understand how a pea, an acorn, or an almond that grows, is worth to a nursery as much as a bowlful of beautiful flowers.

Evening Examiner "IDEAL Fashions" by Jean Bell Hamilton

A Frock Expressing Smart Simplicity in Every Detail

Trimly fashioned of moire or fine woolen material, this frock follows the straight lines that the season stamps with indubitable smartness, at the same time hinting at a modish two-piece effect by means of the front of the skirt, having two groups of plaits, being joined to the bodice. The long tight-fitting sleeves are finished with flared cuffs of contrasting material and the same note of contrast is used in the graceful jabot and shaped collar. NO. 1488 is for ladies and is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 38 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch material, or 2½ yards 54-inch, and ⅝ yard 39-inch contrasting for collar, cuffs and jabot. 20 cents.

The garments illustrated in our new Fashion Book are advance styles for the home dressmaker, and the woman or girl who desires to wear garments dependable for taste, simplicity and economy will find her desires fulfilled in our patterns. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

First Woman Is Elected To Reeveship in Ontario

TIMMINS, Dec. 7.—Ontario has its first woman Reeve as a result to yesterday's elections in Tisdale Township. She is Mrs. Josephine A. Thomas, former owner of the old King George Hotel in South Porcupine. She was also prominently connected with the affairs of the Triplex Mining Company. Mrs. Thomas won the contest for Reeveship against three other aspirants, with a plurality of 68 over her nearest rival. Reeve Dave Kerr, who sought re-election, was among the candidates defeated by Mrs. Thomas.

Councillors elected were: J. Harris, J. Williams, J. J. St. Paul and J. Robertson.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1926

Astrologers read to-day signs that presage marvelous progress for education and for all that pertains to intellectual advancement.

Under this rule there may be a tendency toward irritability and illtemper, which should be controlled.

Divorces and many successive marriages are to increase so amazingly in the next year that there will be a national protest registered in some manner that will have an effect, the seers foretell.

Foreign powers will have numerous contentions, it is prognosticated, but there appears little prospect of anything more serious than diplomatic crises.

Again warning is given that the winter will be marked by a great number of fires. Cities will suffer severely and forests will be devastated, it is prophesied, owing to the malign influence of Mars.

Municipal improvements of every sort continue under the most stimulating influence of the stars, but cities are warning against putting the coming generations under heavy debt handicaps.

Publishing is to receive a tremendous impetus, it is forecast, and there will be reason to be especially interested in American literature.

Earthquakes and mining disasters have followed the prophesies of the seers made at the beginning of the year, but they are to be experienced again and again before the close of 1927.

Increase of insanity and melancholia may be expected under the aspect which will be strong in the next few months. Many suicides may be expected.

Mexico, Peru, Colombia and Venuela are likely to have many exciting incidents to record, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have a year of much promise in the way of writings, journey and general business affairs.

Children born on this day probably will enjoy successful careers. They are likely to be practical and well-balanced.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

This day was designed for lovers, if the gems which govern mortal destiny are read aright. The moonstone is the talismanic jewel. It has high rank as a gift for lovers, since, according to ancient superstition, it is believed to arouse the tender passion and to give the power to read the future. Its potency is sure marked when the moon is full.

Coral is prescribed for wear on this day. It is the hue which represents health and vigor and the wearing of it is believed to attract those qualities.

Fortunate are they who possess their natal stone, the ruby. Worn as an amulet, it will protect them from real or imaginary troubles.

Lavender sweet peas are the lucky flowers for this day.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

THE TRIAL

It was such a sensational trial that one could only get in the courtroom by ticket. So most of the spectators were friends of the judge or the lawyers or the newspaper men, or possibly the bailiff.

People would stoop to all sorts of naughty tricks to get a ticket for that trial. Success was a matter of boasting at dinner parties and at one's club.

The men in a position to dispense ticket privileges were highly popular and important, very sought-after gentlemen.

So when my neighbor seriously informed me she would "just run in on that trial to-day for an hour or two" I was naughty enough not to mention a word about tickets. She seemed so comfortably self-confident about it—although I had managed to glean that she was blissfully unaware that tickets were necessary.

It was with mischievous delight that I asked her how she had enjoyed the trial yesterday.

"Very interesting," she assured me. "Did you have any difficulty getting in?" I asked wondering.

"No, indeed. In fact, I was a little embarrassed. Everyone stared at me so, but made way for me and the policeman at the door made someone get up and give me a seat near the lawyer's table. The lawyers all stared at me so curiously and whispered about me to each other. I couldn't hear what they said. But presently a chair was brought in for another woman, and I was asked to move mine back a little. Then all the newspaper people began staring and whispering and laughing among themselves. I couldn't help feeling they were laughing about me. Now, why would they? I'm nobody. But after the trial began, it was very interesting and no one paid any more attention to me for a while. But when I came out the crowds all craned to look at me. I wondered what could be the matter."

So did I. I began to feel suspicious.

"What did you wear?" I asked.

"Oh, just my little black with the white collar and cuffs and my plain large black hat—why do you ask?"

Then I saw the light. You see, the star woman witness had worn a black dress with white collars and cuffs and a big floppy black hat the day before—and my friend was just about the same age and build.

"What did that star witness wear the day you were there?" I probed.

"Oh, she came in in a brown suit and furs and a small gilt toque. She was the one I had to make room for. . ."

Just then another neighbor came up. "Oh, how ever did you get a ticket?" she asked with passionate interest.

"You don't need any tickets; you just walk in," my first neighbor told her, serenely.

"I miss my bet if you are not made famous in this morning's paper," I remarked.

And sure enough there was half a column all about the lady in black who was mistaken for the star witness and so "crashed the gates," and a bright photographer had secured a huge picture of her which adorned the front page.

"Oh, dear," wailed my neighbor. "I would have died of fright if I'd known."

But she will treasure a copy of that paper through the years all the same.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The bolero idea is interestingly adapted to modern fashions in this frock of georgette crepe with draped skirt. Velvet is generously used for trimming.

The bolero as it is contrived this season may be becoming to almost any sort of figure. A few seasons ago it was only the exceptional woman who could wear the bolero to advantage. The reason for this is that there are many guises of the new bolero. Dressmakers take liberties with it, and sometimes it is so far removed from the Spanish prototype that it is only by courtesy that we can call it a bolero at all. Usually it is longer than the typical Spanish bolero and sometimes it is shaped. It does not always follow the original in being a sleeveless removable piece, and sometimes it is only a bolero "effect," produced by a fold of material applied around the lower part of the bodice.

Many of the leading French dressmakers make much of the bolero in their midseason displays. They seem to have much faith in its future. Brandt and Jenny are particularly keen about it, and with them the bolero, whether true or affected, is fairly long, ending just above the waistline, which is with them, as with many others, placed just at the top of the hips.

The Spanish woman for whom the bolero was first devised was, we must remember, a slender, almost lean individual. But somehow, with all her leanness, she lacked the effect of angularity that accompanies leanness with women of more northern countries. The short bolero with a normal waistline was quite possible for her. Her shoulders were broad enough and her waist naturally slender.

One of the season's novelties is the fur bolero. Jenny has a clever model of this sort consisting of a straight little sleeved bolero of shaded gray astrakan edged with fancy gold braid. It is worn over a black cloth frock the skirt of which consists of three flaring tiers. A lace tie that goes about the neck and is then tied in soft loops at the front gives a clever finish to this exceptional ensemble. Another original dressmaker has a bolero of gray krimmer worn over a skirt of pleated gray kasha. Often the bolero is of velvet edged with piping of satin.

Boleros appear on evening frocks as well as those for daytime, but then the bolero is one in semblance only. A cleverly arranged fold of the material of the bodice gives the desired effect.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

For years there has been a steady though not excessive demand for pieces of antique Chinese embroidery. These pieces give a touch of color that many women much admire—either by way of ornamenting a frock or adorning a table cover or cushion. Sometimes a large bit of fine Chinese embroidery is hung up as a penel on the wall.

The supply of these fine bits of embroidery has always been adequate but we are now told that the really fine pieces are becoming less plentiful. And as China comes more and more in contact with Western ways and ideas there will be less and less fine work of this sort. If you have any bits of this work by all means hold on to them. They may some day be much more coveted than they are at present and it will probably be hard to duplicate them.

Some of these pieces of Chinese embroidery are so fine that there are six hundred stitches to the square inch. The study of the patterns and workmanship of these embroideries is really very interesting and offers as much field for expertness as does the study of Chinese porcelains of pottery. If you are casting about for a hobby—you might find this one well worth while. It is still sometimes possible to pick up really nice bits of this work at not very great cost and friends who travel abroad may be able to bring back souvenirs of this sort to you.

APPLES AND PINEAPPLE

To every four pounds of apples use one good-sized pineapple. Pare, quarter and core the apples and after removing the skin and eyes of the pineapple, grate it. Mix a pound and a quarter of sugar and a quart of water, stir over the fire until the sugar is dissolved, and the grated pineapple and bring to the boiling point. Carefully slip in the apples (which have been previously boiled tender in water and drained and simmered a few moments). Then can the mixture.

EXCELLENT APPLE CHUTNEY

Peel and cut up six pounds of apples and three pounds of onions; slice two ounces of ginger very thin, add, two pounds brown sugar, one pound raisins, one pound mustard seed, dessertspoon of salt and half gallon of vinegar, and put into a preserving kettle; bring slowly to the boil, and simmer gently for a quarter of an hour.

At the end of that time cut up one pound of eschalots and put in—and let all boil together until it becomes a pulp—adding just a little more vinegar if too thick.

When ready, put into jars, and cover securely as soon as cool.

OLD MASTERS

The last and greatest herald of Heaven's King
Girt with rough skins, hies to the deserts wild,
Among that savage brood the woods forth bring,
Which he more harmless found than man, and mild.

His food was locusts, and what there doth spring,
With honey that from virgin hives distill'd;
Parch'd body, hollow eyes, some uncouth thing
Made him appear, long since from earth exiled.

There burst he forth: All ye whose hopes rely
On God, with me amidst these deserts mourn,
Repent, repent, and from old errors turn!

Only the echoes, which he made relent,
Rung from their flinty caves, Repent! Repent!

THE SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON

A Problem in Construction

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CORN CHECKERS

"Telephone for you, Uncle Wiggily!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to the rabbit gentleman who was asleep in his big arm chair the day after Thanksgiving.

"Telephone for me? I wonder who it is?" exclaimed the bunny, jumping up so quickly that he spilled Baby Bunty out of his lap and the small rabbit child fell to the floor ker bunko.

"Oh, excuse me, Baby Bunty!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I beg your pardon. I didn't know you were in my lap!"

"I did," answered the orphan bunny, for she had no folks of her own, living around in turn with the other families in Woodland. "I knew I was there all the while. And I know I'm on the floor now, and—Oh, dear! Boo hoo! I'm so mizzable!"

"Tut! Tut!" said Uncle Wiggily

kindly, as he hurried to the bath room to get a sponge to sop up Baby Bunty's tears. "You mustn't mind a little tumble like that. I didn't mean to let you fall!"

And then he put the sponge under Bunty's nose to catch the tears, and as the sponge was dry and hard it tickled the little rabbit orphan and she had to laugh. Now it is very hard to laugh and cry at the same time, though some children try to do it. And Bunty found it was easier to laugh than to cry, so she squeezed back her tears and then the telephone bell rang again.

"You may sit in my lap and I won't spill you out again, as soon as I see who wants me on the telephone," called Uncle Wiggily as he hopped across the room.

"You can't see anybody on the telephone," laughed Baby Bunty. "You can only hear them talk," and by that Uncle Wiggily knew she wasn't much hurt by tumbling out of his lap. So he laughed and Baby Bunty laughed and then the rabbit gentleman talked over the wire.

"What's that, Uncle Butter?" asked Mr. Longears. "You want me to hop over and play corn checkers with you? All right—yes, I'll bring an ear of corn. And I'll bring Baby Bunty, too. I just dropped her out of my lap and her feelings are hurt. No! No! I didn't say I had lost my HAT. I said I dropped Baby Bunty out of my LAP! Yes, I'll be right over to play corn checkers with you!"

"Oh, goodie!" cried Baby Bunty, clapping her paws. "And I'm going with you!" for she heard what Uncle Wiggily said. And a little later the rabbit gentleman and the little orphan bunny child were hopping over the fields toward the goat house of Uncle Butter. With him Uncle Wiggily took an ear of hard, dried corn. And it was with the kernels of corn he was going to play checkers with Uncle Butter.

Mr. Longears shelled the corn kernels from the cob, and gave the cob to Baby Bunty to play doll with. Then, with a piece of Aunt Lettie's black and white plaid dress for a board, the two old gentlemen sat down to play checkers.

"This isn't much fun for me," thought Bunty after a while, during which neither Uncle Wiggily nor Uncle Butter had so much as looked at her. "They are too busy with their checkers. I'll take this corncob and go out to play. My, how rough the cob is!" thought Bunty as she tried to put it in her pocket. "It's like a nutmeg grater."

Then, all of a sudden Uncle Wiggily gave a jump and a squirm and a twist and a squinch.

"What's the matter?" bleated Uncle Butter. "Are you getting nervous like my wife, because I am beating you at corn checkers?"

"No," answered Mr. Longears,—squirming harder than ever. "But I have an itchie place in the middle of my back and I can't reach it to give it a scratch. Oh, how it tickles!" and he tried, but with no luck, to scratch his back on the chair.

"Oh, let me scratch your back for you!" cried Baby Bunty. 'I have just the thing!" With that she took out the rough corncob and dropped it down Uncle Wiggily's back, inside his clothes, and right away his back stopped itching, for the cob scratched it properly.

"Baby Bunty is very clever!" bleated Uncle Butter.

"Indeed she is," agreed Uncle Wiggily. Then they each gave her a penny and Bunty skipped out and—bought a two-cent lollypop flavored like a cabbage, and very good it was. So Uncle Wiggily and the goat had time to finish playing corn checkers and each won a game.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT the newspaper profession is one of the highest to which a man or woman can aspire and all engaged in newspaper work should tell the truth in writing advertising copy and never "color" news copy.

THAT a good newspaper is a standing advertisement for the community it represents. Every citizen can help in the making of his local paper by subscribing to its circulation—at a cost that is low and a value that is great. Every community gets its money's worth through the home newspaper. It is the truck that carries the goods to market.

THAT on the foundation of enlarging production through the demand created by advertising, much of the success of modern industrialism system rests. It is to be seen that advertising is not an economic waste. It ministers to the true development of trade.

* * *

Newspaper advertising of goods, foodstuffs, etc., is of benefit to the manufacturer and merchant as well as to the consumer, creating and retaining a market for the seller and providing information for the buyer.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

WHY MEN ARE OLD

My daddy's gray around the ears,
And stooped around the shoulder;
My daddy says it's just his years,
He says he's getting older.
I tell him, though, that isn't true,
For I am growing older, too,
And getting bigger every day,
And yet I'm not the least bit gray.

My daddy isn't getting old.
He's just as young, I know it.
When people sit around and scold,
Why, that's the way they show it.
My daddy likes to play with me
Just like he did when I was three,
And now I'm five, and now I'm tall,
But Daddy hasn't changed at all.

He'll even sit and hold a doll,
Play football with my brother,
And once he hid the parasol—
He even plays with Mother.
He gets right down upon the floor
And roars the way that lions roar,
And lots and lots of times, of course,
I ride around, and he's the horse.

He builds a fort, he makes a well,
He builds a church and steeple;
And that's the only way to tell
About the age of people.
Men aren't old when they grow tall,
Or gray, or anything at all:
They aren't old, although they're gray;
Until they never want to play.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

DIET FOR GOUT

By Winifred Stuart Gibbs, Food Specialist.

Gout used to be called a rich man's disease, but it has been established that this condition may exist even be cause the body is underfed.

Whether it is acute or chronic, gout should be treated so far as diet is con cerned with several principles in mind. First, the body building material, energy or carbohydrate and fatty foods must be selected with great care and as one authority points out what is equally important, the patient must know exactly what to avoid. Soups made with meat stock must be absolutely discarded. Sauces and rich gravies are also taboo and the only fats taken should be cream, butter and vegetable oils.

Sweets should be avoided as they disturb both gastric and intestinal digestions; the ordinary food may be slightly sweetened. Salt should be kept down and alcohol, coffee, tea and cocoa discarded altogether.

A simple way in which to describe a diet for a gouty person is to say that it should be made up from purin free foods. Purins are little bodies contained in certain foods and their chemical nature is not of special inter est in a discussion like this. A more practical bit of information is to give a list of foods containing purins so that the gouty may avoid them. This list is as follows: salmon, halibut and other fatty fish, beef, mutton, veal, pork, ham, meat soups, certain vegetables and cereals containing small quantities of purins. These are oatmeal, lentils, peas, asparagus and onions.

It will be noted that there are cer tain vegetables and cereals which must be omitted from the diet. This fact is not so generally understood as the one about the necessity for cutting out meat.

Now for the list of foods which are purin free and from which the gouty may choose their meals. Eggs, caviar, milk, white bread only, butter, bis cuits, hominy, rice, farina, cream, sugar, syrup, jam, marmalade, cream, soups, potatoes, (except in extreme cases) cauliflower, cabbage, lettuce, egg plant, cheese, ice cream, water ices, plain cake, cornstarch, or tapioca pudding, custard and unfermented fruit juice.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

© 1926 MC. COY HEALTH SERVICE, LOS ANGELES, CAL.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question.—J. J. asks: Will you please tell me what to use to cure my little three-year-old girl of ringworm on her face and arms?

Answer.—An outside infection produces ringworm with those who are suffering from auto-intoxication. The ringworm, itself, can be cured temporarily by painting once or twice daily with a ten per cent solution of silver nitrate.

Question.—A. J. M. asks: Please state in your answers to questions what is the proper way to take an enema, how should the water be—how much soap—how should the body lie, how far should the tube be inserted, how long before it should act? Is it the best thing to take for liver trouble?

Answer.—If you will send a self-addressed stamped envelope I will send you a complete treatise on the best way to take an enema. The article is too long to print in the "Question and Answer" department.

Question.—Miss S. asks: What causes cankers in one's mouth on the inner side of the lip. Will a small lump of alum placed in the mouth cure it?

Answer.—This trouble is always caused from over-acidity of the stomach, and you will always be subject to these ulcers as long as you do not regulate your food combinations properly. Alum placed directly on the canker will tend to make it disappear more rapidly than if no treatment at all is used, but at the same time you must remember the necessity for removing the real cause.

Question.—Mrs. C. A. B. writes: I would be very thankful if you could tell me what makes my husband grit his teeth so badly in his sleep. He is 28 years old and well and strong, and not constipated.

Answer.—Your husband is no doubt suffering from some form of digestive trouble which causes him unconscious distress during hi sleep. Try feeding him more careful combinations at his evening meal, and see to it that he does not overeat.

Question.—A. M. F. writes: I have a little swelling right under my eyelids close to the under lashes. Can you tell me what to do to remove this swelling?

Answer.—Your trouble is no doubt due to some inflammation of the hair follicles of your lower lid. Try pulling out the lashes, and treating them several times daily with applications of hot towels. Also, use some good antiseptic eye wash which will keep your lids free from infection.

Question.—Mrs. G. B. asks: Would you please answer through your column on how to reduce weight?

Answer.—A special article has been prepared on this subject which is too lengthy to print in this column. If you will send self-addressed stamped envelope it will be sent to you by return mail.

Question.—A. G. C. asks: Could you please tell me through your column the cure of hives on a two-year-old boy?

Answer.—Hives are always produced from over-acidity of the stomach which comes from using wrong food combinations. Continue to study this health column each day, and you will soon learn how to balance your food properly.

Question.—M. C. R. writes: I have a friend who is troubled with boils. The family physician injected vaccine into his system, telling him that was an absolute cure. This settled in his limbs for a week, during which time he was unable to even stand on his legs. After that and during the entire summer he was noe troubled with boils until the first part of this month and he had a very bad ont at the corner of his eye.

Answer.—One who has a tendency to boils occurring often, will always be found to have a very definite case of systemic poisoning due to wrong food, enervation, and bad habits of living. The immediate cause of boils is an infection which is rubbed into the skin, but develops only in those people who are in a chronic state of toxemia. I do not approve of the vaccine treatment for this disorder, even though it seems to be effective in some cases. My reason for this is that I have observed so many cases where other troubles were produced by the vaccine, which is almost impossible to prepare in a pure form. A short fast, followed by the proper diet, will cure your friends of his present trouble, and he should then learn to live so that no more boils will develop.

OLD MASTERS

Like as the waves make toward the pebbled shore,
So do our minutes hasten to their end;
Each changing place with that which goes before,
In sequent toil all forwards do con tend.

Nativity, once in the main of light,
Crawls to maturity, wherewith being crown'd,
Crooked eclipses 'gainst his glory fight,
And Time that gave, doth now his gift confound.

Time doth transfix the flourish set on youth,
And delves the parallels in beauty's brow;
Feeds on the rarities of nature's truth,
And nothing stands but for his scythe to mow:—

And yet, to times in hope, my verse shall stand
Praising Thy worth, despite his cruel hand.

THIS CANADA OF OURS

Canada's Pulp and Paper Industry

Q—What is the current condition of the pulp and paper industry?

A—The pulp and paper industry is steadily growing in importance and its expansion in the last decade stands out as one of the most striking achievments in the history of Canadian industry. The importance of this trade to the country is shown in the fact that it contributed $158,308,167 to the favorable balance of trade for 1925-26. The net value of production in 1925 was $202,783,017, an increase of 8.3 per cent over the former year.

SHORT STORY

(By Gilbert Fenton.)

"Yes—I believe every girl should know how to earn her own living," said Mary's mother.

"Then why in the world didn't you teach me something that I could turn my hand to?" asked Mary, a trifle petulantly.

The mother shook her head. "The matter was not in my hands, dear. Your father was not an old-fashioned man but he is an obstinate Scotchman as well. He never begrudged anythiig he spent on the education of the boys, but when I tried to get him to let you have some sort of training that would make you economically independent he always refused."

"And now that he is gone I could be of some real help yo tou, mother, if—if I knew how to do anything but make bread and butter!" Mary was almost in tears.

"You are of very great help and comfort to me, daughter. But I wish, for your own sake, that you had something at your fingers' ends that would bring you an income."

"I should think you did. That's why they always ask you to make them for all the parties and church suppers and picnics. But——"

"Mother—why couldn't I go into the home-made bread and butter business? I notice that lots of lunch counters and drug stores have stacks of sandwiches—apparently made by someone not in the shop—and I know mine are better."

Mrs. MacMaster's face brightened. "It might be just possible. And I could help."

The idea grew almost as fast as daffodils in spring rain and sunshipe, and it was not long before Mary and her mother were making dozens of home-made bread and butter sandwiches. Everyone who took one dozen always came back with a doubled order the next time.

Mary had a small car and she delivered the carefully wrapped fresh bread and butter in person. She and her mother lived on a small farm within four miles of a good-sized college town in New England. They had always kept a cow when the father was alive, and had made their own butter three times a week and sold it to the neighbors. Now, instead of selling Daffy, the Jersey cow, as they had intended to when they were left alone, they decided to charge more for their sandwiches and use only home-made butter with the home-baked bread.

Inside of a short time Mary found a way to advertise a little. She had some waxed paper wrappings printed with the name, "Mary's Bread and Butter." She and her mother had to get up early in the morning to bake the big, fragrant loaves of bread. It was hard work but they were spurred on by success and they did not mind it. A man outside to take care of the cow and help with the heavy work was all the help the two women had. But neither of them had ever been happier.

One morning when Mary was sitting at the white pantry table spreading fresh bread with home-made butter from a blue crock that fairly danced in the sunlight, a young man stepped to the kitchen door.

He had his cap in his hand as he spoke to Mrs. MacMaster and she could see him inhaling, with long intakes of breath, the delicious aroma of fresh bread.

"Is this where—Mary—lives?" he asked, smiling. "They told me I would find her here."

"I am Mrs. MacMaster, Mary's mother."

"Oh—well, you see, we are having a party at the Fraternity House next week and the fellows delegated me to find out if we couldn't get some of 'Mary's Bread and Butter' for three days. We're all crazy about it, and we'd like our guests over the week-end to have it."

Mrs. MacMaster called him inside and presented him to her daughter. Mary kept on buttering bread and talking business at the same time. She was delighted with the idea of supplying the boys. It would be a good advertisement and she knew the sweethearts and sisters and chaperons of the lads would appreciate her bread.

"My name is Stanley Hitchcock. I could come for the sandwiches every day, you know, if that would help any," he said, the tell-tale red flooding his boyish cheeks as he wondered whether they could tell that he had just thought of that last idea—after seeing Mary.

"I didn't know there was such food in the world," he said, as he left. "I'll be here Friday at five."

He was. And he was there almost every day from then on. The bread and butter business grew so alarmingly that Mary and her mother made an arrangement with Stanley to help them in their delivering. Since he was helping himself through college, he was glad to do it. But, even if he had not been, there was another more important reason.

He and Mary MacMaster had fallen in love, slowly, surely. They were both young and they both had their own way to make in the world so that they were in no hurry about being married.

"We'll keep on with our business no matter what you do, Stanley," Mary told him. "And then mother will always have something to depend on."

So Mary had proven to herself that though she could do but one thing well—it paid.

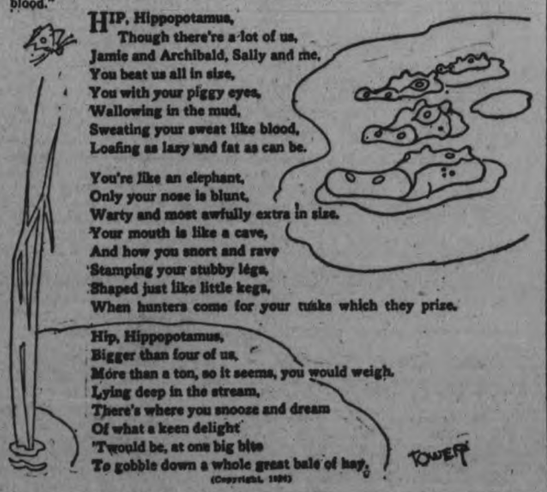
Hip, Hippopotamus

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

AT the circus or the zoo the hippopotamus comes in for rather more than his share of interest because he is such a curious, unwieldy beast. The children crowd to his cage asking almost innumerable questions, in answer to which we can tell them many interesting things. Hippopotamus means "river horse," but in reality he belongs to the pig family. Large specimens will weigh as much as four tons. His hide is one and a half inches thick, rough and very leathery. He feeds on water plants and grass, often journeying eight or nine miles for pasturage—and it's remarkable how fast this clumsy beast can travel. He sleeps in the water in herds and when he wants to cover up he just closes his eyes and pars and sinks from sight. When he's excited or in pain his body is covered with drops of reddish fluid which gives rise to the popular opinion that he "sweats blood."



HIP, Hippopotamus,
Though there're a lot of us,
Jamie and Archibald, Sally and me,
You beat us all in size,
You with your piggy eyes,
Wallowing in the mud,
Sweating your sweat like blood,
Loafing as lazy and fat as can be.

You're like an elephant,
Only your nose is blunt,
Warty and most awfully extra in size.
Your mouth is like a cave,
And how you snort and rave
Stamping your stubby legs,
Shaped just like little kegs,
When hunters come for your tusks which they prize.

Hip, Hippopotamus,
Bigger than four of us,
More than a ton, so it seems, you would weigh.
Lying deep in the stream,
There's where you snooze and dream
Of what a keen delight
'Twould be, at one big bite
To gobble down a whole great bale of hay.

Latzo to Defend Welterweight Title Against Simonich

CHANGE MADE IN FIRST PLACE OF FIRST DIVISION

Newcastle United Leads For First Time in Many Years.

SWANSEA UNSEATED.

Leading Clubs in Scottish League All Suffer Defeat.

Newcastle United for the first time in many years lead the English League, First Division, for which happy position they must give liberal thanks to Derby County, who gave Sunderland, the leaders up to Saturday afternoon, a wicked jolt. With the Bloomer outfit ready to hold a "clearance sale" and the team third from the bottom of the league, Sunderland never for a moment expected to be tripped up at Derby Park, but they were and in no half-hearted manner and the result may give Derby County fresh hope. However, it is anybody's championship as yet for with the season nigh half gone only three points separate the first seven clubs. Sunderland and Newcastle have the same number of points, but the latter not only have a superior goal average, but have two games in hand.

Champions Draw Again.

Huddersfield Town registered their eleventh drawn game, when they split the points with Manchester United at Old Trafford. With the exception of the game at Liverpool a month ago, Huddersfield have drawn every encounter played away from home, a remarkable feature of the league play this season and something unprecedented in soccer history. Out of eighteen games they have won six and drawn eleven, losing the other. In spite of this the Yorkshiremen find themselves in third place, running even with Burnley who scored a victory over Wednesday, taking the points by the only goal registered in the game.

Hull Victorious

The Second Division saw Swansea Town lost their place as leaders when Hull City gained full points at the expense of Portsmouth, while the Welshmen were dividing the issue at Southampton. The feature engagement of this string was that at Preston, where for the first time this season the North Enders were defeated on their own ground. Their conquerors were Manchester City, who took the honors by four goals to two.

The battle for promotion is wide open with eight—and possibly ten—teams well in the running. Hull City are favorites, with Swansea running neck-and-neck with them, but Middlesboro, Manchester City, Portsmouth, Preston North End, Notts Forest, Southampton, Oldham, and Chelsea all represent forces to be seriously reckoned with.

Upheaval in Scotland

Leading clubs in the Scottish League First Division all joined in a landslide, Motherwell, Rangers and Aberdeen meeting with defeat, both Motherwell and Rangers on their own ground. It was Celtic who brought their third defeat to Motherwell, the present leaders, when they secured the points by a solitary goal.

But the greatest upset of the day was the severe handling of the Rangers at Ibrox Park by the lowly Hamilton Academicals, the latter yielding only one goal to the Glaswegians out of the five scored.

Another surprise was the defeat by Dundee United, the tail-enders of Heart of Midlothians. It was a peculiar game, one in which eight goals were scored, and of these the winners took five. It was Dundee United's second win this season.

Airdrieonions were responsible for Aberdeen's defeat, taking the measure of the Deesiders by the odd goal in three. Hibernians gained an easy victory over Kilmarnock at Easter Road, when they ran up five goals to one by the Ayrshire team.

Could Not Sleep Heart and Nerves Were So Bad

Mr. Geo. Meek, Windsor, Ont., writes:—"I suffered with my heart and nerves and could not sleep at night for noises in my head. I managed to keep at my work somehow, until I began to have dizzy spells which got so bad I could not go to my work. I was afraid to go out any place, for very often I would stagger on my feet, and everything in front of me would turn black and fade away. While I was home sick a friend told me to take MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS. I got four boxes and by the time I had used them the pains and noises in my head ceased and I was able to get a good night's rest. Although that was six years ago I have never been troubled with that complaint again."

Senators and Cards Play Spring Series

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—A forecast of their pennant chances in the 1927 major league race may be revealed in the spring training of the Washington Senators and the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

The two clubs will meet in a five-game exhibition series during their Florida pre-season workouts. The Senators will battle the Cards at their training camp at Avan Park, Fla., March 21 and 22, and the world champions will meet Washington at Tampa, March 29, 30 and 31.

LATZO TO RISK TITLE AGAINST

Welter Champion Will Box Simonich in Newark Ring.

IS HEAVY FAVORITE.

Bout Will Mark Latzo's First Appearance After Long Layoff.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. — Another world's championship bout will top the list of boxing events this week, and though not scheduled for New York it will be staged close enough to assure a large representation of Gotham fans at the ringside. It will be fought in the First Regiment Armory in Newark to-morrow night and will see Steve Latzo, world's welterweight champion, in action against Joe Simonich of Butte, Mont., in a bout scheduled for ten rounds.

Although the Latzo-Simonich battle will be a no-decision contest, the title will be at stake, as both fighters are to come in at the 147-pound welterweight limit. Simonich, if he makes the weight, therefore, will be able to lift the crown if he scores a knockout victory, wins on a foul or in the event that Latzo is forced to stop through incapacitation.

The bout will mark Latzo's first appearance after a long layoff, during which period there were frequent rumors that the champion was suffering from an injury which would keep him out of the ring for all time. Latzo, however, has put all these reports to route. He has trained hard and faithfully for this test for many weeks and announces himself to be in as fine condition as he was that night last May when he startled the boxing world by wresting the welterweight title from Mickey Walker.

Latzo will enter the ring strongly favorite, but Simonich is expected to give the champion a spirited battle. The Butte boxer has been showing impressively in his recent starts and in his training workouts, with the result that he will have plenty of backers when he climbs through the ropes.

INGRAM JOINS HUDDLE FOES

Shifts, Forward Pass and Point After Touchdown Under Fire.

IT SLOWS GAME.

NEW YORK, Dec 7 (Associated Press).—Few football campaigns have closed under a sharper attack on rules governing modern formations than the campaign of 1926.

To the growing list of complaints against the shift, effectiveness of which already has been chained by the Western Conference, the point after touchdown, and the incomplete forward pass penalty, now has been added criticism of the huddle system.

Two outstanding opponents of the group method of signalling are Bill Ingram, coach of this year's undefeated Navy eleven, and Lou Little, Georgetown mentor. The former believes that it throttles the personality and generalship of quarterbacks and is useless unless used to embody quick shifts.

Little describes the huddle as a "drawback" to the game," contending that it slows up the contest. "The way virtually all the teams use it, the huddle should be thrown out," he concludes.

Opinion is general among coaches that the five-yard penalty for second and third incomplete aerials during a four-down series, adopted last year as an experiment, has failed in its purpose to curb indiscriminate passing. Losing teams as a general rule were willing to change the penalties in gambling with the pass as a last resort.

Tad Jones is among leading coaches who favor a change in the rule governing the point after touchdown. He contends that the present condition, under which the teams line up on the five-yard line for the try, makes the play too easy. Since nearly all the teams are employing place or drop kicks, he would have the boot made from a point at least 20 yards from the goal posts. The kicker, under the present rule, is able to swing in the ball from a point between the 10 and 15-yard stripes.

LANDIS SILENT ON QUESTION OF SECOND TERM

As He Arrives in Asheville For Minor League Meetings.

FACES SPLIT.

Matt Donahue To Play First For Western League Champions.

ASHEVILLE, N.C., Dec. 7 (Associated Press). — Headed by K. M. Landis, High Commissioner of Baseball, hundreds of club owners and managers arrived here Sunday for the twenty-fifth annual session of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, which meets today.

Mr. Landis declined to say whether he would accept the Commissioner's office for another seven years, if elected on Dec. 16. He went immediately to the golf course.

The Western League, faced with a possible split, went into executive session late yesterday. With Tulsa and Oklahoma City asking permission to withdraw, and an effort to move the St. Joseph's team to Amarillo, Texas, coming up for settlement before a schedule can be considered, the meeting promises to be a long one.

The Board of Arbitration was scheduled to meet in the afternoon, but its session was postponed until Monday morning on account of absentees.

The first commercial transaction of the convention took place when Des Moines employed Matt Donahue, former first sacker for Mobile, Southern Association, to play first base for the Western League pennant holders.

Duffy Lewis, once a member of the famous Speaker-Lewis-Hooper combination, was ready to enter into any transaction which would give him a managerial post for next year. He managed Mobile last year.

JAPANESE CUE STAR KEEPS JUNIOR TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7 (Associated Press) — Kinrey Matsuyama, diminutive Japanese, still wears the national junior 18.2 balk-line billiard crown. The campaign of Ary Bos formerly of Holland, but now of this city, for recovery of the title which the Japanese player won from him last spring met with failure.

Bos was beaten 1200 to 832. The match was played in three blocks of 400 points each. After the first block, which Bos won 400 to 368, the challenger did not make a serious threat.

Matsuyama's run of 112 in the second block, the best of the match gave him a commanding lead. In the final block Matsuyama gathered 400 points while Bos was making 158.

The match was completed in 59 innings, Matsuyama averaging 20 20-59 and Bos 14 20-58. The challenger's high run was 95, made on the second night.

REYNOLDS RETAINS WRESTLING CROWN

DETROIT, Dec. 7 — Jack Reynolds, claimant of the world's welterweight wrestling championship, defeated Basanta Singh of Calcutta India, in straight falls at Carpathia Hall Friday evening.

Singh applied a combination Japanese wristlock to win the first fall after 22 minutes of wrestling. Reynolds lifted the Hindu off of the mat, worked a jack knife slam, and then pinned the shouders of the Hindu to the mat to win the second fall in 11 minutes. Reynolds ended the match by taking the third fall in two minutes with a body lock.

In the preliminaries Jack Taylor, Oklahoma, 168, was downed by John Felix, Chicago, 152 in four minutes, with a head scissors and body lock, and Art Perkins, Detroit, 145, defeated George Wolf, Detroit, 145, in 23 minutes with a toe hold.

Jennings To Return To Ball Field In Spring Slated To Manage the Indians, Rumor Says

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 7 (A.P.).—Declaring that he never belt better in his life, Hughie Jennings assistant manager of the New York Giants and former leader of the Detroit Tigers, announced yesterday that he would get back into baseball next Spring. Jennings has been away from the diamond more than a year because of a nervous breakdown.

Jennings will not rejoin the Giants when he returns to the game.

"I have my own reasons for not desiring to join the New York club," Jennings said. "McGraw and I are the best of friends, but no offer from the Giants can get me back."

Jennings stated that he is desirous of heading some club, but does not want a position that will require him to get out on the coaching lines and give the "E-Yah" yell that made him famous. That work is too strenuous now, he said. Jennings declined to comment on a report that he has been offered the berth of manager of Cleveland Americans from which Tris Speaker recently resigned.

Although Jennings would not comment on it, a persistent report was circulated in baseball circles here and in Cleveland that he would follow Tris Speaker to the helm of the Cleveland Indians. John McGraw, it was said, knew of this last week when he announced that Jennings would not be back with the Giants, Roger Bresnahan remaining as assistant manager and coach.

MID-WEST LEADS IN PLACINGS ON ALL STAR TEAM

Places Five to Four For East on Eleven Picked.

JOESTING HEADS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. — For the first time in nearly forty years of All-American football ranking the distinction of carrying off the most places on the mythical all-star college eleven passes from the East to the Middle West.

This was revealed in a nation-wide consensus compiled by The Associated Press and reflecting the opinions of more than 100 coaches and critics. With no college having more than one representative in the first eleven, the East has four, while the South and Far West have one each.

Not since the late Walter Camp first established the All-America idea in 1889 with a team composed entirely of Eastern players has the balance of power passed before to the other side of the Alleghanies. Last year the East had six of the eleven positions on the first team compilation by The Associated Press, the Middle West three and Far West two.

East Gains One Advantage.

Taking the 1926 squad as a whole, however — first, second and third teams—the East retains its traditional leadership with fourteen out of thirty-three places. The Middle West has eleven, the Far West five and the South three. Twenty-six institutions are represented on the list.

This year's campaign hasn't been lacking in individual stars, but comparatively few, particularly among the backfield performers, have captured popular imagination to the extent that Red Grange, George Wilson, Ernie Nevers, "Swede" Oberlander and others did in 1925.

Herb Joesting, Minnesota's plunging fullback, is an exception. He came near to being the unanimous choice of the experts who selected this year's All-American line-up. His running mates — Friedman of Michigan, Kaer of Southern California and Baker of North-Western —all polled heavy votes, but it was by a comparatively slim margin that they gained first team places over such all-around aces as Spears of Vanderbilt, Harry Wilson of the Army, "Wild Bill" Kelly of Montana and Frank Kirkleski of Lafayette.

It is noteworthy that three of the all-star ball-carriers — Friedman, Kaer and Baker—occupied quarterback positions on their teams. Most of the critics, while favoring the Michigan captain as field general of the mythical aggregation, considered the all-around capabilities of Baker and Kaer valuable enough to shift them to halfback roles.

FARM EDUCATION BEING EXTENDED

Great Change in Attitude Since Survey Was Made.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Addressing the fall meeting of the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturalists here, Dr. L. S. Klinck, President of the University of British Columbia, gave an interesting account of the reaction which had taken place in the various Provinces when a committee of the society had placed before departments of education and agriculture their findings in regard to establishing agricultural education.

In Halifax, said Dr. Klinck, the Department of Education was uninterested in the matter of agricultural education. Since six years ago when there had been a great interest in agriculture in schools, the situation had completely changed. In graduate work at Truro College the interest is purely academical, he said.

On Prince Edward Island they were mildly interested and slightly discouraged. The agricultural school there had been closed.

New Brunswick is in a chaotic condition, he continued. They have no sound policy in the mater of agricultural education. The Departments of Agriculture and Education differ in their opinion regarding the matter.

In Quebec he found a complete change of attitude. Officials were greatly interested in the work of the committee, while Ontario was an enigma to him, he declared. They seemed to be in sympathy with the findings of the committee, as a whole, but they were not sure how to proceed.

Farmers did not want agriculture taught in either High or Public Schools in Manitoba, declared Dr. Klinck, either for its educational or vocational value.

In Alberta the Department of Education sees almost eye to eye with the committee, and in Saskatchewan there is also perfect accord.

FINE BARN BURNED.

Lantern Being Used To Light Milkers Explodes— Two Lambs Killed.

DUNSFORD, December 7. — A fine barn, the property of Ned McGaughey, was completely destroyed by fire about 7 o'clock last night.

Milking was in progress at the time and a lantern that was being used exploded, the flames spreading rapidly. All the stock with the exception of two lambs was saved.

Some insurance was carried but it is believed, not sufficient to cover the amount of the loss.

COUNCIL ORDERS BUILDING MOVED

New Structure in Campbellford Projects Across Street Line.

REGULAR MEETING.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7—"Be firm, gentlemen business is business. That building is on the street and it should be moved" was the comment of one of the councillors at last night's meeting of the Town Council, and accordingly V. M. Marks will be instructed to remove the building he recently erected on Alma Street. In the opinion of some of the Councillors the building projects about a foot and a half on the street, and the roof projection would come directly over the sidewalk.

Considerable discussion arose over the Transient Traders' License, in the case of L. J. Elliott, who recently opened a restaurant on Front Street. Town Solicitor Lynch advised the Council that, in his opinion, Mr. Elliott wasn't liable under the Transient Traders' License, and no action was take.

Mr. Aylesworth, a surveyor, making a new plan of the town had signed an agreement to have it ready by December 15th; he had worked hard, but found so many extras he had not counted on ,that he found it impossible to have it completed at the stated time. He asked for an extension of time. This was granted, and the time extended to Feb. 1st.

Dr. Longmore presented a bill for a new wire fence between his property and the town property, on which is located the Armories, on Tice Street. He asked the Council to pay half, and complained of the condition of the lot. It was overgrown with weeds. The Council will assume its share of the fence, and notify Major Bygott, who has supervision over the Armories to have the lot put in proper shape.

Because the town scales were out of commission for ten day, Weigher Edward Nancarrow asked for a rebate on his tender. Mr. Nancarrow pays for the privilege in the form of a rent, and he was relieved of one month's portion, to compensate him for his loss. All the town scales have been tested and repairs made where necessary.

W. I. Stillman was granted a rebate on his business tax. His store has been practically closed ever since he was injured in an automobile accident last June.

Councillor Cole, on behalf of Charles Cochrane and other on Kent Street, asked for a light to be placed on Kent Street; one of the parties interested had a buggy stolen the other night, hence their request for a light. It was granted.

The by-law to be submitted to the electors at the municipal elections on January third, re the agreement with the National Steel Castings, Limited, was read for the third time, and the ratepayers will have a chance to approve or disapprove of it on Jan. 3.

Town Clerk McGregor was instructed to issue tenders for the weigh scales at the station and at the market square. Tenders will close December 15th. After passing the pay sheet, the Council adjourned.

COBOURG PREPARES FOR OWN ELECTION

Most of 1926 Council Likely To Seek Re-election.

COBOURG, Dec. 7.—Now that the Provincial election is over, interest is beginning to turn to the municipal arena of politics. It is not yet definitely known who will be in the field but it is thought that the majority of the 1926 council will stand for re-election. The sale of the Langslow factory site here and the establishment in Cobourg of Edwards and Edwards industry, has added fresh laurels to their career. Following deputy-returning officers and clerks have been appointed:

No. 1—Messrs. Joe Fox and Bert Noll.

No. 2—Messrs. John Butler and A. E. Martin.

No. 3—Messrs. D. B. McGuire and John Huycke.

No. 4—Messrs. W. Forber and George Carley.

No. 5—Messrs. S. Rorabeck and John Delanty.

No. 6—Messrs. Harold Denton and Richard Niles.

DESERTED.

Empty Pews—Empty Pews,
Many should fill them,
But few will choose.
Rather the jazz of the great white way;
Sooner the dance, and the devil to pay—
God has His due! There's nothing to lose?
Empty Pews—Empty Pews,

Empty Pews—Empty Pews,
Hearts that are breaking
Will ne'er refuse
Arms that are open to take them in;
Haven of refuge from grief and sin,
Ye hold not true, and they now accuse—
Empty Pews—Empty Pews.

New C·C·M· OLYMPIA EXTRA

Has a ROCKER Blade and a SEMI-ELLIPTIC Tube

AND see, boys—you can add all the extra rocker you like, because the lower side of the tube has been specially shaped to conform with the curvature of the blade. Look at the picture. Note part marked "B." Grinding won't go near it. The main body of the tube is perfectly straight—not rockered (notice the dotted line), thus retaining all its original strength and rigidity. C·C·M· tubes are built rigid for real hockey.

Sheffield Chrome Nickel Steel blades—the kind that take and hold a razor edge. Electrically welded, not rivetted. Smooth silver aluminum Duco finish. The New C·C·M· Olympia Extra will help you to play fast hockey. See it today.

KITCHENER READY FOR S. P. A. GAME

Strong Team Lined Up To Meet Petes at Toronto To-night.

KITCHENER, Dec. 7.—Kitchener fans had their first chance last night to see the intermediate and junior hockey candidates at work in the auditorium, and they got plenty of encouragement. The juniors had no less than two dozen out, all those of last year's team that were eligible being out, in addition to a host of new material from the Collegiate and the City League. They worked out in relays under the direction of Manager Leo Quinn.

The intermediates had 18 men in uniform, including many of the veterans of last year, who extended the New Hamburg champions in the group race, as well as many experienced youngsters, several of the junior teams of last year.

The seniors did not practice last night as a team, although some worked out. They have done a little work at Stratford and at home and are ready for their S.P.A. senior game in Toronto tonight against Peterboro. They expect a battle, and are ready for it. Milt Fries and Roy Klem are available for net duty, while George Karges and Cammie Seagram will be on the defence. "Chuck" Roth will be at centre, George Hiller at right, and Lloyd Gross at left, while the subs will be Roy Hinsperger, "Tee" Hillman and Carl Schmidt. The latter, Cammie Seagram and Milt Fries are the newcomers, but all are local boys. Fries played junior in Kitchener and senior in London. Seagram played in the "prep" group of the O.H.A., and Schmidt is a junior of last year.

Toronto Comment.

Peterboro and Kitchener senior O.H.A. teams will meet at the Arena to-night in the S.P.A. series. This is the first game in Toronto this season between O.H.A. senior teams from outside the city. These teams are in separate groups this season, and on paper they look pretty strong. The O.H.A. senior champions from the Lift Lock City are out to repeat again, although they have lost two of their stars of last season in Irvine Bailey of the Toronto N.H.L. team and Bruce Cox.

Kitchener will have several familiar faces on its line-up. George Hiller and George Karges will be on the team together with Hillman. The team has been practicing at Stratford and is said to be in good shape for the game.—The Globe.

CREW OF VESSEL BROUGHT ASHORE

Breeches Buoy Used To Save Seven Men From Wrecked Ship.

ALL FROST BITTEN.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—All seven members of the crew of the three-masted schooner W. M. Reinhart were rescued by a Breeches buoy early today after the craft had been driven ashore at Race Point during a gale.

All seven survivors were frostbitten and suffering from exposure when brought ashore by the crew of the Race Point coastguard station under command of Captain William Wolfe. Two of them were unable to walk after they were lifted from the Breeches buoy. They were taken to the coastguard station and given medical attention.

Buffeted by waves and wind, the schooner struck on the beach about half a mile from Race Point coastguard station about 1.30 a.m. to-day. Stranded in the midst of breakers, the schooner was constantly swept by huge waves that threatened to sweep the members of the crew overboard, as they clung to the rigging. They suffered extreme hardship as a result of the low temperature, which stood at 26 degrees here, and when they were brought ashore they were wet to the skin and their clothing coated with ice.

Rescue was accomplished in an hour and a half from the time that the breeches buoy was rigged and the first man hauled to safety over it.

Over the twenty odd thousand miles of railway in Great Britain, passengers last year took 1,746,000,000 journeys. And out of that enormous total number of journeys that ended fatally for passengers was—exactly one. And then the unfortunate traveller did not die until ten days later—from the effects of the shock.

ORGANIZE FOR BASKETBALL

Two Teams Will Be Entered in the O.A.B.A. Series.

PRACTICE TO-NIGHT.

At a meeting last night of those interested in basketball it was decided to enter two teams this year in the Ontario Basketball Association, a junior and an intermediate team.

On Saturday the juniors are to play an exhibition game in Orillia and there will be practise tonight in the Y.M.C.A. for all those interested in basketball who are twenty years and under. The team which will be entered in the Intermediate series and those wishing to try out for the same will play the juniors a game tomorrow night at 8.00 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A.

THEATRE

"THE HOUSE OF USSHER"

For an engagement limited to one night only, Clarence Derwent and his London Company in H. V. Esmond's comedy drama "The House of Ussher," is announced as the attraction at the Grand Opera House next Friday evening. This brilliantly written play, in three acts, has enjoyed long runs in both London and quite recently concluded an eight months stay in New York City, from whence it comes almost directly to the New Detroit Opera House.

Mr. Esmond has to his credit such well known successes as "When We Were Twenty-One" made famous in America by Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliot and "Eliss ... to Stay" which placed ... Moore on the topmost rung ... But it was left for Mr. Esmond to supply a well told, nicely written clearly spoken story of the theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL

ADOLPHE MENJOU IN "THE ACE OF CADS."

With the interesting Menjou starring in the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week, companied by Charlie Chaplin in an old, but still entertaining comedy, "A Dog's Life," there is plenty of amusement for the movie patron. Menjou, who grows old rapidly, is one of the finest exponents of sophisticated roles on the screen, and his imperturbable ways have a splendid scope as the hero of "The Ace of Cads." Lieutenant Capel Maturin, one of His Majesty's Guardsmen, who, like his trusted friend and companion, Basil de Gramercy, is in love with Eleanour Maitland, a part taken in her usual excellent style by the lovely Alice Joyce. Basil double-crosses his chum, and, in a cafe scene, causes his rejection by the girl he loves and his public disgrace in the eyes of his commanding officer. Maturin goes away and Basil marries the girl. Nineteen years later, the scene shifting in the meantime from old styles in dress and deportment to modern modes and manners, he returns to London, to find Eleanour a widow and the mother of a charming daughter, Joan. To satisfy his desire for revenge, he makes love to the daughter, and the affair complicates itself into one of the eternal triangular mix-ups that delight romantic minds. The ending is just as odd as the story itself, which is romantic and entertaining in its unfolding, but suffers slightly from a draggy tempo at odd moments.

Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life," has a peculiar quality to audiences who have not seen much of him for some time past. What might be termed resurrected laughs are aroused by his antics in the Green Tavern, where his lady love wears long hair and a long dress and the patrons dance old-time dances. It is a funny thing, with the comedian doing his best in his ridiculous trousers and with his white "purp" tagging along on a rope behind him, but it has a distictly old-time flavor.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

NEW MAYO COMEDY ANOTHER SUCCESS.

"Money Talks" is One of the Funniest Films of the Season.

"Money Talks" is another spoke in the wheel of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's big pictures. This comedy, which was directed by Archie Mayo, had its initial showing last night at the Regent Theatre before an enthusiastic audience.

Miss Windsor, who has long been a favorite in Peterboro, has never been better than she is as Phoebe Starling in "Money Talks." She is developing in acting ability, and plays her comedy scenes with a poise and grace that is seldom found in a production of this type.

Owen Moore, last seen in "The Black Bird," has a new type of role for him. It is Moore's first farce comedy role, and in the latter part of the picture he does a female impersonation that is a "wow," to use a pet phrase of the industry. He makes a delightfully amusing rather than a beautiful woman.

Bert Roach, the inimitable comedian of "Excuse Me," and "Don't," has a role somewhat similar to his others in 'Money Talks.' Bert again plays the goofy drunk, but he has greater opportunities in this production, and makes the most of them.

Ned Sparks, the famous stage and screen comedian, scores as 'Lucius' and Kathleen Key is delightful as the beautiful prima donna.

"Money Talks" is altogether one of the most delightful and funniest comedies that has graced the screen of the Regent Theatre in many a day, and should be seen by everyone who appreciates a good laugh. Phillips Smalley, Dot Farley, George Kuwa and others are in the cast. Frederic and Fanny Hatton wrote the photoplay from a short story by Rupert Hughes, and the adaptation was done by Jessie Burns and Bernard Vorhaus.

KITCHENER READY FOR S. P. A. GAME

Strong Team Lined Up To Meet Petes at Toronto To-night.

KITCHENER, Dec. 7.—Kitchener fans had their first chance last night to see the intermediate and junior hockey candidates at work in the auditorium, and they got plenty of encouragement. The juniors had no less than two dozen out, all those of last year's team that were eligible being out, in addition to a host of new material from the Collegiate and the City League. They worked out in relays under the direction of Manager Leo Quinn.

The intermediates had 18 men in uniform, including many of the veterans of last year, who extended the New Hamburg champions in the group race, as well as many experienced youngsters, several of the junior teams of last year.

The seniors did not practice last night as a team, although some worked out. They have done a little work at Stratford and at home and are ready for their S.P.A. senior game in Toronto tonight against Peterboro. They expect a battle, and are ready for it. Milt Fries and Roy Klem are available for net duty, while George Karges and Cammie Seagram will be on the defence. "Chuck" Roth will be at centre, George Hiller at right, and Lloyd Gross at left, while the subs will be Roy Hinsperger, "Tee" Hillman and Carl Schmidt. The latter, Cammie Seagram and Milt Fries are the newcomers, but all are local boys. Fries played junior in Kitchener and senior in London. Seagram played in the "prep" group of the O.H.A., and Schmidt is a junior of last year.

Toronto Comment.

Peterboro and Kitchener senior O.H.A. teams will meet at the Arena to-night in the S.P.A. series. This is the first game in Toronto this season between O.H.A. senior teams from outside the city. These teams are in separate groups this season, and on paper they look pretty strong. The O.H.A. senior champions from the Lift Lock City are out to repeat again, although they have lost two of their stars of last season in Irvine Bailey of the Toronto N.H.L. team and Bruce Cox.

Kitchener will have several familiar faces on its line-up. George Hiller and George Karges will be on the team together with Hillman. The team has been practicing at Stratford and is said to be in good shape for the game.—The Globe.

CREW OF VESSEL BROUGHT ASHORE

Breeches Buoy Used To Save Seven Men From Wrecked Ship.

ALL FROST BITTEN.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—All seven members of the crew of the three-masted schooner W. M. Reinhart were rescued by a Breeches buoy early today after the craft had been driven ashore at Race Point during a gale.

All seven survivors were frostbitten and suffering from exposure when brought ashore by the crew of the Race Point coastguard station under command of Captain William Wolfe. Two of them were unable to walk after they were lifted from the Breeches buoy. They were taken to the coastguard station and given medical attention.

Buffeted by waves and wind, the schooner struck on the beach about half a mile from Race Point coastguard station about 1.30 a.m. to-day. Stranded in the midst of breakers, the schooner was constantly swept by huge waves that threatened to sweep the members of the crew overboard, as they clung to the rigging. They suffered extreme hardship as a result of the low temperature, which stood at 26 degrees here, and when they were brought ashore they were wet to the skin and their clothing coated with ice.

Rescue was accomplished in an hour and a half from the time that the breeches buoy was rigged and the first man hauled to safety over it.

Over the twenty odd thousand miles of railway in Great Britain, passengers last year took 1,746,000,000 journeys. And out of that enormous total number of journeys that ended fatally for passengers was—exactly one. And then the unfortunate traveller did not die until ten days later—from the effects of the shock.

ORGANIZE FOR BASKETBALL

Two Teams Will Be Entered in the O.A.B.A. Series.

PRACTICE TO-NIGHT.

At a meeting last night of those interested in basketball it was decided to enter two teams this year in the Ontario Basketball Association, a junior and an intermediate team.

On Saturday the juniors are to play an exhibition game in Orillia and there will be practise tonight in the Y.M.C.A. for all those interested in basketball who are twenty years and under. The team which will be entered in the Intermediate series and those wishing to try out for the same will play the juniors a game tomorrow night at 8.00 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A.

THEATRE

"THE HOUSE OF USSHER"

For an engagement limited to one night only, Clarence Derwent and his London Company in H. V. Esmond's comedy drama "The House of Ussher," is announced as the attraction at the Grand Opera House next Friday evening. This brilliantly written play, in three acts, has enjoyed long runs in both London and quite recently concluded an eight months stay in New York City, from whence it comes almost directly to the New Detroit Opera House.

Mr. Esmond has to his credit such well known successes as "When We Were Twenty-One" made famous in America by Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliot and "Elis[illegible]as to Stay" which placed [illegible] Moore on the topmost rung [illegible] But it was left for Mr. Esmond to supply a well told, nicely written clearly spoken story of the theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL

ADOLPHE MENJOU IN "THE ACE OF CADS."

With the interesting Menjou starring in the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week, companied by Charlie Chaplin in an old, but still entertaining comedy, "A Dog's Life," there is plenty of amusement for the movie patron. Menjou, who grows old rapidly, is one of the finest exponents of sophisticated roles on the screen, and his imperturbable ways have a splendid scope as the hero of "The Ace of Cads." Lieutenant Capel Maturin, one of His Majesty's Guardsmen, who, like his trusted friend and companion, Basil de Gramercy, is in love with Eleanour Maitland, a part taken in her usual excellent style by the lovely Alice Joyce. Basil double-crosses his chum, and, in a cafe scene, causes his rejection by the girl he loves and his public disgrace in the eyes of his commanding officer. Maturin goes away and Basil marries the girl. Nineteen years later, the scene shifting in the meantime from old styles in dress and deportment to modern modes and manners, he returns to London, to find Eleanour a widow and the mother of a charming daughter, Joan. To satisfy his desire for revenge, he makes love to the daughter, and the affair complicates itself into one of the eternal triangular mix-ups that delight romantic minds. The ending is just as odd as the story itself, which is romantic and entertaining in its unfolding, but suffers slightly from a draggy tempo at odd moments.

Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life," has a peculiar quality to audiences who have not seen much of him for some time past. What might be termed resurrected laughs are aroused by his antics in the Green Tavern, where his lady love wears long hair and a long dress and the patrons dance old-time dances. It is a funny thing, with the comedian doing his best in his ridiculous trousers and with his white "purp" tagging along on a rope behind him, but it has a distictly old-time flavor.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

NEW MAYO COMEDY ANOTHER SUCCESS.

"Money Talks" is One of the Funniest Films of the Season.

"Money Talks" is another spoke in the wheel of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's big pictures. This comedy, which was directed by Archie Mayo, had its initial showing last night at the Regent Theatre before an enthusiastic audience.

Miss Windsor, who has long been a favorite in Peterboro, has never been better than she is as Phoebe Starling in "Money Talks." She is developing in acting ability, and plays her comedy scenes with a poise and grace that is seldom found in a production of this type.

Owen Moore, last seen in "The Black Bird," has a new type of role for him. It is Moore's first farce comedy role, and in the latter part of the picture he does a female impersonation that is a "wow," to use a pet phrase of the industry. He makes a delightfully amusing rather than a beautiful woman.

Bert Roach, the inimitable comedian of "Excuse Me," and "Don't," has a role somewhat similar to his others in 'Money Talks.' Bert again plays the goofy drunk, but he has greater opportunities in this production, and makes the most of them.

Ned Sparks, the famous stage and screen comedian, scores as 'Lucius' and Kathleen Key is delightful as the beautiful prima donna.

"Money Talks" is altogether one of the most delightful and funniest comedies that has graced the screen of the Regent Theatre in many a day, and should be seen by everyone who appreciates a good laugh. Phillips Smalley, Dot Farley, George Kuwa and others are in the cast. Frederic and Fanny Hatton wrote the photoplay from a short story by Rupert Hughes, and the adaptation was done by Jessie Burns and Bernard Vorhaus.

SIMPSON TAKEN TO PRISON TO-DAY

Intends To Behave, Get Ticket-of-Leave, and Make Good.

TORONTO, December 7. Canadian Press. — Gordon Simpson was taken in custody from Toronto to Kingston yesterday, to serve in Portsmouth penitentiary six years of an uncompleted sentence, and another three years imposed on him here recently for bank robbery, nine years in all.

Simpson waived his right to stay here for 30 days after sentence pending a possible appeal. "I am going back to work hard and make good," he told the newspapermen. "I hope in a few years to get a ticket-of-leave and restablish myself in Toronto."

The uncompleted term is part of the ten years sentence which Simpson was serving when he escaped from Portsmouth penitentiary.

With him travelling to Kingston to-day, also to serve penitentiary terms, were Jack Collier, Wallace Irwin and Hayden Crawford, each sentenced to two years.

CONSERVATIVES ARE PREPARING

Selection of Delegates To General Convention Already Started.

QUEBEC IN LEAD.

TORONTO, Dec. 7 Canadian Press) — A general discussion of preliminaries is probably all that will take place at the meeting in Ottawa on Friday in connection with the projected national convention of the Conservative party, to select permanent leader, some time next year, according to J. R. MacNicol, president of the Dominion Liberal Conservative Association, who returned to Toronto from Montreal today.

Mr. MacNicol stated that Quebec province has already commenced to prepare for the National Convention. The province has commenced the selection of delegates, and for this purpose has divided Quebec into four districts.

Within a few days, Mr. MacNicol said, the Ontario Conservative executive will meet and set the wheels of Ontario's eight district in motion, in preparation for the convention.

CABINET RESIGNS.

EYE STRAIN CAUSES MANY COMPLAINTS
It isn't altogether a question of eyes. The eyes are the cause, but as the function of seeing is closely connected with the nervous system eye strain usually causes a disturbance thereof, with results that are far from pleasant. JUGO-SLAVIA RESENTFUL OF ALBANIA TREATY

Foreign Minister and Whole Cabinet Resign as a Protest.

GRAVE SITUATION.

Generally Regarded as Serious Danger To Central European Peace.

PARIS, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press). Trouble is seething over Italy's new treaty with Albania. Jugo-Slavia is aflame with anger; her foreign minister, Dr. Ninchitch, resigned Monday night as a protest and the whole cabinet headed by M. Cuzounvitch followed his lead, to attract the world's attention to what he has described as the "new and grave situation" and what is generally regarded as a serious danger to Central European peace.

Even the League of Nations is greatly disturbed over these events, advices from Geneva state, for Dr. Ninchitch was president of the last assembly of the League and complications of a widespread nature are feared.

Jugo-Slavia is a heavily armed nation with an estimated force of 200,000 men. It is feared, too, that Mussolini's programme of expansion and alliances will run afoul of the "Little Entente," which in large measure was developed by Ninchitch.

The Jugo-Slavs are reported as regarding the Italo-Albanian alliance as "disloyalty" to their country and other Balkan nations, and the Belgrade newspaper Politica prints a statement from an unconfirmed source in Scutari that the pact contains a secret military clause, whereby Italy undertakes to go to the defence of the Albanian government if need be. Official quarters in Paris, however, are without confirmation of the existence of such a clause.

The view taken here is that the Albanian pact is the more serious when it is realized that Belgrade, long suspicious of Italy, has a secret treaty with Hungary, her northern neighbor, and it is known that Italy has been cultivating Greece, Jugo-Slavia's southern neighbor, for eighteen months.

Jugo-Slavia is strengthened by the

LABOR TO MOVE CENSURE VOTE

ACTION UNCERTAIN.

LONDON, Dec. 8—The government's battle with Labor will be resumed today, when Labor will seek to pass a vote of censure on the government for its handling of the coal crisis, although the vote is certain to be beaten.

The only effect of the Labor vote will be to put Liberals in a dilemma, and it is not known whether they will support the vote of censure or not, because, although they are anxious to condemn the government, they do not want to support the resolution calling for nationalization of the mines. The battle will then be carried a stage further, when Premier Baldwin, responding to the recommendations of the recent Tory Congress at Scarborough, will approve the final draft of the proposals for restricting the rights and privileges of the trades unions in a measure for which he has little personal enthusiasm. Under the final draft a general strike will be declared illegal and immunity under the Trades Disputes Act will be withdrawn if such a strike is called.

At the meeting of the local branch E.I.C. on Thursay, Dec. 9, at 8.15 at the Chamber of Commerce, H. D. Burnett, manager of the lighting service department, Canadian General Electric Co., Toronto, is to give a lecture on "The Principles of Correct Illumination, as applied to Industries and offices," which will be illustrated by slides and moving pictures. Mr. Burnett was in charge of the lamp manufacturing department at Peterborough before this department was transferred to Toronto about fifteen years ago.

The branch extends a hearty welcome to all those interested in this

ST. JOHN'S HALL IS RE-OPENED AFTER CHANGES

Repairs and Alterations Have Made Building More Useful.

BANQUET HELD.

Completion of Work Celebrated By Congregation Last Night.

The re-opening of St. John's parish house, which has been closed since the first of July for repairs and extensions, was a signal event last evening and was honored by a record attendance of over four hundred people at the banquet and concert which formed the evening's programme. Members of the church and their friends took advantage of the excellent supper prepared by the Church Women's Association, of which Mrs. A. H. Stratton is president, and other women's organizations of the church. Tables, arranged in the auditorium and in the new room upstairs were tastefully decorated for the event, for which Mrs. M. B. Hoyland's orchestra provided music, and the auditorium upstairs was becomingly decorated by Mr. W. A. Turner. The new Guild Room downstairs, furnished by the C.W.A., presented a gala appearance with its brand new furnishings.

At the conclusion of the supper, a programme was given, including musical selections, readings and brief addresses. The Vicar's Warden, Mr. S. T. Medd, acted as chairman, in the absence of Mr. J. A. Aylmer, chairman of the Building Committee, who was otherwise engaged.

Dr. R. C. Blagrave gave a short address, outlining the work of those who had assisted in the building operations, mentioning especially Mr. E. S. Martin, who organized the canvass, Mr. D. Melton secretary of the Canvass Committee, and Mr. A. W. Turner, who assisted materially in the work. Dr. Blagrave hoped for a large increase in the way of contributions towards the fund.

Mr. S. T. Medd's discourse, which followed, referred particularly to the long service rendered to the community by this church, which will celebrate the centennial of its foundation next June.

Appreciation Expressed.

Mayor Holloway, who is a member of St. John's congregation, expressed his appreciation of the improvements made in the parish house and also spoke in eulogistic terms of the leadership of the Vicar, Dr. Blagrave. He referred to the beauty of this church on the hill, to which visitors are always guided, and spoke of the efforts of the City Council as being often subject to criticism but as always being directed toward the benefit of the citizens.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., in an address, spoke of the spiritual influence of a church and congregation like that of St. John's, likening it to the river which runs through this city and finally wends its way to the ocean. The spiritual life goes on from the past to the distant future.

A. W. Turner and Dr. G. S. Cameron, who were to speak, were unavoidably prevented from being present.

The programme which formed a portion of the evening's entertainment included several selections by a sextette from the choir, composed of Messrs. W. W. Gray, R. Moore, H. W. Morphet, A. J. Hayter, P. F. Hall, H. Spencer and James Emmett, singing under the direction of Mr. F. G. Mann; a reading by Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland, and a vocal solo by Mr. R. Moore. The various numbers were heartily encored.

The ladies who had charge of arrangements for the banquet were Mrs. A. H. Stratton, president of the Church Women's Association, Mrs. A. W. Turner, Mrs. W. J. Hopwood, Mrs. J. J. Howden, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, Mrs. Wm. Blackwell, Mrs. L. W. Scott, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mrs. A. McLellan, Mrs. D. Mulholland and the Misses Rubidge, while some of these who assisted in procuring supplies were Mrs. F. C. Hungerford, Mrs. W. T. Holloway, Mrs. E. J. H. Vanston, Mrs. R. C. Blagrave, and Mrs. A. W. Turner. The purchasing committee for the new furniture was composed of Mrs. H. W. Darcy, Mrs.

KING PLEASED WITH RESULTS OF CONFERENCE

Declines To Make Any Statements Prior to Opening of Parliament.

ROUGH PASSAGE.

Several Days Be Devoted To Discussing Resolution of Conference.

NEW YORK, December 8. Canadian Press. — "I prefer to make no statement for publication prior to the opening of our parliament," declared Premier Mackenzie King, who returned with other members of the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Conference on the S. S. Majestic, which docked here late yesterday afternoon.

The liner was several hours late in reaching port, having been delayed by the bad weather which had wrought havoc to shipping in the north Atlantic during the past two days.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of Justice, Hon. Vincent Massey, newly appointed Canadian Minister to Washington; Prof. O. D. Skelton, counsellor to the Department of External Affairs, and Dr. A. G. Doughty, were other members of the official party, who left for the Canadian capital at 8 o'clock last night. They will arrive in Otawa at 11.40 this morning.

The prime minister was very pleased with the results of the conference, whose recommendations, he said, were unanimously adopted. Beyond this he declined to discuss the work of the conference, reserving his remarks for the record of parliament which will meet on Thursday.

He said he expected several days would be devoted to the discussion of the resolution of the conference, which are subject to ratification by the parliaments of Great Britain and the Dominions.

The premier said he would probably have something to say in the House of Commons regarding the Ottawa report that the Prince of Wales and Premier Stanley Baldwin would visit Canada in connection with the celebration of the 60th anniversary of confederation next year. He did not confirm or deny the accuracy of the despatch.

Pressed by newspapermen to make a statement as to his observations on the Imperial conference, Hon. Mr. King was adamant.

"I have promised myself not to talk officially until I appear in Parliament and I must ask you to excuse me," he said. "I will present my report to that body."

New York newspapermen sought to obtain some comment from Hon. Mr. King on the recent election in Ontario, his questioners apparently confusing provincial and federal politics, by the tone of their remarks.

"I had nothing whatever to do with the Ontario political situation," the premier said: "I was in no way involved in it."

Hon. Mr. Lapointe expressed his pleasure at the outcome of the Imperial conference.

"It has been a great success, and everybody is well satisfied with the resolutions adopted."

Hon. Mr. Massey was equally reticient. He said he had nothing to say now regarding his plans for taking over the machinery which will handle relations between Canada and the United States.

"But I shall have something to say when I return from Canada in a few weeks," he added. "I am most anxious to get established as quickly as possible and am looking forward to taking up my duties in Washington."

Among those who greeted the distinguished Canadians at the dock were M. M. Mahoney, representative of the Canadian department of External Affairs at the British embassy, Washington; St. John Betts, acting Canadian Government trade commissioner, and Captain J. E. Webber, executive secretary of the Canadian Club in New York.

BLOCK FOR CRACKING NUTS.

A heavy hardwood block with several shallow holes bored in it is a help in cracking any large quantity of hard shell nuts. There should be a hole for walnuts, another for butternuts, and so on; in each instance the nut should project about one third its length above the surface of the block. A sharp rap with a hammer on the end of the nut cracks the shell without scattering the pieces.—Popular Science Monthly.

Nine Persons Rescued From Fire By Pet Dog

COHOES, N.Y., Dec. 8.—Nine persons probably owe their lives to a pet bulldog, the property of James Campbell, seven years old. When fire broke out in the house occupied by the Campbells and another family, all were asleep. The dog, however, roused James, and fixing his teeth in the lad's night clothes, almost dragged him to the outside air. The boy then aroused the other inmates of the house, who were driven out in their night clothes into near zero weather.

LONDON, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—The belief that Great Britain had in a large measure brought about the present anti-British sentiment in China by sending missionaries there to convert people to Christianity, was voiced today by Lord Inchcape, shipping magnate, at the annual meeting of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company.

"Christian missionary efforts among uncivilized peoples holding beliefs which find expression in fetish worship and inhuman cruelty may be, and doubtless are, fully justified," he added, "but an attempt to break down China's faith, which is as sacred to the Chinese as Christianity is to ourselves, is, I think, to be deplored. Such efforts do far more harm than good."

HUMOR MARKED IN OPENING OF GENEVA COUNCIL

Problem of Controlling German Armaments Will Not Disturb European Harmony.

ARE NOT SATISFIED.

Approve Plan For Settling Bulgarian Refugees on Bulgarian Soil.

GENEVA, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—If merriment and humor mean anything, the snag encountered by the Council of the League of Nations over the problem of controlling German armaments will not be permitted to imperil the amicable political reconstruction of Europe.

Foreign Ministers Chamberlain of Great Britain, Briand of France and Vandervelde of Belgium, together with Signor Scialoia, representing Premier Mussolini of Italy, dropped so many epigrams at yesterday's public session of the Council that the auditors spent the afternoon in laughter and decided that if European harmony were tumbling, the statesmen could scarcely be so cheerful.

Most of the good humored discussion grew out of the Foreign Ministers joking opposition to the idea of asking a committee of experts to say whether the complicated system of proportional representation should be used in electing the non-permanant members of the Council.

M. Massigli, secretary of the conference of Ambassadors at Paris, consulted the Foreign Ministers and the German experts concerning the aspects of German disarmament. On this the allied powers feel that Germany has not yet given satisfaction, particularly with reference to the fortresses adjacent to the Polish and Czecho-Slovakian frontiers and the manufacture of materials, especially machinery, which can be utilized in war.

The Germans insist that they are most willing to satisfy all the technical points brought up, provided they can obtain a definite date for the discontinuance of inter-allied control which they regard as galling. Negotiations on these matters probably will require several days. After a conference of the Foreign Ministers yesterday morning, a communique was issued, stating that satisfactory progress had been made and that it was hoped an agreement would be reached.

The League Council opened its 43rd conclave yesterday morning. Among the matters approved was a plan for settling Bulgarian refugees

CLERGY DIVIDED BREWERY SHARES

Two of Them Oppose and Two Favor Accepting Them.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 8. — Churchmen of this city yesterday were divided over whether the race track and brewery are suitable sources of funds for church work.

The controversy, which has split the clergy of Windsor, Walkerville and Sandwich, is due to the will of the late Charles Millar, eccentric sportsman, who willed them all one share of stock each in the Kenilworth Jockey Club.

The Rev. M. C. Davies, of St. George's Church, Walkerville, said he saw "no Christian bar" against acceptance. He took pains to point out that one church here is supported mainly by contributions from a local distillery. But the Rev. J. W. Magwood, of Lincoln Road United Church, said: "I could not accept one dollar of it for personal or church gain."

The Rev. H. M. Paulin, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, describing the will as "sardonically humorous," said he "had no intention of profiting personally."

The Rev. Father John Rooney, of Our Lady of Prompt Succour Catholic Church, suggested acceptance of the bequests and that the proceeds be donated to a charitable trust fund.

MANY VARIETIES OF FOWL SHOWN AT LOCAL SHOW

MANY BANTAMS.

Turkeys, Ducks and Geese Are Shown in Large Numbers.

All the different varieties of fowl that come once a year to show themselves off in the big grey Armouries building are once more with us along with a new sort with a floral name, the "Buttercup," an old Mediterranean breed that is somewhat of a novelty in this district, but which has a home this year in one of the pens at the Nineteenth Annual Show of the Peterborough Poultry Association.

They were all there yesterday, in their feathered suits of black and white and brown, chattering away in "fowl" language, the cracked bass viol of the big African goose chiming in with the hoarse jabber of a Chinese cousin, the shrill crow of the big White Wyandottes echoing above the falsetto accents of the bronze turkeys, and the shrill staccato of the chattering guinea fowl rising over all.

White Leghorns and Rhode Island Reds probably comprise the largest entries in the list, but there are good representations in other classes, and the biggest entry in turkeys and water fowl ever registered in these shows. There are also large numbers of Bantams in different styles.

Wyandottes are present in white and buff and black and golden, and silver, and in the Patridge and Columbian variety, with their heavy black and white hackles and tails: there are light and dark Barred

BOARD WINDS UP YEAR'S BUSINESS

TERM ENDS DEC. 22.

The Board of Education concluded its 1926 business last night, disposing of a number of routine matters. Reports of the various committees were received, as well as reports from various officers of the board.

School will close on December 22, for the Christmas vacation, while the pupils get another day of grace because New Year's Day comes on Saturday, the opening being delayed one day ,to Tuesday, January 4.

It was decided that an allowance of $125.00 be made to Miss Jory, the school nurse, it being reported by Mr. Mowat and Dr. Yelland that by using her car she was doing work for which the department recommended two nurses.

Upper School.—Wm. Yelland $12; Edythe Cottrell, $8.

PROBE RESUMES INVESTIGATION LIQUOR TRAFFIC

MORGAN ON STAND.

VANCOUVER, B. C., December 8. Canadian Press. — The search for the man or men who purchased the liquor cargo of the 'Chris Moeller," now held at Victoria, waxed hot when the customs probe resumed yesterday.

In Victoria, Reginald M. Morgan, head of the Eastern Freighters, who have chartered the "Chris Moeller," for her southern voyage, told the commission that the ship's 20,000 cases of liquor cargo was going to a man called Robriguez, at San Blaz, Mexico.

Yesterday Mr. Morgan was plied with questions by Hon. N. W. Rowell K.C., commission counsel, in regard to trips made by Mr. Morgan to San Francisco and Los Angeles in the latter part of October and early in November of this year.

"I want to give you a chance to make a clean breast of the situation, and to correct the evidence given by you in Victoria," counsel warned Mr. Morgan before the examination began.

Mr. Rowell first directed his questions to finding out about a man called Tom Fay, who had been subpoenaed but thus far had failed to appear. Mr. Morgan, while admitting that he knew Fay, who is connected with the Manitoba Refineries, the shippers of the cargo, denied he had seen him in California.

"Did you ever hear anything of the sale of the cargo down there?" asked Mr. Rowell.

"No," the witness insisted, and further questions along the same line met with the same response.

Telegraphs signed "Reg. were read by the counsel.

One of them said: "I have arranged to ship goods early next week; inform Lilly and May."

This was sent to J. R. Stewart, a director of the Manitoba Refineries, from Los Angeles or San Francisco. The witness did not admit that this was sent by him.

The only "Lilly" he knew was the captain of the "Chris Moeller," Mr. Morgan said.

Another wire, also sent to Stewart, read "Wire received. Can handle major proposition; necessary have money in bank; have sold 1200 shares."

This was signed "Reg."

Mr. Morgan admitted this was his, and explained that he had sold some shares in a security export company which he and Mr. Stewart were interested in.

Mr. Morgan was succeeded on the stand by J. A. Mozentoff, head of the Manitoba Refineries, who declared that he did not know whether or not Tom Fay travelled under another name in the United States.

Mr. Mozentoff was examined at length regarding entries in his bank account.

Mrs. Fay, wife of the absent Tom Fay, appeared before the commission but the point was raised that she could not be asked to give evidence which might implicate her husband. This is now under consideration by the commission.

A medical certificate from a Vancouver physician, stating that H. F. Reifel, one of the important witnesses subpoenaed for the Vancouver hearing, was too ill to leave his room, was read at the customs commission session here yesterday.

Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., commission counsel, said that the evidence of Mr. Reifel was of great importance and that certain phases of the investigation could hardly go on without it.

In view of the commission's experience in Eastern Canada, he thought that something more than his medical certificate should be required.

"In view of the experience in Ottawa, I think we should ask Dr. Gordon who issued the certificate, to appear

Third of May Babies Were Born in Quebec

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.— Of the 20,141 babies born in Canada last May, more than a third—7,207 were born in Quebec province. In the other eight provinces there were 995 births less than in May, 1925. Comparison with last year cannot be made in the case of Quebec because no vital statistics were kept then. The decrease in English-speaking Canada is distributed proportionately over the eight provinces, showing that the decrease is steady from year to year.

FEAR OF AN INDUSTRIAL CRISIS STIRS FRENCH LABOR LEADERS AS RISE OF FRANC CONTINUES

Are Studying the Problem of Reduced Work and Wages.

POINCARE WARNED.

Policy May Lead To Inflation That Will Burden Workers Heavily.

PARIS, Dec. 8—The shadow of an aproaching French industrial crisis, which, despite governmental optimism, appears to be growing larger each day, occupied the earnest attention of labor leaders and their followers during the week-end.

To M. Jouhaux's frank warning that special measures must be taken immediately, there was added yesterday a pessimistic prophecy of another important labor leader, M. Cadot of the United Metal Syndicate who predicted that France was rapidly nearing an industrial crisis of a severity almost equal to that of the winter of 1921.

"Unemployment today menaces the whole French working class," he said. "It constitutes a danger to which urgent attention must be given."

The unfortunate part about the impending crisis, M. Cadot added, was that the cost of living was much greater today than during the previous industrial difficulties.

"As in 1921, we see proprietors offering employment at reduced wages" he said. "Naturally, those who are heads of families are accepting this condition rather than see a return to the so-called short week.

"But the working class as a whole cannot accept this. The workers are firm in the feeling that in principle neither salaries nor the full working week must be altered.

"We are willing that a sliding scale should regulate wages in accordance with the cost of living, but only on condition that the index of living costs is kept with much more accuracy than it has been in the past. The index figures for the most part have always

No Complaints Of Cold In Argentine Capital

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 8.—While some sections of the American continent are suffering from snow and extreme cold, the capital of Argentina is broiling under a heat wave. The thermometer is stationary around 95 degrees Fahrenheit and there have been several cases of sun stroke.

SMALL AMOUNT OF POULTRY SOLD AT LOCAL FAIR

Raisers of District Fail To Bring in Expected Quantity.

BUYERS SURPRISED.

There was a great shortage of fowl at the first Dressed Poultry Sale, staged in this city this morning. The sale is under the auspices of the City Council, Retail Merchants Association, Poultry Association, Chamber of Commerce, and Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture. Buyers were present from the largest firms in the county, but owing to the scarcity of poultry, many of them did not open up. Lines Company, Limited, and the Harris Abattoir Company seemed to be doing the greatest business.

It is hard to understand why this sale has not been the success that the same kind of sales have been in other centres. In the small town of Napance last week 128 tons of poultry were bought, which represented a cash turnover of $79,350.

"The sale has been well promoted by those at its head," stated F. H. Buker, District Poultry Representative of the federal government to The Examiner this morning, "and it is through no fault on their part that the supply of fowl has been so small. In fact I consider this the best-promoted sale that I have had anything to do with this year."

Well Advertised

It is not that the farmers did not know about the sale, for 17,000 circulars were sent out to the farmers within a radius of 30 miles. These circulars explained the benefits derived from the sale and how the poultry should be killed and dressed. Free demonstrations of killing and the dressing of poultry have been given in the market hall on the last three Saturdays, so no expense has been saved in trying to put this sale across.

Buyers expressed themselves as disappointed with the amount of fowl brought in, and they found a certain suspicion on the part of those who wanted to sell. They came prepared to buy tons of fowl at the best prices, and many had to go away after the first day with nothing, as only a few hundred pounds were offered for sale. For some unknown reason the poultry raisers in the surrounding districts did not lend themselves to the project. This is hard to understand as it has been proven in other centres that considerably more is to be gained, for when poultry is brought in by the ton there is strong competition among the buyers. They would not have felt the suspicion that existed, for people would not have been walking in with a small market basket of fowl, and higher prices would have been paid. The Napanee prices were greater than those paid here. One company alone bought 25 tons of fowl in Napanee. The buyers were unable to pay a higher price here. As the fowl was scarce they failed to get anything like the amount they wanted, and so their overhead expenses were greater.

BALDWIN UNABLE TO VISIT CANADA

British House Will Be in Session at That Time.

PRINCE TO ATTEND.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—It is considered unlikely that Premier Baldwin will be able to visit Canada next July or the jubillee celebrations, in spite of the report from Ottawa that he will attend, because Parliament will then be sitting an he could not be absent.

The suggestion that he should visit the Dominion was made informally by Premier Mackenzie King, and although Mr. Baldwin appreciates the importance of the occasion and would very much like to be there, he is afraid it will be impossible to go. On the other hand, he has been trying to visit Canada for the past two years, and may be able to go to Canada before July of next year, although it is impossible at present to fix the exact date.

There is every likelihood of the Prince of Wales being present, and probably a representative of the government will attend.

CURLING.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CURLING CLUB FOR THE PURPOSE OF BALLOTTING IN OF NEW MEMBERS WILL BE HELD MONDAY, DEC. 13. THIS WILL BE FOLLOWED IMMEDIATELY BY A MEETING OF SKIPS AT WHICH THE SCHEDULE RINKS WILL BE COMPLETED. — J. W. MAYNEORD, SEC-TREAS. 2d134-1056

ITALIANS DENY INCLUSION OF SECRET CLAUSE

Treaty With Albania Will Be Registered With League.

NOT AGGRESSIVE.

Formation of Counter Alliance in Balkans Mentioned as Likely.

ROME, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press) —Emphatic denial was given in official quarters here today of the report that the recent pact signed by Italy and Aibania contains a secret military clause amounting virtually to protectorate by Italy over Albania.

Alarmist and false reports which it is declared here have been spread abroad especially from Geneva are characterized as absurd and offensive, since it is held that the treaty concluded at Tirana has no aggressive character and does not aim at anybody. Indeed the Italians say, it contains a clause establishing that according to the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain, it must be registered with the League of Nations as in the case of similar treaties between Italy and other countries in Central and Eastern Europe, all having the object of maintaining peace by dispersing prejudice and misunderstandings and strengthening good relations through reciprocal economic and commercial interests.

Therefore, it is asserted the Italo-Albanian treaty is entirely within the spirit and letter of the League of Nations ideals.

No Danger of War

PARIS, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press). —Diplomatic circles in Paris think the controversy between Italy and Jugo-Slavia over the Italo-Albania treaty may develop considerable tension, but no well-informed authority believes there is danger of war.

That it will lead to a reshuffling of international arrangements in the Balkans is considered probable and a tri-partite accord among Turkey, Greece, and Jugo-Slavia as a counter to the Italo-Albanian pact is mentioned as likely.

CORONER'S JURY BLAMES YOUTH

Decides Girl Was Beaten To Death By Missing Sweetheart.

WARRANT ISSUED.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 7.—(A.P.) —Basing its verdict on a letter revealing plans for an elopment, a Coroner's jury within ten minutes last night decided that Clara Ilson, farmer's daughter, was beaten to death by her sweetheart, Erdam Olson, aged 18, Gale College student, who is sought.

The jury's verdict was unnecessary to hold the 18-year-old youth for murder as a warrant charging that crime was issued last week before the authorities were positive she was dead. He has been missing since Sept. 27. A few days after the warrant was issued her body was found in a shallow grave near the youth's home.

The letter on which the jury based its finding was found on the girl's body and gave elaborate plans for the girl to meet the writer the night of Sept. 9, the night she vanished, and of plans for a clandestine marriage. The missive was unsigned, but the writing was identified as Erdman's by the girl's sister. The youth vanished shortly after the girl, leaving a letter stating that he was not involved with the girl, but would never be taken alive.

SAINT and SINNER

George Pruitt, who, in a suit of "Long" Lane's overalls, had been busy all afternoon stripping layers of dirty old paper from the living room and dining room walls of the Lane house firmly announced his intention o staying for supper, helping to cook it, and spending the evening, as a member of the paper-hanging squad.

"I'm going to make a washtub full of spaghetti, real honest-to-God Italian style," he said, and began to delve in the pantry with knowing hands. "Two packages of spaghetti —gosh, is that all you've got? — onions, cayenne pepper, mushrooms — mushrooms? Where are your mushrooms, young woman?" he demanded sternly of Faith, who stood by, laughing helplessly.

"You've wandered into the wrong kitchen," she giggled. Faith giggling! She could hardly believe her own ears. "This isn't the Astorbilt pantry, my man. We're poor, but honest wolkin' pee-pul, Mr. Pruitt! There ain't no such things as mushrooms!"

"Is that right?" George retorted with mock truculence. "Hey, Joy! Get a hump on! Take this five dollar bill and skin out to the grocery store and bring back a pound of dried mushrooms. Make it snappy, old timer!"

"Good Lord, I don't know! Don't waste my time on petty details. I'm a busy man, I am. Scoot! Two cans of tomato pulp—well, I'm glad to see that even poor but dishonest wolkin' pee-pul indulge in such sinful luxuries as tomato pulp. Cheese? That'd be in the ice box, I suppose."

"I've got a half pound of American cheese," Faith said, following him to the ice box. "Will that do?"

"Ought to be that Italian kind, grated, but I guess it'll do," George conceded magnificently. "Here, you grate it. Where's your biggest stewing kettle?"

Half an hour later, waves of savory fragrance were pouring through the house from the bubbling pot on the stove. Cherry, coming in from work, stopped at the living room door to sniff ecstatically.

Faith, flushed, laughing, feeling more like a giggly school girl than she had ever felt in her life, ran from the kitchen to meet her sister.

"George is cooking the supper," she announced breathlessly. "He's been helping me all afternoon—"

"Don't skulk behind that door, Bob Hathaway!" Cherry, her eyes, cheeks and hair a glowing riot of color, seized his hand and drew him into view. "He was at the office, on business with his uncle, Mr. Cluny, you know, and I kidnapped him. He struggled desperately, but the strength of my good right arm held out and here he is. Told him he'd have to help us apper. Sentenced to hard labor for resisting an officer!"

Faith's heart leaped painfully at sight of his embarrassed blue eyes, fixed appealing upon her. Why did Cherry have to drag him into the situation just when the idea of marrying George—dear, gay, companionable George—was becoming almost bearable? But how thin Bob's tanned cheeks were, how hurt and wistful his blue eyes! The flush deepened on her cheeks as she gave him her hand.

"I'm afraid Cherry is an incorrigible gold-digger," she said rather breathlessly. "But we really don't need any more help, if you had a previous engagement. Dad and Junior and George and Cherry and I certainly ought to be able to paper two rooms."

"Well, for weeping noisily!" Cherry ejaculated in pretended anger. "You can't send my little playmate home like that! You wouldn't turn him out into the crool wolld after he smelled that divine spaghetti, would you? Now you two go right on holding hands," she said a little maliciously, "while I scoot into my room and put on something cunning I bought today. And don't you dare show Bob the wallpaper until I come out.

George Pruitt was insisting that Bob Hathaway make notes on the scientific preparation of spaghetti a la Italian, and Faith was opening jars of brandied peaches—a delicacy that had achieved almost the dignity of a family heirloom, since Mrs. Lane had put them up before prohibition, when the most precious ingredient was still obtainable—when Cherry appeared at the kitchen door.

"Don't faint, Faith!" her musical laughter rang out at the sight of Faith's thunderstruck face. "Don't I look cute? I leave it to George and Bob!"

She was wearing a suit of green and white checked gingham rompers, cut square and low at the neck, and sleeveless, her tiny waist encircled by a broad sash of the gingham, tied in a big butterfly bow at the back. Beneath the short, bloused, elastic-bound legs of the rompers, her dimpled knees shone pink and bare. She revolved slowly before them, like a mannequin.

"My overalls," she laughed excitedly. "What the well-dressed flapper will wear when she papers the old homestead. Strange—but I hear no applause!" she cupped one hand behind a saucy small ear and pretended to listen.

Faith, suddenly feeling as if she had been doused with ice water, looked first at Bob, whose face was flushed with laughter and his eyes kindled anew with the flame that had burned so hotly for a brief two weeks, then to George Pruitt, who had been trying to get her to say 'yes' to him all afternoon. His face was darkly flushed, too, his small black eyes snapping with excitement. Faith knew then that he would not bother her again that evening for an answer—and she hardly knew whether she was glad or sorry.

CANADA'S WINTER NATIONAL ASSET

Should Be Capitalized To Attract More Tourists, Says Foster.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 (Special to The Examiner). — "Sell Our Lady of the Snows to the world," is the slogan of C. B. Foster of the Canadian Pacific Railway, after a 45-day trip across the United States Middle West and Pacific Coast States, returning via British Columbia and the Prairie Provinces.

"Capitalize the Canadian winter and make two tourists come where one or none came before," he continued, "It is mere head-in-the-sand foolishness to ignore the fact that Canada, like every other temperate zone country, has four season. We make much—and rightly so—of the Canadian Spring, Summer and Fall, and we extol with every reason the Dominion's fishing, hunting, and scenic advantages. Why should we not tell the world that the Canadian Winter is what it is—a season of the keenest exhilaration to fullest health-giving qualities if it is put to its completest use."

Mr. Foster visited Detroit, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Tacoma, and Seattle. From the latter city he proceeded to Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Moose Jaw, Regina, Winnipeg, Twin Cities, Chicago, and back to Montreal. He expressed his admiration of the superb spectacle of the snow-covered Prairies.

There were 900 miles of pure white virgin snow between Calgary and Winnipeg and the air, clear as crystal, was a delight to breathe. If the average man accustomed to the dust and microbe laden atmosphere of cities could have sen and breathed that perfect medium, the ujnustly decried Canadian Winter could have been sold right there.

Mr. Foster points out that for many years those interested in immigration were strongly opposed to Winter sports, ice palaces or anything of that nature as it was felt it would have a deterrent effect on immigration. All this feeling has, he declared, passed away.

The Canadian public are beginning to realize that the Canadian Winter is an asset, that it is healthy and vigorous and something to tell the world about.

Quoting from J. J. Hill, well-known railway magnate, Mr. Foster summed up his views in the remark that a real country is that in which a man has to wear an overcoat at certain times of the year and one in which he can enjoy the four seasons, each after its kind.

KIPLING ANSWERED.

It is claimed that Rudyard Kipling attacked America for her part in the war in his poem, "The Vineyard." Mr. H. J. Phillips, of the New York "Sun," has answered Kipling in the piece of verse reproduced below, headed "The Applesauce Orchard."

The Vineyard.

At the eleventh hour he came,
But his wages were the same
As ours who all day long had trod
The wine-press of the wrath of God.

When he shouldered through the lines
Of our cropped and mangled vines,
His unjaded eye could scan
How each hour had marked its man.

(Children of the morning-tide
With the hosts of noon had died;
And our noon contingents lay
Dead with twilight's spent array.)

Since his back had felt no load,
Virtue still in him abode;
So he swiftly made his own
Those last spoils we had not won.

We went home, delivered thence
Grudging him no recompense
Till he portioned praise or blame
To our works before he came.

Til lhe showed us for our good—
Deaf to mirth, and blind to scorn—
How we might have best withstood
Burdens that he had not borne!
—Rudyard Kipling, in "Debits and Credits."

The Applesauce Orchard.

At the eleventh hour we came,
Late, perhaps, but pretty game,
Up they leaped with shouts of joy,
And lusty cries of "Attaboy."

Since our backs had felt no load,
Eagerness in us abode,
And it's only fair to state,
No one said, "Go home, you're late."

Then they called us dearest brother,
Talked about our common mother,
Told in tears how much they'd missed us—
Hugged us, necked us—even kissed us.

Then they called us "noble chap,"
"Pal," and "Hero"—all such pap,
Said our motives were the best,
Pinned big medals on our chest,

They went home, delivered hence,
Grudging us no recompense—
But (let's tell a truthful story)
They got all the territory .

Rudyard, make some frank confessions,
England got the choice possessions,
Uncle Sam fulfilled a mission—
All he got was prohibition.
—H. J. Phillips in the New York "Sun."

George Bolton, an English vocalist, is able to sing either bass, tenor or soprano with equal ease. His remarkable voice so interested a noted medical scientist that the latter has paid Mr. Bolton $2500 for the use of his larynx when it is no longer required by the owner.

WOMEN ON JURY TO TRY GUNMAN

Five Among Jurors To Try Patrick McDermott For Murder.

FOR KILLING MELLETT.

CANTON, Ohio, December 8. — United News. — The fate of one of Ohio's and the middle west's most notorious gunmen, seems likely to rest in the hands of women. Five women and six men had been tentatively selected as jurors for the trial of Patrick E. McDermott here on Monday, when the first day's session adjourned.

McDermott is charged with first degree murder, in the slaying of Don R. Mellet, the editor and publisher of the Canton Daily News, whose editorial crusade against the vice world of Canton was stopped by assassins' bullets last July.

ROAD FINISHED

Detour Between Newcastle and Newtonville Now Unnecessary.

COBOURG, Dec. 8.—The paving on the Provincial highway between Newcastle and Newtonville is now completed and the road will be open for traffic in a few days. This will make a continuous paved road from Cobourg to Toronto. The detour necessitated by the construction work has been an unpopular one, and motorists will appreciate the completion of the highway.

"I Didn't Want To Be a Miser!"

"It was a difficult place to be in, but what was I to do? I knew I was losing out with my wife and family, and myself too, but I just couldn't think of what the future might be for Alice and the children and spend every last cent.

"So I worked, slaved, saved; but it didn't give me much pleasure nor satisfaction.

"—Finally I discovered something.

"I found that by depositing just a little more than 10% of my salary with The London Life, I actually guarantee everything for which I had been striving,—protection for my family and our home and other investments, together with provision for my own old age.

"Now we do get genuine enjoyment out of the pleasures we treat ourselves to. We have money for the present because our plans for the future are so well laid."

The London Life Jubilee and Duplex policies meet perfectly the needs of men in this position. Any of our representatives will be pleased to explain them without obligation.

FUTURE OF FLYING LIES IN DOMINIONS

Sir Alan Cobham Says Opportunities Greater Than in Britain.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 8. Canadian Press. — "There is greater oportunity for the development of aviation throughout the Dominion than ever there will be in the Old Country, for the simple reason that whereas in England we are handicapped with short distances, very bad visibility, and lack of necessity of flying, while in the Dominions we have vast distances to be covered, as a rule with good flying weather, and an opportunity of proving that flying is the quickest means of transport."

Such is the prediction of Sir Alan Cobham, the world famous aviator, who last October completed his record breaking 28,000 mile flight from England to Australia and return, emphasized in an interview here yesterday morning following arrival of the distinguished flyer in St. Catharines from New York City.

CANADA'S DEBT SHOWS INCREASE

Larger Total Due To Heavy Interest Payments in November.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press).—Canada's national debt was increased by $14,993,154 during the month of November, according to the statement just issued by the Finance Department. The total net debt on October 31 last was $2,328,443,610, while on November 30 the net debt was $2,344,436,756.

The increase is due to large interest period falling due annually on November 1.

A. C. LEWIS IS CLERK.

Appointed To Succeed A. H. Sydere in Ontario House.

TORONTO, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press.)—Premier G. Howard Ferguson announced to-day that A. C. Lewis, former member of the Legislature for a Toronto riding, has been appointed Clerk of the Ontario Legislative Assembly. Mr. Lewis succeeds A. H. Sydere, the veteran clerk, who died recently. Major Lewis, who is 51 years of age, was elected to the Legislature in a by-election in 1920, and re-elected in 1923.

. . . VOICE OF THE LOWLY AND OPPRESSED . . . ADVOCATE OF THE FRIENDLESS . . . RIGHTER OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE WRONGS.

PAMPERING THE ELECTORS.

Some thousands of voters—the exact number will not be known until the official returns are complete—failed to use their franchise on Wednesday last.

The percentage of non-voters was large when the interest in the chief issue before the people and the complete arrangements made by the rival organizations to get out the vote are taken into account.

The question naturally arises as to what the percentage of actual voters would be if the machinery provided by the political parties for polling the votes were not available.

It is necessary for the party organizations to remind the electors of the need of getting on the lists, to search out those who have been left off and persuade them to be registered, to maintain a staff and telephone service to supply electors with information as to where they vote, and then on election day to use a small army of scrutineers and a fleet of motor cars to make sure that voters get to the polling booths.

All this elaborate organization is needed to make it possible for the people to do what they should gladly do on their own account, if they valued their franchise and appreciated the privilege that is theirs of having an active voice in public affairs.

FROWN ON CHANGES.

The ratepayers of Belleville turned down a proposal on Monday to reduce the number of Aldermen from twelve to nine, and to make the term of office three years, three Aldermen to retire annually.

A bylaw embodying these changes failed to meet with popular approvement, yet there are obvious advantages in both proposals.

A smaller Council should be capable of doing its work fully as efficiently as a larger body, and at the same time the members are likely to be brought more closely into touch with all features of municipal service.

In municipal government, as in Federal and Provincial Governments, there appears to be more legislators than there is any actual need for, and all our governing bodies could be materially reduced in numerical strength without sacrificing a whit of efficiency.

The three-year term for Aldermen was doubtless suggested as likely to make for better service, because it would ensure an experienced Council and a continuity of policy.

Evidently the Belleville ratepayers did not regard this advantage as weighty enough to justify the risk of electing for three years men who might prove in the test of office to be unfitted for municipal service.

LETTING GEORGE DO IT.

In Hamilton on Monday bylaws authorizing the borrowing of one million dollars for extensions to storm sewers and waterworks were voted upon and carried.

The significant feature of the voting is the fact that this huge expenditure was authorized by the ballots of less than 15 per cent. of the electors; the total vote polled being the smallest in years.

Although there was a hard fight for the Board of Control and other important bylaws in addition to the two money bills were presented for the opinion of the electorate, it is estimated that only about one elector out of every six on the list marked a ballot.

To make the showing even worse, it may be mentioned that the Chamber of Commerce, supported by other representative bodies, had carried on a vigorous campaign to "Vote as you like, but vote."

When less than fifteen per cent. of citizens qualified to use their franchise will take the trouble to express an opinion on a million dollar expenditure, there doesn't seem much sense in grumbling about taxation burdens and civic extravagance.

So long as people are willing to dodge their responsibility as citizens and to entrust the settling of important matters to a mere handful of electors, hoping for economical and efficient municipal government, is merely a waste of time.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE.

The Examiner yesterday mentioned the case of Herman Trelles, champion graingrower of Peace River, as an example of a man who, although he knew nothing of farming a decade ago, had profited by study of farm bulletins until he reached the top.

Hon. John S. Martin, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture, is another proof of the fact that it is possible through close attention to new methods and developments to score success in a field of endeavour quite new to the industrious student.

Mr. Martin is to receive a special silver trophy from the New York State Fair to commemorate his astonishing record of having captured the poultry championship of that fair for 21 years in succession.

Yet the Minister of Agriculture started life as a school teacher, and his entrance into the poultry business was greeted by more than one decisive smile from those who imagined a teacher could not possibly make a success of such a business.

Like Herman Trelles, however, Mr. Martin was not satisfied to adopt the methods of his plodding neighbors; and his ambition to learn all there was to know about poultry soon pulled him in front of the parade and kept him there.

ALL DEPENDS UPON ENFORCEMENT.

Whether Ontario's verdict of Wednesday brings good or evil will depend very largely upon how the new law is enforced. What damned the old bar system in Ontario, as in the rest of Canada, was the arrogance, the insolence, and the stupidity of those in the liquor traffic. Bars, instead of being kept clean, decent and orderly, became centres of squalor, drunkenness and disorder, the Mecca of the underworld and of most that was evil in the life of the community, until the public, disgusted with it all, rose up and abolished bars.

The same thing will happen to Government liquor shops if Government liquor shops show a similar tendency, or if Wednesday's vote be taken as a license to sell liquor indiscriminately.

All that the people of Ontario have voted for is a system under which Government shops shall sell liquor in sealed packages to responsible citizens or visitors who have been granted a permit to buy it. If Premier Ferguson confines himself to that; if he sees to it that the shops are well supervised and well conducted; that permits to buy liquor are refused to people who have proved themselves unworthy; and that anybody trying to traffic in liquor outside Government shops, whether as bootlegger or moonshiner, or vendor of beer or whiskey by the glass, is rigorously punished, then Government control may be made a reasonable success. If, on the other hand, this is not done, if laxity be allowed to creep in, if the blind pig and the illegal beer parlor are allowed to flourish side by side with the Government shop, then there will be but one ultimate result—the public will rise up and abolish Government control just as it abolished the bar.

Premier Ferguson, we think, can be depended upon to make a sincere, honest effort to enforce the new law. His conduct during the campaign just closed gave the impression of a man who was not a mere "wet," but of one who was profoundly convinced that the O. T. A. had failed, and that something else should be tried in its place. With a pronounced public opinion behind him now—something lacking in the case of the O. T. A. in recent years—he has a splendid opportunity of giving his proposals a trial. All who wish well for Ontario, and particularly those who hate the evils of the liquor traffic, must tender him their earnest support.—Ottawa Journal.

RACE AND FRIENDSHIP.

A contemporary has been examining the names of members of leading football teams in the United States, and has found that many are not English, Scotch or Irish—it might have said also Welsh. Upon this it preaches a sermon thus:

"Orators for the 'English Speaking Union' love to deliver 'Hands across the Sea' perorations, and to dwell upon the common origin, the common ideals and the common institutions of our 'American cousins.' But the truth—it was revealed just as strikingly by the casualties of the American army in France as by this All-America football list—is that the United States has largely ceased to be an Anglo-Saxon country. The mighty stream of immigration which began in the '40's of the last century and continued up to a few years ago, coupled with a greater foreign birth-rate, has left its mark, with the consequence that whatever the United States may be today, it is not Nordic.

"In the Back Bay district of once cultured Boston, on upper Fifth avenue, in some places in the South, in California, at Newport and on Long Island, the descendants of the earlier English and Scottish settlers are still found; but gradually they are being submerged. The French-Canadian overruns New England; the Irish rule Boston; the Italians and the Irish and the Hebrews govern New York; the Germans and the Swedes and the Danes have conquered the Northwest. Rarer and rarer grow the Nordic names."

We should have thought that Swedes and Danes were Nordics and that at least a fair proportion of French and Germans might be so classified. But we are quite prepared to admit that there is a mixture of races in the United States, and that many are not British or Nordic in origin. So it is in Canada. What does that prove? Possibly that the orators for the English Speaking Union laid too much stress upon race—though race combined with language is still a powerful bond. But that does not lessen in the slightest degree the immense importance of friendly relations between the British Empire, especially Canada, and the United States. Such relations are not merely desirable but essential for the welfare of the nations referred to and of the whole world.

If Europeans who have been quarreling and fighting at home can come over to the United States and Canada, and live at peace, that is a greater achievement even than people of the same race living together in the same way. And this is being done. It is a remarkable fact that the relations between Canada and the United States are today more friendly than they were before the stream of immigration from Continental Europe came in such tremendous volume. The Americans who made the Revolution were almost entirely British in origin. So were the Americans with whom we fought in 1812-14. As late as the years just before Confederation an American invasion of Canada was considered probable; and there was then a much smaller element of Continental Europeans in the United States than there is today, when nobody dreams of such a danger.

So, from the point of view of British-American relations, we need not worry because Continental Europeans, even if not Nordic, have been flocking into the United States. Our efforts ought to be directed in Canada to making all the newcomers good Canadians and in the United States good Americans, and teaching them to be friends with their neighbors.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It would be nice to be able to say of Christmas shopping, "Everybody's doing it." But it wouldn't be truthful.

Someone rises to suggest that if Sir Thomas White is to get Permit No. 1 for helping to elect the Ferguson Government, Hon. W. E. Raney should get No. 2 for the same reason.

The last epidemic of Christmas illness Ontario's doctors will have to deal with will shortly begin to make its appearance. It reaches its most critical stage the last couple of days before Christmas.

The melancholy days have arrived when dad shudders whenever he gets a glimpse of the ties in the shop windows.

The Kingston Whig-Standard says: "The Whig and Standard have had to follow the example of the Peterboro papers and combine to give the people one good paper. We hope the new paper will serve Kingston as well as The Examiner serves Peterboro."

Democracy is becoming lazy. Nowadays everybody wants a ride to the polls.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—A moderate amount of business was done in wheat with the United Kingdom on the Montreal grain market yesterday. There was also an improved demand for ocean freight room from Canadian winter ports and quite a few loads were booked at five shillings per quarter for December-January loading.

A feature of the domestic market was the continued demand from exporters for wheat and barley and sales were made at c.i.f. price bay ports. The local and country demand for oats was steady and prices were unchanged.

The spring wheat flour market was moderately active and firm. The movement of winter wheat flour was slow but values were steady.

The market for all lines of millfeed was active with a strong undertone, but no further change in prices were announced. The tone of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm under a steady demand.

A fairly active business was done in storage eggs and indications are that values may go higher in the near future in sympathy with the strength of late in the United States markets. The tone of the market for strictly fresh eggs was strong on account of the small offerings and the good demand. The receipts were 819 cases.

Owing to the favorable weather prevailing and the increased demand, the tone of the potato market was again stronger and prices were marked up another five to ten cents per bag. Sales of car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at $1.70 to $1.75 per bag, and Quebec white stock at $1.55 to $1.60 per bag of ninety pounds.

A very firm feeling prevailed in the market for beans under a steady demand. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked were made at $2.75 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $3 per bushel.

The undertone to the butter market continued strong and values were marked up another ¼c to ½c per pound, which was due to the good demand and the small supplies available. The receipts were 105 packages.

The export trade in cheese was quiet but the local demand was fair. The receipts were 1,444 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Chances that ice blockades holding grain back would be broken gave a late downward slant to wheat values yesterday. Prices, however, for December delivery of wheat here tightened up at times to a level with May. The wheat market finished irregular at 7-8 net decline to 3-8c advance; corn ½ to 3-4 up; oats 1-8 to 3-8 off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents down.

Snow, rain and sleet in the corn belt tended to strengthen the corn market. In some cases shippers here were said to be buying cash corn back from the east. Oats eased down as a result of profit-taking.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Cattle, 16,000; moderate supply; 1,350 to 1,500-pound bullocks $9 to $9.50; extreme top weighty steers scaling 1,435 pounds $10.65; top choice yearlings, $13.50; bulls weak; vealers largely $10.50 to $11.

Hogs, 36,000; bulk desirable 170 to 240-pound averages to shippers, $11.65 to $11.80; early top $12; late bulk 170 to 240-pound averages $11.55 to $11.70; most packing sows $10.50 to $11; bulk slaughter pigs $11.50 to $11.75; few selected lots $11.80.

Sheep 15,000; best fat lambs to packers, $13.25; bulk $12 to $12.75; yearlings around 50c lower; best 90-pound averages $9.75.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.84 13-16.
Sterling cables, $4.85 5-16.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

I wish to make it known that I will not be able to qualify as candidate for election to the Utilities Commission because my naturalization papers will not be granted in time. When I announced that I intended to stand for election I misunderstood the requirement in regard to the length of time necessary to obtain naturalization papers. I am very sorry indeed that I have made this regrettable mistake particularly because of the gracious way in which The Examiner has treated my prospective candidacy. Please accept my apologies, Mr. Editor.

I would like at this time to correct the impression that the local Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada officially sponsored my candidacy. The Institute does not consider that it is good policy to take any action in a matter of this kind. But the Institute does urge its members to be public spirited citizens and place their peculiar abilities and talents at the disposal of the public for the common good. The policy of the Engineering Institute in this respect is similar to that of other professional oganizations. The fact that no engineer has offered to stand for the Utilities Commission during the past few years has been a matter of much concern among the members of the Peterboro Branch of the Engineering Institute. The resultance of good men toward accepting public office is hard to explain, but it exists nevertheless.

It is with considerable satisfaction that I am able to say that Mr. E. R. Shirley has decided to offer himself as a candidate for the Utilities. Mr. Shirley has been a resident of Peterboro for a number of years. He is an honor graduate of the University of New Brunswick in Arts, and of Queen's University in Electrical Engineering. He is a past chairman of the Engineering Institute and holds a responsible position in the Engineering Department of the Canadian General Electric Company. Mr. Shirley would bring to the Commission a very valuable practical experience in the construction, operation and maintenance of electric power plants, sub-stations, transmission lines, and various industrial apparatus. I would value his capabilities far above my own for the work of the Commission and I feel that the people of Peterboro are indeed fortunate in the opportunity now offered to place a man like Mr. Shirley on the Utilities Commission.

Your kindness in giving this matter some publicity will be appreciated.

Yours truly,
B. L. BARNS.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

THE NURSE

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Probably the most important way in which modern medical service differs from what it used to be is nursing.

Almost all of the actual contacts with the patient and the care for the patient are by the nurse.

That she is hard-working, faithful and patient goes without saying.

Much credit is due to the Visiting Nurses Organization whose members go into the houses of the poor and instruct them in proper sanitation.

They do much for the prevention of disease as well as in caring for the sick when they are stricken.

The Visiting Nurse Service of the Henry Street Settlement is making a drive for a million dollars—$500,000 for an endowment, and $500,000 toward the maintenance of the Service.

The two hundred self-sacrificing nurses now engaged in their work made 235,537 visits during the first eight months of this year; 39,939 visits were made to the health centers for examination and advice; 3,897 mothers received help and instruction at pre-natal clinics; and 1,340 children attended pre-school clinics.

These figures may not be very interesting, but they show an immense amount of work done by these women and work that surely calls for the co-operation of all who are interested in the welfare of mankind.

There may be some question about this or that charity, but there can be no question about alleviating the pains of a man that is sick or preventing his sickness.

Without regard to race or creed or color they respond to the call of humanity and willingly devote themselves to its service.

If the people can pay for the service they may, but if not the service is free.

Thirty-three years ago this work was started by Miss Lillian Wald and her influence still counts.

From all over the world visitors come to New York for training and suggestions. Many nurses train here and go back to their work. One of them is now preparing to go to Africa.

It would be hard to think of any helpful work about which there is less question and less dispute than the work of the visiting nurse, and it is a charity that deserves the co-operation of the whole community.

MINISTER CHOSEN NORWOOD CHURCH

Rev. Mr. Eakins Choice of Presbyterian Congregation.

NORWOOD, Dec. 7.—A congregational meeting was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening last for the purpose of choosing a minister. Mr. Eakins, of Knox College, Toronto, who will graduate in the spring, was the unanimous choice.

The bazaar and supper held in the basement of the United Church on Saturday afternoon was a great success in every way. The net proceeds were $108.50. There were six different booths, namely: Dairy, in charge of Misses Margaret Armstrong, Olive Webster and Florence Steele; home-made cooking, in charge of Misses Lillian Greenbank and Florence Burgess; home-made candy, in charge of Misses Maude Bongard, Merle Montgomery and Georgina Beavis; ready-to-wear, Misses Laura Buck and Edith Gardner; fancy-work, Misses Lillian Howson, Stella Burgess and Mayo Mullins; touch-and-take table, Misses Edith Elliott, Ruth Harper, Alice Mullin and Margaret Marks. Mrs. John Weir, President of the Y.W.A., supervised all of the booths and Mrs. Claude Bongard Assistant Superintendent of the Mission Band, had charge of the supper table. Members of the Y.W.A. and of the Band helped serve.

The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Y.W.A. was held on Friday evening last at the home of Mrs. N. F. Sutton.

The United Church Y.W.A. held their december meeting at the home of Miss Stella Burgess on Thursday evening last.

At the last meeting of the M.S. of the United Church held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Riseborough, a cheque for $25 was presented to the society by Dr. F. H. Buck of Shabonee, Minn., to make his grandmother, Mrs. Robert Burgess, a life member, in memory of his mother, the late Mrs. W. T. Burk.

Mr. W. H. Brethen, who has been a member and officer of Court Rob Roy, Canadian Order of Foresters, and who with Mrs. Brethen left on Friday to spend the winter in Florida, was presented with a beautiful fountain pen by his lodge members, previous to his departure.

Mr. Brethen, who has been a charter member had been an officer for 42 years but recently resigned the office of Financial Secretary and was succeeded by Mr. W. H. Harper.

Mr. N. Alex. McColl, who has had a law office in Norwood for the past three or four years, has closed his office here.

The first of a series of euchre parties to be held during the winter under the auspices of Lodge No. 262 I.O.O.F., was held in their rooms in the Roxburgh block, on Thursday evening when a very enjoyable time was spent by all present. First prizes were won by Mrs. Ed. Waters and Mr. F. Bell and the consolation prizes were won by Mr. T. J. Foster of Minneapolis, and Miss C. Rathwell. Refreshments were served about midnight.

Mr. Clifford Fife visited Keene friends recently.

Mrs. Wilson of Emmerson, Man., is the guest of her sisters, Mrs. John Jenkins, of Dummer, and Miss Mary Hatherley of Norwood.

Miss Lillian Hugill has returned home from Toronto, where she has spent the past few weeks.

Miss Grace Reynolds left during the week for an indefinite stay in Toronto.

Mr. Frank Andrews, who has been employed with the Hydro Commission in Eastern Ontario, has returned home for the winter.

Mrs. A. D. Weir of Madoc, arrived in the village on Saturday, to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. N. F. Sutton, and her son, Mr. John Weir.

Mr. Lowry Patterson, who has spent the past couple of months in the village, left on Friday for his home in Dummer, Sask.

Miss Annie McIntyre returned to her home in Perth on Thursday after spending the past couple of months with friends in the village.

Mr. Henry Thistlewaite was in Toronto on business during the week.

Mr. George Cross was in Toronto during the week.

Mrs. James Buck left on Thursday afternoon for Abernathey, Sask., to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Brackenridge. A large number of her Norwood friends were at the station to bid her good bye and wish her God speed.

Mr. Joseph O'Keefe of Carleton Place, spent Sunday in the village with his sister, Mrs. W. J. McLaughlin.

Messrs. J. C. Riseborough and John Baskin were in Havelock on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Lonsberry spent a couple of days in Warsaw during the week.

To Merchants and Storekeepers:

You can SELL MORE THIS WAY

Do you realize how much more of your Christmas trade could be sold by telephone — and how much it would reduce the cost of selling?

You call up customers to offer them something. As soon as you begin to describe the article, they recollect having seen one like it, or they have read advertisements describing it. If you have secured a customer's confidence, making a sale becomes easy, because people are rapidly becoming educated to buy by telephone many articles they formerly thought they had to examine before buying.

How do you know he won't buy? Have you called him by Long Distance?

COUNCIL OF UNITED COUNTIES OPENS LAST SESSION OF 1926 SCHOOL GRANTS AUTHORIZED

Cost of Indigent Patients Discussed Yesterday Afternoon.

COBOURG Dec. 8 — Only four of the forty members of the Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham were absent when Warden John McCubbin opened the December sessions on Tuesday afternoon. A sheaf of communications was brought in by the clerk, Col. N. F. MacNachtan, several of them referring to the apportioning of the cost of maintaining indigent patients in hospitals. A count council is charged $1.50 a day for the treatment or maintenance of each indigent patient and shall, in turn, levy half the cost or 75 cents a day, against the township in which the patient lived. In the event of death the county is chargeable with $15 for funeral expenses and half that sum is recoverable from the township.

It was stated that municipalities are responsible for the cost of medical treatment when any indigent patient has been sent to a hospital on the order of the local Board of Health.

Warden McCubbin said he had asked the counties' solicitor, Col. F. D. Boggs, for an opinion as to other effects of the statute.

Halton county council submitted a resolution proposing that the local municipalities, instead of the county as a whole, be held responsible for the cost of indigent patients. Endorsation by the Counties' Council in a round robin to be presented to the Legislature is sought by Halton.

House of Refuge

G. M. Ferris, surgeon for the House of Refuge, reported fourteen deaths during the year, all but one having been due to old age and its infirmities. Dr. Ferris said the institution was efficiently managed, and the inmates kept in clean and comfortable surroundings.

UPBOUND BOATS ARE RELEASED

Thirty-seven Broken Loose, Start on Journey To Soo.

THIRTY REMAIN.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Up to last evening 37 of the upbound boats which have been caught in the ice in the Neebish channel had been released and started their journey to the Soo, though thirty others were still frozen in. If the weather keeps mild there is good prospect of their being released also. With the exception of the steamer Coulee, the downward boats were still frozen in, and efforts were being concentrated on the release of the steamer Garretson, which lies across the channel at an awkward angle as it was felt that if the Garretson was released it would be comparatively easy to move the others.

There are about ninety downbound boats delayed by the freeze-up, about half of them being actually frozen in and the remainder strung along the river between the Sault and the Neebish. Seven grain boats arrived yesterday afternoon from the head of the lakes. The Government light tender Murray Stewart is now at bringing in the lightkeepers from the various lighthouses in this end of Lake Superior.

MISSING WRITER GONE TO SEASHORE

Brother-in-law Receives Letter Saying She Was in Ill Health.

GUILDFORD, Surrey, England, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press). — There was an unexpected new turn to the mystery of the disappearance of the writer of detective stories, Agatha Clarissa Christie, for whom the police and most of the country people have been searching for the past three days.

The county authorities late last night decided to discontinue the search. It was announced that the missing woman had been heard from. The brother of Colonel Archibald Christie, who lives in London, it was explained, had received a letter written since her disappearance, in which the novelist said she had been in ill health and was going to a Yorkshire spa for rest and treatment.

Searching parties have been engaged in dragging streams and ponds near the spot where Mrs. Christie's automobile was discovered in a hedge. She had left her home Friday evening at 10 o'clock, without informing her husband, Col. Christie, of her destination. Search for her began immediately after the finding of her abandoned machine, with particular attention to a body of water of sinister reputation known as the "silent pool," the locale of some of her favorite mystery stories.

SUGGEST THERMIT FOR FREEING SHIPS

Prominent Shipping Interests Go Into Conference With Prof. Barnes.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Dr. Howard T. Barnes, Professor of Physics at McGill University, was in consultation yesterday with prominent local shipping and flour milling interests, the question of freeing ships from the ice by the use of thermit being discussed.

Professor Barnes explained that he was unable to devote any attention to relieving the present situation at the Sault or in the St. Lawrence, as present work requires his full consideration until the third week in December.

It is expected, however, that Dr. Barnes will be asked to assist the shipping companies in releasing their vessels from the ice in the vicinity of grain elevators at Midland and Port McNicholl, so that they may come alongside the elevators and have their cargoes discharged between January 15 and April 15.

The method now employed to move the steamers has been to cut the ice into blocks and remove it from their vicinity, afterwards breaking the ice surrounding their mills. It is proposed to have Dr. Barnes detonate one of his thermit charges and break up the surface in the harbors. The steamship companies will not request any assistance from the government, but will ask Dr. Barnes to undertake this experiment under their own supervision.

Those at the meeting were: T. R. Enderry, general manager of the Canada Steamship Lines, Limited; W. W. Hutchison, vice-president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company; R. J. Formean, foreign freight agent of the Canadian National Railways; G. A. Morris, secretary-treasurer of the Ogilvie Flour Milling Company; M. Duff, manager of the Great Lakes Service Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway; J. D. Galvin, manager of the Tree Line Navigation Company, Limited; and J. Stanley Cook, secretary of the Montreal Board of Trade.

COMMENCEMENT AT MADOC HIGH SCHOOL

Diplomas, Certificates and Other Awards Are Presented.

MADOC, Dec. 7.—The commencement exercises of Madoc High School were held in the Empire Theatre on Friday evening. Many comments expressive of the appreciation and enjoyment of the large crowd present have testified to the success of the evening's entertainment.

A delightful little play with a well-defined and amusing plot, entitled "The Fascinating Fanny Brown," was cleverly acted by seven students and two of the teachers of the High School, each of whom is to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the parts were played. The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Caldwell, guest at "Idlewild," played by Miss Marion Tufts.

Audrey Caldwell, guest — Miss Kate Ross.

Dorothy Dudley, guest — Miss Hazel Ross.

Florence Howe—Miss Inez Carswell.

Mrs. Moffett, a cottager—Miss H. E. Foster.

Percival Gale, proprietor—Mr. L. F. Curtis.

Billy Pearson, guest — Donald Whytock.

During the evening certificates were presented to successful candidates by the Principal, Mr. F. L. Sine, B.A., B.Sc. Mr. Sine gave a short address on the work of the school and the preparation of students for their life's work. He spoke of Canada's needs and prophesied that the next thirty or forty years would see a tremendous increase in immigration. He spoke of the educational advantages needed for these new-comers, which would result in an ultimate adjusting of the now rather overcrowded professions.

Mr. Sine was followed by Miss Foster, who spoke on the work of the school in preparing for lower school certificates, and who introduced the following successful pupils to the Principal: Inez Carswell, Anna Eggleton, Norma Fair, Vera Fitchett, Lucy Foster, Edith Kells, Frances O'Riordan, Georgina Phillips and Mary Walsh.

Miss M. M. Wilson, B.A., spoke of the work of the senior forms in preparing for graduation diplomas, and introduced the successful students in that work. These were: Archie Ashley, Albert Caskey, Jessie Duggan, Mildred Gawley, Kathleen Moorcroft, Margaret Nickle, John O'Connell, Kate Ross, Mabel Ross, and Carl Smith.

Mr. L. F. Curtin, B.A., gave a short talk on the work of the Cadets. The Strathcona gold medal for marksmanship was won by Clarence E. Hayton. Mr. Curtin also introduced the pupils who had qualified for class prizes. These prizes took the form of medals, and were presented for general proficiency to: Alice Hale of Form I.; Vera Fitchett of Form II.; Hazel Ross of Form III.; Mildred Gawley of Form IV.

Music was provided by an orchestra of which the members were Mr. Scrutton of Madoc, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and Mr. Yates of Deloro.

At the close of the programme the High School staff and those taking part in the play were entertained by Mrs. C. Whytock.

Much regret is felt by the students of the High School and by the citizens generally over the resignation of Principal Sine. Mr. Sine is leaving at Christmas to take a position as Principal of Sydenham High School, a post he held for twelve years previous to his resignation there three years ago. It is a tribute to the successful work and high regard in which Mr. Sine is held that at the first opportunity he was invited to return to his old school. While the Madoc people regret losing Mr. Sine, they sympathize with his desire to return to his home town, and wish him every success in his work there.

The services at the United Church on Sunday were conducted by the Young Worshippers' League. Mrs. J. Marcellus, president, presided at both services. At the morning service talks were given by Herbert Caskey and Archie Ashley on "The Responsibility of the Church toward the Young Man," and "The Responsibility of the Young Man toward the Church." Many good points were brought out by the speakers, who conducted themselves with great credit. In the evening topics were taken by Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Marcellus. The latter took as her subject the palm trees of the Bible, using Faith, Love, Truth, Courage, and Charity to represent the different trees. Prayer was offered by Mrs. O. Dingman and a reading was given by Miss Muriel Rousehorn.

Music suitable to the occasion was rendered by the choir. An anthem was sung in the morning, and in the evening a duet was given by Mrs. A. H. Foster and Mrs. C. Whytock. Mrs. Ludbrook acted as organist in her usual capable manner. Rev. A. H. Foster spoke a few words on the benefits derived from such services which were most inspiring to the congregation, and as a new feature to the usual services, a success.

The loose collection for the day was given to the Young Worshippers' League to be used in their work.

The services in St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday were taken by Rev. Mr. Redding of Bannockburn, as Rev. Mr. Strother, the rector, is still upon the sick list.

WILL PROTEST BRUCE ELECTION

Defeated Candidate Charges Payment To Liberal Was Illegal.

LEFT CONTEST.

TORONTO, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press)—It is expected that legal action will be taken by W. D. Cargill, defeated Conservative candidate for Bruce South, in the recent Ontario provincial elections, to unseat M. A. McCallum, Progressive member elect for that seat on the ground that $1,250 paid to J. G. Anderson, prospective Liberal candidate who withdrew on the eve of nominations, to cover his expenses incurred to that date, was an illegal payment under the Ontario Elections Act.

There were prospects of a three cornered contest in Bruce South which those opposed to the Government Control policy of Premier Ferguson desired to avoid. After various conferences Mr. Anderson agreed to retire, on conditions that his expenses to date were met.

A delegation of South Bruce Conservatives waited on Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General on Monday, and laid the situation before him.

OTHER OBJECTIONS.

TORONTO, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press).—Sir Henry Pellatt, one of the largest shareholders in the O'Keefe Brewery Company, states that the late Charles V. Millar did not own more than four or five shares of stock in the company, although Mr. Millar, in his will published yesterday, makes bequests of a share of stock to each Protestant minister and Orange lodge in Toronto. "I cannot see how he can make such a bequest," Sir Henry said.

It is believed that at least three of the clauses in the remarkable will will be challenged, either by the executors or relatives of the deceased lawyer, and will be made the subject of a decision by the courts.

LAKEFIELD HONORS DEPARTING REEVE

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 8.—A successful and most enjoyable smoker was held in the Hotel, Lakefield, on Monday evening by the citizens of Lakefield to say goodbye to Reeve J. C. Strickland, who leaves this week for Toronto where he and his wife and family will reside. Between forty and fifty were present and a pleasant evening was spent in cards and conversation.

Refreshments were served about 10.30 by Mine Host and Mrs. Lawless which was followed by a jolly sing song with Mr. Corneill in his inimitable manner at the piano. Various old favorites were sung from the song sheets which were distributed. The songs were varied and were grave and gay, sentimental and comic, but all sung heartily and in the way that men alone can sing.

When the sing song closed with Auld Lang Syne, Rev. A. G. Mackenzie addressed the assembly for a few minutes. Mr. Mackenzie said he was flattered and honored to be present on this happy occasion and to be the spokesman for the men. "While the occasion is happy there is also a note of sadness for the meeting together is to say good bye to Mr. John Strickland, our Reeve.

We all know his many virtues and have forgotten his few faults. We will often recall his genial smile and his services to the village where he is known and liked by everyone. During his term as Reeve he got many benefits for the village and we are grateful and are very sorry to see him go; his place will be a hard one to fill.

"If he ever makes up his mind to enter civic politics in Toronto and will become an Orangemen and a Methodist, Tommy Church will have to look to his laurels." (Laughter).

The speaker spoke of Mr. Strickland as an old pupil of his and in the years of their acquaintance their relations had been close. Mr. Mackenzie said: "I married him to my own sister-in-law and he is my brother-in-law as well as my dear friend and kind neighbor.

Mr. Strickland was the friend of every one in distress and as a slight token of regard we present these gifts which are not big enough to hold all our affection."

Master Tat Lawless presented Mr. Strickland with a handsome tan leather club bag with initials in gold and a ladies' bag also initialed for Mrs. Strickland.

Mr. W. H. Casement spoke a few words of Mr. Strickland's services to the village of Lakefield. Mr. Strickland is of the third generation of Strickland's to sit on the County Council as his father and grandfather both represented Lakefield, the latter when it was a part of Douro township.

"This is a unique record and one to be proud of. The Strickland family were pioneers to a great extent and laid the foundation of our beautiful village."

Mr. Casement closed by wishing Mr. Strickland success in his new home.

Rev. J. J. Garvey was the next speaker and he paid a tribute to Mr. Strickland who he had learned to know and respect during his three years' residence in the village. He is a go-getter and a great benefactor to Lakefield and he leaves with the best wishes of Methodists, Orangemen and Catholics, who hope he will return and that he won't forget his many friends in the village.

Mr. Strickland spoke a few words of thanks saying he found it hard to find words to express his feelings. The meeting together of fellow citizens had made him happy. It is hard to pull away from the old village. When he first left home 30 years ago he started with the one thought in his mind, that of coming back. Lakefield is home for he was raised here on a farm and he made up his mind to return as soon as possible for Lakefield is one of the finest villages in the world and the people are among the best. The speaker said he loved the village and his work for it was without expectation of receiving any honors. It was a matter of pride to see such a gathering of friends and on behalf of himself and his wife he gracefully thanked them for their remembrance.

Mr. D. H. Webster then read the following address on behalf of the Curling Club and presented a fountain pen:

Mr. J. C. Strickland:

Dear Jack,—

We, your associates of the Lakefield Curling Club desire to express to you, on the occasion of your departure from our Club, our good wishes and esteem. Some of us have curled with you for many years but whether our companionship has been of long or short duration it has always been productive of the kindest feelings and it would be contrary to our wishes if we failed to place on record in a permanent form our high opinion of you and what you have done for our club.

We desire you to accept, as a token of all the good that one may wish in the gift accompanying these words of appreciation. We take pleasure in wishing you every success in your new sphere. We want you to feel that this is your old home club and we assure you that you will be welcome any time.

Signed on behalf of the Club—D. H. Charlton, J. A. Porter, Harry G. Armstrong, D. H. Webster, Percy Spence, George H. Spence.

Mr. Strickland replied briefly thanking the Club for their good wishes and their gift. As a fitting close to this happy occasion, with its sad note of a departing friend, the men formed a circle and in time honored fashion sang that classic of farewells, "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot". This was followed immediately by the National Anthem and the gentlemen dispersed.

Among the citizens represented were: Rev. J. J. Garvey, Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, Messrs. S. J. Charlton, F. C. Crawford, W. W. Leonard, W. Robinson, D. B. Millar, Dr. Smith, Messrs. F. Moon A. B. FEAR OF AN INDUSTRIAL, ETC.

Workers in the French metallurgical industry, one of the most important in the country, held the first of a series of meetings yesterday to consider the rising tide of unemployment in this industry.

According to the Paris Soir, French foundries are the hardest hit so far and many of them are running with but half their usual staffs of shapers and pourers. A reduction in the number of working hours and in the scale of wages has been into effect in those foundries where no men have been let out.

The automobile industry is feeling more and more each day the economic pressure due to the rapid improvement in the value of the franc. One factory discharged 3,000 workmen and another 2,000 during the last week it was said today.

An example of how some workingmen's wages are being cut to meet the situation is given by evening newspapers. In certain foundries where men had been making 5 francs 50 centimes an hour they are now receiving 4 francs 25 centimes, and even 4 francs, while the working hours have been reduced from forty-eight to thirty, and in some instances to as low as twenty hours a week.

Many Critics of Government

M. Poincare's assertion of last week that he saw no signs as yet of an industrial crisis is meeting with some pointed criticism from salaried and laboring people, among whom the need for action to anticipate the worst is urgently proposed.

These two classes have been the first and will likely be the worst sufferers under the present excessive cost of liivng, for, granted that prices are beginning to come down, they never will approach a level commensurate with salary values, it is contended.

Criticisms of the Government's revalorization policy continue to be heard on many sides. For example, it is emphasized that if the repayment of the 2 000,000,000 francs to the Bank of France at present contemplated is continued, which it is argued, must logically be done if it is begun, it will take eighteen years to bring the franc back to five to the $1 and twenty-five to the £1.

Any sudden foreign speculation which may occur long before this goal is reached ,it is said, may consume the large reserves now constituted and lead once more to inflation, with the salaried and wage-earning classes paying the terrible cost of monetary reform.

For Old People

The digestive systems of old people are usually too weak to extract much-needed nourishment from every-day food. In this way the vitality is lowered and the way opened to illness.

"Ovaltine" is super nourishment in a form that is almost instantly assimilated without digestive effort. It restores and renews the depleted cells of the body and builds up the reserve of strength and vitality necessary to maintain health and to ward off epidemic infections.

"Ovaltine" is made from Nature's tonic foods—ripe barley malt, creamy milk, fresh eggs and cocoa. One cup of Ovaltine contains more nourishment than 3 eggs or 12 cups of beef extract.

JUGO-SLAVIA RESENTFUL

"Little Entente" alliance with Czecho-Slovakia and Rumania, but has always looked to France for support as the only nation with great military power. Jugo-Slavia has had its troubles with the Hungarian minority and the strongly conflicting racial characteristics of its peoples, like most of Central Europe.

Albania has had a checkered career, both along the borders of Jugo-Slavia and by reason of banditry and insurrections within her own borders, the latest of which petered out a week ago. The country has been greatly under Italian influence. This has always annoyed Jugo-Slavia and has aggravated skirmishes along the frontier which have been intermittent since the armistice. This general situation is used to justify Jugo-Slavia's large armed forces and her military expenses, which are 28 per cent of her revenue.

Was Undoubted Triumph

LONDON, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—The conclusion of an Italo-Albanian pact which has quickly brought about the fall of the Jugo-Slav cabinet and seems to threaten a new embroilment in the perenially-troubled Balkans, is regarded here as essentially a matter for the League of Nations, of which Albania is a member.

It is regarded as an undoubted triumph for Italian diplomacy, and for that reason excites apprehension and suspicion, not only in Jugo-Slavia but also in France and other countries, for, by giving Italy a virtual protectorate over Albania it isolates Jugo-Slavia and permits Italy to assume complete control in the Adriatic.

Although the pact is said to be of a reciprocal nature, guaranteeing independence and territorial integrity for Albania, its main purpose from the Italian viewpoint is security in the Adriatic and the encirclement of Jugo-Slavia by precluding Albania from negotiating security pacts with either Jugo-Slavia or Greece.

It is expected now that Jugo-Slavia may turn to France, Hungary and Poland, and there is even talk of a complete new grouping, which might eventually bring about reconciliation between Jugo-Slavia and Bulgaria and the fruition of the scheme suggested by M. Briand, the French foreign minister, at the last League of Nations meeting for a rapprochmcent between Jugo-Slavia, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Some of the fashionable haberdashers now employ men mannequins for the display of styles in evening dress and sports clothes.

MOUNT PLEASANT INSTITUTE MEETS

Programme of December Meeting Connected with Christmas.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 8.—The December meeting of the Mount Pleasant branch of Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Richard Graham on Thursday, December 2. There were thirteen members present and one visitor.

It was decided to apply to the department for another library for the winter months. In the libraries received in the past there has always been a variation of good reading for the Institute and surrounding community.

The president told of a letter received from Mr. George Putman, superintendent of the Women's Institute, regarding the Institute pin, which has the Institute motto printed on "For Home and Country". All the members present ordered a pin with the exception of those who were chatter members and already had one.

The assistant secretary, Mrs. Thomas Graham, read the correspondence, among which was a letter from the Navy League, acknowledging the donation sent by the Institute a short time ago.

The new programmes for the coming year which had been filled out since the November meeting were passed around to the members. It will be noticed that in addition to the name of the member's home where the meeting will meet each month also the names of the two members who are responsible for the programme. A committee of two ladies was also added as the lunch committee for each month.

No new business was mentioned owing to the Christmas season so close at hand. A very instructive programme followed. Mrs. Thomas Graham gave a lengthy reading on "Christmas," which was very interesting. Mrs. Melville Jones gave a well prepared paper entitled, "The influence of moving pictures on the child." Mrs. Henry Lowes gave an inspiring paper, "Christmas commemorates the birth of Christ"

The roll call for the December was "Christmas candies and their recipes', after which a collection was taken and the meeting brought to a close with 'God Save the King' and a social half hour enjoyed while the hostess and the lunch committee, Mrs. H. Rutherford and Mrs. J. Handley served refreshments.

Those who attended were: Mr. Melville Jones, Mrs. Thomas Graham, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hubert Gardiner, Mrs. Henry Lowes, Miss Greta Boyd, Mrs. Richard Graham, Mrs. Rosenberg, Mrs. Chester Best, Mrs. John Handley, Miss Sarah Easton, Mrs. Rutherford, Mrs. Ira Lowes and Mrs. Garnet Shield.

The next meeting will be held on January 5th at the home of Mrs. Hannah Rutherford, with Mrs. Garnet Shield and Mrs. James Sisson responsible for the programme and Mrs. George Jamieson and Mrs. Sisson to assist with the lunch.

ROSENEATH NEWS

ROSENENATH, Dec. 8.—A Christmas tree and entertainment will be held in the town hall here on Thursday, Dec. 23, under the anspices of the United church Sunday school.

Owing to the extreme cold and stormy weather there was no service on Sunday.

Mr. Fred Grozelle has returned to the Royal Bank staff and Mr. W. V. Major has been transferred to Tweed.

Mrs. J. Milne has returned to the village after a lengthy stay with her daughter, Mrs. K. Haltsead.

Mr. Hartly Halstead has returned home from Western Canada.

from Macedonia and Rumania on bulgarian soil, with the proviso that they live 30 miles from the frontiers, thus decreasing the danger of fresh Balkan complications.

Some apprehension was caused in League circles when Dr. Stresemann, the German Foreign Minister, failed to attend yesterday's session of the Council, being represented by Under-Secretary Von Schubert. It was explained that Dr. Stresemann was suffering from nervous indigestion and that his condition was not serious.

Not Violating.

The figure of Mussolini appeared strikingly on Geneva's international screen when the news spread yesterday of the resignation of the Jugo Slavian Cabinet in protest against the Italo-Albanian treaty which the Serbians say marks the beginning of the protectorate by Italy over her Adriatic neighbor.

League of Nations circles do not regard the treaty as violating the League covenant unless, as some fear, it contains secret clauses.

The statesmen are anxiously watching the development of Italy-Jugo Slav relations. Any move calculated to endanger peace will undoubtedly receive prompt attention by the League Council, despite realization that it would involve a delicate test of the League's authority.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads go quickly by a simple method that just dissolves them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist, rub this with a hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads—and you will wonder where they have gone.

and give evidence," said chairman J. T. Brown.

Dr. Gordon will appear to-day.

G. A. Allen, customs collector at the port of Vancouver, was called to the stand and examin d by Mr. Rowell. He gave further information in regard to the voyages of the liquor laden vessels Quadra and Coal Harbor. The latter cleared from Vancouver on Feb. 4th, 1925, for La Libertad, San Salvador, with a cargo of about 10,00 cases of liquor, and was seized by the United States authorities two weeks later. No landing certificates were furnished.

The vessel, said Mr. Allen, was cleared by Russell Whitelaw, an official of the Consolidated exporters of British Columbia.

The Quadra, as stated on Monday, also cleared for San Salvador, but was seized near San Francisco.

In her case, landing certificates, which proved to be fraudulent, were presented. In the case of the Quadra the customs department ruled that the bond should be collected, but later, said Mr. Allen, the decision was reversed and the bond released.

"Have you got a single case in the history of this company where the bond has been collected?" asked Chairman J. T. Brown.

"No," said the witness. There were a number of cases in which no final decision in regard to the bond had been made.

Both the Quadra and the Coal Harbor cases were still before the United States courts, said Mr. Allen.

The coastwise shipment of liquor was a very large movement, a statement produced by Mr. Rowell indicated. This showed that 324 trips were made by coastwise vessels to islands in the neighborhood of Vancouver and Victoria in the fiscal year 1923-24. These trips involved the movement of 55,517 cases of liquor, and 3288 barrels of beer.

Mr. Allen said he was informed that the liquor was landed at points on these islands and called for by American vessels.

Roy Rickard. At 3 p.m. a mass meeting for the delegates in the United church, addressed by Ronald Fredenburg, premier of the 5th Older Boys' Parliament.

Owing to the terrible snow storm and zero weather, the congregation in the evening was much smaller than it would have been had the storm subsided. However, the delegates and boys were there and held their closing conference session.

ELECTION TALK IS PREVALENT

Reeve Davidson Will Not Seek Re-election in Campbellford.

OTHER RUMORS.

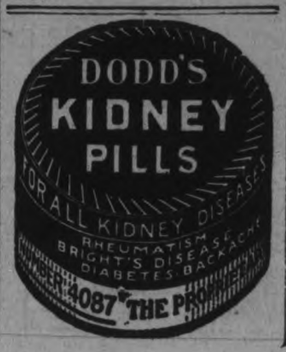
(Special to The Examiner).

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8. — Municipal election gossip is crowding off the stage the last echoes of the provincial election which closed a week ago. Some of the local rumors are well founded in fact; others are still shrouded in doubt.

It has been known for some time that Reeve Davidson would not be a candidate for the Reeveship next January, and Deputy-Reeve Palliser has intimated that he will be in the field for promotion to the Reeveship. There have been rumors that Major John Bygott of the Board of Education and Mr. J. A. Anderson may oppose Mr. Palliser, and that for the position of Deputy-Reeve R. J. Allan and Councillors Wiggins and Abernethy will go to the polls.

These are among the first crop of reports. If Mayor Kingston declines to seek re-election it is likely that Reeve Davidson would be next in line from the Council for the honor, but Mayor Kingston's intentions are not definitely known.

Over in Seymour Township ex-Reeve George Van Volkenburg is mentioned as an opponent against the present Reeve, William Grills. This possibility has been generally rumored and is no secret to Reeve Grills.



PETERBORO' MAN REPAIRS HOTEL

Stephen Fisher Has Renovated Balmoral—Reopened Yesterday.

AT COBOURG.

(Special to The Examiner).

COBOURG, Dec. 8.—Two Peterboro men have bloomed out in local business with enterprises that give every promise of success. One is Stephen Fisher, proprietor of the new Royal Hotel, and the other is Archie R. Moore, who is conducting an automobile service station. They have dissolved their former partnership, but are situated side by side on the main street.

Mr. Fisher has renovated the Balmoral Hotel and has completely refitted it even to a new name. New floors of hardwood have been laid throughout the house, the dining-room and bedrooms have been refurnished, new plumbing with hot and cold water in each room has been installed, and painters and decorators have done their best. The new Royal is opposite the County Buildings, and is located at the corner leading to the ferry dock. It is a twenty-room house, and should receive a big share of local hotel patronage.

Mr. Sam. Bromley of Pembroke, Ontario inspector of hotels, opened the brand new register yesterday afternoon and signed as the first guest. Some of the members of the Counties Council also registered.

OBITUARY.

SARAH WILSON WEIGESTER

..Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson was born April 23rd, 1841, and spent her early life and young womanhood in Peterborough, Canada. On December 25 1873, she was married to George Weigester and they made their first home in Canadaigua, N.Y., coming to Troy to reside in 1876. Since that time and the death of her husband in 1886 she has lived in her home on Canton Street. She is survived by two sons — Robert Weigester of New York City and Wilson at home. Three grand-daughters also survive. On Monday, Nov. 22, she fell, suffering an impact fracture of the hip and died from complications thereof on Monday, Nov. 29th. The funeral was held at her late home on Canton Street Wednesday, Dec. 1st at 2:30 o'clock, her pastor, Rev. R. C. White officiating assisted by Rev. A. G. Cameron. Interment in the family plot in Glenwood cemetery.

The late Mrs. Weigester resided on Roger St., Ashburnham, some years ago, and will be remembered by any of the residents of the village at that time, who will regret to learn of her death.

Claim for Damages

Notice of a claim for sustated damages was received from the Belleville solicitors for Thomas and Pearl Irwin of Sidney township, Hastings county, for personal injuries and damage to Mr. Irwin's car on September 10th at a culvert about a mile north of Grafton due to alleged disrepair of the road.

This communication was referred to the Roads and Bridge committee, but County Road Superintendent Green stated that the county could not be held liable because this road is not under county supervision, but is a Haldimand township road.

John C. Wilson of Hastings village forwarded an account for $5.30 for repairing a broken spring on his motor truck which, he wrote, was broken while driving over the Hastings bridge on November 12. Mr. Wilson contends that the bridge was not maintained in a proper condition for traffic.

A requisition for $134.40 from Havelock School board for their Continuation school was received.

BOY TURNED OUT BY STEPMOTHER

Father Taken Into Custody For Failure To Care For Him.

LAD'S FEET FROZEN.

OSHAWA, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press)—With both feet frozen, and exhausted from hunger, Nicholas Gravelle, fifteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gravelle, staggered into the home of Fred Sheyan on Monday. He has slept in freight cars or any place he could find during the past two weeks. He has sold newspapers to make a few cents to buy food. The boy told the police that his stepmother had turned him out of doors two weeks ago. The father, Michael Gravelle, was taken into custody charged with "omitting to provide the necessities of life for a child under sixteen years of age." Gravelle yesterday was remanded in custody for eight days.

An Amusing Letter

From An American Doctor —With a Moral

"During my tour of Western Canada I was introduced to your Beef Extract and found it to be the second best drink out there. I believe you will forgive me when I place the good old drinks of our by-gone days at the head of my list, but I find your product an excellent thing for the 'morning after'."

Original letter in possession of Bovril Ltd., Montreal.

THE MORAL IS, "BOVRIL PUTS BEEF INTO YOU"

To Every Reader Quite a lot of discussion took place in our office concerning the publication of the above letter, but we concluded that the good sense of the general public would understand that the letter is, in its own way, a tribute to the remarkable restorative properties of our world-famous Fluid Beef, Bovril, which is a wonderful "pick me up".

Box-plaits are Smart

Delightfully chic is this sports model of woolen material. The skirt front is laid in box-plaits, while the back is plain. The collar is of the modish high type, and the left side-closing is effected beneath a band trimmed with small buttons, while the same trimming is repeated on the long dart-fitted sleeves. A narrow belt fastening in front completes this smart frock. NO. 1483 is for misses and small women and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch material, or 2⅔ yards 54-inch. The width at lower edge of the skirt with the plaits drawn out is about 78 inches. 20 cents.

Home sewing brings nice clothes within the reach of all, and to follow the mode is delightful when it can be done so easily and economically by following the styles pictured in our new Fashion Book. A chart accompanying each pattern shows the material as it appears when cut out. Every detail is explained so that the inexperienced sewer can make without difficulty an attractive dress. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

GOLD-DIGGERS

All the gold-diggers are not siren blondes. Nor are they all of the female sex. Some of them are persons of considerable standing in the world, who trade shamelessly upon a freak of fortune.

America, of all countries, is most kind to gold-diggers. Especially if they come to us from foreign countries with some specious glamor attached to their names. No wonder so many of these people flock to our shores, comfortably confident that we shall fall for their glamor and open up our pockets at their bidding.

The coming of these glamorous foreigners is press-agented for weeks beforehand with free advertising in our newspapers. Whole cities conspire to entertain them. Railroads are importuned to carry them free. Clubs and associations vie with each other to offer them hospitality. Newspaper syndicates pay them huge sums for signed stories Presents are lavished upon them. Hosts compete for the "honor" of feeding them. Automobiles are placed at their service. Clubs will pay huge sums to hear them utter a few silly banalities. In fact, we evince every indication of liking gold-diggers—any old gold-digger who has been clever enough to get in the limelight.

All these gold-diggers ever give us in return are a few cheap compliments while they are here—upon the beauty of each city's maidens, upon the wonders of our skyscrapers, upon the enterprise of our business men, upon the style and chic of our women, upon the virtues of American husbands, upon the charms of our scenery, and all the other things we know all about.

(And when they get back home they usually make an equal number of uncomplimentary remarks about us. It is our fault, we have been too easy marks.)

Whether it is royalty or a young lady champion or a prizefighter or a professional beauty, we lay ourselves out to make their visit to us profitable. We let them exploit us all for their own dubious purposes and pay them handsomely for their trouble. We, who rightly consider our advertising space valuable, hand them more advertising in a couple of weeks than their entire assets could ever have paid for. If they make themselves conspicuous enough, they will surely be invited to sign a fat contract to appear in motion pictures, sign articles they mostly never wrote in our newspapers and magazines.

All we ever expect of them is a little gracious flattery about us while they are here. No wonder America is the gold-digger's El Dorado, the world's Tom Tiddler's Ground for picking up gold and silver.

The one thing that can be said on behalf of our method is that we usually give them so much rope that they hang themselves. Then can never live up to the fulsome sychophancy we lavish upon them. It invariably turns their heads and gives them a chance to show how silly they are. But the rope costs us a lot of money and we manage to expose our own silliness at the same time.

Why do we do it? We, who have such a nose for gold-diggers, when they are of our own species.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1926

Venus, the Sun and Jupiter are in benefic aspect today, according to astrology. Saturn and Neptune are strongly adverse.

This is pre-eminently a day advantageous to women who should push all their affairs while the configuration prevails.

This is a most auspicious rule for marriage and they who plight their troth today should prosper.

It is a lucky day for theatres or for any sort of amusement enterprise. Nationwide enterprises will flourish.

Much attention is to be paid to beauty in the coming year it is prophesieud but artificial aids will cease to be countenanced.

New fashions are to foreshadow strange world events, the seer phropesy. Decided changes are indicated for men as well as women.

According to this month's lunation there will be much secret diplomacy which will disturb Great Britain.

The signs are still menacing for agricultural products and much discussion of the world's food supplies may be expected.

Christmas this year may be marked by a decided increase in travel. Long-separated relatives will enjoy reunions, if the stars are wisely interpreted.

According to a London astrologer the stationary position of Uranus and Mars will unsettle the ruling powers in many countries, but Ireland, Italy, the Balkans and Japan will be most affected.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of pleasure and prosperity in the coming year. Quarrels with women should be avoided with unusual care.

Children born on this day probably will have many changes in homes and even in the countries in which they live. These subjects of Sagittarius may be easily susceptible to throat troubles.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.)

That home money kept working at home helps to make prosperity for all.

That money spent away from home just helps to make some other city prosperous.

That when all home money is working at home, every industry, every commercial enterprise and every institution in the city will record the stimulus; the whole city will gather new strength and there will be prosperity such as the city has never seen before.

That putting home money to work in the home city is the most practical and fruitful way of manifesting loyalty to the home city.

That the loyalty that counts for most is when the people spend their money where it will do the most for the common good. When money is spent in the home city it stays on the job, working for all.

That people should practice civic loyalty, which means that no commodity should be bought elsewhere when it can be bought at home.

Civic loyalty consists of more than verbal boosting. Buy at home!

OLD MASTERS

Mortality, behold and fear
What a change of flesh is here!
Think how many royal bones
Sleep within these heaps of stones:
Here they lie, had realms and lands,
Who now want strength to stir their hands,
Where from the pulpits seal'd with dust
They preach, "In greatness is no trust."

Here's an acre sown indeed
With the richest royalest seed
That the earth did e'er suck in
Since the first man died for sin:
Here the bones of birth have cried
"Though gods they were, as men they died."

Here are sands, ignoble things,
Dropt from the ruin'd sides of kings:
Here's a world of pomp and state
Buried in dust, once dead by fate.

—F. Beaumont: On the Tombs in Westminster Abbey.

In parts of England, in olden times the rural population believed that if a woman was the first to enter the house on New Year's Day, the ensuing year would be very unlucky for the household.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The ruby is today's talismanic gem; it was believed by the ancients to be potent in dispelling sorrow and endowing its wearer with bodily as well as mental strength.

Today's natal stone is the opal, which the ancients believed endowed its wearer with a changeable temperament and attractive personality.

Crimson is today's lucky hue.

The camelia is today's significant flower. Worn by a woman it is believed to bestow the unusual loveliness.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Mottoes are no longer considered old fashioned and the up-to-date house is sure to display a few of them. But we no longer choose "God Bless Our Home," and "What Is Home Without a Mother?"—though we may come back to that sort in the course of events. The important thing is to have a motto that is really original. It is hardly enough to use one that you have seen and think is clever. A prominent English society dressmaker has written in gold across the mirror of her own dressing-table these words: "What covers you—discovers you." You probably won't want to copy that motto, but the idea of having your personal motto written in gold letters across your mirror is worth remembering.

How to— Avoid Colds

When a child is "always catching cold," or "always catching" anything, it's a sign that the body's powers of resistance have been broken down. It is pitiful to see children who should be well and happy, playing and romping, "laid up" with colds and similar complaints.

Give them Virol. It builds up and strengthens the body. It enriches the blood, giving it resisting power to combat successfully the attacks of disease germs.

Build up your children by giving them Virol. They'll like it—and they will thrive on it.

GIRLS! SIT UP STRAIGHT AND BE BEAUTIFUL—SLOUCH, AND BE A WALL FLOWER.

Sit up straight, girls, if you want to be healthful and beautiful. So advise members of the Middle Atlantic Osteopathic Association —and Miss Evelyn Schlecht, of Cleveland, demonstrates. The pose at the left causes nervousness and digestive disturbances, 'tis said. The next pose is the worst of all —it's ugly as well as unhealthful. The one in the middle invites curvature of the spine. The one next to the right draws the spine out of plumb and causes round shoulders. But ah! At the extreme right—we have it! The pose, with shoulders straight, the head up and one knee thrown lightly over the other, leads to health, happiness and a merry old age.

FIVE ARE HELD FOR ATTACKING POLICE OFFICER

Charges Against Nine Other Aylmer People Are Dismissed.

MUCH INTEREST.

One Witness Says He Heard Talk of Lynching Constable.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 8—Fourteen boys and men, ranging in age from 14 to 47 years, faced Magistrate Maxwell in the Town Hall Aylmer yesterday, on a charge of being members of an unlawful assembly on the night of Saturday, Nov. 13, when County Constable Arthur Soper of Mount Salem was chased into the town lockup by the mob, after removing the markers from a motor vehicle. When Police Court adjourned, only four boys and a 40-year-old man remained on trial, the charges against the others having been dismissed, either through lack of evidence to convict or through Crown Attorney McCrimmon offering no evidence at all. Decision in the case of the four was adjourned for a week, and in the meantime the county constables have been instructed to continue the search for a fifteenth suspect whom they could not locate to serve with a summons.

Denies Taking Active Part

The one man whose case is still before the court is Aylmer Wellsworth, a resident of Aylmer, and a man who admitted in court that he was "sore on Constable Soper ever being fined the previous week," but he denied taking an active part in the disturbance and of being within 50 feet of Soper's autombile, which was man-handled and later burned.

Nothing has excited so much interest in East Elgin in years. The whole town was agog and hotels and restaurants did a rushing business feeding the hundreds who attended the hearing. The audience when court closed was estimated at between 500 and 600, including a number of women. An elderly man on crutches even hobbled into the court room and took a front seat, close to Constable Soper. The court officials anticipated a record attendance and moved from the Police Court, with a seating capacity of about 75, to the Town Hall. It was a wise move. The hearing was very informal, resembling a political meeting rather than a trial, at times. Twice the Town Constable, Dr. D. T. Augustine, had to warn the men in the audience not to smoke nor spit tobacco juice on the floor.

Several times even Magistrate Maxwell stopped to laugh at the droll answers given to Crown Attorney McCrimmon's questions by a 14-year-old Aylmer High School boy, who is among the accused. He admitted that he had had an overripe egg in his hand to throw at Constable Soper, but it had broken in his hand before he could hurl it. He made a wry face as he described the smell that emanated from the broken egg. The boy deposed further that he didn't think Constable Soper would have been harmed if he had remained out of the jail and faced the crowd, although he had heard some of the mob talking about lynching the constable, and had also heard demands for a rope and tar and feathers. The youth had also heard the mob talking about running the constable's car to the creek.

PROWLERS HURL ACID AT FARMER

Thurlow Man Falls Into Straw With Lantern, Causing Bad Fire.

TOTAL LOSS $8,000.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 8.—When Arthur Vermilyea, farmer, of the Fourth Concession, Thurlow Township, was closing up his barn late Monday night he encountered a prowler in the granary. To his query, "What are you doing there?" the reply was "Give it to him, Mac," and Vermilyea almost simultaneously was struck in the face by a charge of burning acid thrown by a second and unseen intruder.

Reeling under the pain, Mr. Vermilyea fell into a pile of straw, and, his lantern breaking, set fire to the barn, a fine structure, steel-roofed and with stone foundation, which was totally destroyed, the loss being $8,000. A lot of farm machinery, two filled silos, 50 tons of hay and 3,000 bushels of grain, and 20 pure-bred collies were destroyed. Twenty-five head of cattle and seven Percheron horses were saved.

Mr. Vermilyea is suffering a good deal from the acid burns. The prowlers escaped in the excitement and all efforts to trace them have failed.

SEVERAL POLICIES TO BE ADVANCED

Speech From Throne Will Introduce Maritime Commission Advice.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—It is now assumed in political circles here that the speech from the Throne on Friday will contain declarations of Government policy along the following lines:

1—Legislation to aid the manufacture of coke from Canadian coal.

2—A new programme of Canadian National Railway branch lines over a three-year period.

3—Legislation implementing some of the recommendations of the Commission on Maritime Rights.

4—Legislation to give effect to the agreements between the Canadian National Railway and the debenture holders of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

5—An announcement of the decision to have a survey made of the terminal facilities at Port Nelson on the Hudson Bay Railway.

STUBBORN FIRE AT LAKEFIELD

TEAR DOWN WALL.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 8.—Firemen worked several hours to extinguish a fire behind the fireplace in the apartment occupied by E. H. Northey over his drug store. Mr. Northey returned to his rooms about midnight on Monday and found the blaze. He 'phoned several of the firemen, who responded. It was found necessary to tear down the fireplace and part of the wall

Queen Does Own Shopping And Then Does King's, Too

LONDON, Dec. 8 (United Press). — Having prudently finished her own Christmas shopping, Queen Mary is busy attending to that of King George and the Prince of Wales. Both the King and Wales regard shopping frankly as a nuisance.

They rarely enter a shop and they even buy their clothes from selections brought to them by tailors, haberdashers, bootmakers and hatters.

The Queen's recent descents on department stores indicate that many of the King's and Wales' presents will be clocks, silver and china. In nearly every expedition the Queen goes to the toy department to pick up presents for her baby grand-daughter, Princess Elizabeth.

REMOVING THE DEBT.

Ladies' Guild Contributes Substantial Sum at All Saints'.

The Ladies' Guild of All Saints' Church contributed $625 towards reducing the debt on the church — the proceeds of their successful bazaar. This sum, together with $500 raised last May, amounted to $1,125 for the year. For several previous years they contributed upwards of $500 annually for this purpose alone. The men of the congregation this year backed them up, with the result that a debt of nearly $13,000 has been reduced to less than half that amount, with the prospect that in the next year All Saints' Church will be free of all encumbrance.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

1ST AND 5TH PETERBOROUGH TROOPS.

A meeting of the First and Fifth Peterborough Troop Boy Scouts was held Monday night at 7.30 sharp, with Scoutmaster George Gimblett presiding. After being inspected by the scoutmaster, assisted by James Russell, the troop was dismissed for instruction period under the direction of K. Roszel and G. Johnson.

At the last court of honour it was decided that the neckerchief would be green in the future, and the troop number will be changed to the 10th Peterborough Troop. The Bulldog patrol is leading in the troop competition.

The troop was then called up and after going through Scout laws and Scout oath the troop was dismissed. A court of honour then followed and and the meeting came to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

ST. ANDREW'S, COBOURG.

COBOURG, Dec. 8. — Rev. Dr. McGillivray, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, was the preacher on Sunday at the anniversary services of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here, of which Rev. T. W. Goodwill is minister. It was the 92nd anniversary of the Cobourg church. In the afternoon Dr. McGillivray preached at Grafton, which charge is now associated with Cobourg and receives its pulpit supply from here.

Last night Rev. H. D. Cameron, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, preached here. The soloist at the morning service was Mr. J. T. George of Port Hope. Mrs. Van Alstine and Mr. S. A. Shay, Port Hope, sang at the evening service.

NOTED SALES ORGANIZER SAILS FOR EUROPE

D. H. Pollitt, director of the Sales and Advertising Division of the De Forest Radio Corporation, sails for Europe on December 11th, on the "Baltic" to make a study of the radio industry in Europe. His trip indicates a progressive attitude on the part of Canadian industry to keep abreast of radio not only on this continent but in England and Europe as well.

Conditions in the radio industry overseas differ from those in Canada. Extremely long wave length are unknown on this side of the Atlantic, and different methods of merchandising are used in each country.

Mr. Pollitt is particularly fitted to make a survey of this character having gained his experience in both England and Canada. Originally associated with the English Marconi Co., Mr. Pollitt came to Canada in 1922 to direct the publicity for the Canadian Marconi Company. He became associated with the De Forest Radio Corporation when this organization was formed in 1923.

SHIPPER DROPS DEAD.

Thomas Young, 52, Was Loading Stock at Creemore.

CREEMORE, Ont., Dec. 8.—Thomas Young, 52 years old, a prominent farmer and live stock shipper, dropped dead in Shepherd's warehouse, Creemore, yesterday. Death was due to apoplexy. Deceased was preparing to load a couple of cars of live stock, which he intended taking to Toronto. He leaves a widow, four sons and one daughter.

Are there going to be any regrets tomorrow about that good meal you're all set to stow away tonight. Better take Seigel's Syrup. Any

HAM TO APPEAL LONG SENTENCE

Conference Will Be Held By Lawyers and Others Concerned.

SEVEN YEAR TERM.

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press)—An appeal from the sentence of seven years in Portsmouth Penitentiary imposed upon Percy D. Ham yesterday is being considered by Ham's lawyers. A conference will be held shortly between counsel, Ham's father, and other parties concerned, and the judgment will be studied, when a definite decision as to an appeal will be reached. Ham, on arrival at the Toronto Jail after hearing sentence yesterday, is understood to have remarked that he would appeal from the sentence, which followed conviction on charges of forgery, uttering, and fraud involving an amount of about half a million dollars.

BEER SHIPMENT FOUND IN WOOD

Police Seize 10,500 Bottles in Freight Car in Toronto.

CONSIGNED TO U.S.A.

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—A shipment of 10,500 bottles of beer has been placed in the Government liquor store as the result of a seizure made by Provincial Police in the Canadian National Railways yards here. The beer was loaded in the centre of a box car, inside a stack of lumber. The papers show the shipment to have been consigned as lumber, and to have come from a Waterloo brewery. It was consigned to a port in the United States.

ELECTION COSTS ABOUT $750,000

CANDIDATES MORE.

TORONTO, Dec. 8. Canadian Press. — The cost of the Provincial general election on December 1 last, to the public treasury, is estimated at $750,000. About 30,000 cheques are now going forward to the army of employees who assisted in recording the electorates decision. Printing and incidental items added to these have already brought the expenditures past the half million mark.

These costs of course are official, and exclusive of expenditures by the candidates and various participating organizations.

LANDIS ENDORSED.

National Association Recommends His Re-election To Office

ASHEVILLE, N.C., Dec. 8 (Canadian Press) — The administration of Kenesaw Mountain Landis as baseball commissioner was unanimously endorsed by the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues in executive session here today when Landis was recommended for re-election "without curtailment of authority."

The commissioner's seven year term of office expires December 16th.

Prohibition Violation Civic Duty Says Darrow

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (United Press).—Violation of the Volstead Act and the 18th Amendment were urged as a civic duty by Clarence Darrow last night at a dinner here.

A minority of the American people, composed mostly of "superstitions bigots, religious fanatics, and pleasure-hating lineal descendants of the Puritan witch hunters" put over the amendment, the noted criminal lawyer said.

Living Authors Protest Auction Sale Of Letters

LONDON, Dec. 8 (United Press)—A dozen leading authors including Bernard Shaw, Rudyard Kipling, H. G. Wells, Sir James Barrie, and Thomas Hardy, are protesting against the proposed sale by auction next month of intimate letters written by them to various people many years ago. Some of the letters contain frank references to living and dead personalities. Kipling, in one letter, takes his usual slap at the United States. Writing in 1894, he said: "It's a queer land, but if you will insist on treating it as a civilized power you will find it even

LECTURE GIVEN TO RADIO CLUB

Mr. George Burchill Explains Construction of Receiving Sets.

It would be quite easy for one who heard the radio lecture given last night, by Mr. George Burchill to members of the Peterborough Radio Club, to build a small receiver, so explanatory and interesting was it.

Only a small audience heard this lecture, but those who were fortunate enough, openly expressed their opinions that it was one of the best talks along this line they had heard.

Many intelligent questions were asked and Mr. Burchill answered them to the satisfactorion of all, using blackboard illustrations.

A letter from the local radio inspector was read regarding local interference, and it was intimated that the trouble would soon be located and eliminated.

The speaker was tendered a vote of thanks and it was suggested he repeat this talk at some future date.

ST. JOHN'S HALL IS RE-OPENED

J. Comstock, Mrs. G. G. Evans, and Mrs. W. J. Preston.

Many Improvements.

The handsome and commodious extension to the church consists of the following improvements: An extension northward toward Brock Street of twenty-one feet, the width of the main auditorium. This is in keeping architecturally with the old building and the church. The memorial window to Mrs. Nicholls, which was in the old building, has been set back in the north end of the new addition. On the east side is a spacious vestibule, leading from the outside, with stairways leading to both floors inside. The effect of this portion of the building is very pleasing, giving an impression of strength and beauty to the whole structure. The old supports in the basement of the old building have been replaced by steel girders and new lighting has been installed, as well as heavy wiring suitable for an electric range.

The kitchen part of the lower section has been completely changed and modernized and the lavatory accommodation brought up to date. A new steam heating plant has been installed and a new chimney erected to take care of the new fireplaces, while a new coal cellar has been added to the furnace room. The walls of the old building inside have been freshly painted, the doors and windows repaired, the outside woodwork painted, the brick work pointed and the roof repaired. Two extra windows on the west side have been cut for extra light. The whole work has been in charge of Wm. and W. R. L. Blackwell, architects.

Fine Stage

In the auditorium, one hundred new chairs have been added to the furnishings, and the stage, with its increased length, new footlights, and sliding doors which can be used at will to convert the stage into a Sunday school classroom, is now one of the finest of its sort in the city.

The ladies' room downstairs, which may be used as a drawing room or for meetings of various societies, is very handsomely furnished. The walls, like the walls of the dining-room, are done with a gold n-brown dado of burlap and upper section of pure white and the floor is covered with a beautiful Wilton rug in grey and blue shades. The table is walnut, with chairs of the Windsor type, and the prettily set windows are curtained with cream lace and draped with brown casement cloth. There is a long settee of grey wicker, upholstered in grey and mauve, and the fireplace of light brown bricks and brown wooden mantel are topped by a fine view of St. John's church, an old painting executed by "T. Workman," in 1895. Tall floor lamps with brown and gold shades and ferns add to the general decorative scheme. This room also has sliding doors of British Columbia fir, and exhibits a fine artistic sense in its finishing.

STEAMER'S CREW RESCUES MOOSE

Sailors Took Animal Caught in the Ice To Shore.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 8.—A tale of how the crew of the steamer Clover rescued and revived a big bull moose, powerless in the freezing waters of the Neebish Channel, near the scene of the ice-bound boats, is contained in a message to the Soo.

Realizing the plight of the moose, Officer Ecke and Engineer Handmand of the Clover went out with some of the crew in a small boat. Drawing alongside, the two officers took hold of the moose by the ears while the others threw a tow line around the horns and in this way they dragged him to the shore of Round Island.

Caked with ice and completely exhausted from its efforts to break a channel, the moose sank exhausted to the ground. The men spread their coats over the animal and by means of artificial respiration brought it back to normal.

After a while the moose got up, shook himself free of the icicles and

AGED COUPLE DIE SAME DAY

AT PORTSMOUTH.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 8.—Ten months ago Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Rice came from Acton to Portsmouth to reside. They both were taken ill a week ago Monday and died this Monday, Mrs. Rice at six in the morning and Mr. Rice at four in the afternoon. They were each 78 years of age. One son, William, resides here. The remains will be taken to Acton for burial.

RECTOR TRANSFERRED.

Rev. John Lyons Goes From Picton To Belleville Church.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 8. — Bishop Seager to-day announced the appointment of Rev. John Lyons of Picton as rector incumbent of St. Thomas Church at Belleville. Rev. Mr. Lyons has been rector at Picton since October 15, 1923. He is a M.A. of Trinity College, and was ordained a deacon at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, on May 26, 1907. The promotion is well deserved, going to one who started as a missionary and now being attached to one of the best parishes in the diocese.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR HIGH GRADING

Fine of $1,000 and Costs or Six Months in Jail Imposed.

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Dec. 8.—A fine of $1,000 and costs, or six months in jail, was imposed by Judge Hartman at the General Sessions here yesterday upon Joseph Sylvestri, of Timmins, who pleaded guilty to a charge of high grading.

Sylvestri was arrested on a T. and N. O. train last July, and it was alleged by the police that he had in his possession then a quantity of gold, valued at about $2,000. In court yesterday defendant's counsel suggested there was some doubt regarding the ownership of the gold. Sylvestri is a former employee of the Hollinger Mine.

TO TEST STATUS UNITED CHURCH

Toronto Presbyterians Decide To Take Case To Privy Council.

FORM OF WILL.

TORONTO, December 8. — It was declared by the Toronto Presbytery, when it met yesterday in the Knox College chapel, that the legal status of the United Church of Canada should be tested because of the unsatisfactory conditions prevailing at present. The Presbytery decided, therefore that it would take steps in the direction of carrying the case of the Presbyterian Church in Canada before the Privy Council. After the matter had been brought up for discussion by Rev. A. F. McGregor, and then considered at some length, a committee, consisting of Rev. Jos. Wasson, Rev. A. F. Macgregor, Rev. J. B. Skene, and Rev. Lachlan Maclean, was appointed to draw up a resolution, subsequently endorsed, the wording in effect being:

"In view of the recent judgment of Chief Justice Rose regarding the Ferguson case and the various references in the public press, the Presbytery of Toronto respectfully calls the attention of the legal committee of the church to the question, recommending that a test case be made of the validity of the United Church of Canada Act before the Privy Council."

The Presbytery also recommended that the legal committee request counsel to draw up a form of will safeguarding bequests intended for the Presbyterian Church, and that the same be printed in the record.

TWO TUGS HELP FERRY PULL OUT JAMMED SHIP

Release of General Garretson Will Free Downbound Fleet.

WORKING TO-DAY.

Over One Hundred Ships Held Up By Jammed Vessel.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 8 (Canadian Press)—Two tugs and the giant steel car ferry, Sainte Marie, this morning began a battering campaign to free the steamer General Garretson, jammed in the ice of the West Neebish cut, and proving the "key log" of the blockade of 101 grain-laden steamers at anchor in the river.

With the release of the Garretson, the entire downbound fleet is expected to get under way. The upbound coal fleet was under way this morning, unhindered by ice at the East Neebish channel.

The General Garretson, the last remaining serious obstacle in the path of the downbound flotilla which is strung out for twenty miles astern toward Sault Ste. Marie, was expected to prove no meaner foe for the giant car ferry than was the Coulee. With the same tough tow line with which the Sainte Marie virtually tore the Coulee out of its setting of ice, the ferry meant this morning to lift out the General Garretson.

LADIES' AID MEETS.

George Street Ladies Hold Christmas Meeting at Y.W.C.A.

The Christmas meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of George Street Church was held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon, the president, Mrs. C. E. Smith, in the chair. A very fine address on "Womanhood," defining woman's place in the home, in the state and in the church, was given by Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, and several vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Daisy Murray, with accompaniment by Miss Gwen. Donley.

AGED MAN SUICIDES.

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Dec. 8. — An elderly man, believed to have been Napoleon Couture, Sherbrooke, Que., committed suicide here yesterday by hanging himself with hay wire from a stanchion in the local dock. Seven dollars in money and a gold watch were found in his possession.

Couture's feet were touching the ice when the police found the body hanging over the front of the dock. Further inquiries are being made, and an inquest will be held.

Plymouth Rocks, in their sober pepper and salt suits; Rhode Island Reds, with their brownish-red bodies and long shanks; Hamburgs, pencilled and spangled, in silver and gold; big Orpingtons, in white and black; Redcaps, with their curious bright red bonnets; huge, glistening black Langshans, bright-looking Pitt games, in varied colors; modest Dorkins; pompous Polish birds, with their fussy pompom crests and beautifully-marked saddles, in brown and silver and black and white; with their relations, the Houdans, sporting the same old topknots; Quakerish-looking guinea fowl, with their high note; polished Black Leghorns, and fierce tall Black Minorcas; pretty, sedate Blue Andalusians, Sussex birds, with mottled brown coats; neat little Cornish; White and Buff Plymouth Rocks; Black Anconas, gold and silver Campines; Brown and Buff and White Leghorns; meaty-looking Light and Dark Brahams; big Cochins, equipped with leg-muffs "against the cold weather," as one observer put it; and plenty of bantams, in many varieties; Old English Game, Pyle Game, Seabright, Birchen Game, Black Game, Duck Wing, Rose Comb, Cochin Buff and Black Cochins, and Bantam Brahmas.

There are big Toulouse and Emden and African geese, the latter with their knobby foreheads and enquiring looks, and white Chinese geese, big conversational turkeys in bronze and White Holland and Bourbon Red breeds and ducks of the Pekin and White Indian Runner type, and White Aylesburys and Cayugas, with their greenish-black coloring, Black and White mottled Muscovys and friendly Grey and Green Rouens.

There are fantail pigeons in spotles, white, haughty coats, Homers and Jacobins, hiding chilly heads in black neck-ruffs, and fuzzy Angora rabbits, and Belgian hares.

The Dominion Experimental Farm has a large, interesting exhibit, with colored slides and information literature, and Mr. F. H. Dawson shows Blachford's Mashes and sanitary poultry litter.

Would Sit Up Most of Night

In bed nerves would twitch and jerk so he could not sleep

This letter gives you some idea of how distressing nervous ailments become. It also points to the best method of restoring exhausted nerves. Mr. E. P. Schoolcraft, Clarenceville, Que. writes:—"I suffered for three years with my nerves. I tried most everything, but without relief. I could not sleep at night, my nerves were so unstrung. I would twitch first one leg and then the other. Some nights I would sit up most of the night, unable to sleep. I became so bad that I could not sit still. I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and felt slightly better by the time I had taken it. When I had used a full treatment I was an entirely different man—I felt better, slept better and worked better."

Tells a Good Story About Headaches

Glendale, N. Y. Mrs. J. Schwind writes:—"My head was dizzy at frequent intervals. My stomach was upset and I was horribly constipated. I took Carter's Little Liver Pills and I soon noticed a decided improvement. It is months now since I have had a headache or sick stomach. Your pills have merit." Carter's Little Liver Pills, a purely vegetable laxative, relieve the constipated condition. They cleanse the intestines of their poisonous matter. They are sugar coated, small, and easy to take. Petes Eliminated From S.P.A. Series--Lose to Kitchener

PETES LOSE THEIR FIRST GAME OF HOCKEY SEASON TO KITCHENER IN OVERTIME PLAY BY SCORE OF 7-4

Catching Petes Short-handed, Kitchener Scores Two in Last Minute.

MAKE GAME FIGHT.

Locals Crowded Out in the First For Lack of Practice.

By E. D. C.

The Petes' S.P.A. career this season has come to an end with their first game, Kitchener eliminating Eddie Wright's squad by beating them 7 to 4 in Toronto last night after twenty minutes' overtime.

Although the final margin looks large, it was anybody's game until the final sixty seconds of the second overtime period when, with Kitchener leading 5 to 4 and the Petes striving desperately to even it up, the Dutchmen caught the blue shirts short-handed through penalties and rammed home two fast goals in the last minute of play.

It was a hard fought and always interesting, if not always brilliant, battle.

Kitchener, with half a dozen team practices under their belts, showed the effects of it both in their condition and in their teamwork, and early in the game their smooth stick-handling and passing made it look as if they were going to run clean away with the game. They led 2 to 0 at the end of the first period, scored another in the second, and with a three-goal lead looked to have the game tucked away in the old stick-bag.

Then the Petes, who have had little training and who were all at sea in the early stages, came through with one of their characteristic rallies. By the end of the second period they had crawled up to within one goal of the leaders. They nicked that one off early in the third session, and although Kitchener forged ahead again, the Petes once more pulled up on even terms, and the regulation hour ended with the score 4 all.

The teams were unable to break the deadlock in the first extra period, but Kitchener, showing better condition than the blue and white sound, earned the decision in the second ten minutes of overtime, although the three-goal margin doesn't do justice to the Petes' gallant effort.

Kitchener trotted out practically the same line-up as last season, which didn't win a decision over the Petes in four starts. They had the same defence with Klem in goal and Karges and Hinsperger in front of him, and Hiller, Roth and Gross as the regular forward line. The old masters, Karges and Hiller, both turned in great cards, and Roth did some very useful poke-checking, but probably the most effective, even if not the most showy, player on Kitchener's line-up was Gross, the hard-working left winger, who scored two goals on his own account and was chiefly responsible for a third, and was always dangerous.

Harold Parker was out of the Peterboro line-up, leaving the defence as it was in the final games of last season. Collins and Ranger were in their regular positions, while the gap at right wing left by Bailey's departure to the pros was filled by Bogardis in the starting line-up.

Dwyer performed in great style in the nets. He was up against a shifty, hard shooting crew, and he beat them often when the odds were all with the attackers.

McLeod, far from in shape, and Ray Rose did well going both ways. In fact, Rose was one of the Petes' outstanding performers, getting two pretty goals and rushing repeatedly.

The regular advance guard hit their last year stride only in spots, although they tried hard. Lack of practice told, but they showed enough to indicate that there will be nothing to worry about when they get into shape. Bogardis got a cut over the eye and played only the first two periods.

The Petes had five subs in uniform—Ken. Kane, last year with St. Mary's; the veteran Grover Halpin, Killen, the former Lindsay player, and Eddie Williams and Pete King of last year's intermediates. Of the subs Kane and Williams were the most used and the most useful. Kane should develop into a valuable man for the Petes. Young Williams made a fine showing in his senior debut. His play for the Petes' first goal was one of the neatest of the night and the youngster looked good every time they tossed him out there.

The line-up:

Kitchener—Goal, Klem; defence, Karges and Hinsperger; centre, Roth; right wing, Hiller; left wing, Gross; subs, Berlet, Hillman and Schmidt.

Referee — Murray Rutherford, Toronto.

The green shirts dominated the first period. The Petes, showing their lack of practice, had trouble in getting under way. They bunched badly, and the Kitchener outfit, led by the veterans Hiller and Karges, and with Gross going great guns along the left board, were well in front all through that initial session, only fine goal-keeping by Joe Dwyer keeping the Dutchmen from piling up a substantial lead. Kitchener took the offensive from the first bell, and playing smart hockey, gave the Petes' rear guard plenty to do. Once Dwyer averted a goal by spread-eagling across the net to block a vicious shot from Hiller. Kitchener were not to be denied, and after Dwyer had made a nice stop from Gross on a play with Roth, the latter gave the Petes' goalie no chance on the rebound.

Three minutes after Gross went down the side and drilled a nice one past Dwyer for Kitchener's second goal.

Karges almost made it three a moment after when he stick-handled through, only to have Dwyer come out and upset him when a score seemed certain. The Petes were trying hard, using subs freely and giving all they had without getting anywhere in particular in the first session.

It was a different story in the second heat, even if the Dutchmen did get the first goal. The Petes had begun to get their bearings, and showing the old determination that has carried them through many a hard fought battle to victory, they slowed up the Kitchener onslaught and began to do some dangerous attacking on their own account. Collins found the net, but the play was called back for an offside. Then Rose almost scored on his own rebound.

Right after, with Schmidt in the penalty box for tripping, the elusive old Karges went down alone and whipped a beauty into the corner of the net well out of Dwyer's reach to put the Dutchmen three markers to the good.

The Petes got that one back in 30 seconds, and it was Eddie Williams who turned the trick. The youngster broke away from centre with Ranger, went round Karges, and when he got inside coolly whipped the rubber past Klem. It was a smart play.

Kitchener struck back hard, but Dwyer foiled them twice in succession by nice work on close-in shots, and finally Rose closed the gap with a pretty goal. He teamed up with Ranger, and when Klem stopped the left winger's shot, Rose swept in and slid the rebound into the net before the Kitchener goaler could shift to meet the attack.

That made it 3 to 2, and the next few minutes were full of tobasco, with the Petes in the driver's seat. Klem saved in a scrimmage, and during the mix-up McLeod and Karges jammed and were benched. When Hiller was chased right after for tripping Rose, the Petes had the edge, and they fought desperately but unsuccessfully to sew up the game before the period ended. Kitchener were still in front, 3 to 2, when the bell rang.

Early in the last period, with Gross serving a penalty for charging Dwyer, the Petes drew up on even terms with the Dutchmen. Kane and Collins broke through the Kitchener defence together and Kane's shot from the side glanced into the net off Hiller's foot, making the figures 3-3.

It was even going for the next few minutes, with both goalers busy. Then the dangerous Gross went down right wing, and although he fell as he reached the net, he managed to sweep the rubber past Dwyer for a goal that put Kitchener in front again, and looked good enough to win.

However, it only looked that way for 60 seconds, for a minute after Ray Rose went down alone, went round the Kitchener rear guard, and beat Klem at close range to knot the game all over again at 4 goals each.

The two teams battled it out without any advantage until the bell rang.

The first ten-minute overtime period was scoreless. Kitchener had the edge, the Petes beginning to fade a bit, but Dwyer held them up and the Dutchmen could not beat him.

However, the first minute of the second ten-minute session saw the winning markers scored when Hinsperger went down alone and drilled a fast one from the side that caught the top corner of the net.

That made it 5 to 4, and although the Petes gave all they had, they could not come back with the tieing counter. Then, as the game was almost over, Kane, Hillman and Ranger were penalized in succession, and with Kitchener playing five men to four, the winners ran in two speedy goals. Karges got the first when, after Dwyer had fooled him once with a sensational stop, he recovered the rubber, went in again and back-handled one past the Petes' goaler at close range. Hiller hung up the last on a smart play that gave Dwyer no chance to save.

SUZANNE CAN'T FINISH MATCH

Pyle Says Severe Cold Is the Cause of Illness.

PLAYING IN ICE RINK.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 8.—(Associated Press).—Suzanne Lenglen, world's tennis champion, who collapsed after a stiff match with Miss Mary K. Browne, was sufficiently recovered from her fatigue to board a train with other members of the C. C. Pyle professional tennis party here. The party is en route for San Francisco.

Forced to play 20 games of tennis before being able to down Miss Browne, the champion reeled from the courts and collapsed in her dressing room. Pyle said she was suffering from a severe cold.

The score of the first set was 11 to 9. The second set was left unfinished. During the first set Miss Browne was within two points of victory at one time.

Members of the Pyle entourage said the match was the hardest fought of the present tour of the party across the United States, and the longest set played by the French girl since she won the world's championship.

A statement issued by C. C. Pyle, promoter of the exhibitions, said that the players used a building regularly occupied as an ice skating rink. After playing in this unheated barn-like structure, for three nights, Mlle. Lenglen caught a severe cold, he said.

BRANTFORD MAY ENTER PRO LEAGUE

Players Secured To Fill Gaps Disqualified By the O.H.A.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 7.—Whether Brantford will have only junior and interfactory hockey or whether either an intermediate team or a pro. team will be entered is not known. President Bert James is conferring with the members of his executive with regard to future action. The O.H.A. disqualified players located here, forcing the dropping of a strong team entered from this district. The local officials have received an offer to join the Canadian Pro. League.

Last year the local club was unable to reach terms with the local rink and had to play all home games at Paris. This year with an artificial ice arena available the O.H.A. has disqualified players secured to fill the gaps, and the outlook is not so bright. In the meantime Brantford juniors will play in District No. 10 group A, with Guelph, Galt and Preston, rather than District No. 9, with Port Dover, Dunnville and Simcoe.

RICHARDS TOPS AMATEUR LIST

Metropolitan Committee Puts Him First Despite Joining Pro Tour.

FOR 1926 SEASON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(Associated Press).—Vincent Richards, now a member of Charles C. Pyle's professional troupe, stands first among local amateur tennis players for the 1926 season in the ranking of the Metropolitan Lawn Tennis Association.

Richards joined the professional ranks after completion of the amateur season of 1926 in which he defeated William T. Tilden, former national champion, in three out of four matches. Inasmuch as several members of the metropolitan ranking committee are members of the United States Lawn Tennis Association committees on ranking and eligibility, it is generally believed that Richards will be accorded the same recognition when the national rankings are announced.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, winner of the women's national championship last season, heads the women's list.

After keeping up the bars against the weaker sex for more than 200 years, the Spanish Academy has finaly voted to admit women to membership.

SECOND ROUND FOR ENGLISH CUP ON SATURDAY

Wigam Defeated Barrow and Wrexham Won From New Brighton.

LEADING SCORERS.

Three Replays in First Round For the Cup Are Decided.

(By Billy Fenton.)

Three replays in the first round of the English Cup were decided Monday and everything is in order for the second round which is scheduled for Saturday. Rhyl Athletic proved more of a surprise packet than ever when they defeated Stoke at Manchester by 2 goals to 1. Fans had it figured out that sooner or later the "Potters" would give the wavering resort team short shrift. Few outside Rhyl itself could conceive Stoke, who are running strong for promotion and are away in front of other clubs in the northern section, succumbing to a team that is seldom heard from, but it is the way things happen in the cup. At Rhyl and at Stoke the games resulted in one-all draws so that the victors must have won on their merits. In the next round Rhyl meet Wrexham, who disposed of New Brighton at Liverpool by a 3 to 1 score. It was the third meeting between the teams, the game at Wrexham resulting in a 1-a-l tie and that at New Brighton finishing with a 2-all score. By a strange coincidence, Barrow and Wigan, who are at the bottom of the northern section of the English League, were bracketed in the first round and two games were necessary to reach a decision, Wigan getting the verdict at Barrow by the lone goal after a 2-2 draw at Wigan, and qualifying to meet Crewe Alexandra. Games resulted as follows:

Barrow 0, Wigan 1.
Stoke 1, Rhyl 2.
New Brigton 1, Wrexham 3.

Feeling the Pinch.

Sunderland are $25,000 down on receipts this season compared with the same period a year ago, due to the great industrial depression.

George Moorhead, the Linfield centre-half who captained the Irish League side at Edinburgh recently and showed fine form, has been transferred to Edinburgh Hearts.

The "Villains" are as aristocratic as ever. Recently when the Spurs players arrived for a game in a torrential rain a Villa Park official made each one unbutton and ferret out his card before giving the "Pass on," although there was not a suspicion of a doubt as to the identity of the players.

An Old Country writer states that it is still on the cards that Cowdenbeath will visit America in the close season and show Fall River and other New England clubs how the game is played in the Motherland.

The Kilmarnock directors have informed Manager Spence that until the end of the season he must confine his attention to the duties solely of secretary-treasurer. Alex. Gibson, for many years associated with the club has been appointed manager, possibly with a view to getting better results from the team.

Leading Goal-Scorers

The leading goal-scorer in the Old Country with the season a third gone was a Scot, Hair, of Partick Thistle with a "bag" of twenty. At the same period the leading scorers in the principal leagues were as follows:

English League, first division; 19—Jennings (Leeds United), 13—Beel (Burnley), Trotter (Wednesday) and Chandler (Leicester City), 12—Brain (Arsenal) and Gallacher (Newcastle United).

Second division: 16 — Camsell (Middlesborough, 15 — Thompson (Swansea Town), 12—Roberts, T. (Preston North End) and Fowler (Swansea Town).

Third division, South: 16—Morris (Swindon Town), 15—Parker (Millwall), 14.—Cock, J. (Plymouth Argyle, 12—Cook T. (Brighton and Hove) and Blackmore (Exeter City).

Third division, North: 19—Wilson (Stoke City), Cookson (Chesterfield) and Williams (New Brighton), 12—Andrews (Lincoln City).

Scottish League: 20—Hair (Partick Thistle), 15—McGrory (Celtic) Tennant (Motherwell) and Munro (St. Johnstone), 13—Connolly (Celtic), 12—Campbell (Dundee).

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TY COBB TAKEN ILL AT MEETING

Visits With Minor Leaguers But Denies He Will Return.

JOINS COMRADES.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 8. — (Associated Press).—Club owners and managers met in the twenty-fifth annual sessions of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues here.

Tyrus Cobb, a "visitor" at the association's gathering for the first time, was indisposed with a slight attack of influenza. He insisted he was here only to "mix with the boys."

Upon his arrival here Cobb emphatically denied he was considering re-entering baseball.

"I said when I left Detroit that I had swung my last bat in a competitive game and I meant just that.

"I came up there to be with the old crowd and for no other purpose. I don't see why I can not quit baseball if I want to."

Since the announcement that Cobb was to attend the meeting here, there has been much talk of his taking over the management of a club.

BOB O'FARRELL 'IRON' CATCHER

"Most Valuable Player" Was Behind Bat For Cards.

IN 146 GAMES.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8.—(Associated Press).—Bob O'Farrell, Cardinal backstop and winner of the "most valuable player trophy" for 1926, hung up a record the last season that sets him down as an "iron man," among major league catchers.

O'Farrell appeared behind the bat in 146 of the 156 games played by the Cardinals last summer and then topped off the performance by working in every game of the World Series with the Yankees. This boosted his record to 153 games, one less than a complete major league schedule.

The pride of Waukegan, Ill., went through all of it in good shape and was going strong when the season ended.

In April he worked in 16 straight games.

In May he caught 29 of 31 games in which the Cardinals appeared, with only 25 innings of rest.

In June he backstopped in 23 of 25 games and rested only 20 innings.

In July he worked 26 out of 29 games. He got 62 innings of rest during this period.

In August he appeared in 30 of 31 games, with 12 innings rest.

In September he rested 31 innings when he caught 28 of 25 games.

During the trying days of the campaign in the latter days of August and early September when the Cardinals wavered at the top of the column, then suffered temporary slumps, only to return to the leadership, O'Farrell worked in both games of six doubleheaders.

His batting record for the season was .293. Four hundred and eighty-seven trips to the plate brought forth 142 hits and 62 runs. Thirty of the hits were doubles, nine were triples and seven were circuit clouts. He pilfered two bases and sacrificed 15 times.

FOURNIER MAY JOIN MAROONS

Shorty Horn May Rejoin Old Team Mates in Montreal.

SEASON'S OFFICERS.

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—Montreal Maroons are looking around for help, in an effort to chase their losing jinx, which has reached the alarming total of four games. From Stratford comes the report that Rene Fournier will join the Maroons shortly, and there is a possible chance of Shorty Horn rejoining his old teammates in Montreal. Eddie Gerard, it is understood, would send Frank Carson, Happy Emms and "Toot" Holway to Shalfort, filling the places of the men they would like to recall.

President Calder evidently thinks the Canadien-Maroon game in Montreal this evening will be an interesting contest. The N. H. L. President broke his referee economy policy for this contest. For the first time this season two referees, Lou E. Marsh and R. W. Hewitson, of Toronto, will handle a single game.

St. Patricks are practicing daily for their engagement with the Chicago Black Hawks here next Thursday. The Irish are confident that "Lady Luck" will join their forces in this coming battle. It was heartbreaking to lose on Saturday to the Americans after having the the best of the play.

The condition of Cy Denneny and Frank Finnigan, injured Ottawa hockey stars, is progressing favorably. Denneny has left the hospital and will convalesce in his Ottawa home for a few days. Finnigan, though more seriously injured, had an excellent night. He is still very weak from the loss of blood.

The following is the complete list of officers for the coming season: Hon. President, J. W. Ward, Y.M.C.A., Hamilton; President, W. L. McKinnon, 205 McKinnon Bldg., Toronto; Past President, George R. Sinclair, Y.M.C.A., Windsor; First Vice-President, Dalton Disher, 14 Welland avenue, St. Catharines; Second Vice-President, George W. Wells, 90 Follis avenue, Toronto; Secretary-Treasurer, F. B. Eagleson, 205 McKinnon Bldg., Toronto; Executive Committee members, E. Churchouse, 68 Francis street, Hamilton; H. R. Newell, U. of Western Ontario, London; Philip F. Brockel, Y.M.C.A., Kingston; Samuel Rogers, Confederation Life Bldg., Toronto; H. Flynn, St. Catharines; Orley A. DeGraw, 360 Simcoe street, Peterboro.

Tom C. Armour, of Kitchener, and Merwin L. Blake, of Orillia, are two key men whose advice and assistance will be sought by the O.A. B.A. Executive as the year goes by.

OLD ADAGE THEME OF "MONEY TALKS"

Film shows Much Must be Ventured if Much is to be Gained.

The theme of "Money Talks," which Archie Mayo is directing for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is merely a variation of the old adage, "nothing ventured, nothing gained."

For years children have been taught to save their pennies, and promised that some day they would become very rich men. Most of them finished life in the capacity of a bank clerk or clerical assistant at about $35 per week, and unheard of outside their own circle of friends.

"Money Talks," which was originally published as a short story by Rupert Hughes, upsets this tradition, and in a very entertaining, almost farcical vein tells a story of the penniless spendthrift who "made good."

Owen Moore is playing the role of "Sam Starling," the man in question, and Claire Windsor is his embarrassed wife, that is embarrassed by collectors. Bert Roach, Kathleen Key, Phillips Smalley, Ned Sparks, Dot Farley, Polly Moran and George Kuwa complete the task. The photoplay was written by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, and adapted to the screen by Jessie Burns and Bernard Vorhaus.

"THE HOUSE OF USSHER"

While H. V. Esmond's masterpiece, "The House of Ussher", which comes to the Grand Opera House Friday night direct from the Mayfair Theatre on Broadway, has a very broad appeal, those who enjoy seeing a great character play in the manner of the best school of acting have a rare treat in store for them. The impersonation of Mr. Clarence Derwent, the famous London star, in the role of Jacob Ussher is one of such consummate art that it has been the despair of the New York actors for the past eight months. Each matinee given by Mr. Derwent has seen the ambitious young as well as the older and seasoned players studying his performance.

Mr. Derwent is still a young man, as stars go, and Alan Dale of the N.Y. American was moved to inquire how he had acquired the skill which his performance demonstrated. He was astonished to find that Jacob Ussher is the 384th role that Mr. Derwent has played and the actor produced an album containing every programme on which has name had appeared. Not only this but Mr. Derwent has played more Shakespeare Memorial performantor now living, having appeared in every play written by Shakespeare except three. For the past five years he has been the star of the Shakespeared Memorial perforances given under the Benson management annually at Stratford-on-Avon. During this time he played in the first and second plays of King Henry the IV as a boy of nineteen, older in King Henry the V, and ending in the same part as an old man the last of the three plays of King Henry VI. It is thru such long and arduous experiences as this that Clarence Derwent earned his right to stardom. Henry Miller ,an actor revered by the entire profession for his art in portraiture, and who recently left life's stage, many years Mr. Derwent's senior, has only played slightly more than 400 roles in his whole career. There are stars before the public who have played less than fifty roles, but stars like Geo. Arliss and David Warfield have been through the hard school of experience and the sophisticated theatregoers at once discernes the fact.

ROMANCE AND ADVENTURE FEATURE FOX FILMS EPIC

25,000 People Take Part In Land Rush Scenes of "3 Bad Men" In Historic Race.

Romance and high adventure marked the last of the great migrations of the human race toward the setting sun. This last of the overflows of peoples from the crowded centers of population took place in the seventh decade of the last century, as a result of a free grant of land by the Government of the United States.

But few of the original pioneers who took place in the great land rush remain alive today and in a few years the last of them will have passed away. The record of their valorous deeds and glamorous adventures threatened to become the dry material of history. Of their tools and weapons, their clothes and gear and the vehicles with which they raced to the land of promise, there would have been left for future generations a few rusty specimens in historical museums or pictures in the cold prints of books.

Fortunately, before it was too late, while some of the original actors in the great drama are still alive, while there is virgin country such as they conquered still untouched by man, Fox Films had the great vision of picturizing in fictionized form this glorifying epoch. After more than a year of intensive research and four months of preparation and nearly a year of actual work of filming among the towering peaks of the Teton and Shoshone range, the mammoth spectacle called "3 Bad Men" has been completed. Here in the very heart of the historic Jackson Hole country of Wyoming, in a vast valley bounded by sky-piercing mountains, was re-enacted a drama that will become a permanent living record —a gift of this generation to those which will follow.

Under the direction of John Ford of "Iron Horse" fame, a cast of great magnitude was assembled to portray the leading roles in the production. J. Farrell MacDonald, Tom Santschi and Frank Campeau play the title role. George O'Brien takes the part of the young and heroic pioneer and Olive Borden is the winsome but spirited heroine. Lou Tellegen is the suave, unscrupulos gambler, whose ruthless passion is stirred to deeds of vengeance by the demure heroine. Other important roles are played by Otis Harlan, Alec Francis, Jay Hunt, Walter Perry and George Harris.

In addition to the principals, thousands of extras, Indians, surviving pioneers, as well as thousands of head of horses and cattle, and hundreds of vehicles, many of them the original ones in which the great land rush was made, help to complete the cast and accessories. The story was adapted for the screen by John Stone, who has evolved, in scenaric form, many of the past William Fox successes.

CANADIENS WIN OVERTIME GAME

Defeat Maroons 3-2 in Exciting Contest—Ottawa Wins Again.

WIN FOR RANGERS.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—Canadiens defeated Montreal here last night in a game that went 20 seconds overtime. The score was 3 to 2. Montreal secured a one-goal lead in the first period, which was held until late in the closing period, when Moran scored the tying tally. The teams had barely changed for the overtime when Lepine rushed in and shot, the puck rebounding from Benedict's pads, only to be batted in by Lepine, who had followed his shot in fast. Munro started the scoring in the first period for Montreal, but Gardiner tied it up less than a minute later. Just before the period ended Broadbent beat Hainsworth from a scramble in front of the nets. When Morenz scored in the third period pandemonium broke loose and Canadiens nearly scored another before the period ended, Benedict being called upon to make some sensational stops.

The teams:

Montreal— Goal, Benedict; defense, Munro and Noble; centre, Stewart; wings, Broadbent and Siebert; subs, Dutton, Phillips, Dinsmore, Holway, Carson and Rothschild.

Canadiens— Goal, Hainsworth; defense, Gardiner and Leduc; centre, Lepine; wings, Joliat and Gagne; subs, Morenz, Boucher, Moran, Mantha, Larochelle.

Referees— Lou Marsh and Bobby Hewitson.

OTTAWA, 3; CHICAGO, 2.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.— The Collseum was well filled last night with 8,000 spectators, who were treated to one of the greatest hockey games ever seen in Chicago, when Ottawa defeated Chicago by the score of 3 to 2, in a National League game. Both teams scored twice in the second period, and Kilroy won the game in the closing session, shooting from centre ice in 7.15.

Dye scored the prettiest goal of the game, a long shot from centre ice, waist high. "Hooley" Smith, Boucher and Clancy played well for the visitors. The Ottawa teamwork was the best seen here this season. The defensive play of the visitors when they were playing to hold their one-goal lead was perfect.

Ottawa— Gorman, Adams, A. Smith, Jackson, Haliday.

Referee—Jerry Laffamme, Toronto.

RANGERS, 1; BOSTON, 0.

BOSTON, Dec. 8. — New York Rangers, leaders of the United States division of the National Hockey League, strengthened their position with a 1-0 victory over Boston in a lightning-fast game here last night.

Abel, Ranger defence man, scored the lone tally unassisted halfway through the first period with a dash the length of the ice. New York lay back after that and played safe with their lead. The fast skating brought out a rugged exhibition and ten penalties were handed out, three against Johnson, another Ranger defense man.

Boston—Goal, Stewart; defense, Shore and Cleghorn; centre, Herbert; wings, Galbraith and Oliver; subs, Briden, Hitchman, Coutu, Keats and Stuart.

Officials—Cooper Smeaton, Montreal; Ed. Enwright, Boston.

LONDON HOPES TO LAND DWYER

Despatch Says Peterboro' Goalkeeper Will Decide To-day.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 8.—London will likely have a new goal-tender when they play on Friday night. The club has definitely decided to strengthen the team, and it will be only a matter of time before an experienced net guardian is signed.

Joe Dwyer, goalkeeper for the Peterboro O.H.A. senior champions, is being sought. Dwyer has promised to give a definite decision today. Ted Oliver will be carried by the London team, as the management realizes that it is impossible to go through the lengthy schedule with but one goal-tender. No other changes are contemplated.

YOUNG PEOPLE FORM SOCIETY

Will Co-ordinate Work of Various Organizations at St. James'.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

A meeting of especial interest to the young people of St. James' United Church was held in Wesley Hall last evening. After devotional exercises, which were conducted by Mrs. Richardson, a short but interesting programme was rendered, including a reading by Miss Irene Wright, with pianoforte accompaniment by Miss Alma Blanchard; a violin number of Mr. Clifford Rusaw; a pianoforte solo by Miss Mary Wood, A.T.C.M., and a vocal selection by Mr. Edwin Rowe, with piano and violin accompaniment played by Miss Wood and Mr. Rusaw.

The pastor, Rev. J. D. Richardson, then explained the object of the meeting which was to form an organization to co-ordinate the smaller units of the church into one large society which would truly express the young people of the church.

The following officers of the new organization were then elected:

President, Mr. Will Prest; vice president, Mr. Edwin Rose; secretary Miss Dorothy Collins; treasurer, Miss Bertha Sanders; pianiste, Miss Mary Wood, A.T.C.M.; assistant pianiste, Miss Aileen Rose. The cabinet of the society will consist of the above-mentioned officers, and the president of each of the co-operating units, as follows: Gordon Richardson, of the Cognawaga Class; Miss Hazel Plunkett, of the United Bible Class; Miss Aileen Rose, of the "Bring Others" Class; Mrs. Darcy Foster, of the King's Own Bible Class, and representatives, to be appointed, from the Sunday School teachers and the choir of the church.

It was decided to hold a banquet on Monday, January 10th, the arrangements to be in charge of the cabinet of the new society.

MOND IMPRESSED WITH DEVELOPMENT

Dominion's Use of Electricity Surprises British Financier.

LONDON, Dec. 8.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Rt. Hon. Sir Alfred Mond, M.P., who recently returned from a visit to Canada, was impressed with the Dominion's advancement in the matter of electrical power. In an interview here he contrasted the difference between Canada and England in this respect. He said:

"The use of electricity in Canada for domestic purposes is an example to England. I was told in Toronto that on Monday, "washing day," there is a difference of between 10,000 horse power between that day and the other days of the week on the load the wires carry."

Sir Alfred Mond is head of the Mond Nickel Company which has mines and a smelter at Coniston, near Sudbury, Ontario.

Wheat Prices Go Up On Reports From Abroad

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Wet weather interfering with the harvest in Argentina gave an upward tilt to wheat values early today. The fact that Liverpool quotations were relatively firm tended further to strengthen the wheat market here.

Starting at 1-4 off to 1-4 up, Chicago wheat prices later scored a slight general advance. Corn was easy, oats steady, and provisions higher, corn opening 1-8 to 1-2 down and continuing to sag.

Opening prices were wheat Dec. 1.40 3-8, May 1.40 5-8; corn, Dec. 75c, May 83 1-2c; oats, Dec. 43 3-4c, May 48 1-2c.

Trading Was Light List Remains Steady

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—The list generally showed steadiness on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, although trading was light and there was an entire absence of any definite movement. Dome Mines softened ten cents at 11.75, and Teck Hughes eased one at 480, but Vipond advanced two at 159, and Hollinger was five cents firmer at 19.00. Keely at 151, and Argonaut at 55, were fractionally higher.

General Depression Found Many Recessions Shown

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press). — Industrial Alcohol and British American Oil, the dominating centres of activity on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, were almost the firmest spots in a generally depressed list. A large number of small recessions were shown. British American Oil sold up to 78 during the session, but sagged down to 77 at the noon close, this being a net loss of an eighth. Alcohol advanced to 31 1-2 and receded to close at 31 1-4, five-eighths higher. Smelters sold down 2 1-4 at 260 and Gooderham and Worts lost three-eighths at 38 1-2. Brazilian at 105 5-8, British Columbia Fishing at 98 1-2 and International Nickle at 38 1-2 were all slightly lower.

Market Very Unsteady Provisional Dominates

NEW YORK, cc. 8 Canadian Press —An opening period of strength, a sharp reaction around mid-day and then an irregular recovery characterized the price movement in to-day's stock market. Provisional continued to dominate trading with bear selling encouraged by the apparent failure of the public to respond to the recent "melon" cutting, by large industrial concerns.

Business news generally continued favorable. United States steel common sold off two points from its morning high. Woolworth reacted several points on the traditional "selling on good news," which followed the announcement of 50 per cent. stock dividends of $32,500,000.

PREMIER KING ARRIVES HOME

Meets Cabinet This Afternoon To Prepare For Opening.

BUSY ALL WEEK.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8. —(Canadian Press.)—Premier Mackenzie King arrived in the capital this morning shortly after eleven o'clock, accompanied by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. Vincent Massey, and a party of twelve, including secretaries and newspaper correspondents. Every one appeared to be in excellent spirits. They were greeted by all the members of the Cabinet as well as several members of Parliament who had arrived in Ottawa for the opening.

The Prime Minister declined to be interviewed and left at once for Laurier House, where he will remain until four o'clock this afternoon, when he will meet his Cabinet in the Privy Council Chamber of the east block. Undoubtedly the Cabinet will hold lengthy sessions during the remainder of the week, which will be crowded with last minute preparations for the business of the session as well as the details of the ceremonial opening. The members of the Cabinet will, of course, remain in the Capital until the Christmas adjournment. Hon. Vincent Massey, who has expressed a desire to commence his work in Washington as soon as possible, will be in Ottawa until Saturday morning, when he will leave for Toronto.

IN POLICE COURT.

A local man was sentenced to three months imprisonment with hard labor on a charge of stealing fifteen chickens and two geese from an untenanted farm in the township of Emily. The Hon. G. N. Gordon appeared for the defence. The crown was represented by Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton.

The accused through his counsel pleaded guilty to the charge.

Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker, who arrested the accused, was at the time investigating another case. He entered a house in the course of his investigation and noticed, or rather, scented the dainty meal that was in the course of preparation. He grew suspicious, as the general appearance of the house and the occupants did not in his opinion warrant a meal of that kind. On investigating he found some feathers outide the house, and on following the tracks of the man through the snow for some considerable distance, he came to a farm. From the appearance of the hen house he knew that it had been looted. He notified the owner of the farm, who was residing in Peterborough, and enquired as to the number of poultry he had.

In sentencing the accused, Magistrate O. A. Langley declared: "Chicken stealing has got to be stopped in this community. It has become a regular business in other parts of the country, and any culprits brought before me will be shown no leniency."

GEORGE STREET W.M.S. CONCERT

Fine Programme Given in Sunday School Hall Last Night.

A PRESENTATION.

A very enjoyable concert was held in the Sunday School of George Street United Church last evening, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of the church, the programme being provided by the Sunday School orchestra, led by Mr. J. P. Cunningham. The programme presented was of a very fine order, and received plenty of encores from the audience. At its conclusion, the musicians were entertained by the ladies of the W.M.S., the entertainment committee being headed by Mrs. J. W. Hales, at a pleasant social hour, when refreshments were served. The orchestra took advantage of the occasion to present its accompanist, Miss Laura McFarlane, with a sweater and pair of fur-lined kid gloves, as a slight token of appreciation of her unfailing service and enthusiasm in the work of the orchestra. Speeches were made by Rev. J. E. Todd, Mr. S. Thompson, and Miss Eva Outram, who voiced the orchestra's appreciation of Miss McFarlane's assistance, and the presentation was made by Miss Elma Coon.

The programme of the concert, which opened with a brief address by the chairman, Rev. J. E. Todd, B.A., was as follows:

Selection by Orchestra.

MANY SIDEWALKS NOT CLEANED OFF

Police Urge Citizens Down Town To Comply With By-laws.

Many complaints have been received at the Police Station as a result of citizens in the downtown section omitting to clean off the sidewalk in front of their premises, Inspector J. F. Reid told The Examiner this morning.

There is a city by-law covering this portion of the city, and the police hope that the citizens affected will remedy the condition and so avoid further action being taken.

SMALL AMOUNT OF POULTRY SOLD

The Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture are behind these sales, for they believe that they bring the highest and most satisfactory prices and that the farmer gets rid of his poultry all at once and has not to peddle it around.

The poultry sellers failed to grasp the idea that it was wholesale buying, not retail. The question being asked by the Department officials is, "Where does the excess amount of poultry which is produced in this district go," for they are sure better prices could be obtained at a sale than when fowl is sold to dealers.

Those farmers who seldom appear on the market and who sell their poultry and other produce on a big scale expressed themselves as more than satisfied with the way things went. But on the other hand those who attend the market failed to see any advatnage in the sale and generally held out for higher prices.

The class of fowl put up for sale was good and the prices of the different kinds of fowl were:

Good turkeys—35c. to 40c. a pound.
Good chickens—25c. to 28c. a pound.
Geese—18c. to 20c. a pound.
Fowl (hens and roosters)—20c. to 25c. a pound.
Ducks—22c. to 25c. a pound.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS COUNCIL TO EVADE RHINE WATCH SNAG PLANNING FOR POSTPONEMENT

Allies May Drop Control of German Armaments on Feb. 1st.

TILL NEXT MARCH.

Germany Ready To Satisfy Demands By Dismantling Koenigsberg Fortress.

GENEVA, Dec. 9.—An arrangement which will permit Dr. Stresemann to face the Opposition in Berlin and at the same time safeguard the French thesis regarding the necessity of providing continuity of League investigations in the demilitarized zones, was being favorably considered by all parties yesterday. The scheme is simply a logical division of the question of investigation which will have the effect of postponing difficult points till March.

The protocol of investigation, adopted by the Council two years ago, applies to Germany proper. Another protocol was ordered for the demilitarized zones but never studied. Despite the fact that Germany is divided in two parts for the purposes of League investigations, the protocol adopted by the Council contained a clause which applied to the demilitarized zone, providing for continuity of investigation in that part of Germany in the event that the Council deemed necessary. This clause was the basis of Germany's objection to the plan.

The diplomats of the five powers therefore are considering revision of the existing plan in order to drop the provision, which then will logically go over for discussion with the plan of investigation of the demilitarized zone.

By such an agreement nobody loses and perhaps both Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand win something personally. Dr. Stresemann could not have returned to Germany had he accepted the plan of investigation as it stood. M. Briand could not have bene sure of himself had he given way and simply dropped the provision concerning the Rhineland. But M. Briand is ready to trade the system of evacuation against an agreement permitting continuity of investigation—or control. By putting the objectionable provision over for discussion with the system of investigation for the Rhineland M. Briand then will be able to trade in the same money in which he is dealing.

On the question of cessation of allied control of German armaments Feb. 1 is generally mentioned as the date to be agreed upon and it is understood that the Germans are ready to give satisfaction to the allied demands concerning the dis-

DENIES RUMOR JUGO-SLAVIA TO QUIT COUNCIL

Concerning Report Dealing With Cancellation of Albanian Treaty With Italy.

AWAIT DEFINITE ACT.

Are Counselled By Western European Governments To Take It Easy.

GENEVA, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—"Don't get excited; take it easy!" This is the counsel of the governments of Western Europe to Jugo-Slavia in connection with the strain put on the relations between Jugo-Slavia and Italy by reason of the Italo-Albanian pact, which Belgrade deems the first step towards an Italian protectorate over Albania.

The Jugo-Slavia spokesman denied last night the Hungarian report that Jugo-Slavia would quit the League of Nations unless the League contrived cancellation of the treaty. On the contrary, he said, while his country regarded the pact as a vexation of the spirit of the League covenant, it must, like others, await some definite act by Italy of a nature to destroy the territorial integrity of Albania before appealing to the League. In the meantime the Jugo-Slavs insist that the Italo-Albanian pact is a flagrant violation of the protocol of 1924 between Jugo-Slavia and Italy whereby these countries agreed to consult each other before concluding any arrangement of a political nature with Albania. They say that Jugo-Slavia has been kept in the dark and that Premier Mussolini has been told frankly that Jugo-Slavia does not like it.

Furthermore, the Jugo-Slavs declare they will demand a guarantee that there shall be no spoliation of its neighbor Albania under the terms of the Four Power Convention of 1921, by which Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan engaged not to violate the independence of Albania. Under the same instrument the powers have given a mandate to Italy to protect Albania, provided any non-signatory power menaces that country.

Jugo-Slavia, it is asserted, will go the limit in maintaining amicable relations with Italy, but like the other Balkan states, it demands that Balkan problems be left to the Balkan people without interference of outsiders.

Indications are that the fact that the Council of the League of Nations is at present in session has exercised a calming influence on the Belgrade statesmen, and although the foreign ministers of the great powers are still worried they voice the belief that a flare up in Southern Europe will be averted.

The clause in the Italo-Albanian pact which angers the Jugo-Slavs is that which declares that any political or territorial perturbation in Albania is of interest to both countries.

CALIXCO, Calif., Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—A series of five earthquakes, two of them very pronounced, shook Calixco yesterday but no property damage was reported. The tremblors started at about 4.05 yesterday afternoon and came at four-minute intervals. Mexicali, Lower California, across the bound-

Dry Law Violations Urged As Civic Duty

NEW YORK, December 9.—(United Press.) — Violation of the Volstead Act, and the 18th amendment were urged as a civic duty, by Clarence Darrow at a dinner here.

A minority of the American people, composed mostly of "superstitious bigots, religious witch-hunters," put over the fanatics, and pleasure hating lineal descendants of the Puritan amendment, the noted criminal lawyer said.

Science Opens Fight Against City Noises

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (Associated Press). — Science has turned to the problem of eliminating urban noise, it was revealed in reports read at the forty-seventh annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

"The use of electric arc welding to displace riveting in building construction may tend to eliminate one of the greatest sources of noise," it was asserted in the report of the management division of the society. "Other studies being made may lead to lessening of noise. Instruments have been devised to measure noise and it is being demonstrated that noise is not necessary for speed."

CENSURE VOTE WAS DEFEATED

On Government's Policy During Strike in House of Commons.

URGES ELECTION.

LONDON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press) — Censure of the government's policy during the coal strike was moved in the House of Commons yesterday by Ramsay MacDonald leader of the Laborites, but the motion was defeated, 339 to 131.

The Liberals abstained from voting although Former Premier Lloyd George, their parliamentary leader, declared that he personally agreed with Mr. MacDonald's criticism.

The opposition benches greeted the MacDonald move with loud cheers, particularly when the former labor premier declared that the government's policy had steadily alienated the confidence of the country. He urged that a general election be held.

The prime minister had a stormy reception from the Laborites, who greeted him with hisses and shouts of "Mussolini." The Conservatives responded with cheers. Without going into the details of his policy, Mr. Baldwin declared he was not to be intimidated by threats and said he would hold a general election in good time — not, however until he was ready.

SPLENDID TRADE HAS SPRUNG UP

Considerable Traffic Between British Columbia and Republic of Colombia.

WHEAT LEADS.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—A commercial traffic of considerable dimensions has sprung up during the last year between British Columbia and the Republic of Colombia, according to Herbert J. Morris, consul in Vancouver for the Republic, who is at present in Montreal.

"The trade shows every sign of increasing in the near future," said Mr. Morris "as the French steamship lines whose ships are carrying the cargoes, are doing excellent business and the people of Colombia show a very strong preference for Canadian wheat and a desire to extend purchases in other directions."

Canned fish and lead in large quantities and lumber in smaller shipments were the other commodities mentioned by the Vancouver consul.

Mr. Morris said that merchants and dealers in Colombia had told him that they were ready and anxious to do business with Eastern Canada and the Maritime provinces and were merely waiting for the establishment of steamship lines direct from Saint John and Halifax to the Atlantic ports of Colombia. The steamers from British Columbia, he said, discharged their cargoes at the latter ports also reaching them by way of the Panama canal. On their return trips they bring large quantities of Colombian coffee, which, he said, finds high favor amongst the roasters and blenders in British Columbia.

Human Flesh Bought By Besieged Chinese

Starvation is But a Matter of Days, Says Foreigner in Sian-fu—Missionary Calls For Help With Hundreds Dying Daily.

STREETS ARE STREWN WITH DEAD.

PEKING, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—The populace of the city of Sianfu, capital of Shensi province is buying and eating human flesh to ward off starvation as the result of being besieged for months by factional fighting. This information is contained in despatches received here quoting a Chinese refugee who made his way past the lines of the besieged city and entered.

The streets of Sianfu are strewn with dead. The natives have been robbed of all foodstuffs by soldiers.

There were 19 foreigners in the city at last reports, including five British citizens. A letter from one of the foreigners, dated November 19, said starvation was but a matter of days, unless relief came.

There have been reports that the siege has been raised following the retreat of the troops of General Liu Chen Huan, the besieger, but this cannot be confirmed.

The Baptist mission has received a letter dated Sianfu, November 10, from the British misisonary Doctor Clement Stockley, telling of terrible conditions in the city and urging that every effort be made to get permission for the hospital staff to leave the city.

"We are truly in desperate strait. Nothing but starvation stares us in the face," the letter says. "Hundreds are dying in the city daily and it is impossible to buy food. You cannot endure the state of affairs. It is just awful. It is difficult to bury all that die of starvation and many lie in the streets for days, unburied.

The letter added that foreigners could hold out for a fortnight if allowed to kep the little food they had. The supplies, the letter said, were shared with the hospital staff and could not last long.

LIFE AND LOVE

Love must be Eternal, it is what God is.

It is when a man has no one to love him, he commits suicide. So long as he has friends, those who love him and whom he loves, he will live, because to live is to love. Eternal Life also is to know God, and God is Love.

Many of the current gospels are addressed only to a part of man's nature. They offer peace, not Life; faith, not Love; justification, not regeneration, and men slip back again from such a religion, because it never really held them, their nature was not all in it. It offered no deeper, gladder life-current than what they lived before.

Surely it stands to reason that it is only a fuller love can compete with the love of the world.

GOVERNOR VISITS ROTARIANS TELLING ASSOCIATION AIMS

Joe Hanley, of Perry, New York, Addresses Local Club.

ELOQUENT APPEAL.

Official Visit of District Head Marked Auspiciously Last Night.

The most inspiring address on the subject of Rotary's aims and ideals that has ever been listened to by the Peterborough Rotary Club featured the official visit paid to the local club last evening by District Governor Joe Hanley of Perry, N.Y., head of the 27th Rotary District. A virile, forcible speaker, fired with enthusiasm for the Rotary movement and its opportunities for service, District Governor Hanley delivered a message at last night's dinner that would have made a good Rotarian out of any kind of doubtful material. Many of his sentences will long ring clear in the memory of the Rotarians who heard them and who gained a new vision of their organization and a new zeal to serve as the vital truth of what their Governor told them was driven home by the speaker's sincere eloquence. Love of his fellowman, an abiding faith in Rotary's ideals, an intense desire that Rotary's spirit should be developed to its utmost degree shone out of every utterance; and his stirring message, interlarded with bright flashes of wit and a seasoning of dry humor will remain as a yardstick by which local Rotarians will measure addresses henceforth.

The first principle that Governor Hanley stressed was that Rotarians must be loyal to their club, to their community, to their family. He repeated the stirring message of International President Rogers that there was no place in Rotary for the crook, the wrong-doer or the licentious, pointing out that these were not the words of some minister, shut off from the world in his study, but of an eminently successfull, practical business man. It was most difficult, he admitted, to define Rotary, but he felt that it could be explained as a case of that desire to be of some service to his fellowmen that existed in the heart of every man, no matter how hard-boiled and callous he might appear, being geared into business and social activity. Rotary was not an accident,—an organization with 2,400 clubs, located in 36 countries of the world and compromising over one hundred thousand members had to have something vital in it to live and expand.

The speaker urged regularity of attendance as an essential feature of Rotary loyalty. To the protests of those who pleaded that they were too busy to maintain regular attendance, he instanced the cases of Dr. Charles Mayo, world-famous surgeon, with his record of not missing a Rotary meeting in three years, and Judge Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, who had attended 500 consecutive meetings without a miss.

He congratulated the Peterborough club upon not having any "eat and run" members, who took their departure as soon as the luncheon was eaten. "If the luncheon itself were all there was to Rotary," declared Governor Hanley, "I wouldn't be here. I'd rather eat at home."

Rotary, he pointed out, was facing a crisis. There are various stages in life—babyhood, callous youth, then full manhood. The Rotary movement had passed through its childhood and its period of callous youth, and was now a vigorous adult 22 years old. The hurrah and fireworks of the early years had gone and Rotary must find its principal mission and devote itself to that if it was to live.

That mission, the speaker felt, was not crippled children's work, although that was wonderful in itself. Four thousand crippled children last year made whole by Rotary's effort showed what had been done, and here the Governor congratulated the Peterborough club on its record in crippled children's work which had only been surpassed by two clubs in the whole 27th Rotary District, the second largest in the world. Nor was the chief Rotary mission boys' work, important as that was. The Camp of the Peterborough club was a wonderful thing, and there was no telling what good might come out of such work. It was possible, the speaker said, to compile a vast fortune that would have tremendous

Returns From Hunting To Take His Own Life

MARSHALL, Mich., Dec. 9.—Frank Hartley, Sr., 60 years old, a Clarendon Township farmer, went hunting rabbits Monday, came home to dinner and then, taking his shot gun, went out of the house and killed himself. His wife and daughter, Mrs. Charles Cox, found his body lying in the snow. Ill-health is believed to have caused him to become despondent.

No inquest will be held.

Bachelors In Italy Pay Babies' Aid Tax

ROME, December 9. — Associated Press. Italy's bachelors are going to find themselves taxed for the support of the national charitable organization for maternity and infancy. A bachelor's tax has been created by the cabinet on the proposal of Premier Mussolini, men between the ages of 25 and 65 being subject to the measure. The tax will be imposed annually on a sliding scale, increasing with the age of the non-benedict.

ORMISTON FOUND IN HARRISBURG

Starts To-day For Chicago In Custody of Private Detectives.

CAUGHT IN LODGINGS.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press.)— Kenneth Ormiston, missing radio operator wanted in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnapping case in Los Angeles, left here this morning for Chicago in company with Charles Ellwood and Harry Donnelly, private detectives of Chicago, according to Chief of Police Thompson.

Ormiston was apprehended between 9 and 10 o'clock last night by the Chicago officers. He was found in his rooming house on South Front Street location, overlooking the Susquehanna river. He had been living there under the name of "F. Lininger" and was surprised when the officers dropped in on him. He told them he had been in Harrisburg about two monhs, coming to this city from Atlantic City and expressed astonishment that the officers had previously failed to locate him.

Ormiston virtually was without money. All the personal belongings he had in his bare flat consisted of a brown leather brief case, a black Gladstone bag, a portable typewriter and a home-made radio receiving set. The reporter asked him if he had had any communication with Mrs. McPherson since he had been sought.

"None whatever," he said. "And that is all I shall tell you on that subject until I have consulted my attorney, Edward H. S. Martin, of Chicago."

Ormiston was taken to a hotel, where he spent the night, and Chief of Police Thompson said that he had not been placed under arrest since no charges were booked against him at the police station. He is wanted in Los Angeles on charges of subornation of perjury and a conspiracy to defeat justice. Ormiston declared he was satisfied to return after he admit-

BRADBURN WINS PETERBORO' CITY BY 1,636 VOTES

Vote in Provincial Election on December 1 Was 6,396 To 4,760.

72.5 PER CENT VOTE.

Poll Number 1 Gave Winner Biggest Lead—Loser Led in Smith.

Final figures give W. H. Bradburn a majority of 1636 over G. A. Gillespie in the recent provincial election.

Mr. Bradburn's total was 6396 and Mr. Gillespie's 4760.

There were 15,356 names on the voters' lists, but some of these were duplicates, some people had left town and others were dead.

Eleven thousand one hundred and fifty six used their franchise, or 72.5 per cent.

There were 67 spoiled ballots.

Poll number one in the south ward gave Mr. Bradburn his largest majority for any single poll, the majority being 121, and Poll number 38, which is in the East Ward, was next with a majority for Mr. Bradburn of 111.

Mr. Gillespie received his biggest majority at any single poll in Smith Township, where Milburn's school house registered a majority of 144, and 40A, Bridgenorth, 102.

In the Township of Smith Mr. Gillespie received 707 votes and Mr. Bradburn 371, a majority for the Liberal candidate of 336.

This lead was very nearly overcome in the township of North Monaghan, where Mr. Bradburn got 686 votes, and Mr. Gillespie 442, a majority for Mr. Bradburn of 244 votes.

Hopes For Natural Stabilization When Franc Speculation Becomes Dangerous.

WARNS CHAMBER.

Misfortunes From Franc's Rise Less Terrible Than From Its Fall.

PARIS, Dec. 9. — Premier Poincare is keeping his own counsel on when he will seek to stabilize the franc. He hopes and expects to see natural stabilization occur when the soundness of the country's finances and the balance of h: trade will make franc speculation dangerous, and produce stabilization in fact, which later can be made legal.

He warned the Chamber yesterday that before this stabilization in fact could occur there were still several conditions to be realized, but little by little events were moving towards this desirable goal, he said.

The Premier spoke in opening the discussion on the Finance bill, or income portion of the budget. The morning and first part of the afternoon sessions had been occupied by orators deeply concerned with the problem of how far revalorization of the franc should go before it was stabilized and with the economic results which, they declared, were following the rapid rise of the franc's value.

Sinking Fund Provision.

In dealing with the Sinking Fund provision the Premier reminded the Chamber that the actual civil and military expenditure of the budget was less than it was in 1914, and that if that situation could be maintained the Sinking Fund which this year is endowed with 8,000,000,000 francs, could be fed from budgetary excedents, German payments and the revenue from the monopolies.

These measures were producing, he said, the improvemen in the financial situation which was the necessary preface to the monetary situation.

To those who wanted to know the Government's intentions with regard to stabilization all he had to say was that every time the head of the government referred even most discreetly to stabilization speculators seized on his slightest words. He did not want to favor such manoeuvring. He admitted the difficulty and loss of fluctuating exchange to manufacturers and business men. They were now suffering from the rise in value of the franc while the small retired people and bondholders suffered from its fall.

All his policy was directed towards placing the franc beyond the reach of speculators by sound budgeting and industry and he could not but consider the misfortunes which were reported to have followed the rise in the value of the franc as less terrible than those which accompanied its fall. The crisis was not yet acute, he said, and it was a crisis which could be, and would be, overcome.

When the time for stabilization came the government would act secretly and quickly. Meanwhile his principal occupation was to secure the first step in passage of the budget.

FULL MEETING CABINET IS HELD FOR FIRST TIME

Premier King and Hon. Ernest Lapointe Sworn as Members.

SPEECH COMPLETED.

House Speaker Will Be Chosen at Opening Session To-day.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 9. — Canadian Press. — There was a full meeting of the Cabinet yesterday for the first time since the general elections.

Premier Mackenzie King and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, just back from the Imperial Conference in London, were present, and, incidentally, were sworn in as members of the sixteenth Parliament of Canada.

At the close of the meeting no official announcement was made. The Prime Minister stated that he had nothing to say except that "it is good to be home again." He had found, he said, that all preparations had been made for the first meeting of the House of Commons to-day, when a Speaker will be chosen. The speech from the throne, to be delivered by the Governor General, Lord Willingdon, on Friday, is understood to be complete.

What will happen in the next ten days is still very much a matter of guess work. The pre-Christmas meeting of Parliament will be necessarily short. It was called primarily to dispose of the unvoted estimates of last session. The Government hoped to get these voted next week, and do away with the practice of providing money for the public services through Governor-General's warrants. If the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, which begins on Monday afternoon, is prolonged, the House will not be able to go into committee of supply.

Premier King stated that he would not ask the House to shelve discussion on the address in reply, so that he might bring on the estimates. This had been suggested as a possibility. He thought that the usual procedure would be followed, but he added that he would rather not make too definite statements about what was really only a possible contingency. The matter, he pointed out, was one for the House to decide.

The Premier had no announcement to make regarding appointments to the Senate (in which there are four vacancies), nor could he say who will succeed the Hon. Harry Cockshutt as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. The latter appointment, he said, will be made early in the new year.

Mr. King stated that he had had a long talk yesterday with the Governor General with whom he lunched at Government House. They discussed the results of the Imperial Conference. "We had a very satisfactory talk," said Mr. King.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, acting leader of the Opposition, made a courtesy call on Premier King during the afternoon at the latter's office.

Four hours' hard thinking exhausts the tissues as much as ten hours of manual labor.

FAMOUS CHIEF DIES IN ENGLAND

Sir Robert Peacock Was Once Chief Newhall's Superior.

MANCHESTER CHIEF.

The deceased had had a remarkable career. He joined the police in the humble status of a constable, joining the force on April 30, 1859, at the age of 19 and rising to one of the highest executive offices in the police service in the old country.

He attended the world's convention at New York last year and at which the Chief Constables of every country in the world were represented and later visited Toronto at the invitation of Chief Dickson of that city.

Major Emma Westbrook, the oldest Salvation Army officer in the United States both in years and in point of service, is now 83 years old, retired and living in Albany, N.Y.

Defendant Has Reason For Every Sign Of Drink

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 9 (United Press).—When Patrick Healey appeared in court to-day, charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated, he offered these explanations:

He had just had a hair cut, and if the policeman detected an odor resembling that of liquor it must have been caused by hair tonic.

He had served nine years in the navy, and if he appeared to stagger it must have been caused by the "sailors' rolls" he had acquired.

If his car seemed to be taking a zig-zag course it was because of a broken steering wheel.

The glassy appearance of his eyes could be accounted for by the fact he is an acetylene welder, the defendant concluded.

Judge Burns took the case under advisement.

U.F.Y.P.O. DANCE GREAT SUCCESS

Many Attend From Various Clubs of This District.

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 9.—The dance which was held under the auspices of the U.F.Y.P.O. in the club room at Centreville on Friday evening was a great success. Many were present from Otonabee and the Peterborough Young People's Club. Stewart's orchestra furnished music for dancing, while a balloon and lucky number dance caused much merriment. Miss K. Lancashire of Milbrook won the prize in the balloon dance, and Miss E. Huggins in the lucky number dance.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Mr. and Mrs. J. Isbister Mr. and Mrs. J. Finnie, Mr. and Mrs. R. Perrin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Moncrief, Misses S. Rutherford, S. White, P. Lamb, F. Bonneycastle, F. Telford, E. Huggins, E. Byers, E. Wallace, K. Lancashire, M. and L. Earle, M. Anderson, G. and E. Johnston, K. Bateman, Viola and Velma Nurse G. Pue, E. and D. Falls, R. and M. Bonner, H. Syer, G and R. Dawson, M. Dawson, K. Isbister, H. Ackison of Peterboro, Mrs. O. B. Johnston, Mrs. J. C. McRoberts, Misses E Tate, H. Armstrong, L. Stult, M. Guyatte, C. Kinsmen, B. Wood, I. Whitfield, O. Dawson, Andrews, L. White. Messrs. H. Campbell K. Huggins, W. and S. and C. Lang, N. Earl, D. Sewart, H. Dawson, W. and H. Thorne, G. Hancock, E. Thompson, W. and N. Bowles, W. Johnston, F. Barnard, G. Harper, John Holt, W. McCammus, C. and W. Hall, R. Smith, C. and R. Barnard, W. Kinsmen, G. and W. Morrison, R. Whittington J. Whitfield, N. Millan, W. Waterman, A. Andrews, J. Pue, W. Lord, C. Anderson, G. Brock, E. Eagleson and G. Berry.

The weather here on Sunday was unusually cold. Many of the villagers as well as residents of the surrounding county stated that in some years they have not found it as difficult to heat their residences as they did on Sunday.

In some parts of this locality the temperature was registered as low as 16 degrees below zero, and although there have been much colder days as far as a frosty atmosphere was concerned, still it was the desperate cold east wind that made the homes so difficult to heat.

Owing to the disagreeably cold weather the congregations at the Anglican and United churchese were comparatively small.

Mrs. Robert Falls and Mrs. Ross Moncrief left on Monday for Toronto, where they intend remaining for a week.

An epidemic of chicken pox has broken out in School Section No. 2, South Monaghan. Almost all the children have been victims of the disease.

EAST EMILY L.O.L. ELECTS OFFICERS

EAST EMILY, Dec. 9.—On Friday evening L.O.L. No. 294 held its regular meeting and election of officers. It was an enthusiastic meeting and was well attended.

After the regular business was disposed of, the election of officers for the ensuing year was conducted by the District Master, Bro. Roy Howden. The following officers were elected:

Worshipful Master—Bro. Cecil Casey.

Worshipful Deputy Master—Bro. Elwood Harrison.

Chaplain—Bro. Harry Jackson.

Recording Secretary—Bro. Oswald Ruth.

Financial Secretary—Bro. Bert Edwards.

Director of Ceremonies—Bro. Richard James.

First Lecturer—Bro. Fred Deyell.

Second Lecturer—Bro. Gordon Harrison.

Committeemen—Bro. Ira Switzer, Bro. Harry Faulkner, Bro. Sayward Switzer, Bro. Elwood Faulkner Bro. Harold Harrison.

The induction and installation of officers was conducted by Past Master Bro. Harry Deyell addresses being given by the new officers.

Lodge was closed after which refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening spent.

Mrs. Skuce has returned home after making an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. Wilson, of Otonabee.

Miss Flossie Casey spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. David Belch in Omemee.

Mrs. Evans Storey spent a few days last week visiting relatives in Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Guthrie have returned home to Midland after spending the past month visiting at the home of their son, Mr. Isaac Guthrie.

There was no service held in the churches in this district on Sunday last on account of the extremely cold and stormy weather.

There are cutters, sleighs, and cars to be seen on the roads at the present time.

Messrs. Gilbert and Clarence Harrison, who are spending a few weeks visiting their mother in East Emily, spent the week end with their sister, Mrs. Hunt, of Lakehurst.

On Friday night last Mr. William McConnell's house caught on fire, but no serious damage was done. The fire brigade was called from Omemee and the blaze was soon extinguished.

King George, Queen Victoria of Spain and Queen Mary, leaving the Armistice Day ceremony at Westminster.

ROBERTSON IN BY 985 VOTES

Official Count Made Yesterday in Northumberland Riding.

7,612 TO 6,627.

(Special to The Examiner.)

COBOURG, Dec. 9.—Dr. W. G. Robertson's majority in Northumberland over Mayor Fred J. McArthur was 985. The vote was 7,612 to 6,627 in favor of the Liberal candidate according to the official count yesterday afternoon by Returning Officer John A. Noble, based on the figures which his deputies enclosed in the ballot boxes he opened here yesterday. The vote for each municipality was as follows:

	McArthur.	Roberston
Alnwick Tp.	149	217
Brighton Tp.	442	522
Brighton Village	436	348
Colborne Village	246	300
Cramahe Tp.	377	657
Campbellford	682	691
Cobourg	1545	792
Hastings	211	169
Haldimand Tp.	498	852
Hamilton Tp.	527	856
Murray Tp.	469	622
Percy Tp.	424	653
Seymour Tp.	482	698
S. Monaghan Tp.	139	235
	6627	7612

The election machinery under Mr. Noble's care worked with the smoothness of perfection. No detail was overlooked in the preparations and also in the rapid reception of the results.

Campbellford Details

The official returns indicate a rather large number of unpolled votes. The total polled for the two candidates was 14,239 and the voters' list contained approximately 18,500 names, leaving more than 4,261 ballots unused. The result in Campbellford was as follows, the left hand column showing the unused ballots:

	McA.	Rob.	Not Used.
1	84	63	50
1a	66	63	55
1b	74	43	74
2	56	78	47
2a	46	85	72
3	105	83	89
3a	92	90	82
4	68	101	37
4a	81	85	53
Hastings Village
1	82	58	79
1a	73	61	22
2	56	50	26
Alnwick Tp.
1	80	133	61
2	34	41	27
3	35	38	14

The biggest vote in proportion to the number of names on the list was apparently at Grafton in Haldimand which gave McArthur 66, Robertson 97, and left only 7 ballots unclaimed.

CHOKED TO DEATH WHEN CAR UPSETS

Thorold Youth Pinned Under His Automobile—Brother Unhurt.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 9.—Frank Kavanaugh, 19, of Thorold, was choked to death last night when his car overturned at Hutts Crossing, in Stamford Township. He was driving to the falls and struck a mound of snow, causing the car to turn completely over. He was pinned underneath, and life was extinct when he was extricated. A brother accompanying him escaped without injury.

The body was brought to the Russnel Morgue and Dr. McGary has ordered an inquest.

COUNTIES COUNCIL WANTS ROAD FROM LINDSAY TO PETERBORO' BUILT FROM SCOTT'S CORNERS

Urge Province To Build Highway To Get Better Grades.

ANOTHER CHANGE.

Oppose Peterborough-Belleville Road Via Havelock and Marmora.

(Special to The Examiner).

COBOURG, Dec. 9. — The proposed Provincial highway between Lindsay and Peterboro will be routed from Scott's Corners through Cavan Township instead of by way of the Chemong Road in Smith Township if the Minister of Highways accedes to the appeal of a deputation from the Council of the Counties of Northumberland and Durham which Warden McCubbin was yesterday authorized to appoint. And this deputation will also request that the highway east of Peterboro to Belleville pass through Hastings and Campbellford instead of Havelock and Marmora.

Deputy-Reeve George Hooten of Cavan explained the details of the promised highway from Lindsay to Peterboro, and Deputy-Reeve Palliser of Campbellford urged the Northumberland claims for inclusion in the proposed Peterboro to Belleville highway.

Mr. Hooten contended that the Cavan route would avoid a long difficult grade on the Omemee-Peterboro road that would be expensive to cut down and it would also circumvent a swampy section near Fowler's Corners on the same road. The highway, according to his plan, would branch off the Peterboro-Port Hope highway two miles and a half south-west of Peterboro and extend westerly four miles to Mills' Corners, on the so-called middle county road running north through Cavan Township, and turning north at that point would continue northerly to Henderson's Corners, east of Omemee (on the present Omemee-Peterboro road through Smith Township), and thence would be built westerly through Omemee to Lindsay. By this route a Peterboro motorist bound for Lindsay would go out the Charlotte Street highway to Scott's Corners and traverse Cavan Township instead of taking the Chemong Road four miles and then turning west to Omemee and Lindsay. And of course the return trip would be into Peterboro by way of Scott's Corners.

Mr. Hooten emphasized the initial economy of the Cavan plan and also stated that it would be easier for traffic by the avoidance of the long high hill. Peterboro would profit, he said, by the construction of a good road along the Twelfth Concession of Cavan, thereby providing a necessary link with the improved roads westerly through Cavan and Manvers Townships. Such a highway would attract many Durham farmers to trade in Peterboro.

As to the tourist traffic, Mr. Hooten said he felt certain that Peterboro would not suffer any loss because the distance from Scott's Corners to Peterboro was only 2¼ miles, and furthermore, the stream of traffic from proposed Belleville-Peterboro highway would naturally flow through Peterboro westward.

Campbellford's Claim.

Mr. Palliser, looking to Campbellford's interests in the Belleville-Peterboro highway, said he had heard that municipalities in Hastings County were "pulling" to have that road built through Havelock to Marmora and thence south to Belleville. The Deloro Smelting Company and its community were also advocating the Marmora direction.

Hon. R. J. Cook a Power.

"I don't want to bring politics into this" said Deputy-Reeve Maher of Cobourg, "but we might as well recognize that the Hon. R. J. Cooke will have great influence behind the Marmora way. Other sections in the district are represented by Grits. We've got to put a strong spoke in if we are to get anywhere for Northumberland and Durham claims. We ought to do all we can."

Reeve Grills of Seymour said he had heard that strong interests were working for the Marmora route.

One member suggested that the Government might consider "what we were," referring to political representation.

"It's what you are to-day that counts," Mr. Maher replied.

His motion, seconded by Mr. Palliser, follows:

"That Warden McCubbin name a deputation to interview the Minister of Highways regarding the Provincial highway from Lindsay to Peterboro and from Peterboro to Belleville by way of Campbellford, and that the highway be carried from Scott's Corners across the 12th Concession of Cavan, thence north on the county road of Cavan to a point known as Henderson's Corners."

Mr. Palliser said he believed that Campbellford would augment the counties' deputation.

Representations to the Department have already been made by Mr. Hooten and ex-Warden McCamus, but Mr. Hooten appealed for strong support from the Counties Council to give their case as much strength as possible.

The diversion outlined by Mr. Hooten is from Henderson's Corners (at the junction of the Cavan County road and the Omemee road one and a half miles east of Omemee) to Peterboro.

Several members of the Council urged the fullest support to the Cavan and Campbellford members.

W.M.S. MEETING

Regular Meeting Held on Tuesday Afternoon at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 9.—The ladies of St. John's W. M. S. held their regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday school room. This was the annual Thank offering meeting and there was a good attendance present. The speaker, Mrs. Roberts, of Grafton, president of the Presbyterial, was unable to be present owing to train connections.

The president, Mrs. Haig, was in the chair. After the usual business of the meeting was dispensed, Mrs. Haig read the Scripture lesson. Interesting readings were given by Mrs. Thomas Free and Mrs. Neil Thompson. Solos were sung by Miss K. Connor and Miss E. Meiklejohn, after which a nice lunch was served.

Young People's Meeting.

The young people of St. John's held their regular meeting on Monday evening with a record attendance of 82. The president, G. F. Phillips, presided over the devotional and business part of the meeting, after which Miss Verna Saunders, convenor of the Christian Endeavour Department, had charge of the programme. Miss Irene Jeffs read the Scripture lesson, Mrs. R. W. Scott sang a solo, Miss Iona McPherson gave a reading Mrs. C. W. Turner and Miss M. Huycke gave a duet, and a trio with Miss Enid Richardson as pianist and Master Ronald and Billie Richardson as violinists, all formed a very interesting programme. The topic for the evening was taken by the president, G. F. Phillips and was exceedingly well given and beneficial to all. The subject was taken from the study book, and the topic was, "What does our church teach about Jesus." Before last night's meeting the Star car was ahead in the auto race of attendance, but last night the Hudson leaped ahead and is leading by several miles.

Mission Circle.

The young ladies of St. John's Mission Circle met at the home of Mrs. C. W. Turner on Tuesday evening. After the business part of the meeting was over the following programme was given:

Piano solo—Miss Roxie Wilson.
Piano solo—Miss Cherrie Turner.
Reading—Miss Ella Hall.
Reading—Miss Flora Cordell.
Reading—Miss Velma Runnels.
Reading—Miss Mytrle Forde.
Solo—Miss K. Connor.
Duet—Miss M. Huycke of Hastings, and Miss Cherrie Turner.

The Circle had responsive Christmas readings after which Mrs. G. W. Hammond gave an instructive and interesting talk to the girls.

Mrs. Turner then served an excellent lunch for which the Circle tendered a hearty vote of thanks. The attendance was 28.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Johnston, of Norwood, have motored to town and are residing on Simpson street.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McCook and son Eric, who have resided in Agincourt for the past year, have returned to town to reside and are living on Inkerman street.

Miss M. Huycke of Hastings, is the guest of Mrs. C. W. Turner, Queen street.

CAVAN FARMER SUFFERS LOSS

When Fire Completely Destroys Barn, Outbuildings and Livestock.

SPARK FROM ENGINE.

CAVAN, Dec. 9. — Mr. Walter Sharp, who resides on the 12th Line of Cavan, suffered a severe loss when his barn was totally destroyed together with the season's crop and livestock that was in the barn at the time. Threshing was in progress, and it is thought that a spark from the engine ignited the straw, the flames spreading so rapidly that little could be saved.

Mr. Robert Henderson's grain separator which was in the barn was also destroyed.

The Amazing Success of

DEFOREST & CROSLEY RADIO

Built in Canada to meet Canadian Conditions

The Best Guarantee of Radio Values

No other guarantee of radio value can be so convincing as DeForest & Crosley volume of sales. Forty thousand buyers have already expressed their preference for DeForest & Crosley radio. Overnight, almost, the success of DeForest & Crosley has spread from coast to coast and every resource of the D-C organization is straining to keep pace with the demand.

Leaders of a New Order

This sweeping success is due to DeForest & Crosley performance and DeForest & Crosley values. All features of D-C design are engineered expressly to meet Canadian conditions. Outstanding performance is the result. Standardized quality, large buying power, efficient distribution make this performance available at a surprisingly low cost.

A Fraction of Former Prices

As a result, you can get the best that radio offers at a fraction of former prices. By hearing and examining any DeForest & Crosley model, you will know to what perfection—in tone, volume, selectivity and appearance—radio of moderate price has now reached.

Model C-5 Compact

The compact trim appearance of this five tube model, devoid of all old-fashioned dials and controls, is expressive of an efficiency providing tremendous range and power. It embodies all the special D-C features except that, being a compact model, it is designed to operate with the D-C Musicone.

Canada's Greatest Radio Value at $78.00

Only D-C Radio Offers All These Features---

1 Exclusive Wheatstone Bridge principle of balance completely eliminates squealing or howling.
2 Adapted for use with power tubes, supplying extra reserve power.
3 New all-metal shielded chassis shuts out local interference and unwanted stations.
4 Drum control with graphic dial greatly simplifies operation and selects programs with unerring accuracy.
5 Special D-C tone chamber with cone and baffle system re-creates high notes, low notes and overtones with life-like fidelity.
6 Grand Master Cabinets by McLagan add new beauty and distinction to radio.
7 All features of design expressly engineered to meet Canadian conditions.

Before Buying Radio--- Investigate

You owe it to yourself to hear, see and examine the new standards of performance and value that D-C engineering has made possible. See the Authorized D-C Dealer and arrange for a demonstration.

A DISTRICT LOSS.

The departure of Reeve J. C. Strickland from Lakefield is a loss, not only to that community, but the district generally.

Mr. Strickland will be missed in many circles, especially in the realm of municipal politics and in the ranks of the curling fraternity.

The fact that he represents the third generation of his family to sit in the County Council, as Lakefield's representative there, is an interesting commentary upon the public service rendered by the Stricklands on behalf of their fellow citizens.

Among curlers Mr. Strickland has always been popular, both as a clever exponent of the game, and as a thorough sportsman.

His many friends throughout the Peterborough district will join with his Lakefield neighbors in wishing him every success in Toronto, where he is taking up residence.

A GOOD SHOWING.

While the Canadian National Railways are far from being "out of the woods" there is source of much satisfaction in the progress that is revealed by the annual report of the Department of Railways and Canals.

It is intimated that it will be possible for Canada's own railways this year to meet out of its own earnings all interest charges due the public, which means, of course, that the National treasury will not be called upon.

The relief represented by this improved condition of affairs will be appreciated by the Canadian people.

Eminently satisfactory too is the feat accomplished by the Canadian National management in converting an operating deficit of $34,532,000 in 1920 to an operating surplus of $32,264,000 last year, and there is every reason to expect an even better showing this year ,a steady improvement having been recorded.

PETERBOROUGH AND THE GOVERNMENT VENDOR.

It is understood that a petition is being circulated in an effort to persuade the Ontario Government not to establish a liquor store in Peterborough.

The signing of such a petition is a privilege that belongs to anybody who believes that something can be accomplished thereby, but in the present instance there is no foundation for thinking that the effort will be successful, and frankly The Examiner can see no reason why it should succeed.

The theory of those who are arguing that there should be no Government vendor in Peterborough is, that because this constituency is surrounded by other ridings which voted in favour of the O.T.A. the sale of liquor should be cut off from the whole district, and similar claims are being made in regard to Lindsay and other centres.

Let us examine that theory and see where we would be led were it to be accepted by the Government.

The principle of Government control, as we understand it, is, that the Government hopes by the providing of a legal supply of liquor for those who have shown that they would have it, regardless of any prohibitory measure, and by keeping such supply under as close a control as possible, to eliminate bootlegging, drinking among minors, and the use of such dangerous substitutes as canned heat and to restore a proper regard for law enforcement.

Those who are petitioning against Government vendors in the centres of this district are seeking to destroy the very essence of the whole plan of Government control and, if they were sucessful in their efforts, would bring about a condition that would be as intolerable to sensible prohibitionists as it would be to citizens who believe that they should be able to drink liquor if they desire to do so.

In effect the petitioners here and elsewhere are asking the Government to make the whole district between Toronto and Belleville a dry belt, a prohibition area.

What would that mean?

Could it mean anything else than an invitation to the bootlegging trade to come in and occupy the land?

What more could illicit sellers of liquor ask than a market comprising half a dozen prosperous counties, a market left almost entirely to them because of the absence of legal sale, and the more easily exploited because of the greater opportunity offered the bootlegger to secure his supply?

Let us be sensible about this question. Facing conditions rather than theories, and deciding it on a common sense rather than a sentimental basis.

Among those who believe that prohibition is the only solution of the liquor problem there is a natural reluctance to see the sale of liquor carried on in Peterborough.

That reluctance can be easily understood, but it must not be allowed to blind people to the actual situation.

There are only two alternatives as The Examiner sees them (1) the sale of liquor in Peterborough in a properly conducted Government store, under a permit system or (2) the sale of liquor in Peterborough by bootleggers on a scale larger than was the case under the Ontario Temperance Act.

The rejection of the first means the bringing about of the second just as surely as day follows night.

Can any one doubt it?

Can any one who gives the question even passing consideration convince himself that, with Government control, the law of the Province and vendors established in other parts of Ontario, the thousands of people in this part of Ontario who endorsed the principle of Government control would calmly submit to prohibition by petition?

Does any one imagine hat there would not be a brisk demand for bootlegger services as a substitute for Government service, and that supply would follow demand as it does in the case of every other commodity, with the bootlegger alone in the field without even the competition of dubious medical prescriptions to contend with?

The majority of the voters in the province have accepted the principle of Government control—it must, therefore, be given a fair chance to justify itself.

It cannot get such a chance if whole districts are to be given over to the bootlegging fraternity for exploitation.

The theory that a legitimate source of liquor supply, under strict control, will eliminate some of the conditions that are charged against the Ontario Temperance Act can only be tested by making such a source of supply reasonably convenient.

That being so it is futile to suppose that centres as large as Peterborough could be left out of the Governments plans even if the city itself and two of the four townships contiguous to it had not piled up majorities in favor of Government control.

The Examiner feels that it is its duty to point out some of the factors that enter into the situation and to suggest that those who may be asked to sign a petition against the establishment of a Government store here should weigh the matter carefully.

The idea of Government sale of liquor may be distasteful, but if the only other choice is an illegal sale of large proportion—and that seems inevitable—there will be little profit in opposing the establishment of a Government store here.

WHAT IT MEANS.

Until the complete returns are to hand with the number of votes polled in each riding, one cannot correctly ascertain just how the Province voted on the O. T. A. Under our system of representation by ridings it can transpire that a party that has not secured a majority of votes for the entire Province may be returned. It is fairly safe, however, to comment from the standpoint that a greater number of people voted for Government control than for the O. T. A.

There is no use harping about it, but it seems queer that if all the people who voted for the O. T. A. when their party's success was not at stake had done the same thing last week, Government control would have been defeated. In the town of Brockville, for example, when a vote against Government control meant a vote against the party, the majority was 1,601, while at the last plebiscite when there were no party considerations, the vote against the O. T. A. was only 365. This indicates one of two things—the electors have changed their minds since the last plebiscite or their partyism is stronger than their temperance principles.

Undoubtedly, thousands of people who believe in temperance are conscientiously of the opinion that the O. T. A. has been a failure and that under Government control conditions cannot be worse and may be better, but if so this was not registered at the plebiscite to a sufficient extent to defeat the O. T. A.

With the change of attitude by Ontario from prohibition to Government sale, the only part of Canada that is now under prohibition is to be found in the Maritime Provinces. What effect Ontario's change of front will have on the situation in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island is not difficult to tell, and arguments of those who are against prohibition will be greatly strengthened by the recent vote in this Province.

The question of the power of a Province to prohibit importation is one that will have to be finally decided. True, Quebec has passed certain legislation that makes importation almost impossible, but the law itself does not refer to importation. It rather makes it an offence to transport liquor other than that purchased from the commission on highways, or to have it in one's possession. This act has been in operation because no person has taken serious objection to it, but it is very questionable if the Legislature of a Province can in an indirect way legally pass legislation to accomplish something that does not come within its jurisdiction. Evidently the Senate of Canada and the Province of British Columbia are both of the opinion that a Province has no right to pass legislation that will interfere with importation, for at the request of the latter a bill has twice been introduced into and passed by the House of Commons of Canada, having for its object the prohibition of importation into any Province in which Government control system is in force, except by the Province itself. The Senate has twice thrown out this legislation at the request of the Senators from British Columbia who refuse to be deprived of their rights and the rights of other individuals to import liquor for their own use.

As stated above, this question of the right of a Province to pass legislation which indirectly affects importation has never been tested, but probably will be before long.

The action of the people of Ontario last week will discourage any party leader who hopes at all for success from making prohibition one of the planks of his platform for years to come, and it is, therefore, to be hoped that the system of Government control will in practise work out more satisfactorily than many people expect it to do.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

"The Pump Song" seems to be the favorite air of the Peterborough City Council.

Eventually—why not now?" applies to Christmas shopping as well as other things.

It is fairly evident that some of those actively engaged in the recent provincial election paid more attention to the O.T.A. than the O.E.A.—the Ontario Election Act.

The village of Formosa in Bruce County voted 98 per cent for Government control, 377 votes against 10. Now, there is one community anyway that knows what it wants.

Canada's Federal politicians who have been temporarily out of the limelight will get back to the front page again.

The local Council turned down a couple of advertising propositions for next year. The Aldermen possibly are counting upon Government control to prove the most effective tourist-bringer.

One of the perpetually popular pastimes is that of deciding where the other fellow should spend his evenings, and how.—Sault Star.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—There was a lull in the foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market, and in consequence the market in this respect was much quieter. There was a little inquiry for ocean grain room and engagements of odd loads were made to most United Kingdam ports at five shillings per quarter, and to Continental ports at 22 cents per hundred pounds for December-January loading. In sympathy with the strength in the Winnipeg market for pats, local cash prices on spot were advanced 1 cent per bushel.

The undertone to the Spring wheat flour market was again firm, but there was no change in prices announced. The export and local trade was good.

Owing to the more liberal offerings of Winter wheat flour from Ontario millers and the somewhat limited demand at present, the undertone to the market was easier and the indications were that there will be a re-adjustment of prices in the near future.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the strong feeling that developed for bran and shorts, and prices were advanced $1.00 per ton. This was attributed to the large demand and the small supplies available.

The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was steady and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of fresh and storage eggs were well maintained under a good demand. The receipts were 117 cases.

The trade in potatoes was quiet, but the tone of the market was stronger and prices may possibly go higher. Sales of odd cars of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at $1.70 to $1.75 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.55 to $1.60 per bag of 90 pounds.

The bean market was quiet but firm. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked were made at $2.75 per bushel, and broken lots at $3.00 per bushel.

The feature of the butter trade was the improvement in the demand from local and country buyers ,and a large volume of business was transacted. Prices were firm. The receipts were 495 packages.

The local and export trade in cheese was extremely dull but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 949 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Heavy selling out of December holdings of wheat unsettled the wheat market yesterday, after values had shown an early upward trend. Much of the selling appeared to be in the nature of profit taking on the part of the principal owners here. Closing quotations for wheat were irregular at 1 1-4 net decline to 3-8 advance, with corn 1-4 to 5-8 up; oats showing 1-2 to 1 1-8 gain, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Corn and oats turned strong on account of active demand from previous speculative sellers. The outlook was for additional adverse weather.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

MAGAZINE TAX

Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—A copy to hand of your paper of October 28th, carries an editorial based on the application of Canadian magazines publishers for a tax of fifteen cents a pound on the advertising in foreign magazines coming into Canada. As we believe it is your desire to be fair in every way, and to give to your readers whatever is informative and illuminating, we would be obliged if you would publish this letter in order to remove what appear to be certain misapprehensions.

Canadian magazine publishers are not trying in any way to prevent worth-while magazines from coming into the Dominion from the United States, Britain, France or elsewhere. They are not even pressing for anything which, in actual fact, would greatly add to the cost of these good publications to Canadian buyers. A duty of fifteen cents a pound on advertising, or of ten cents a pound on total weight, is not a "heavy duty" as you suggest. By what arithmetic can it be figured out that a duty of this modest figure would seriously prevent the better class magazines, or any of them, for that matter, from coming into Canada or from selling here at a reasonable price? Are we to believe, sir, that Canadian editors will put up a defence for United States publications that they may have a market in Canada free of all duties and taxes in preference to their own fellow citizens, who have to pay every turn they make? We believe not. We have too much confidence in the loyalty and fairness of Canadian journalism for that, and yet, in frank analysis, that is what it amounts to. Canadian publishers must be handicapped in every way before the race starts and then be told to run in competition with United States competitors who enter Canada without paying a cent of duty or tax, who flood our newsstands with free copies brought in on a returnable basis, who often crowd our own publications off these stands and off our trains, who by their larger purchasing power are able to and often do, monopolize the work of many of the best authors and artists, withholding it from Canadian publishers by forbidding them to sell to Canadian magazines or newspapers, who are able to do all these things without the least hindrance or charge in the way of taxes or duties. The unfairness of it all seems so obvious that it is difficult to understand why Canadian publishers are thought to be trying to "shut out" competitors, or to make the public pay greatly increased prices for their reading.

Just consider these facts, Mr. Editor, as a few that stand up fair and square before you, and then ask yourself if your fellow men who, as publishers are citizens and tax payers along with yourself, ask whether what they are requesting is mercenary and selfish or whether it is simple justice, as any British citizen is entitled to expect

In the first place the disparity in population, as between Canada and the United States, constitutes a tremendous difficulty in itself, Canadian publishers have less than 7,000,000 English-speaking people to cater to, as compared with over 110,000,000 in his home market for the United States publisher. Anyone in the publishing field knows what this means in possibilities. Even with this small population, however, the Canadian publisher might fare better if our country was more or less isolated as is Australia, for instance, or if differences of languages constituted barriers, as among the countries of Europe, but instead of either of these factors, we stretch along a frontier of 4,000 miles across which pours, every week and month, a veritable deluge of magazines and newspapers from the large publishing houses of the Republic.

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the value of foreign magazines, newspapers and periodicals imported into Canada jumped from $960,734 in 1912 to no less than $2,991,993 in 1925-26. Twenty-five of these publications alone, out of a total of over 300, have a circulation in Canada of nearly 25,000,000 copies a year. The total circulation of United States magazines in Canada is over 50,000,000 copies annually.

These figures are staggering in themselves, and help us to explain why so many Canadian publications into which a lot of money, earnestness and hard work have been put, have finally had to give up. Every editor knows of some of them—such as Canada Weekly, Canadian Courier, Woman's Century, Canadian Pictorial, Everywoman's World, and a dozen others. But this flood against our feebler position is not all by any means. The more serious injustice appears when it is remembered that, while Canadian publishers contribute all year round to the Canadian exchequer in taxes, sales taxes, etc., these foreign publications come in free. They pay nothing to carry on the Government of the Dominion. They bear no part of our tax burdens. They take hundreds of thousands of dollars annually out of Canadian pockets and spend the money building up their own plants and country.

It is estimated that not less than $5,000,000 is paid out by Canadian branch houses of United States concerns, for advertising appropriations of these Canadian branches and, as the United States advertisers reach the Canadian market through these channels, struggling Canadian publications are denied the business they might otherwise get and which hard experience has shown they need to exist at all, and this money goes out of our country to swell the business of a foreign natton.

Then again, consider this amazing fact: That United States publications are in many cases heavily loaded with advertising of U. S. goods and products, creating enormous sales of their commodities in the Dominion instead of those manufactured or raised by Canadians. Were this advertising to come in here in the form of circulars, catlogues, etc., it would have to pay a duty to our Canadian Government of fifteen cents a pound, plus a five per cent. import tax, but because it is advertising, bound up in the magazine, newspaper or periodical, it pays nothing. The postal department of Canada handles millions of copies of U. S. publications without any remuneration. This can be charged up in but one way, namely as a tax on Canadians, for somebody has to pay.

One more point, out of many that could be given: It is this, that while United States magazines and the advertising matter in them are allowed to come into Canada free of duty, the materials which enter into their production, if imported in any other but magazine, newspaper, or periodical form, would be subject to duty as follows:

Paper, 25 per cent. plus sales tax of 2 1-2 per cent; ink, 20 per cent. plus sales tax of 5 per cent; engravings, 20 per cent, plus sales tax of 5 per cent.; drawings and art work, 22 1-2 per cent. plus sales tax of 5 per cent.; machinery, 10 per cent., plus sales tax of 5 per cent.

Why should this difference, constituting a damaging competition to Canadian publishers, be permitted to go on? All that the magazine publishers, in their appearance before the Tariff Advisory Board at Ottawa, have asked is that a duty be placed on the advertising in these imported magazines, for advertising, running into million of pages, costing firms millions of dollars and selling in Canada millions of dollars worth of U. S. products and manufactured goods, is surely as much entitled to pay its way as are paper, ink, engravings, drawings and machinery?

Let reading matter come in free, if that is so desired, but ask the foreign publisher to compete here on a fair basis by paying something on his advertising. This policy will not interfere with the importation of such worth-while magazines and periodicals as The Atlantic Monthly, Harpers, Scribner's, Blackwoods', Chambers' Journal, The National Geographic and a score of others, for their advertising can be bound up and brought in separately ,or arrangements can be made by their publishers to pay the duty on this advertising before shipment.

Trusting you will appreciate the wish of Canadian publishers to be fair in this whole matter.

Sincerely,
THE MAGAZINE PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION OF CANADA.

THE CHURCH AND SCIENCE
By Dr. Frank Crane.

Dean Robbins the other day urged an alliance between the church and medicine. It all depends on what you think religion is.

If religion is thinking right and having the right ideas about things, perhaps it has nothing to do with medicine.

The way you arrive at a conviction about a matter of theology and the way you establish facts in medicine are diametrically opposed. One is an act of faith without reason and the other is a deduction of reason without faith.

But if religion, instead of occupying itself with correct thinking, occupies itself with correct doing, if it consists in being kind and helpful and bringing about civic reform, then the closer it is allied to science the better.

There has been entirely too little science in the practical part of religion. The church needs to follow economic laws in its helpful work, and science needs a sort of reverence in its pursuit of facts.

Those whose religion consists in doing the most good they can by the best means they can, cannot know too much about science. But those who insist that religion fundamentally consists in having certain opinions care very little about science and its methods.

Most of the difference between science and religion have arisen out of the definition of the two things. It all depends on how you define religion and what you think science is.

If religion be a name for the organized effort to make the world better; to relieve human ailments, and to bring as much happiness as possible to the human race, then it ought to pursue scientific methods But if religion consists in getting through with this wicked world as soon as possible so as to achieve our bliss in another one, then science is superfluous.

Scientific men are often called irreligious. This means they care very little about opinions and a great deal about facts. But it is conceivable that a scientist might be working for the alleviation of the ills of humanity quite as much as a religionist, and in fact a scientist who simply seeks to help his fellow men is a religious person. He is actuated by a lofty and altruistic motive.

A devout scientist, therefore, means simply one who is devotedly following the welfare of his fellow men, and that definition will apply very well also to many religionists.

There is no scism in the business of helping people. It is only in judging people and reasoning about things we know nothing about that differences of opinion appear.

Rheumatism the enemy of advancing years

HAD SUFFERED FOR YEARS WITH RHEUMATISM

Tried many remedies—Simple home treatment brought relief

A sufferer from acute rheumatism for many years, a Winchester, N. H., man at last found that he could always get rid of the pain, and relieve the swelling and stiffness by a simple home treatment.

"After trying various remedies," he writes, "Sloan's Liniment was recommended to me, and it stopped the pain."

What is the reason for these remarkable results?

Simply that Sloan's doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up your own forces to get rid of the conditions that are causing the pain.

Apply lightly without rubbing, and at once you'll feel the comforting warmth as fresh, healing blood begins circulating through the affected spot. The stiff, swollen tissues relax, the inflammation goes down, the pain stops, and soon you feel normal again. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

Young German Aviator Is Arrested In Paris With Documents Concerning French Air Forces

PARIS, Dec. 9. — Herbert Franzel, a young German aviator, was arrested here yesterday on a charge of theft of documents concerning the French air forces. He is suspected as acting as a spy in behalf of a foreign power.

Franzel, who was born in Hamburg in 1903, came to Paris some months ago and visited the director of a large and important firm manufacturing airplanes. He said he was a mechanical draftsman and was anxious to perfect himself in the French language. Possessing private means, he expressed willingness to give his services free of remuneration. The offer was accepted in good faith on the part of the French manager.

Soon, however, suspicions were aroused by the fact that Franzel while occasionally spending considerable sums of money, at other times obviously was in financial difficulties and resorted to various expedients to procure funds. He was watched by detectives, who arrested him in the Rue de Lille yesterday, just after he had obtained a visa at the German Consulate to go to Germany. A search of his person revealed important documents. Others were found in the room of the hotel where he had been living.

SPLENDID SERMON.

Rev. J. O. Barrons Delivers Earnest Discourse at Marmora.

MARMORA, Dec. 9.—A very earnest discourse on "Abide in Me and I in You" was given at the United church on Sunday evening by the Rev. J. O. Barrows of Lansdowne. The preacher drew the distinction between divine transcendency and Divine immanency.

Having drawn the picture of Christ in His transcendent glory, he pointed out that this must be held in the background of our life in Christ Jesus. Christ is not only in Heaven as the great Advocate and Intercessor but He seeks to entre into the heart of the poor sinner here below. Christianity he affirmed, is not simply character or principle, it is a living personality into which the Christ has entered. Jesus Christ becomes re-incarnate and we become living epistles of His Name, read and known among all men. That is Christianity and it comes of the express teaching of Jesus Christ. During the service, the duet, "I am Happy in Him" was rendered by Mr. William Lester and Miss Loraine Bell.

SALES AND BAZAARS

CHRIST CHURCH, OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, Dec. 9.—The Women's Guild of Christ church held their annual bazaar on Saturday afternoon. Christmas decorations gave the Sunday school room of the church a festive air.

A reception committee composed of Miss Edith Curry and Mrs. (Rev.) Weir gave a cordial welcome to all who attended.

A varied and beautiful display of fancy work was in charge of the Misses A. Stephenson, I. Clemett, Lila Fee and Mrs. Vincent Jones, who found ready sale for their wares.

The "Post Office" was a busy spot during the evening, particularly to the children, who carried away wondrous packages on payment of five or ten cents. The Misses Ethel Stephenson and Lenore Jamieson were the energetic clerks.

"Pinnies" for the tiny tots, embroidered in colors with ducks or Jack and Jill, dainty aprons for afternoon wear, clothespin aprons, "all over" work aprons found ready purchasers in the numerous homemakers who hovered round this booth, which was well looked after by Mrs. E. Jamieson and Mrs. F. Bent.

Poultry, home-made cooking, and candy were sold by Mrs. George Newman, assisted by the Misses Essie Woods and Mayme Lang.

One look at the tea tables with their snowy cloths, pretty china and silver, flowers, and red lighted candles was sufficient to lure most all the visitors to the tea room where a hot supper of the variety for which Christ church workers are famed was served for the sum of forty cents. The tea room was in charge of Mesdames R. Adams, Gowans W. Fee and D. Deyell, and Misses Edith Robinson, and C. Cornwall. The commissariat department was looked after by Mrs. George McQuade, Mrs. James Bannon and Misses Annie Clemett, Hazel Thorne and Adah Atwell, assisted by Audrey Weir, Mildred Jones, Mabel Thorne, Phyliss Morton and Marian Dickson.

The proceeds of the bazaar amounted to $220 and congratulations are being extended to the Socity on the success of the event.

U. S. IMITATING BRITISH SCHEME

Westminster Gazette Comments on President Coolidge's Cotton Acreage Restrictions.

HIGHER PRICES.

LONDON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—"The United States imitates the British rubber scheme," is the Westminster Gazette's opinion of that part of President Coolidge's message to congress referring to having secured pledges for sufficient funds to finance the storage and carrying of four million bales of cotton. "Remembering Secretary Hoover's indignation over the rubber restrictions," the newspaper says, "London will chuckle over the president's recommendation."

It is contended by the Westminster Gazette that restriction in cotton acreage constitutes a menace to the struggling cotton industry of Great Britain. It quotes a member of the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners as saying that President Coolidge's advice regarding a reduction of about one-third in the acreage for the coming year will be received with great concern in Manchester as it will mean higher prices all around and have a bad effect on the world's situation.

BAN ON TITLES MAY BE LIFTED

Honors Can Now Be Recommended Direct to the King.

ACTION EXPECTED.

LONDON, Dec. 9—The probability of South Africa lifting the ban on titles because of the new status reached by South Africa after the imperial conference, is suggested in messages from Capetown yesterday. Strong resolutions were passed a year ago against the bestowal of honors, but the attitude has now changed, according to these messages, because now South Africa is able to recommend directly to the King the names of the people on whom honors should be conferred, instead of making the recommendations through the government.

Apparently South Africa is very pleased with the imperial conference.

The nationalists are even singing God Save the King at the end of their meetings.

FERDINAND UNDER SECOND OPERATION

While Rumanian Royal Palace is Completely Destroyed By Flames.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—King Ferdinand was again in the hands of the surgeons yesterday. He underwent another minor operation—the first on Monday—and a silver tube was set in place for drainage of the large intestine.

About the time the surgeons were operating on the King at Cotrochini Palace, the Palace Royal, in the centre of the city was in flames, with the courtyard heaped with great quantities of Louis XV. furniture. When informed of the destruction of the palace, Ferdinand remarked fervently: "God's will be done."

It was announced Tuesday that the King would go under the knife to-day probably, but it was deemed advisable to proceed with the completion of Monday's operation which consisted of a deep incision and the removal of extraneous tissues.

Prof. Hartmann, the French surgeon, who performed the operations, plans to return to Paris tomorrow, but this does not indicate that his work is finished. It another operation is necessary there will probably be a considerable lapse of time in order that the King may gain strength for the ordeal.

Great anxiety still prevails among the people over the King's condition. The burning of the old palace drew thousands of spectators to the scene, while hundreds sought news of the King.

The Rumanian people are quiet, but seem sullen, although neither police nor soldiers have had any difficulty in keeping order. There are no outward signs of political disturbances and the residents of the capital appear indifferent as to who rules over them.

LABORITES HISS BRITISH PREMIER

Ramsay MacDonald Moves Vote of Censure in Commons To-day.

DEMANDS ELECTION.

LONDON, December 9. Canadian Press. — Former Premier J. Ramsay Macdonald, Labor leader, in the House of Commons, to-day moved a labor vote of censure on the Baldwin Government, regretting its policy during the miners' dispute.

His motion was received with loud cheers from the opposition benches.

The debate on the motion was opened immediately.

Mr. MacDonald declared that the government's policy h l steadily alienated the confidence of the country and urged that a general election be held.

Premier Baldwin replying was greeted with hisses and shouts of 'Mussolini' from the Laborites which were drowned by cheers from the supporters of the Prime Ministers.

Mr. Baldwin said that he would hold a general election in good time, but that he would not be intimidated by threats.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Held at Home of Misses Armour on Tuesday Evening.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 9. — The musical evening held at the home of the Misses Armour, Anne Street, on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the ladies of St. Thomas' Church proved a most successful and enjoyable occasion.

The programme was of an informal character, plenty of time being allowed for social intercourse before the opening number, during intermission, and at the close, this being one of the pleasant features of the gathering.

The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, and his assistant, Rev. P. C. Howard, were both present, and gave welcome assistance with the social side of the evening, though the programme was so arranged that no chairman was required.

The items included the following:

Piano duet—Mrs. (Canon) Allen and Miss Ada Attwooll.

Solo—"Roses of Yester Year," by Miss Kathleen Lancashire. Miss Ella Elson, accompanist.

Selection—"The Fairies of Caldon Low," by Mrs. McKee Bingham, Mrs. Allen playing softly the interlude from Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" during the recital. Encore, "Ould Kilkenny."

Solo—"The Summer's Gone," by Mrs. F. Waterman. Encore, "This Little Lass of Mine."

Piano solo — "Lieblied," (by Coombs), by Miss Mamie Collins. Encore, "Wood Nymphs," by Lind.

Solo—"Spring is Coming," by Mrs. P. C. Howard. Encore, "The Little Irish Girl."

Piano duet—Mrs. Allen and Miss Gwen. Hutchison.

During intermission a contest, "Sorting out the Grocer's Mistakes," gave pleasant employment to all, Mrs. Fred Waterman winning the prize, for which ten contestants had to draw. The second half of the programme included:

Piano duet—Mrs. Allen and Miss A. Attwooll.

Solo—"When Love is Gone," by Miss K. Lancashire.

Piano solo by Mrs. Allen.

Solo—"Love Here is my Heart," by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham. Encore, Selection from "Trilby."

Piano solo—"Air de Ballett" (Moskoski), by Miss Collins. Encore, "A Lover and His Lass" (Niven).

Solo—"Love will find a Way," by Mrs. Waterman. Encore, "Like Nightingales in Spring."

Reading — "Leetle Bateese" (Drummond), by Mrs. Bingham. Encore, "The Oxen" (Hardy).

As president of the W.A., Mrs. Allen spoke briefly at the conclusion of the programme, thanking those present for their appreciation of the entertainment provided, and those who had assisted with the programme for their generous help.

This was the third in the series of musical evenings that the W.A. of St. Thomas' Church has presented so far this season, and Mrs. Allen announced that they will be continued after the New Year.

The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, addressed the audience, expressing his personal pleasure in being present, and his appreciation of the fact that so many had come out on a stormy evening for the gathering. Mr. Allen also announced that a "Christmas Party," for which Mr. and Mrs. W. McKee Bingham are to be host and hostess, will be held at their residence on Thursday, December 16, at 8 p.m., when Dickens' "Christmas Carol" will be presented, three readers taking part, and there will be music and other entertainment, with refreshments served at the close. The public generally is invited, the proceeds to be in aid of the choir funds.

Euchre Party.

The officers and members of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge No. 176 were hostesses for a very enjoyable progressive euchre on Monday evening, sixteen tables being in use for play.

The attendance was considerably less than is usual when the Rebekah Lodge entertains, the extremely cold weather hindering many outside the village from being present.

Music and social converse provided entertainment for those not caring for cards, and the evening proved a very pleasant one for all concerned. Supper was served shortly after 11 p.m., after which the prize-winners were announced, Miss Jean Syer winning the ladies' first and Mr. Cathcart the gentlemen's; the consolation went to Miss Winslow and Mr. Maurice Gray.

Some of the younger folk enjoyed a dance before the gathering finally broke up.

Y. P. L. Meeting.

The Wide Awakes group of Canadian Girls-in-Training had charge of the Young People's League on Monday evening, the first of the series of studies in Canadian authors being taken up.

The vice-president, Hazel McMahon, occupied the chair, and the mentor took up the Scripture lesson under the topic, "Using what we have," the inexorable law, "use it or lose it," being developed.

A study of the life and works of E. Pauline Johnston was included in the programme, the items being:

Sketch of the life of the Indian poetess, by Elsie Spence.

Reading—"The Song my Paddle Sings," by Wilma Fallis.

Solo—"Sun Bird," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles.

Recitation—"The Cattle Thief," by Hazel McMahon.

Offering.

Reading—"The White Wampum," by Marie Kenyon.

Solo—"An Indian Love Song," by Mrs. Sayles.

Recitation—"Canadian Born," by Margaret Howard.

During the social hour at the close two contests gave employment and entertainment for all present, and home-made candy was passed before dismissal took place.

Personals.

Mrs. W. Wilkinson is visiting friends in Peterboro this week.

Rev. P. C. and Mrs. Howard motored to Toronto recently and spent a few days visiting her parents and other friends, returning on Saturday.

Mrs. Curtiss of Peterboro is the guest of the Misses Armour, and of her daughter, Miss Muriel Curtiss, this week, coming for the musicale held at Miss Armour's on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Maurice Gray, of Detroit, is holidaying at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Gray.

Miss Smith of Oshawa is visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. A. A. Smith.

Mrs. (Dr.) Greer of Peterboro was the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith.

Mrs. J. J. Russell left on Wednesday for Peterboro, where she will spend the winter.

Rev. P. C. and Mrs. Howard are moving in the near future to the house on King Street belonging to Mr. Nelson Janes, and occupied by him before his removal to Massey, in New Ontario, to reside. Mr. and Mrs. Howard, since coming to the village, have had apartments on the second floor of Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson's residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hatherly and two children, and Mrs. John Hatherly, recently motored to Toronto and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones for a few days.

The recent severe weather has frozen the pond over solidly and skating has been a popular pastime after school hours and in the evenings.

GOVERNOR VISITS

potentialities for good or for evil, but if only one boy were reclaimed from the downward path by Rotary's effort and set upon the right road there was a force put into motion and only God Himself could tell what great benefit would result.

As he saw it, the greatest mission of Rotary was that every Rotarian should carry into his own business or profession and to the members of the classification he represented the Rotary code of ideals and ethics. The Rotary doctor should see to it that he was the best doctor in the community; the Rotary banker should be known as the squarest banker. The doctrine of the Golden Rule, the square deal for everybody, was the thing that Rotary should spread. The business world was changing. "You couldn't have had a Rotary club 25 years ago," he declared. "Everybody was too suspicious then." The speaker gave instances of how the Rotary ideals had been put into active practice by Rotarians with wonderful results.

The last point hammered home by Governor Hanley was the necessity for Rotarians to think in world terms; to get the viewpoint of the fellow in the other country.

"I have been through two wars," said the speaker, "and I have a horror of war. Deep down in my subconscious mind the fear that always haunts me is that my boy might one day have to do and see the things that I have had to see and do. And so I would like to know that the world was safe from war. I don't think, however, that permanent peace can come from leagues of nations or world courts. It can only come through understanding the other fellws' viewpoint."

Eloquently referring to the peaceful relations of Canada and the United States, Governor Hanley held up the friendship between the two as an example to the world. "As I crossed into this country the other day," he said, "I looked at the great Peace bridge they are building and I gazed up at the stars in the sky and thanked Heaven I lived on a continent where countries do not build battleships to keep them apart, but bridges to bring them together."

Great Britain did not understand the United States; the United States did not understand Great Britain. It was Canada's great opportunity, the speaker said, to act as interpreter between the two great Angio-Saxon countries. "You here with stretching out a hand of love even unto death to the country across the sea that gave you birth, and with the hand of friendship extended to us, who are your neighbors, have as your duty the interpreting of one to the other and to make possible a complete understanding between the two great countries," he said in conclusion.

Rotarian A. L. Killaly moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker and it was accorded with an enthusiasm that left no doubt of the effect of Governor Hanley's address.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

BEGGING

Of all the tasks the good Lord asks,
I think that that's the hardest one.
I've read a lot, and I know what
A lot of other folks have done.
But you can look in ev'ry book,
And ev en Scripture you can search,
But, to my mind, no job you'll find
As hard as begging for the church.

I'm honest, yet I just can't get Away from feeling as I do
When someone's door I stand before
To ask him for a dime or two.
I blush with shame because I came
At ev'ry doorbell that I buzz;
I don't see why it is that I
Should feel the way a burglar does.

For, after all, I wouldn't call,
I wouldn't need to, half the time,
If folks who could, if folks who should,
Would only just bring in their dime.
They know the needof church and creed
In all of life's unholy rush.
I don't see why I blush and sign,
When they're the ones who ought to blush.

ORMISTON FOUND

ted his identity.

Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, Mrs, Minnie Kennedy, her mother, Ormiston and others are accused on conspiring to defeat justice by falsely representing that Mrs. McPherson was in the hands of kidnappers in Mexico during her mysterious absence early last season, when in reality she spent part of her time with Ormiston at Carmel, Calif. In a copyrighted interview with a reporter of the Chicago Herald and Examiner and the New York American, Ormiston is quoted as saying that he felt cetrain that District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles, was not very anxious to have him go back for trial. On the other hand Washington despatch reports that Mr. Keyes, at present in that city, will seek to have Ormiston removed to California as soon as arrangements can be made.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 9.—The arrest in Harrisburg, Penn., of Kenneth G. Ormiston, long sought Angelus Temple radio operator, means nothing to Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of the Four Square Gospel Church here.

"There is no significance in Mr. Ormiston's arrest as far as I know," Mrs. McPherson declared to-day when she was informed that the missing principal in her disappearance case was in custody.

"Whateved the State does in this case has no bearing on mine," she said. "I know nothing about him, so what can I say?"

CATHEDRAL CEREMONY.

New Members Received Into Sodality With Impressive Ritual.

An impressive and very beautiful small ceremony took place in St. Peter's Cathedral last evening, in the reception of a number of new members into the ranks of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of the parish. Twenty-four young ladies were received. Like their companions, older members of the Sodality, robed in white, with white veils, they proceeded up the main aisle of the Cathedral, singing hymns in praise of the Mother of God, and then later were received into the society by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, assisted by Rev. J. Finn. Other priests in the sanctuary were Rev. P. Costello and Rev. K. Corkery. His Lordship addressed himself to the young ladies, urging them to take the Blessed Virgin as their example and model in all things. The banner of Mary was borne by Miss Marion Hayes, president of the Sodality; Miss G. Doyle, Miss G. Costello, Miss Margaret O'Brien and Miss Agnes Grant.

"Tad" Jones, the Yale football coach attended the game at Los Angeles on December 4 between the University of Southern California, of which his brother Howard is coach, and Knute Rockne's battlers from Notre Dame.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Appreciation

THE FOLLOWING VALUABLE LETTER OF APPRECIATION HAS BEEN RECEIVED BY THE MANAGER OF

Heintzman Hall

OF THIS CITY:—

81 Bloor St. W., Toronto, Ont., December 8, 1926.

Mr. Haddow, Heintzman Hall, Peterboro, Ont.

Dear Sir,—This letter is just to say that I very much appreciate the up-to-date business system in which you used on the sale of the Heintzman piano that was bought for me by my father.

The piano arrived in perfect condition, and I am more than pleased with the lovely deep, full tone of it. As usual it, as a "Heintzman," comes first in my choice, and I will continue to teach on my new one, as I did on the one at home, with the right kind of instrument to back me up.

With Thanks, Respectfully,

MRS. ALICE PAYNE STARK.

PLAN BANQUET FOR PREMIER

Hon. J. C. Elliott Heads Committee To Honor Mackenzie King.

AT TORONTO.

TORONTO, Dec. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—Hon. J. C. Elliott is chairman of a committee arranging for a monster banquet to be tendered Premier Mackenzie King in Toronto some time during January. The affair is planned as a public tribute in recogniton of the results achieved by Premier King and Hon. Ernest Lapointe at the Imperial Conference. Premier King was approached while in England and declined to set a date on account of the uncertainties of his engagements and the pressure of public duties at Ottawa during the session opening to-day.

The present plans anticipate the presence at the banquet of all the Liberal members of Parliament and the Ontario Legislature, together with representatives from Liberal organizations from other provinces and a number of men prominent in the nation's business life.

HARRISBURG POLICE ARREST ORMISTON

Announce Capture of Man Wanted in Los Angeles Case.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press.) — Kenneth G. Ormiston, wanted in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnapping case in Los Angeles, has been arrested here, police announced to-day.

Chief of Police Thompson said that Ormiston had been apprehended in a rooming house in South Front Street here between 9 and 10 o'clock last night and had been housed in a local hotel all night in custody of a Chicago detective and one from the local force.

BEWARE OF BLADDER WEAKNESS GETTING-UP-NIGHTS

Disturbed Rest Undermines Health Saps Vitality, States Physician Who Recommends Home Treatment

Men and women who are constantly annoyed and distressed by Bladder Weakness or Urinary Irritations should take immediate steps to combat their trouble before it reaches a serious or perhaps dangerous stage!

Backaches, Headaches, pains in feet and legs, nervousness, restlessness, frequent but scantly urination with burning and pain, getting-up-nights—these are some of the more troublesome signs of Bladder Weakness or Irritation that should have prompt attention.

No matter how stubborn your case may seem to be or how many different medicines you have tried without success—don't give up and think your case hopeless or the natural consequence of advancing years, until you have tried the special private prescription of Dr. Southworth, a physician of nearly 50 years successful experience.

In order to reach the many thousands who cannot come to his office, Dr. Southworth has placed his URATABS in good, local drug stores—and invites you to try them without risk of cost, unless pleased. If URATABS bring you swift and certain comfort you will be happy. If they do not satisfy, they will cost you nothing—so, if you need this grand medicine, try it today. All good druggists.

SOCIAL EVENING HELD IN Y.M.C.A.

Sunday School Classes Enjoy Evening of Games.

A very delightful evening was spent last evening in the Y.M.C.A. by the members of the Ever-Ready and Baracas Sunday School Classes of the Murray Street Baptist Church. The Baracas Class being the hosts of the evening.

About 40 young people assembled in the gymnasium about nine o'clock when an hour and a half was spent in games, with everyone enjoying the sport to the fullest degree.

After the games a concert which consisted of vocal and instrumental solos was given. Smith's Orchestra supplied the music throughout the evening.

Those who took part in the programme were Miss T. Pearson, M. Craythorne, B. Berridge and D. Munro. The evening was brought to a close by a lunch which was served by the boys.

POULTRY PRIZES.

Presentation Will Take Place To-night, Mayor Holloway Officiating.

WEDDING BELLS.

JAYNES—WEIR.

The wedding took place quietly yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, at the home of the bride, at the corner of Sophia and Burnham streets, of Mrs. Ipsa M. Weir and Maurice Jaynes of Cobourg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. T. Richards, pastor of the Mark street United church. The bride wore a pretty gown of grey georgette, trimmed with cut velvet. Mr. and Mrs. H. Tiffin witnessed the signing of the register. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Jaynes left by motor for Cobourg, where they will reside.

DR. E. A. P. HARDY

TORONTO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Dr. E. A. P. Hardy, brother of Senator Hardy of Brockville, died in Toronto today after an illness of three weeks. He was son-in-law of the late Dr. A. S. Vogt.

BULLOCK—TRENNUM.

On Saturday, Dec. 4, at nine o'clock, the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Trennum, 115 Hilliard Street, was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding, when their only daughter, Gladys, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Howard Bullock, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bullock, Grandview Avenue, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. J. E. Todd, of George Street United Church. The bride, leaning on the arm of her father, entered the drawing-room, which was decorated with white streamers, and stood under an evergreen arch, from which was suspended a white bell, during the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mrs. Fred. Stephenson, cousin of the bride. The bride wore a dress of green Canton crepe, trimmed with cut velvet, wearing a rope of pearls, sand stockings and black shoes, and carried a sheaf of Ophelia roses. Little Miss Fern Trennum, niece of the bride, dressed in peach voile, wore a bracelet, gold locket and chain, the gifts of the groom, and carried the ring on a rose leaf. The groom's gift to the bride was a brown leather purse; to the pianist, a festoon necklace. During the signing of the register Mrs. Fred Stephenson sang "O Promise Me," after which the guests partook of a dainty wedding breakfast. The bride received a large number of beautiful and useful gifts, among them a silver tea service from the assembling department of the Westclox, where she was an employee for over three years, also a silver tea service from Grace Sunday School, where she had been a teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullock left on the noon train for Ottawa. The bride travelled in a brown Canton crepe dress with stockings and shoes to match, green silk hat, seal coat trimmed with sable, and a corsage bouquet of roses. On their return they will reside in Smith Township.

OBITUARY.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Frank B. Ellis, former editor and proprietor of the St. John Globe, and one of this city's most outstanding residents, died here this morning.

Mr. Ellis was former vice-president of the Canadian Press, resigning from that position last October on account of ill health. He had recently sold his interests on the Globe and planned an extensive winter tour, when serious illness compelled him to cancel his plans.

BARKING OF DOG SAVES MANY LIVES

Fire Breaks Out in Oshawa Home Early This Morning.

OSHAWA, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—Barking of a pet collie dog probably saved a number of lives early today when fire broke out in a large rooming house on Simcoe street south. Mrs. M. Dance, who owns the house, was awakened by barking of the dog and on opening her bedrooms door she was met by a wall of flame through which she bravely rushed to call the firemen. She roused the inmates of the house who made their escape wrapped in sheets and blankets.

LEMIEUX NAMED HOUSE SPEAKER

Commons Gather in Readiness For Parliaments Opening Friday.

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—The preliminary opening ceremonies, the election of the Speaker of the House of Commons and party caucuses make a crowded day for the start of the sixteenth Parliament of Canada to-day.

The ceremonies this afternoon were of a brief nature and there was little of the color of to-morrow's official opening. The commoners assembled at three o'clock without the Speaker in the chair and with the clerk presiding. They were summoned to the Senate Chamber a few minutes after meeting, where Chief Justice Anglin, acting as deputy for the Governor-General, waited on the Throne. The commoners grouped at the bar of the Upper House were directed to return to their chamber and elect a Speaker. The Government nominated Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who has been Speaker in the last two Parliaments and is dean of the House. The Commons then adjourned until to-morrow, when, being properly constituted, they will again be summoned to the Senate this time to hear the Speech from the Throne from the lips of Governor General Lord Willingdon. Unofficial business of the day will then be caucuses.

SEVEN KILLED IN MINE BURST

Two Bodies Recovered From Indiana Shaft To-day.

NEAR PRINCETON.

PRINCETON, Ind., Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—Seven men are known to have been killed to-day in an explosion in the Francisco Mine Number Two, located six miles east of Princeton. Two bodies were brought to the surface before noon. Neither was identified.

Between 60 and 65 men were entombed for a time, but most of them emerged later from the manway.

The cause of the accident has not been determined. The miners said, however, that the shaft was known to be gassy and that every precaution had been taken.

The mine, located in South-Western Indiana, had been operating under receivership for some time, employing 300 miners.

RECEIVES BURNS.

Oshawa Woman Burnt When Coal Oil Can Explodes.

OSHAWA, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Mary Starczowski is critically ill in the hospital, suffering from burns which she received when she attempted to light the kitchen fire with coal oil. She was throwing oil on the fire when the can exploded, igniting her clothing.

Many Christmas Dividends Strengthen Stock Market

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — Stock prices resumed their upward movement to-day in the reflection of favorable trade news, easier call money rates and anohter series of Christmas dividend announcements. Revival of activity and strength in the railroad shares, more than a dozen of which sold two or more points above yesterday's final quotation was one of the features of the session.

CONSERVATIVE WHIP.

Sam Charters Succeeds W. A. Boys in Federal Party.

OTTAWA, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Sam Charters, M.P., for Peel, Ontario, was appointed Chief Conservative Whip at today's caucus of the members of the offcial opposition.

Mr. Charters succeeds W. A. Boys, Conservative member for Simcoe, who recently resigned the office.

While no official announcement was made in the matter at the close of the meeting, it is understood that the majority of members of the party favored an adjournment until after the Christmas recess of the debate on the Speech from the Throne. Wednesday next was suggested, it is stated, as the day of adjournment of the discussion, so as to permit the passing of the main estimates left over from last session before the end of the week. If this arrangement is carried out by the House an adjournment on Friday, December 17 for the Christmas recess, seems probable.

Irregular Prices On Standard Exchange

TORONTO, December 9. Canadian Press. — Trading continued light in volume on the Standard mining exchange this morning and price changes were again small and irregular.

While Dome Mines lost 14c at 11.36, Lake Shore was up 5 at 14.20. Nipissing was ctive but steady at 695, and McIntyre eased 5 at 24.05. South Keora eased quarter at 59 3-4, and Tough Oakes firmed ¼ at 593-4.

Prices Sag At Toronto After Stocks Open Firm

TORONTO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press). — Prices sagged slightly throughout the entire list on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, after a firm opening. British American Oil, again sharing the leadership with Industrial Alcohol, eased three eights at 76 5-8, and Alcohol closed at noon with a net loss of three eights at 31 1-2. Brazilian sold down 1 1-2 at 104 1-4 and International Nickel which was fairly active, lost a quarter at 38 1-2. Maple Leaf Preferred was a firm spot with an advance of 3-4 at 99 3-4. Nipissing, mines leader, firmed 5 cents at 6.95.

No Wheat Selling Rush Allowing Values To Sag

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—For the most part, traders appeared to be awaiting developments in the wheat market today during the early transactions. There was evidence of a disinclination to press the selling side, but the absence of buying permitted wheat values to sag when rallies proved feeble. Starting unchanged to 1-4 cent off, wheat hardened somewhat and then underwent a moderate downturn. Corn and oats turned easy, corn opening unchanged to 1-4 cent up but later showing declines. Provisions were firm.

BEE TREE FOUND FULL OF HONEY

Over 160 Pounds Taken From Wild Bees Near Warsaw.

WARSAW NEWS.

WARSAW, Dec. 9.—A few days ago a bee-tree was felled near Warsaw in which was found over one hundred and sixty pounds of good honey. The cells were all well filled. Those who saw it report that it was a beautiful sight. There was one flake about five feet long and about nine inches wide, as well as other flakes. Some who have seen many bee-trees say they had never seen one with half so much honey. The tree was dry and the bees were alive and were hived.

Some of the school boys have cleared a place on the pond for a rink and are charging 5 cents for the children to skate. They also have an evening charge.

Some of the young men of the village gave a pleasant little dance on Friday.

On account of Mr. Watt's funeral, the Anglican Ladies' Guild postponed their meeting until Tuesday of last week. They finished their quilts and are sending a Christmas treat to Armenian boys at Georgetown. Also they plan to hold a little entertainment on the Friday before Christmas.

The answer to the request for suggestions for the Christmas treat for the Armenian boys was delayed, but it reads: "There are fifty boys at the home now and caps, mits, stockings, scarfs, good cast off clothing, toys and games, preserves, cake, candy, in fact anything that a boy from nine to sixteen years of age can wear, play, work with, or eat will be acceptable."

The Presbyterians had a communion service on Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Ross, with some elders from St. Paul's church, Peterboro, conducted the service. The attendance at the United church Sunday school was less than usual. The monthly missionary talk was on the work in Canada. Rev. H. B. Herrington was at the Sunday school. He did not go to the outlying charges. In the evening very few were present, and an informal service was held in the small class room, and a talk given on "How the Bible came to us."

OMEMEE NEWS

OMEMEE, Dec. 9.—Mrs. George McCague of Port Hope visited Mrs. I. H. Free, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lamb, Miss Jessie Lamb, Mrs. Charles Ivory and Mrs. Cecil Cornell attended the bazaar in the Cambridge street church on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Agnes Johnston of Peterboro visited in town on Wednesday.

Mr. Wilfred Wilson of Nestleton spent Sunday at the home of Mr. J. Morton.

Miss Jessie Lamb was the guest of her friend, Miss Edna Moore of Lindsay over Sunday.

Mrs. Archie Irwin of Sharbot Lake spent a few days with her mother Mrs. Carey, who is ill at home.

Mr. Arnold Kennedy of Toronto visted his father and uncle, Mr. W. H. Kennedy recently.

Miss Buddy Parker of Peterboro is visiting her brother, Mr. Fred Parker, in town.

Mrs. J. J. Magee has returned home after visiting her sister at Bobcaygeon.

Miss Clara Cornwall visited Miss Ella MaCrea of Lindsay last week.

Mrs. Stanley Pogue visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Chambers, of Peterboro, on Friday.

Miss Marion Dickson has returned home after a pleasant trip to Saskatoon returning via Chicago.

Mrs. J. Courtney was called to Dunsford on Friday, owing to the illness of her son there.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Elliott motored to Dunsford on Sunday. Their mothers, Mrs. Thurston, and Mrs. Elliott, accompanied them home for a short visit.

Miss Jane Earle entertained a number of her girl friends on Friday evening in honor of her birthday.

Misses Agnes and Nettie Rutherford are visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. Fred Martin of Lindsay was in town on business last week.

Misses Mary and Vera Lowe were visitors to Peterboro on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Elliott have moved into their new home on Sturgeon street.

Knowledge of coming weather changes shown by birds is attributed to the atmospheric pressure on their nerves.

FARMER LOSES VALUABLE COW

William Bishop Believes the Animal Has Strayed Away.

HIAWATHA NEWS.

HIAWATHA, Dec. 9.—Mr. William Bishop and son James, on Saturday last took home their young cattle which were pasturing on the land of Chief Taudash. They searched the fields thoroughly and could only find eight head, which was one short of what they put into the ranch in the early summer. The missing beast is a red yearling heifer with horns. It is in good shape and looks much older than it is. It was last seen on the eleventh concession on Sunday, November 28.

Mr. Madden Howard Jr., left recently to visit his friend, Mr. Rufus Shilling, who is working in Toronto.

Mr. William Anderson has commenced to build a new two storey house twenty-six feet by thirty-two feet.

In the summer Mr. Andrew Rennie of Keene built the concrete foundation for the superstructure. Mr. Norman Gainor is the carpenter in charge of the building, and with him is Mr. David Tucker.

Miss Flossie Howard left on Saturday, November 27 for Peterboro, where she has secured a position.

W. H. Fletcher, fur buyer for T. Brightman Co., was in the village recently and purchased a number of fine fox, coon, and skunk skins. He says the prices are high and the demand very brisk.

Despite the biting wind and storm on Sunday church and Sunday school were well attended. At Sunday school all the officers and teachers with the exception of one teacher and the secretary were present. Rev. Mr. Garratt very cleverly drew the leading thought by representing the human heart as a prism which if Jesus were in it, would reflect different things as the prism reflects the rays of sunlight. His drawing showed the heart reflecting truthfulness, generosity, modesty, kindness, patience, unselfishness gentleness, and sincerity.

Radio reception is much improved locally. The hour after midnight seems to be the best. The radio is one the greatest pleasures yet devised to brighten the homes. On Saturday, Mr. Daniel Cowie on his equipment had a wide variety of program. At first, Santa Claus was heard talking from his temporary home in Eaton's, Toronto.

OMEMEE PEOPLE ENJOY FREEZE-UP

Young Folks Make Pond Rendezvous During Cold Spell.

OMEMEE, Dec. 9.—Skating is the order of the day among the young folk of the village, the pond being a glare of ice the latter part of the week. Skating parties were organized and on Saturday night a weiner roast was indulged in, which shows that it takes more than a chilly blast to dampen the ardor of youth. The snow storm of Sunday covered the icy sheet but energetic workers got busy and a splendid rink is now in full swing.

Considerable excitement was stirred up on Friday morning when pedestrians noticed smoke issuing from the roof of Mr. R. J. Adams' harness and implement shop. Upon investigation it was found that the door was locked and the proprietor was absent. The stove pipes leading to the rear of the shop had fallen and the smoke was escaping through the roof. Prompt action averted what might easily have been a bad fire.

On Friday night a general fire alarm was rung in on the telephone to Omemee central, which was promptly responded to, not only by many men who heard it but also by the new fire equipment belonging to the village. The fire was east of the village almost two miles and when the equipment arrived on the scene the house had been emptied of the furniture. The fire-fighting apparatus was quickly brought into play and the house was saved although damaged by water. The loss is more than covered by insurance.

Trinity W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity church was held in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon, with an attendance of about twenty members. The president, Mrs. E. W. Rowland, conducted the service.

After hearing reports from the secretary and treasurer a devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. L. Mahood, entitled 'Belief and Trust,' followed by a special prayer in keeping with the subject. The scripture reading found in St. John 14 was read by Mrs. E. Bradburn.

A splendid synopsis of the 3rd chapter of the study book "New Days in Old India" was vividly pictured by Mrs. Rowland. The title of this chapter was "Opening Gateways of Knowledge." At the close of her talk, several views were distributed which included street scenes, schools, colleges, etc., all of which helped to impress many thoughts brought out in the subject.

Miss Lillian Race contributed a reading entitled, "The Bamboo School House", which concluded the devotional exercises.

Mrs. Rowland, as president of the Society, then expressed her thanks to all who contributed to the bazaar and helped to make it such a wonderful success.

A letter of gratitude from Miss E. Fiske, school teacher at Haliburton, was read by the secretary for the three boxes of clothing valued at $115 sent by the Society which will be distributed to needy families in that district.

An acknowledgment for flowers sent during her recent bereavement was received from Mrs. T. A. MacPherson.

Mrs. J. Shields kindly consented to be responsible for the missionary programme in the Sunday school the first Sunday of January, and Mrs. J. Widdis will give a synopsis of the 4th chapter of the study book next month. Mrs. Eva Rase, as treasurer of the 1c a day band, reported fifteen members.

Miss Myrtle and Mary Weir contributed a pretty duet, "Guide Me, O My Saviour," which was enjoyed by all.

A social half hour was enjoyed at the close with Mrs. M. Wilson, Mrs. R. Wilson and Miss Lila Parsons as hostesses.

BELMONT COUNCIL

HAVELOCK Dec. 8.—The regular meeting of the Belmont and Methuen Council was held on November 27th, with all members present. Moved by Councillors Whitney and Spencer, that Marcus Quackenbush and Fred Scott be given abatements of $2 each on dogs charged in error.

Moved by Councillors Sanders and Spencer that John Menzie receive $15 as renumeration for a driveway on the east side of the township hall and a fence around the hall. Carried.

C. Denike, fumigating supplies, $2.50; Copper Metal Co., for culverts, $196; Municipal World Ltd., supplies, 99 cents. Total $553.29. Previously voted $3,121.76. Total $3,675.05.

RE-OPENING SERVICES.

Tabernacle Church, English Line, Has Been Renovated.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 9. — The English Line Tabernacle church has been newly renovated. A new choir loft has been built, also several new inside changes and the interior has been nicely decorated. Re-opening services will be held on Sunday, December 12. The Rev. Dr. George E. Morley, B.A., professional graduate of the Owen A. Smiley studio will be the speaker for the occasion.

Dr. Morley will take as his text on Sunday morning, "The Man God Meant You to Be" and on Sunday evening he will give a sermon oratorio on "Ben Hur."

On Monday evening Dr. Morley will present a programme of readings, interpretations, etc., which will be of excellent character and enjoyable to all.

BOYS' LEADERS DISCUSS PLANS

Draw Up Programme for Older Boys' Parliament.

MEETS DEC. 27

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—On Monday the three candidates for this year's Premiership of the Boys' Parliament met with Ronald Fredenburgh, last year's Premier, to plan the program for this year's sessions. They spent the day in conference at the office of the Ontario Boys' Work Board.

There will be six sessions of the House open to the public. The formal opening will take place on Tuesday, Dec. 28, at 8.30 o'clock. At this session the boys will also be welcomed on behalf of the Province by a member of the official Government. The other open meetings in the Legislative Assembly Chamber will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 29, at 2.30 and 8 o'clock; on Thursday, at 2.45 o'clock and on Friday at 9 a.m. and 2.45 p.m.

Assemble December 27.

On Monday, Dec. 27, the members will gather from their homes in all parts of Ontario, and the day will be spent in preliminary organization, such as hearing the report of the previous Parliament, electing the Premier, and choosing the Cabinet.

Tuesday morning the boys will be given a talk on Parliamentary procedure by Albert Tucker of Victoria College, the senior member of the House, who has acted as Speaker for the last two years, and who is expected to take that position again.

The Toronto Rotary Club, which holds its annual father and son banquet on Friday, Dec. 30, has invited the members of the Parliament to be its guests at this event at the King Edward Hotel. On the same day the Leaders for next year's Parliament will be chosen at a caucus of all the members.

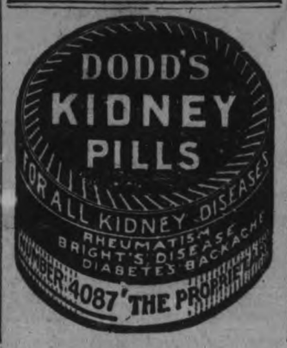
To Have New Committees.

Besides the regular committees of members which look after finance, organization and the other phases of the Parliament's work, it has been decided to appoint a new committee this year, to be called the Research Committee. It will be made up of older and more experienced boys, representing the working boy, the high school and college boy, the boy living in the country and the boy living in the city. Its purpose will be to inquire into and report on the attitude of the older boys and young men of today on all the great problems of life. Its deliberations should be of interest, not only to those actively engaged in Tuxis and Trail Ranger work, but to educators, and all others who have to do with the training of youth, especially in view of the discussion that has taken place on this subject of late.

For World Brotherhood.

The Parliament will also devote much of its time to furthering the work on World Brotherhood, begun in other years. Gordon Lapp, a former Premier and now the Boys' Work Secretary for Alberta, will report on the World Youth Conference held this summer in Helsingfors, Finland, to which delegates were sent from practically every country in the world.

Hitherto unpublished results of the Boys' Parliament elections are: Cochrane, Lambert Fred Hancock; Kingston, Kenneth Kleinsteuber; Oshawa, Donald DeMille; Peterboro, Norman Lemay; Toronto, J. T. Armstrong, Robert McLaren, Charlie Moyle, Howe Martyn, Norman J. Agar, Ewart A. Grant; Elgin East, Ralph Smith; Leeds, Taylor Franklin; Wentworth, Bruce Somerville; Orillia Wilbur Cramp.



TO WALK ON THE ROOF.

In doing repair work on a roof or chimney it is dangerous, if not impossible, to walk on the slanting roof with leather soled shoes. By cutting two "boots" about six and a half inches long from an old four inch inner tube and slipping them over your shoes you will be able to walk on an ordinary roof without slipping. If a pair of rubbers are handy they will serve the same purpose. — Popular Science Monthly.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

ST. ANDREW'S, OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, Dec. 9.—The anniversary services of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church were held on Sunday morning and evening. Adverse weather conditions prevailed and consequently the attendance was small.

The special speaker for the day was Rev. Alexander MacGregor, of Toronto, who took for his morning theme, "The Law of God." The choir rendered a pretty number entitled "March On" and Miss O. Cullen, of Lakefield, who possesses a splendid contralto voice, rendered a pleasing solo, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

The evening service had a much larger attendance in spite of the fury of the elements. The Rev. Mr. MacGregor took for his evening text, "Where there is no vision the people perish." He dwelt particularly on the lack of Bible teaching in home and school. The service was made bright with the following musical numbers: Solo, Miss O. Cullen, entitled, "Open the Gates of the Temple"; anthem by the choir, "The Lord is My Light"; solo, Mr. W. Leiper, "My Task" and a duet by Mrs. Kelly and Miss Mabel Rowan, "The Glad Message."

Sunday Island in the Pacific, is really the tallest mountain in the world. It rises 2000 feet out of five miles of water, and is thus nearly 30,000 feet from base to summit.

SAFETY FIRST LECTURE GIVEN

Illustrated Talk Under Auspices of Canada Cement Company.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 9.—An illustrated lecture was given in the Queen Street Theatre on Thursday evening by the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, under the auspices of the Canada Cement Co., and while the attendance was not as large as the character of the entertainment merited, the audience was attentive and showed a deep interest in the pictures and the sub-titles, as well as the lecture by Mr. Suthleand. The pictures were shown by Mr. Dobson, and were excellent.

A special matinee performance was put on for the children of the school and the play, "Ask Daddy," was shown. The title is expressive of the picture, which shows the kiddies how the simple matter of asking Daddy prevents many accidents.

The evening performance was varied and very interesting. Methods of resuscitation were shown on the screen and a remarkablely fine set of pictures of the Royal Mint at Ottawa ,showing the gold and silver bars and the many processes and weighings which are gone through before they are turned out as coins of the realm.

A picture showing the entrance of King Carelessness into the "Enny Manufacturing Company," and the results, was the final film, and one which would make any one "sit up and take notice," whether employed in an industrial plant or not. King Carelessness, in his royal robes with his death's head sceptre, calls his imps to him and they proceed to work in the factory. The imps are Didn't Look, Take a Chance, Horse Play, Inattention, What's the Use, Didn't Think, and I Should Worry. These imps get busy at once and with disastrous results; men listen to their advice, and a train of serious accidents result till the management wake up and call a little group of assistants to their aid, among whom are Warning Gong and Signal Bell, Safety Railing, Safety Bulletin, and First Aid Kit, which rout the imps of Carelessness.

Carelessness is a waster, as he causes a large percentage of the accidents, he is a thief because his work robs men of their wages, he is a murdered for he kills men ,and he is an outlaw. Every man in the plant should be a Safety First man.

The Outlaw King has done his worst,
Let's send him on his way.
The rising Sun of Safety First
Has brought a better day.

Mr. E. W. Bailey, manager of the local plant of the Canada Cement Co., spoke briefly, thanking Messrs. Sutherland and Mabson for their entertainment, which had been much appreciated by everyone present. He expressed the hope of a return visit at some future date.

Mrs. G. Warren Payne kindly furnished music for the performance, which added greatly to the enjoyment of the audience.

Afternoon Tea

The Ladies' Guild of the United (Presbyterian) Church held a sale of home cooking, candy and vegetables in Leonard's show room on Friday afternoon, and despite the stormy weather there was a good attendance and the financial result were very gratifying.

The domestic science table was in charge of Mrs. Braden, Mrs. Windsor and Miss Frankish, while Misses Mary Adams and Edna Blewett were in charge of the candy table.

Mrs. James Walton, Miss M. Sanderson, Mrs. MacArthur and Mrs. S. Trude were in charge of the tea tables.

Local Man Honored

The following item, taken from the Toronto papers, is of strong local interest ,as Dr. Lingwood has become a resident of Lakefield, where he has many friends.

"On Friday evening at the commencement exercises of Malvern Collegiate Institute, Toronto, Dr. F. H. Lingwood was honored after sixteen years' service on the teaching staff of that school by the present from the school of a purse of gold and an address of appreciation, the former was presented by Mr. C. Lehmann, principal of the school, and the latter by Mr. Joseph Eakin, president of the ex-pupils' association."

Eight tables of euchre were played at the seventh of the series of euchre given by the A.Y.P.A. on Thursday evening last. Prizes were won by Miss Ivah Wildson and Mr. Walter Chappell, and the consolation prizes by Miss Amy Watson and Mr. Kenneth Junkin.

The sale of the household effects of Mr. J. C. Strickland took place on Monday afternoon at "Uplands." Mr. and Mrs. Strickland are leaving for Toronto this week.

The flowers on the altar in St. John's Church on Sunday were placed there by the W.A. in memory of those members who had been called to the higher service and whose names are on the honor roll of the W.A., one with the living members in the Communion of Saints.

The A.Y.P.A. made their corporate Communion at the 11 o'clock celebration on Sunday.

The long continued rains have made havoc of the roads, which, in spite of the efforts made by those in charge, have been in poor shape. On Wednesday morning with the slippery surface they were unsafe for cars not equipped with chains. The hard frost has done a great deal to improve conditions.

The snow plough made its rounds for the first time this season on Monday.

BOLTLESS JOINT TO BE DEVELOPED

Section Hand Forms Company To Market His Invention.

MARYSVILLE, Kansas, Dec. 9—From railroad section employee to the control of a two million dollar manufacturing corporation in a few days has been the accomplishment of James W. Reynolds of this city.

Reynolds obtained a lay-off last month from his job with the Union Pacific Railroad here, and last Saturday a corporation to manufacture a railway spike, of which he and two associates have control, was organized in Chicago. The concern is the Superior Spike Company.

About the time of the world war Reynolds invented a boltless rail joint. He was without capital to market his invention. One day on the right-of-way he found a paper which contained the name of C. E. Ennis, Rincon, N.M., roadmaster for the Santa Fe Railway, who at that time was president of a switch manufacturing company, with headquarters in Kansas City.

They became acquainted and a partnership was formed to introduce the boltless rail joint. They obtained the approval of many officials, but the post-war rise in the price of steel made the manufacture of the joint prohibitive at that time.

About July 1, 1925, Reynolds discussed with railroad associates an improvement on the present spike in general use.

Reynolds' idea was to add a heel or flange on the outside of the intended spike. In this manner he intended to prevent the bending of spikes or the making of "goosenecks."

Fallis Appointed President Of Sherwin-Williams Co.

MONTREAL, Dec. 9. — William Shepherd Fallis, vice-president and managing director of The Sherwin-Williams Company of Canada, Limited, has been elected to the presidency of this company, the appointment having been made at a recent directors' meeting.

The chairman of the company will be Walter H. Cottingham, who has been president of the Company since its formation, and who now resides in England.

Douglas A. Whittaker, secretary-treasurer of the company, is now appointed vice-president.

William C. Cottingham, a director of the company, is appointed to the position of assistant to the president.

Mr. Fallis' connection with the Sherwin-Williams Company commenced in 1899—27 years ago. Commencing at that time as a salesman transferred to the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland in 1901, and also opened the trade of the company in the West Indies about the same period. Later, in 1902, Mr. Fallis undertook the direction of the company's affairs in Great Britain and Continental Europe—which duties he carried on for two years.

WILLIAM SHEPHERD FALLIS

He returned to Canada in 1905, and once more took charge of affairs in the Maritime Provinces. Then, in 1908, he was transferred to Winnipeg, to take charge of the company's interests between Fort William and the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Fallis returned to Montreal, as manager, in 1918—becoming vice-president and managing director in November, 1920.

Mr. Fallis, who is a native of Perth County, Ontario, is well known from coast to coast as executive head of the largest paint and varnish company in the British Empire. Mr. Fallis is an active member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, holding the position of Vice President.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Mr. Lane, after an ineffectual attempt to make Cherry change from rompers into a more modest garment, succumbed at last to the hilarity which dominated the supper table.

George's spaghetti was extravagantly praised and ravenously eaten, to his huge delight. Even Mrs. Lane made no sighing excuse for her appetite when she reached out her plate for the third helping.

"My land, Cherry, you'll be the death of me yet!" Mrs. Lane's enormous body shook like a mountain of jelly. "What are you sulkin' about over there, Faith? I declare, I never saw two girls as different as these two, Mr. Pruitt—well, George, then! I don't like to get familiar on short acquaintance."

"I'm not sulking, Mother." Faith lifted her eyes from her plate for a fluttering moment. "I'm just quietly enjoying myself. Cherry has enough pep for both of us."

"Show me how to roll my spaghetti up on a fork, George." Cherry leaned so close to George that her hair brushed his cheek.

"Here! I'll guide your hand like they do kids when they're teaching them to write," George offered, eagerly taking her small hand in his. "Now hold your big spoon in the other hand. See? You just twist the fork around and around in the bowl of the spoon, and the spaghetti winds right up. Now pop it into your mouth!" To Faith, watching, it seemed that he withdrew his own hand very reluctantly.

"O-o-oh! Such a big bite!" Cherry giggled, then opened her delicately rouged mouth wide, so that her gleaming teeth showed dazzling. Just before the forkful of spaghetti reached her lips, she changed its course impulsively, jamming it against George's laughing mouth.

"And just think." Faith heard her confide to him in a suddenly subdued tender undertone. "I used to think you didn't like me! But I always liked you, George. I always knew you were an absolute darling!"

"Same to you, and many happy returns," George Pruitt made a mock bow and seized her hand, lying suggestively near his on the table edge.

"I move that the paper hangers' union adjourn to the living room and take up its labors," Bob Hathaway, who had missed none of the by-play, interrupted abruptly. "Faith and I will wash the dishes, but every last glutton of you has to take his own dishes to the kitchen sink. Ready? Go!"

Even Mrs. Lane joined the laughing procession to the kitchen. "I declare," she said to her husband, who walked beside her, "I don't know when I've had so much fun! Ain't it a sight to see Cherry carryin' on so innocent and gay? And them two boys just hangin' on her words—"

"It's Faith that young Pruitt is sparkin'," Mr. Lane whispered guardedly, "I've a good mind to speak to Cherly—"

"Faith, my foot!" Mrs. Lane's whisper was hissingly loud. "You need two pair o' specs! He's clean daffy over Cherry, and so's Bob Hathaway. I always said she could take her pick o' the town."

Mr. Lane, uneasily aware of the fact that Cherry was already engaged to old Mr. Cluny, that this very wall-papering orgy had been instigated for the sole purpose of making the house presentable to the rich old man's eyes, said nothing further, but his mild, near-sighted eyes were suddenly very sad and wistful.

"Everybody come and see the wall paper first." Cherry set her dishes clatteringly in the sink. "Then Faith and Bob can have the kitchen all to themselves. But I warn you—" she shook a perk finger in Bob Hathaway's face—"no fair turning dishwashing into a petting party. Faith looks so womanly and domestic in a kitchen apron that no man can resist her. Believe me, for practical purposes of securing proposals, I'd rather have a fetching kitchen apron and a pan of foaming suds any time than a new dance frock and a full moon."

"You might try getting a kitchen apron then," Faith retorted. "And using it occasionally—for practise."

"K. O.!" Cherry pretended to be doubled up with a blow on her solar plexus, but her eyes shot a flash of anger at Faith.

"Bring on your wallpaper!" George cried, wheeling Cherry about and marching her, his hands on her shoulders, back into the dining room.

"This is for the living room." She snatched a roll of paper from the stack against the sideboard. "Did you ever see anything so heavenly?"

Against a background of cool, dove-like French gray, a woodland scene in the palest of gray-greens and smoky blues—great, tossing boughs, burly tree trunks, feathery ferns, clumps of laurel, a stream rippling between mossy rocks—repeated itself endlessly. The colors were so subdued, the outlines so softly hazy, that it was like looking at an enchanted landscape through a pearly mist.

"And this." Cherry beamed and sparkled under the chorus of approval, "is for the dining room. Green being my favorite color, I couldn't resist it," and she spun another roll across the dining table.

"Goodness goshness, Miss Agnes!" Junior breathed, almost reverently. "Where's the catch in this trick? You can't buy wallpaper like this on twenty-five a week, and have anything left over for lipsticks!"

To Faith it was quite obvious that both George Pruitt and Bob Hathaway had been struck by the same thought. They were so frankly amazed at the richness and beauty of the thick, velvety paper that her cheeks burned with shame. Cherry had been a fool to accept so handsome a present from the old man who fatuously believed that the eighteen-year-old flapper would marry him.

"Isn't this exactly like sage-green velvet, Muggy?" Cherry cuddled up against her mother, who had been casting furtive, uneasy glances at her husband. "See the silver stripes?" Like moonbeams on a new-mown lawn! Let's get busy, folks! Junior you bring in the wooden horses and those long planks from the woodshed. Dad will measure the walls and cut it the right length, won't you, darling? Faith, you and Bob shake a leg in the kitchen! And I don't mean Charleston, either! George is going to be my partner, and if he gets fresh I'll make him eat that gooey paste! Scared of me?" she caught George's hand and ran, skipping like an excited child, into the dismantled living room.

PRESIDENT TELLS OF HUGE SURPLUS

But Will Not Consent To Tax Reduction at Present.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—President Coolidge revealed to Congress an almost unprecedented prosperous condition of the treasury in his annual budget message to-day, but he again emphatically declared against any permanent reduction in tax rates at present.

A surplus of $383,079,095 is in sight for this fiscal year, ending June 30, and $200,703,863 for the following year. This year's surplus is $200,000,000 more than was originally estimated, and despite the cut in tax rates of last March, will exceed the margin of last year by $6,000,000.

But not until there has been another year's test of the new revenue law and a sounding of the extent of the present prosperity, the President said, can it be determined "what our permanent policy of taxation shall be."

8 doctors out of every 10 advised the Nujol type of treatment

DOCTORS from coast to coast were recently asked whether they advised the Nujol type of constipation treatment to their patients. 80.7% answered "Yes".

64% condemned the continued use of laxatives and cathartics. One doctor said, "An almost incalculable amount of injury is done by these intestinal irritants, most of which provide temporary relief only at the cost of permanent injury. Laxatives bring on the laxative habit."

Doctors Advise Nujol

Nine doctors out of every ten told us they were advising the Nujol type of treatment for their patients in place of laxatives—and for these reasons: 1. Nujol is not habit-forming; 2. A more natural method; 3. A lubricant is better than a laxative; 4. Does not gripe; 5. Is not irritating; and 6. Nujol gives lasting relief.

Unlike Laxatives

Laxatives and cathartics act by irritating the intestinal tract. They cause the bowels to frantically expel the contents of the intestines and thus rid the system of the drugs that pills and potions contain.

Nujol acts entirely differently. It contains no drugs, no medicine. Its action is mechanical. It merely softens the dried waste matter in the intestines and lubricates the passage so that the muscles of the bowels can expel the waste matter regularly, naturally and thoroughly.

Nature-given Remedy

Nujol appeals to the medical man because it is a simple, scientific and safe remedy for constipation, no matter how severe the case may be. It is gentle in its action and pleasant to take. Children love it!

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today. Doctors advise it for constipation, whether chronic or temporary. Avoid substitutes.

Tanlac Rebuilds Failing Invalids

Health Ravaged by Nervousness, Disordered Digestion, Loss of Weight and Fainting Spells. Relieved Quickly, Thoroughly.

"I hope I am the means of helping others who suffer as I did" says Mme. Arthur Calouette, 585 DeLanaudiere, Montreal.

"For two years I did not know where to turn for relief. No matter what I ate, I would be ill for hours. My nerves were wrecked. I could not bear noise. I could not sleep.

"Many mornings I was so dizzy and faint I could not get up. I lost weight and became sallow. Medicines failed to help me. Then my friends urged me to try Tanlac.

"I want to say that Tanlac does what is claimed for it. I am now taking the fifth bottle and enjoying the best of health. I have gained twelve pounds, am never troubled with dizziness and feel much stronger. I cannot praise Tanlac highly enough."

Tanlac is Nature's own remedy, compounded from roots, barks and herbs. It has aided thousands to health and happiness. Your druggist has Tanlac.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Today's talismanic stone is the turquoise, but this mysterious gem cannot be worn by everyone; if it turns green when it comes in contact with the flesh, it is unlucky for the wearer, and should be avoided. Such a change in color was regarded by the ancients as an unfailing sign of misfortune; however many a modern girl has dipped her turquoise ring in water to match a green frock so one must regard such beliefs sensibly.

The sapphire, natal stone for today, was believed by the ancients to make more beautiful any woman who wore it, and to endow her with a magnetic personality. To own a flawless sapphire means unfailing good luck for a woman.

Black is today's fortunate hue; worn by a young girl, it is significant of coquetry.

Today's flower is the camelia, symbol of youth and beauty.

KIWANIS CLUB TO CELEBRATE

President Craig Tells of Plans Being Laid For Anniversary.

IN JANUARY.

The Peterborough Kiwanis Club will join in with the 1636 other clubs of Kiwanis International in the United States and Canada to observe the 12th anniversary of the organization's founding during Anniversary Week of January 16-22, was the announcement made by Dr. John J. Craig, the president of the local club to-day.

"Our club's programme will be under the direction of the committee on Kiwanis Education, and will include several numbers that are to be featured by all the clubs throughout the United States and Canada," said President Craig. "With the 100,000 Kiwanians celebrating the 12th anniversary it is hoped that the general public will become better acquainted with Kiwanis' many achievements, accomplishments, and work during the past 12 years."

The first Kiwanis Club was organized in Detroit and the first meeting was held on January 21, 1915. The International organization therefore recognizes January 21 as the authentic anniversary date.

Kiwanis International has had a remarkable growth. Its present number of clubs exceeds 1635 and has a total membership of approximately 100,000. Ralph A. Amerman, of Scranton, Pennsylvania, is the International president, being elected at the 10th International convention in Montreal last June. The 1927 convention will be held in Memphis from June 6-9. Two delegates from the local club will attend the annual session, and many other members are planning this as their vacation trip.

Doctor Beats Burglar But Patient Runs Away

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (United Press).—Dr. Milton Francis needs a burglar-proof office. He had a young man patient partly undressed on his operating table when a burglar burst in with a drawn gun. The patient grabbed his clothes and dived through the door while the doctor was knocking the burglar down.

HARD PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

Lasted Three Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble began with pimples breaking out all over my face. They were hard, large and red, and festered and scaled over. The pimples used to burn, causing me to scratch, and my face looked so badly that I was ashamed to go anywhere. The trouble lasted three years.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more and I was healed after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Reta F. Warren, Diligent River, Nova Scotia.

MANY WOLVES SLAIN IN NORTH

November Catch of Marauders Totals 658 This Year.

GREAT INCREASE.

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—Returns to the Ontario Government which cover wolf hunting activities in the province, indicate that the northern settlers are achieving a greater measure of success in their campaign against the marauders. Whereas only 268 wolves were accounted for in November of last year, no less than 602 are reported as slain in the figures which the Government has prepared for the November just ended.

Of the total slain 372 were caught in Kenora, 115 in Rainy River, 85 in Thunder Bay, 21 in Sudbury, 14 in Algoma, 11 in Cochrane, 10 in Manitoulin, and 10 in Nipissing. From November, 1925, to June, 1926, a total of 3,000 of the animals were destroyed. The Game and Fisheries Department expects, however, that this figure will be substantially exceeded this year.

The greater success which the settlers are achieving in their wolf hunts is attributed by the Government to the use of the wolf snare, which has reached a high state of efficiency. Snares are now being supplied by the Government to those sections in which the wolf is a menace.

SENATOR PHIPPS DEFIES HOODOO

Takes Seat Formerly Occupied By Senator LaFollette.

OTHERS REFUSED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (United Press). — Senator Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado has defied the Senate hoodoo that hangs over the first seat of the front row on the Republican side of the aisle. LaFollette occupied it for years. When he died Cummins of Iowa took it. Now Phipps has taken it, after several senators refused it.

Sensational price!

to introduce the new improved

Vacuette Non-Electric Vacuum Cleaner

A wonderful opportunity to secure a useful and appreciated gift for Mother, Wife or Friend!

DON'T misunderstand this offer! It is not a sale, or a clearance of old machines. These are brand new, fully equipped Vacuettes. The manufacturers are making a cash sacrifice to introduce this new and improved model, and to make it possible for a maximum number of women in this community to receive one of these wonderful health and time-savers for Christmas. The offer will be withdrawn within a very few days, after which date machines identical with these will sell for $46.

Actual $46 Machines!

for a limited time only!

Better than an electric—lighter, handier

No electric can do any more than a Vacuette. Its powerful suction not only draws the dust and imbedded dirt from your carpets and rugs, but the Vacuette picks up hair, lint, thread and ashes as well. 7½ lbs. in weight, as easy to handle as a carpet sweeper. A four-year-old can carry it upstairs.

Costs nothing to operate

Cords, plugs and cumbersome attachmets are now obsolete. The Vacuette operates just as efficiently without electricity. How much handier it is to glide the light Vacuette around two or three times a day, dusting rugs, picking up crumbs. No trailing wires to trip over and no connections to make in one room after another. You'll find a new meaning of 'vacuum cleaner' when you use a Vacuette.

In daily use by a million women

Not only do over a million women find their Vacuettes daily savers of time and strength, but office buildings, institutions, colleges and schools, railways, steamship companies, find it quicker, handier and just as efficient as any electric made. Thousands of users have written expressing their satisfaction and stating that they have recommended this indispensible household appliance to several of their friends.

FULLY GUARANTEED

The guarantee that these machines bear is identical with that which will accompany them at their $46 price. No maker of vacuum cleaners provides a broader warranty—no machine ever put less burden on its guarantee.

Save HALF the cost!

The regular price of these famous machines will be $46. During this introductory offer YOU have an opportunity to save practically HALF! Think what ordinary Christmas gifts that sum will usually buy, and then what joy and freedom the Vacuette can bring wife, mother or friend!

Every Vacuette packed in a tasty Holly box for Christmas giving.

Ask your friends on this list!

A list of the Vacuette users in this community is on file here. Look for your friends' names. Ask their opinion—decide by their unbiased judgment.

This offer ends in a very few days! Save $22 by deciding NOW! Today!

Finally, we once again call your attention to the very limited time of this opportunity. $24 is far below the actual worth of the Vacuette, and these are genuine fully equipped machines. Your quick action is absolutely imperative—see the Vacuette at the store to-morrow, judge all our claims for yourself. TRY the machine; test it. Then make your decision! But again, "Act quickly!"

Reports to City Council

The Special Committee appointed in regard to the purchase of a pumper for the Fire Department reported and recommended as follows:—

That the City purchase a Gotfredson-Bickel pumper with booster tank and hose box at the price of $13,500, provided that if the Council desires to dispose of the present American-LaFrance service truck, the Gotfredson Corporation Limited will allow $3,500 for it on the purchase of another piece of fire apparatus at a cost of not less than $6,500, and also provided the Gotfredson Corporation gives a guarantee satisfactory to this Council that they will maintain in Toronto sufficient supplies and parts to give a complete service and that an agreement be prepared for this purpose.

Legal Committee.

The Legal Committee reported and recommended as follows:—

That, without prejudice, the City Treasurer be authorized to pay Miss Bessie Latimer in settlement of her claim on account of an accident on October 24th last, on King Street.

That, without prejudice, the claim of Mrs. A. Irvine for damages to her clothing on account of an accident at King and Rubidge Streets on October 22nd last, be referred to the Chairman of the Committee with authority to settle the claim.

That an account from J. Hutchinson for repairing his motor car damaged on Simcoe Street be paid.

That a circular letter from the Orillia Kiwanis Club in regard to Canada's Diamond Jubilee be received.

Railways and Parks.

The Railways and Parks Committee reported and recommended as follows:—

That a letter from the American Institute of Park Executives and American Parks Society asking the City to become a member be received.

That the action of the Chairman of this Committee authorizing the City Engineer to cancel the contract with Henry Brothers for the masonry work of the memorial gate at the Nicholls Park as Messrs. Henry had not proceeded with the work, be approved, and that the whole matter and data in regard to the memorial gate be referred to next year's Council.

That the Chairman of this Committee be given authority to advertise for caretakers for the skating rinks and toboggan slide and to arrange with the Utilities Commission for lighting the slide and rinks, and that this Committee be given authority to appoint the caretakers and that they be paid on the certificate of the chairman of this Committee.

That the rental of the house occupied by Mr. Bettes in the James Stevenson Park be fixed at Fifteen Dollars ($15) a month from November 1st, 1926.

That the suggestion of the Chairman of this Committee that the James Stevenson Park be improved be adopted, and that the Chairman confer with the City Engineer and have a plan prepared ready for next year's Council, and that the Chairman be requested to write out his suggestions and file them with the plan.

Property Committee.

The Property Committee reported and recommended as follows:—

That the tender of P. Anglesey and H. Withers, of Eight Thousand, Eight Hundred Dollars ($8,800), for the collection and removal of garbage in 1927 be accepted.

That a reply be sent to V. M. Eastwood with reference to his application for permission to enlarge a sheet metal building on Water Street near Brock Street, informing him that he should apply to the Building Inspector for a permit for the erection of the filling station, and that the Council cannot see its way to give permission to enlarge the sheet metal building as a similar request had been previously refused.

That a letter from G. J. Sherry, Clerk of the Court, enclosing a copy of the Grand Jury presentment be received.

That a letter from the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce enclosing a letter from the Ontario Vegetable and Fruit Growers' Association, Peterborough Branch, asking for the erection of covering on the market and that the market square be paved be received.

Manufacturers' Committee.

The Manufacturers' Committee reported and recommended as follows:—

That a letter from Hugh Heaton Printing House in regard to advertising in Heaton's Handbook for 1927 be received.

Fire, Water and Light.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee reported as follows:—

We recommend that the Chairman of this Committee be given power to act on a petition for street lights on Alfred Street.

We recommend that the manufacturers previously written to in reference to the suggestion that those who have sprinkler systems in their factories have an alarm annunciator installed in the fire station be again written to and that it be explained to them that the suggestion of the Council was that, if they so desired, the Council was willing to have them instal an annunciator in the station.

A petition for improved street lighting on Water Street from Hunter Street to King Street, which was referred to this Committee with power to act, was referred to the Chairman of this Committee with power to have the prayer of the petition carried out and the lighting improved.

A petition for lights at the end of Conger Street, on the bridge and at the walks across the Normal School grounds was left in the hands of the Chairman of this Committee with power to act, and we recommend that a letter be sent to the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association saying that a light will be placed at the Normal School end of the bridge, and explaining that the Council has no authority to place lights in the Normal School grounds.

We recommend that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario be written to and informed that if they do not intend to operate the street railway on Park Street north of Charlotte Street, the Council would like them to remove the trolley line as it is in the way of centre suspension street lights the Council desires to have installed on that street.

We recommend that the Peterborough Utilities Commission be requested to instal one sixty watt street light on Adeline Street, and also to correct the position of the light on King Edward Street and to instal the light on Stewart Street at Murray Street previously ordered.

We recommend that the Chairman of this Committee be authorized to have the street light on Euclid Avenue near Armour Road moved to a more suitable position.

We recommend that the Chairman of this Committee be authorized to have lights placed on Simcoe Street between Reid Street and Park Street, and that Rev. Father Costello be written to saying that the lighting in the western district of the city will be improved as soon as the Utilities Commission procedure and preparations are completed and that a centre suspension unit will be placed on Hall Street.

We recommend that the improving of the lighting at the intersection of Rogers and Douro Streets be left with the Chairman with power to act.

Snow Removal.

The Special Committee appointed in regard to snow removal in Districts numbers 7 and 8 reported as follows:—

We received the following tenders for removing the snow in Districts numbers 7 and 8:—

District No. 7.

D. Conroy	$134.00
J. W. Devall	185.00
R. Mitchell	150.00
R. W. Mitchell	150.00

District No. 8.

B. Revoy	$175.00
R. Mitchell	145.00
R. W. Mitchell	145.00

Your Committee accepted the tender of R. W. Mitchell for both districts.

Finance Committee.

The Finance Committee reported and recommended as follows:—

That St. Joseph's Hospital be paid for two week's maintenance in the hospital of the Ryder baby, provided the hospital accepts this in full for the child's maintenance.

That the Nicholls Hospital be informed that Fred Sherwood's account should be sent to the Executor of his estate as he was not an indigent.

That with reference to R. H. Turner's application for an adjustment of the business taxes of the Sanitary Ice Supply he be informed that this Council has no authority in the matter.

That the usual fee of Forty Dollars be paid to the Selectors of Jurors in accordance with the certificate of the Clerk of the Peace.

Board of Works.

The Board of Works reported and recommended as follows:—

That the City Engineer be authorized to sell to the Peter Hamilton Company such of the steel from the old bridge as the city will not want for Seven Dollars and Fifty Cents ($7.50) a ton.

That a letter from the Peterborough Humane Society asking that certain lanes be made one-way lanes be received.

That the Canadian National Railway be written to and asked to consider and make suggestions in regard to protection at their crossings on Park Street at McDonnell Street and on Park Street near Westcott Street.

That the matter of the use of the lane from Simcoe Street to the fire station be referred to the Mayor, the Chairman of this Board and the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee with power to act.

That White's Cycles and Sports, Ltd., be notified to remove the bicycle air pipe that is on Charlotte Street in front of their store and the two pipes to the west of their store, and that if they are not removed that the City Engineer remove them.

That the City Engineer be authorized to have a pump installed for the water system at the sewage disposal plant and also an appliance for removing the sand from the grit chambers and screens for the grit chambers and to purchase office furniture required at the plant.

That the manufacturing companies be notified of the danger of allowing substances to enter the sewer that may block them or be detrimental to the working of the sewage disposal plant and requested to exercise care to see that no such substances are allowed to enter the sewer from their factories.

That the Mayor, the Chairman of this Board and the City Engineer be authorized to employ the necessary help to operate the sewage disposal plant and that the help so employed be paid on the certificate of the City Engineer.

That a by-law prepared to amend the Traffic by-law to provide that the through streets shall be:—George Street from the north side of Smith Street to the south side of Romaine Street; Charlotte Street from the west side of George Street, westerly to the city limits; Water Street from the north side of Charlotte Street to the north side of McDonnell Street and Aylmer Street from the north side of Charlotte Street to the north side of McDonnel Street.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.)

That advertising is the steam which keeps business going.

That there are various kinds of advertising, none of which can begin to cope with that offered in the newspaper columns, the medium which does direct to the buyer in the home.

That such advertising, even then, will not be effective, unless the newspaper selected can insure a general circulation—unless circulation figures show that the organ reaches the people.

That an investment in newspaper advertising should be governed by circulation, just as an investment in a building sould be determined by the location and rental figure.

That frequently money is wasted and the cause of advertising very greatly damaged by reason of the fact that advertisers in some quarters select the newspaper with a low rate and small circulation rather than one which reaches the people.

Advertising generally is the keynote to progress and newspaer publicity is the cheapest and most effestive to be obtained.

Don't Worry—the Car's alright

Don't let car worries spoil your enjoyment of the show. Even if it is below Zero and you have parked in the open no damage will come to it if there is Maple Leaf Anti-Freeze in the radiator.

There is no other Anti-Freeze just as good as Maple Leaf Anti-Freeze, it keeps the car freeze-proof at any temperature, it keeps the cooling system entirely free from choking, rusting or scaling, it allows free and clean circulation at all times—It is the only Anti-Freeze that can be tested when desired for freezing resistance.

Avail Yourself of "Alco-Meter" Service

Every garage or filling station displaying the "Maple Leaf" sign sells Maple Leaf Anti-Freeze and is equipped to render "Alco-Meter" Service. With the "Alco-Meter" and the Maple Leaf chart they can quickly tell you if the mixture is on the safe side or if it needs strengthening. This free service, possible only with mixtures of Maple Leaf Anti-Freeze and Water, takes every bit of guess work and freeze worry out of winter motoring.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Colorful automobiles are coming back into favor and every day you see more interesting colors pass you on the road—cars the color of caf-au-lait, of mayonnaise dressing, of fresh lettuce leaves, cars the color of lobsters before they are cooked and afterwards—soft gray cars, tan cars, and even white cars.

Fashion changes in this matter of car colors. Some years ago we admired colored cars, and then perhaps the matter was ever done, because the sentiment spread about that there was more elegance in the car of dark, subdued tone than of the more noticeable tones. And now seemingly we are tired of the subdued cars and have forgotten that we ever felt prejudiced against the colored sort.

A salesman for one of the highest priced cars tells the story of a young woman who quietly made up her mind to buy a certain model he had shown her because it matched the color of the costume she was wearing at the time. Many fashionable women make a point of matching their car to their costume or rather their costume to their car. With a green sports car it is smart to have a green sport coat of leather or cloth and a green hat. A black car with red trim is a good background for the red costume.

The upholstery of high-class cars has received much attention recently and many women make special selection of the material used in covering seats, etc. One of the dressmakers has been making motor sets consisting of fur coat, fur rug and fur gaiters to be worn presumably in the open car in cold weather.

In very early days a bride wore small fetters on her wrists as a sign that she "belonged" to her husband. It is from these old fetters that the comparatively modern bracelet evolved.

RAISING DAUGHTERS A TOUGH JOB?

Abraham Dubin, Chicago's phenomenal father, and his eight daughters are pictured here. The girls, left to right, are Mrs. Evelyn Aberman, Mrs. Sydelle Rothschild, Mrs. Beatrice Mack, Kitty, Betty, Genevieve, Bubbles, Fern. "I wish I had a dozen more" says Dubin.

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 9—The Man With the Toughest Job in the World is the title which many folks—parents especially—would bestow upon Abraham Dubin of this city. But Dubin says they would be wrong. His job, he contends, is dead easy.

Dubin is not trying to settle the war debt problem. Nor is he a criminologist on the Halls-Mills murder case. He hasn't the duty of determining why people fail to vote.

Dubin merely is the father of eight living daughters, every one pretty.

Chicago, with belated praise, is hailing him as its modern miracle man.

Nine years ago Dubin's wife died. He became both father and mother to his growing brood, combining in himself the roles of fashion arbiter, chaperone, household superintendent, inspector of beaux and expert advisor on affairs of the heart.

Dan Cupid Comes A-Visiting

Three times has he been to the altar and on each occasion has given a daughter in marriage. That makes three up and five to go. Dubin gasped a bit at first, then thrust out his under jaw and squared away for what was yet to come.

The daughters range in age from 23 down to 11. There is Evelyn who is the eldest and married. Sydelle comes next. She is 22 and has just been married. And Beatrice, 21, is Mrs. Albert Mack.

Then come the unmarried ones. There is Kitty, 20; Betty, 19; Genevieve, 16; Bubbles, 15, and Fern, whom Papa Dubin calls "our baby", who soon will be 12.

It goes without saying that all except Fern have beaux. Of course some of these aren't just exactly sweethearts. But Papa Dubin encourages company at the house.

On some evenings the drawing room resembles a town sociable. Many's the time Dubin has put on his coat and ducked out the back door for a half gallon of ice cream.

Pa Dubin came over from Europe when he was just a boy and worked for a dollar a day when he landed. With that he helped support his mother and father. But Fortune, anticipating his needs, no doubt, smiled kindly on his latter-years efforts, so that today, at 44, Dubin is fairly well blessed with wealth. You can just bet he needs it.

Each year, for as far back as he can remember, he has had to dig up for a half dozen fur coats. His stocking bills—well, just imagine again!

Every time he has married off one of his girls the bill for flowers alone has been up in the $1000 range.

For the price of each wedding trousseau he could have built a fairly comfortable home. There were dresses for the bridesmaids and the best of everything for the bride plus a handsome check with plenty of figures on it as a present.

You see, Pa Dubin has plenty to go around, and he believes in spending it on his girls. Nothing is too good for them.

The Way to Raise Them.

Pa Dubin's idea of rearing daughters is to instill them with self-confidence. He does that by demonstrating that his own confidence in them is unlimited. He has put each daughter's name in the telephone book.

He lets all of them write checks on his personal account. No daughter is asked to account for her expenditures, and none is extravagant.

To be sure, Pa Dubin looks the beaux over pretty well, but it's a formality largely. He has found there isn't any need of his interfering with their choice.

"Phoo! Phoo!" says pa in regard to "flapperism" of the age. "Girls are by far the best. I only wish I had another dozen. Of course they cost more money to raise. But what of it? That's what money's for. And girls have real gratitude. They're a comfort to a father when he gets old.

"The trouble with so many parents whose girls don't turn out just right is not in the girls but in the parents. They're suspicious and tight-stringed. That's no way to be. You've got to make a real pal out of your daughter and by that I don't mean just talk about it.

'Each of my daughters can bake and sew and is handy with a broom, and a generall around good housekeeper. I've trained them to be useful, but I didn't go about it by preaching. No, sir, I've just kept my nose out of their affairs. I made them respect themselves by showing that I respected them and their judgment and had confidence in what they were doing.

"When my girls have boys over to the house, I don't sit around with a long face like a soldier. Nothing doing on that. I go off about my own business.

"When my wife died I had to taken on a double job, and I haven't grown tired of it, not once.

"Why, my girls and I play together like a bunch of kids! They tell me their troubles and I tell them mine. We all give one another a helping hand. You've got to respect children. They're not here to simply boss around. 'Children should have the same rights as parents any day. That's been my motto and it's worked out pretty well."

Suitors Needn't be Capitalists

As to the matter of what requisites he demands in a prospective husband for any of his girls, Pa Dubin says the only thing he looks into is the man's record.

"If the fellow has a clean past and is ambitious, I'll sanction the marriage," he says. "I wouldn't care if the boy didn't have much money either. So long as he can support my girl and comes to the altar with a good reputation. I'm for him and will help him.

"Though I hate to see them leave and probably feel pretty bad at the weddings, yet I'd like to marry off a daughter every year of my life. It's such a happy time for the girls and I love to make 'em happy.

"See here! Dont let anyone tell you that raising girls nowadays is any more of a job than it used to be. Why all this nonsense talk about girls of today being bold and forward is a lot of silly bunk. They're just a whole lot franker than they ever were, and a darned lot more intelligent, too. Matter of fact it's a pretty smart man nowadays that can fool a modern girl. And it tickles me to see that it's that way.

"No, sir, you have to take your hat off to the women. They're the best things we have on this earth. And I'm glad my house is full of them."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1926

Many helpful planetary influences are strong today, according to astrology. Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Uranus are all in benefic aspect.

Women should benefit today and the signs appear to presage for them nationwide campaigns.

Thrift is to be preached and practiced as never before, because America is to be taught economy, the seers prophesy.

Under this planetary government there will be a new consciousness of the wickedness of waste and women will lead in a crusade to retrieve fortunes thrown away carelessly by those who fail to conserve resources.

Entertainments of every sort are well directed while this configuration prevails. It is read as an especially favorable date for balls since the stars encourage buoyance and romance.

Mars foreshadows big engineering enterprises in which enormous fortunes are to be involved.

Special interest in marble, granite and other building materials is foretold, for immense structures are to be erected in the coming year when millions in public money will be expended.

This is another day auspicious and new commodities put on the market, it is prophesied.

Increased interest in religious matters is again foretold and there may be bitter enmities encouraged by secret propaganda. The seers admonish the people to remember that religious freedom is guaranteed by the Constitution.

All the signs appear to agree in forecasting tremendous inventions on the material plane and marvelous discoveries on the occult plane.

There is a sign read as likely to retard projects for industrial building, but the seers give assurance that it is not of bad omen.

Persons whose birthdate it is may meet with a deception or disappointment and should be on their guard against spurious documents. The year should be a prosperous one, if work is not neglected.

Children born on this day may attain eminence, especially in politics. They probably will have many friends and supporters.

"I Had Bilious Attacks and Stomach Weakness"

Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Yonker, Sask., writes:

"I suffered from stomach and liver trouble, and used to have bilious attacks so bad that I could do nothing for weeks at a time. My stomach would be so weak that not even a drink of water would stay on it. On my sister's advice, I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and must say that they have made me feel like a new woman."

SENTENCE 16.

Members of Russian Outlaw Gang To Face Firing Squad.

MOSCOW, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—The Soviet Supreme Court yesterday sentenced 16 convicted bandits to be shot. Those condemned belonged to a gang of almost 80 men which carried out many acts of violence and pillage in the Tartar Republic. Varying terms of imprisonment were imposed on the remainder of the band.

Women who have to face much business worry are warned by an expert that they will run the same risk of going bald as men.

Evening Examiner "IDEAL Fashions" by Jean Duvelle Hamilton

Smart Sports Frocks are Simply Fashioned

A stunning one-piece frock is pictured here, expressed in flannel with all the fashion interest centered in the front, leaving the back plain, in the new manner. Three set-in plaits give added width to the lower part of the skirt. The deep V-shaped front and vestee are of the latest mode, while the round collar and flared cuffs may be trimmed with frilling. Buttons—an important feature this season—adorn this attractive model and a ribbon girdle crushed into a front closing buckle adds a final air of chic. NO. 1479 is for misses and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years requires 3¾ yards 39-inch material, or 2½ yards 54-inch; 2½ yards 1-inch ribbon for frilling, and 1¼ yards 6-inch ribbon for belt. 20 cents,

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

A distinctly new idea in card parties was inaugurated here with much success yesterday by the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., in the form of a "Community" or "Neighborhood" bridge party, in which several ladies acted as hosts for the card games, and the players adjourned en masse later to the home of Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Weller street, for afternoon tea. Much enthusiasm was manifested over the idea, which was carried out very satisfactorily. Forty-four tables of bridge were played at the homes of the following ladies: Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. H. W. Darcy, Mrs. W. Comstock, Mrs. J. P. Pulkinghorn, Mrs. J. Chadwick, Mrs. J. M. McCulloch, Mrs. H. E. Stenson, Mrs. W. J. Green, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mrs. J. A. Robinson, Mrs. H. L. Beal, Mrs. M. N. Clark, Mrs. W. A. Conner, Mrs. E. F. Lawrence, and Mrs. J. H. McClellan. The players, numbering about one hundred and eighty ladies, proceeded at the conclusion of the card games, to the residence of Mrs. Aylmer, where tea was served from a table charmingly arranged with an Italian cutwork cloth, centrepiece of yellow baby 'mums and yellow candles in silver holders. The service of refreshments was in charge of Mrs. D. R. Fleming, assisted by Mrs. C. A. White. Tea was poured by Miss Margaret English, assisted by Mrs. G. H. Roper, Mrs. W. J. Stacey, Mrs. B. W. Harvey and Mrs. A. E. Edmonds. Miss M. Archer ushered the guests into the tea room. Mrs. J. P. Pulkinghorn acted as general convenor of arrangements for the bridge party, the prizes for which were awarded by means of a draw, the tally cards being placed all together, and drawn by Miss S. A. Tomkins, regent of the Chapter. The prizes were donated by Mrs. R. Harstone, Mrs. R. W. Davidson, Mrs. F. L. Robinson and Miss S. A. Tomkins, and were won by Mrs. D. Loucks, Mrs. T. McWilliams, Mrs. A. E. Edmonds and Mrs. J. Garbutt.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FUNNY HOOK

"Tomorrow it starts to be Christmas," said Jingle to Jangle as the two little rabbit girls were playing about Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day.

"What do you mean?" asked Jangle. "Tomorrow starts to be Christmas? Why, Christmas is a long way off! I wish it was nearer."

"It is nearer than you think," whispered Jingle. "This is the last day of November. Tomorrow it starts to be December and Christmas comes in December."

"Oh, I forgot all about that!" and Jangle squealed in delight. "It is nearer than I thought. Let's go out and look for a Christmas tree," and, it being after school, the two little rabbit girls went hopping over the fields and through the woods to pick out a green tree which Daddicums Uncle Wiggily would, later, gnaw down and bring into the hollow stump bungalow ready for the visit of Santa Claus.

Now about the same time that Jingle and Jangle started to look for a Christmas tree, Uncle Wiggily was on his way to buy a new clothes line for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. It was not to be a Christmas present, this clothes line, but something that was much needed, since the old line had broken into many pieces.

After buying the line at the eleven and twelve-cent store, Uncle Wiggily tucked it under his paw—I mean he tucked the line not the store and, twinkling his pink nose, on he hopped over the hill and dale.

After a while, looking ahead of him, Uncle Wiggily saw two figures going up a hill. At first he thought they might be the Fuzzy Fox and the Wozzie Wolf, but, looking more closely, the rabbit gentleman saw that they were rabbits, like himself, only smaller.

"I guess they are some of my forty 'leven little bunny children," laughed Mr. Longears to himself as he hopped along. "I'm like the Old Woman who lived in a shoe. I have so many children I don't know what to do. I wonder which two those are ahead of me?"

Wishing to find out, the rabbit gentleman hopped fast and he had no sooner noticed that the two bunnies were Jingle and Jangle than, all of a sudden, Jingle disappeared from sight over the edge of the hill, and Uncle Wiggily heard Jangle scream.

"Something must have happened!" cried Uncle Wiggily, starting to hop faster. "Jingle has fallen down in a hole. I hope it isn't the hole of the Fox or Wolf, or a trap set by those bad chaps. I hope not!"

"Something must have happened!" cried Uncle Wig.

Uncle Wiggily ran and jumped very fast and soon he reached the place where Jangle was crying and screaming.

"Please be quiet and tell me what happened," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Well," began the little rabbit girl, "You know this is the last day of November and tomorrow starts to be December and it is the month when Christmas comes and——"

"Stop all that and tell me where Jingle is!" exclaimed Mr. Longears, for he looked all around and could not see his other child.

"Jingle is down in the well!" answered Jangle, and then she pointed to an old well, overgrown with weeds, at one side of the path leading up hill. Jingle, not knowing the well was there, had stumbled into it.

"But I'll get her up!" cried Uncle Wiggily, when he had looked down the well, which, luckily, had no water in it. At the bottom he saw poor Jingle. But she had struck her head and it was just as if she were asleep for a time. Uncle Wiggily lowered one end of his new clothes line down into the well. But as Jingle didn't know it, she couldn't fasten the rope around her waist to be pulled up.

"Oh, how can we ever get her?" sobbed Jangle. "Shall I go down in the well and tie the rope on her?"

"If I only had a hook I could tie that on the rope and catch the hook in Jingle's dress and pull her up that way," said the bunny uncle.

Just then along came Aunt Lettie, the goat lady, who had been to the vegetable store. In her basket was a crooked neck squash—a squash with a regular hook on one end.

"That will be the very thing!" cried Mr. Longears when he saw it. Quickly he tied the end of his tope on the squash hook, and when this hook was let down into the dry well it caught in the belt of Jingle's dress and soon she was safely pulled up and then she awakened. So everything came out all right, even the little rabbit girl out of the well. And if the lawn mower will give the dusting brush a hair cut for the rag doll's party I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and the white button.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Eighteen writes: I have light brown spots on my arms, the right especially, and a few on my body. A doctor told me that no one has ever found their cause or how to avoid them and to just forget it. What do you think?

ANSWER: These brown spots are caused by some derangement of metabolism due to wrong food. Your liver has been overworked to such an extent that the poisons of the body have not been sufficiently eliminated. It is hard to remove these brown spots, but you can at least prevent more of them, by adopitng better health habits.

QUESTION: A. B. asks: Is it necessary to drink warm liquids, eat pork, soup, etc., in order to keep warm in winter time. Or can we get along just as well with lots of fruits and vegetables in cold weather? And do you think two moderate meals a day are better than three?

ANSWER: There is no advantage in using hot liquids or heavy foods in the winter time. You will keep warm better if you will use only the limited amount of food which your body requires, and, at the same time, take plenty of vigorous physical culture exercises to increase circulation. Those who have the poorest circulation feel the cold the most in the winter time, as the tissues are not properly oxygenated. Exercise is the best cure for this, with plenty of deep breathing of pure air. Most people can live very well on two meals a day, but in some cases where the digestion is impaired, three small meals daily will be digested better than two large meals.

QUESTION: Mrs. B. asks: What is Neuritis, cause and cure?

ANSWER: Neuritis is a form of rheumatism, or, at least, is produced by the same causes which produce rheumatism. A treatise on this subject will be sent to you if you will send me a self addressed stamped envelope.

QUESTION: Mrs. W. B. writes: I have had my urine examined by a doctor, and he said it was very acid. Will you please tell me how to overcome this condition?

ANSWER: The urine is normally acid, but, of course, should not be over-acid. A great many causes will be found which produce this condition, and it is impossible for me to know just which one is causing the trouble in your particular case. However, the principal causes may be cited as too much food, wrong combinations of food, the use of too many starched and sugars, lowered resistance, and enervation, insufficient exercise, and destructive habits of thought which produce poisons that must be thrown out through the eliminative organs.

QUESTION: "Constant Reader" writes: What is the cause of my hands always blowing up in red lumps when I go out in the cold?

ANSWER: Your question is a difficult one to understand, and I presume that the trouble is one of poor circulation. Try exercising with a few calesthenics each time before you go out in the cold, and I am sure you will find your trouble disappearing.

QUESTION: Miss C. M. asks: Would you be kind enough to advise me through the columns of the Questions and Answers, re Health and Diet of the Evening Examiner? Ever since I can recollect I have been troubled with chilblains. This year my hands as well as my feet are affected. I have tried almost every remedy but with no results. Can you tell me how this condition can be cured? Is there any cure? Would electrical treatments have any effect? What is this caused by?

ANSWER: Your trouble is caused by having your feet frozen at sometime early in your life. Electrical treatments are not very effective in remedying this trouble, and I would advise you to treat your feet each day by immersing them in hot and cold water alternately. Use water as hot as can be borne, keeping the feet in it only a minute then changing them suddenly to ice cold water, leaving them in the ice water for only a half minute. After a few minutes of this treatment give your feet a good massage, using some kind of oil and rubbing upwards towardthe knee, so as to improve the circulation. Every time you put your shoes on, powder your feet first with talcum or boraci acid powder.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

This frock designed for the older woman who does not want to wear short skirts, is made of black satin with dull gold embroidery.

Short skirts, like short hair, are going to be very hard to banish from fashion. And speculations concerning the time and the manner in which these two fashions will make their fade-away is about as bootless as conjectures about the inhabitants of Mars. Most of us assume, as a matter of course, that long skirts will replace short skirts again just as we assume that long hair will come back into its own. Most fashions are transitory. But then we must not forget—anent short hair—that at one time men wore hair long but that once they got the habit of having it cut they never went back to long locks, and no one considers a revival of long hair as a possibility for men. Also, men once wore knee breeches but they seem to have permanently adopted long trousers.

The fact that some of the influential dressmakers are making skirts longer, and that practically all the dressmakers make occasional long-skirted frocks, does not really indicate an imminent passing of the short skirt. Lanvin is making longer skirts for evening. Word comes from Paris that Madeleine is making all skirts two centimeters longer than she did a season ago—that is about an inch. But that does not really mean long skirts. In this country recently we have heard some comment anent the fact that her Majesty, the Queen of Roumania, wears fairly long skirts. Ten inches from the ground is said to be her rate. But we must not forget that there are plenty of well-dressed American women of the age of Queen Marie who have never followed the fashion of extremely short skirts. In Europe queens no longer set the fashion—though in America we seem to think that the royal precedent should count for a good deal.

It is certainly a mistake to think that any sort of skirt may be worn long. The frock that is designed short must be worn short. The longer skirt if it is not to appear actually dowdy must be either of the bouffant period type, when it is frequently made longer in back so that the facing is revealed, or of the draped type. Skirts of the first sort are suited best to the young and slender and the uneven draped skirts are designed especially for the older woman of more matronly figure.

The sektch shows a draped frock with fairly long skirt. The drapery on the left side hangs considerably below the rest of the skirt, thus giving a long line that adds to the effect of slenderness.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

BETTY

By Alma Whitaker.

This is a true story, but it doesn't sound like it. It would seem like veritably hokum in a movie scenario. But I know this Betty and she is just as surprised at her luck as we are.

You see, Betty graduated from High School a year ago, doing rather well in mathematics. So mother took her to California for a trip before launching her in a business-girl career. They were not poor at all, but Betty rather thought she ought to do something—girls don't just stay at home and do fine embroidery any more.

She had taken little parts in the dramatics at high school but never amounted to anything. She was, however, a very pretty blonde, so they usually found a walk-on role for her somewhere. She never took dancing lessons, but was quite a good ball-room dancer.

So when they reached California, they went to some restaurant dances, and Betty was having a lonely carefree time of it. One evening an impressive gentleman approached her partner and begged for an introduction to Betty. He also asked whether Betty had any theatrical connections.

Now that impressive gentleman was an important theatrical producer. Less than two months later this Betty was covorting in numerous important "bits" in a big revue. It was positively her first appearance on any professional stage, yet here she was elevated over the heads of about three dozen lovely professional charmers.

Betty's feet are hardly touching the ground these days. She knows it is all too wonderful to seem quite true. Things don't usually happen that way. Betty loved theatricals but in her wildest dreams she had never thought a theatrical career possible. Now they are even talking about motion pictures.

Betty knows that she should have tramped wearily from agent to agent throughout cruel New York winters—as Lillian and Dorothy Gish did. She knows she should have been snubbed for years, half starved, and finally worked her way up laboriously rung by rung. She knows she should have studied dancing, singing, physical culture, and drama and ached and yearned between mangy, little jobs.

"It all happened so curiously, so quickly, so absolutely unexpectedly. It was too easy. I hadn't done a thing to deserve it. You know, I must pitch in and work very hard now to justify my luck," says Betty ardently.

Of course Betty is very, very pretty. But the country is chock full of pretty girls who somehow do not manage to attract the attention of producers.

Betty may have a good use for her mathematics yet. They are already paying her a salary much larger than her mother's whole income.

"I must be careful not to get silly and conceited about it" says Betty, with pretty concern. "I must keep on remembering it was just wonderful luck and that it won't do me any good if I don't study and improve myself. But it is very hard not to get conceited" laughs Betty, "because people are so very kind and say so many nice things."

Now that doesn't sound like a true story, does it? But Betty is a real girl, a very pretty blonde girl of 18, and we shall probably hear a lot more about her one of these days—if she keeps that little head screwed on securely.

Three things to know when Buying "B" Batteries

Go to your radio dealer with confidence and ask for the exact Eveready "B" Battery you need for your set. Remember these three simple rules, and you will get the longest life and best service from "B" Battery power.

On 1 to 3 tubes—Use Eveready No. 772.

On 4 or more tubes—Use the Heavy Duty "B" battery No. 770.

On all but single tube sets—Use a "C" battery.

When these rules are followed, the No. 772 will last for almost a year, and the No. 770 for about eight months, when listening at the year round average of two hours a day.

NOTE: In addition to the increased life which an Eveready "C" Battery gives to your "B" batteries, it will add a quality of reception unobtainable without it.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

CAFETERIA OR CLUB FOR LUNCHEON?

By Winifred Stuart Gibbs, Food Specialist.

The business man was looking thoughtful. "Been to lunch:" asked his friend. "Sure, that's just what I'm thinking about, lunch, you know," he added a bit vaguely.

"Yesterday I went to the club for lunch," continued the B.M. In passing it may be noted that his club is one of the conspicuously successful clubs for men, noted for its good table and its "live wire" membership. "Today I went to that cafeteria those college girls are running."

His friend waited silently, knowing that the whole story would come soon, and it did.

It transpired that the Business Man had paid one dollar for his club luncheon and had received in return three slices of succulent ham with roast potatoes, spinach, ice cream and coffee.

A good lunch for a dollar? "Sure!" says the B.M. again, "but there was too much of it, hearty, you know, ham! And then there didn't seem to be a variety of the right kinds of foods. Nobody needs dessert for lunch, but I would have given something for more vegetables."

"So today I went to the cafeteria, as I said before. Fine women, those home economics girls! Know what to give a chap."

This seemed the place for a question that should show interest, so his friend asked: "What did you have?"

"Stuffed peppers, first, all sort of savory and, well, good you know. The masculine vocabulary does not run to culinary terms, but the description was none the less impressive. "Macaroni with cheese, too," the narrator went on' "and a vegetable salad with coffee, all for fifty-four cents."

"Now I don't in the least object to paying a dollar for my lunch" this man continued. "It did start me thinking though, as to whether the old club might not learn something from those cafeteria girls about the kind of things folks like for lunch. The fact that these girls give you better food for about half as much money is something else again, but not the main point I'm trying to make."

Now this particular business man's ruminations may contain the germs of an idea for the improving of luncheon menus in clubs the world over! He is the first to admit that the club offers something not to be found in any cafeteria, restful rooms, congenial and leisurely talk, and so on. The point is, however, that the club might take a leaf from the cafeteria book and have the more satisfactory type of luncheon BESIDES its other attractive features.

The idea that men demand heavy meat dishes at noon dies hard, but it is dying. When the men themselves speak up, as our friend the business man did, then chefs should mark and learn and inwardly digest their remarks!

Nor need the idea be applied to improving the mid-day meal of men's clubs only. This planned and operated for women are equally in the field for improvement of their meal plans. The important thing is of course, to remember that the matter concerns not only the tastes of club members, but their health as well. Generalizations are snares for the unwary, but this one is fairly safe: Everyone is the better for a varied meal of light dishes, largely vegetable in character.

TWENTY-FIVE IN LINE FOR SECOND ROUND

Fourteen of These From the Southern Section.

ENGLISH CUP.

Higher Clubs Remaining Out of Fray Until Jan. 8th.

(By Billy Fenton)

Already there has been a marked clearing out of third divison clubs from the English Cup competition proper. Only twenty-five will line up for the second round on Saturday, 14 of these from the southern section. Other leagues to be represented will be the Southern, Northeastern, Yorkshire, Isthmian, Northern and London, while Reading and Grimsby Town, the two clubs promoted to the second division of the league, must also try their luck. The bigger and better-known clubs will remain out of the fray until Jan. 8, but Saturday's games will have an interest all their own, and create a greater stir than did the first-round battles. In five games teams from the southern section of the league will clash, and in three others northern section clubs will be bracketed. The only two North Eastern League clubs left in, Carlisle and Bedlington, by a strange turn of fortunes which come together, and another rather unusual happening will be the meeting between Gillingham and Brentford, who were due to meet in a league engagement on Saturday, but have been drawn together in the cup on that day. Grimsby Town have an apparent soft snap in York, of the Yorkshire League but Reading will find the going against Southend United a bit more stiff. The second round games for Saturday are as follows:

Carlise v. Bedlington
Ashington v. Nelson
Southport v. Crook Town.
Chilton Col. v. Accrington S.
Crewe A. v. Wigan Boro.
Rhyl v. Wrexham.
Walsall v. Mansfield.
Coventry City v. Lincoln City.
Doncaster R. v. Chesterfield.
Grimsby Town v. York.
Gillingham v. Brentford.
Nunhead v. Poole.
Bristol Rovers v. Charlton A.
Luton Town v. Northfleet.
Bristol City v. Bournemouth
Exeter City v. Northampton
Norwich City v. Chatham.
Watford v. Brighton
Reading v. Southend United.

PLAYER PILOTS' DAY IS CLOSING

Harris and Hornsby Will Be Only Field Leaders in Majors.

NEXT SEASON.

ASHEVILLE, N.C., Dec. 9 (Associated Press).—The day of the playing manager in the major leagues is just about over, in the opinion of Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, who is here attending the meeting of the minor leagues.

Hendricks runs his team from the bench.

"Speaker, Cobb, Sisler and Collins all went the same year. The fad soon wore out,' Hendricks said. "Of course, Bucky Harris is still in, but you must remember he won two pennants in succession. Hornsby hasn't anything to worry about. His team won two more games last year than mine did. That meant he won the pennant."

Hendricks declares a manager can not play and at the same time manage. Hendricks himself doesn't even take the coach's box.

"I have been in this old racket for nearly 23 years and I always have been a bench manager," he said.

"I believe when Hornsby and Harris pass out of the big leagues the player-manager will have gone forever. The percentage is against them. No man can judge a game from the outfield, infield or behind the plate, as well as he can from the bench.

"Managing takes quick thinking and a player can not think about the game and about strategy at the same time."

The Reds' manager said that he had his team practically in line.

BASEBALL KING.

Judge Landis. He is the commissioner of baseball and is to get a new seven-year contract with an increase in his present salary of $50,000 per year.

PLAYER DEALS IN HIS CHARGE

Given Managerial at Minor League Meeting in Asheville.

HICKEY RE-ELECTED.

By JOHN B. FOSTER.

ASHEVILLE, N.C., Dec. 9.—Jack McCallister, of the Cleveland baseball club, a scout for some years with success and a successful coach in other years, will lead the Cleveland team in 1927 as the successor of Tris Speaker, according to present indications.

Cleveland could have gone farther and fared worse — much worse, in fact. McCallister knows baseball very well. He has had that kind of experience which equips men to lead major league teams. He has been with Cleveland long enough to know intimately the ball players with whom he will be associated.

It may have been in the minds of the Cleveland owners to appoint McCallister ever since Speaker resigned. If that were the case, they did not make it public before they left home, but on arriving here for the convention of the minor leagues, where the traffic in ball players is heavy, they agreed to trust McCallister to make trades and do other managerial tasks.

Vote For Hickey.

Thomas J. Hickey, who had one more year to serve as president of the American Association, was reelected for three years beyond the expiration of his term. This was in line with other endorsements given to officials who have met favor. Hickey is president of one of the most compact leagues in baseball and one of the most successful.

The Columbus club of the American Association has not been sold to the Cincinnati club. It is not within the rules of baseball that a major league club shall dip heavily into the affairs of the minor leagues and own a club in the minors. That sort of thing has been going on, however; and Commissioner Landis is quite aware of it. The commissioner vouchsafed the statement that because of the very open manner in which the major league owner had negotiated with another club, it did not seem necessary to censure him.

Braves Seek Talent.

The Boston Braves are seeking a first baseman because they think Burrus is too slow. Two years ago he played well for Boston. This year he was not so successful.

Jack Dunn, who is here representing Baltimore, admits that the loss of Joe Boley will hurt him another year.

"He is a fine ball player," said Dunn. "When I let him go to the Athletics, it hurt my team and I knew that it would, but I would like to make it very plain that Boley went to Philadelphia at his own desire. I decided it was time he was promoted."

TUNNEY MATCH ALL HE WANTS

Former Champion Does Not Want Any Set-ups, He Says.

STARTS TRAINING.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9 (Associated Press).—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, waiving the formality of a few warming-up fights, will start training next week in the hope of having a return bout with Gene Tunney, to whom he lost the world's title last September at Philadelphia.

He said: "If I can come back I can whip Tunney, and if I can't come back, I'm through with the fight game; I don't want any 'set-ups.'"

Replying to reports that he had been poisoned before the fight with Tunney, the former champion declared: "All this stuff about throwing fights, being poisoned or worried to death is a lot of hokum. Tunney can whip any man in the ring to-day. He is a stiff counter-puncher, and while I think he could have whipped Firpo—and probably held Carpentier even—Jess Willard and Bill Brennan would have slaughtered him.

"I was worried in Philadelphia the day of the fight. I had enough to worry me with a lot of litigation hanging over me—and don't think I didn't know the trouble Tex Rickard was having staging the fight—but it didn't bother my fighting ability in any way, shape or form. Naturally, it does not help you to have a lot of squabbling around you, but I lost to Tunney because I was overtrained—down too fine.

"It wasn't loss of weight. I see where some people claimed I lost 10 pounds the last three days before the fight. I lost about three pounds. I weighed 190 pounds when I tapered off and I weighed 187 pounds when I climbed into the ring. I couldn't get started. I knew what I wanted to do but could not make my muscles function. The next time we meet—and I sincerely hope we do—Tunney will be the defender—he will carry the load of a title."

FIGHT RESULTS

Reading, Pa.—Babe McGorgary of Oklahoma beat Jack Palmer, Philadelphia (8).

Youngstown, Ohio.—Willie Davis, Charleroi, Pa., shaded Happy Atherton, Indianapolis (10); Ray Fay, Charleroi, outpointed Bumbo Myers, Massillon, Ohio (6).

Fresno, Calif.—Fidel La Barba, flyweight champion, defeated Delos Williams, New Orleans (10).

Portland, Ore. — Leo Lomski, Aberdeen light-heavyweight, knocked out Harry Dillon, Winnipeg (7).

NEWARK, N. J., December 9. — Canadian Press. — Monte Munn, former Nebraska football star, stopped Gordon Munce, of New York, in the second round of a ten round heavyweight match preliminary to the Pete Latzo-Joe Simonich fight at the Newark Armory last night.

The referee interrupted hostilities to save Munce from further punishment after he had been felled eight times by the mid-westerner's clouts. Munn weighed 213½; Munce 205½.

GOLF STARS TO AID WHITE PLAGUE FUND

Atlantic City Course Is Still Free of Snow.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Dec. 9 (Associated Press).—No snow had fallen on the links of the Seaview Club to mar the opening of the Christmas Seal golf tournament yesterday. The warm Gulf Stream, passing nearby, is aiding with a donation of favorable weather the efforts of the 300 players to raise a considerable sum for the fund to eradicate tuberculosis. John G. Anderson and Dick Jones of New York, Chick Evans of Chicago, and Gene Tunney are among the entries.

BRITISH WILL PLAY IN DETROIT TOURNEY

Leading Squash Racquet Stars To Enter National Meet.

BOSTON, Dec. 9. — British squash racquet players are to seek championships this winter in the United States and Canada and also will play picked clubs in various cities, the United States Squash Racquets Association announces. At Detroit they will compete in the national and individual championships and in Canada will participate in the international play for the Laphan Cup and the Canadian individual championship.

Their itinerary follows:

January 25, 26, New York: 27-29, Philadelphia; 30-31, Washington; February 1-10, Can: ; 1'-13, Buffalo; 15-17, Chicago; 19-22, Detroit; 24-26, Boston.

HOCKEY LEAGUE PLANS DISCUSSED

Campbellford Organization To Have Four Teams This Year.

CAMPBELFORD, Dec. 9.—At a get together meeting held at the home of Mr. J. H. Bell on Monday night plans for the formation of a Town Hockey League were discussed.

The general opinion seemed to be that four teams would be the limit of entries, if the fans were to witness good hockey. Many of last years stars who drew the applause of the crowds will be missing, when the teams take the ice for this season's race.

The champion Hydro team will have all of last year's team, except Badgely. The big defence man says he is through and unless he can be persuaded to reconsider his decision it will leave a big hole in the champions' defence.

The Outlaws, who gave the Hydro such hard opposition in the finals, are scattered to the four winds. Three of them are out of town and two more belong to other teams this year.

The Clerks have lost three of last year's stars in Luckhorn and Parsons, who were moved to other points by their bank, and Flint, who is at present nursing a broken leg, and will hardly play this year.

The Mill has lost two of last year's team, but expects to have Tommy Stewart for goal and either Jegrom or Brown for a defence position.

Menie will be back with nearly the same team, and will likely ask for permission to play some of the town boys not connected with other teams. Menie was shy on capable subs last winters and when the regulars began to tire they were at a disadvantage.

An organization meeting will be held in the public library at 7 p.m. on Friday, December 10.

The Hydro, Mill, Clerks and Menie clubs are asked to attend and have a list of signed players. Officers will be elected and as much as possible done to get things running smoothly to provide real keen contests for the hockey fans the coming season.

PATS STAY HOME.

Regina Pats Will Not Seek Junior Rugby Honors.

REGINA, Sask., Dec. 9 — The Regina Pats will not travel east this year in search of junior Rugby honors. This was decided yesterday, when wires received from the east were to the effect that no grounds were available, and that the weather was below zero, and that the M.A.A.A. club was unable to raise funds either to travel or play in Montreal.

mantling of the Fortress of Koenigsberg. The latter was the subject of conversation between Sir Austen Chamberlain, Dr. Benes of Czechoslovakia and M. Zaleski of Poland at lunch to-day. The two Eastern signatories of the Locarno agreement have been sure of himself had ments are particularly firm regarding the Koenigsberg demand and of Sir Austen Chamberlain and M. Briand.

There was no conversation to-day between the Big Five and apparently the situation at the moment is in the hands of the experts. M. Massignli, Secretary of the Conference of Ambassadors, arrived from Paris this morning and talked with M. Briand and Herr von Schubert. To-night he returned to Paris. Dr. Stresemann conversed for an hour and a half with M. Vanderveld and for half an hour with Signor Scialoja, after which he was closeted with the Belgian expert, M. Gallas.

If the plan which is contemplated should be adopted expert conversations between France and Germany will be begun immediately in order to provide an arrangement for the March Council meeting.

BOXING TITLES CHANGING FAST

Changes Bring To End Most Surprising Year in History.

BIG SCRAMBLE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 — Transfer of the world's middleweight championship from Tiger Flowers to Mickey Walker and the knockouts suffered by Kid Kaplan and Joe Dundee bring almost to an end one of the most surprising years in history.

Jack Dempsey's defeat by Gene Tunney was the outstanding surprise, but enough else has happened to scramble every division in the sport besides the heavyweight.

Welter Class

The Walker - Flowers decision changed one of the most lucrative of the ring titles. Walker lost the welterweight championship to Pete Latzo and was knocked out by Joe Dundee. Dundee became the recognized challenger for Latzo. The fight would have been worth at least $25,000, but Dundee blew his rating when he was knocked out by Eddie Roberts, an unknown western youngster.

Feather List

Kid Kaplan, rated as one of the best little fellows in the game, gave up the featherweight championship. He found it not worth the while to keep down to the weight of a class that offered little future prospects.

Billy Gibson thought so much of Kaplan's chances to beat Sammy Mandell that he bought his contract for $10,000.

Kaplan flopped from the top to the bottom of the class in his first fight as a light weight when he was knocked out by Billy Wallace.

Dundee and Kaplan are out of the money now and Roberts and Wallace who couldn't even be found in the record books, are the big shots in two of the most active classes.

Tex Rickardd finds himself in a position now—and it is one of his pet ambitions — to stage a championship fight in every class next season. He practically has cinched a heavyweight championship bout by signing all of Tunney's challengers.

Much is being made of Rickard's steps to get a monopoly on the fighters, but he could do it!

Hornsby and Breadon Argue Over Contract

ST. LOUIS, Mo., December 9. —Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis National League Base Ball Club, and Sam Breadon president of the world's champions, have again failed to reach an agreement on the Rajah's salary. Hornsby is demanding a three-year managerial contract, but Breadon wants to give him a one year managerial contract to expire when Hornsby's player contract expires, after next season. Hornsby never has had a managerial contract, and claims he will accept nothing but a 3-year managerial contract.

LADIES' MERCANTILE LEAGUE—Y.M.C.A.

With about five weeks to the end of the first series of the Ladies' Mercantile League at the Y.M.C.A. it has developed into a close race and all four teams have a good opportunity to finish in first place. At present the league leaders are the Lincolns captained by Miss G. Gollop who have won 17 and lost 13 games. Then in second place and only one game behind the Lincolns are two teams tied for second place, these teams being the Pontiacs captained by Miss B. Adams and the Elcars captained by Miss L. Campbell. Then in fourth place are the Reos captained by Miss B. Sloan and they also have an excellent chance of finishing out first in the series. The Elcars and the Reos have come along rapidly of late after a bad start and should be along with the leaders when the series is decided. It is without doubt the closest race that there has been in the Ladies' Mercantile League for years. The standing of the league after Wednesday's game is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Lincolns	17	13
Pontiacs	16	14
Elcars	16	14
Reos	11	19

Y.M.C.A.

George Street, handicapped by a dummy in all three games, dropped two of them to Mark Street in the Church League. Cunningham had three nice singles of 265, 242 and 189 for a good total of 696. Other high singles were: Wasson 202, Mark 192 and Hunter 182.

MATHERS CORNERS

MATHER'S CORNERS, Dec. 9.—Miss Frances Gillespie, teacher in the public school, has returned to her duties after spending the week end at Coldsprings with her parents.

Miss Clara Coward spent last week with her former teacher, Miss Ivey, who lives in Campbellford.

Mr. James Collins had the threshers on Monday. The weather was a little sharp but as the grain was in good shape a record run was made. Mr. Collins is one of the last men to thresh in this neighborhood. The engine and mill were run by John Sexsmith and Bob Cowie.

Mr. Peter Mather has been filling up some ruts on the road recently. He and others started to haul gravel on Tuesday morning.

MOUNT PLEASANT

MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 9.—Miss Kathleen Sisson spent Saturday at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sisson.

Mr. Albert Finley of East Emily was a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Handley on Tuesday.

Mrs. Margaret Gardiner has returned to her home in Peterboro after having a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardiner.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Jones were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graham on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Will Tinney of Cavanville made several calls here on Friday.

Mrs. Wesley Downer spent a few days visiting with friends in Millbrook during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardiner were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Paraguen on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fee and family and Mrs. Richard Graham spent Friday in Peterboro.

Mrs. George Jamieson spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. Robert Brown, in Millbrook.

Miss Helen Sanderson, teacher here is busily engaged drilling the pupils for a Christmas concert to be held on December 22.

Winter has come in earnest once more. Skating is again the merry pastime. The young people are again gliding about on the race.

Miss Vera Lowes spent Tuesday afternoon with her aunt, Mrs. Gertrude McLean.

Mr. Herbert Bigelow of Bethany made a business trip here on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs M Jones spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Shield, Peterboro.

Hospital for Sick Children

67 College St., Toronto 2, Ont.

Dear Mr. Editor:

A spirit of warm friendliness towards the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto exists all over the province and it increases with the years. It has been enhanced to a considerable extent by the clinics which have been conducted in so many centres in Ontario by doctors from the Hospital who have picked out curable cases which up to the time of the clinic had been seemingly hopeless—eventually sending the little patients home from the Hospital healed and fitted to be valuable assets to their municipalities, instead of remaining useless and pathetic burdens.

Your readers, in common with the people in all other progressive communities, are interested in the Hospital and what it is doing. The keen interest in crippled children manifested by the Rotary, Kiwanis, Gyro, Lions and other service clubs, throughout the province, has been of grand assistance in bringing in unfortunate children, often from remote districts to the various centres where the members of the Hospital staff have attended and have been able to hold huge clinics with the result that there has been a steady stream of children admitted to the Hospital from all over Ontario, for a long time.

This is but one branch of the thorough service rendered by the Hospital. It is the best equipped institution of its kind on the continent for the treatment of all child ailments. No Ontario child requiring its services is refused admittance and all that modern medical and surgical skill combined with loving care can accomplish is bestowed upon the sufferer, without distinctions as to religion or nationality, or because these responsible for the child are in poor circumstances.

Heavy expense is involved in this merciful work, Mr. Editor, as you can realize. Ordinary sources of revenue, including grants, fail to cover the actual cost of maintenance of the little patients, notwithstanding thrifty management. Old friends and new ones are relied upon to help in paying the difference and they include the readers of your valuable paper. The Hospital for Sick Children does not share in the funds of the Toronto Federation for Community Service, because it takes patients from all over the province.

Please ask your readers to remember the Hospital for Sick Children when they are doing their Christmas giving.

Faithfully yours,
H. H. WILLIAMS,
Chairman of the Trustees.

BUYERS PREPARED.

Poultry Would-Be Purchasers Were Ready to Take Away Carloads.

A great many of the poultry producers who sold fowl at the dressed poultry sale, expressed themselves as being wel satisfied with the results, thus giving the committee in charge of the event every encouragement to repeat it again next year.

The following firms had buyers at the sale: Lien's Limited, Harris Abattoir, Swift Canadian Company, Arnold Brothers, F. Wells and Son, and Canadian Packing Company. Each of these companies was represented by two men, excepting the Swift Canadian Company and F. Wells and Son who had four each.

F. Wells and Sons' men told the Examiner that they had come prepared to take out car loads, if possible, and were prepared to pay up to 32c a pound for chickens and up to 45c a pound for turkeys.

is known on both sides of the Atlantic, perhaps better to English audiences where his work as star in the Shakespearean memorial productions by the famous Benson company have placed him in the foremost rank of English players. He is today considered the leading character actor of the British stage, occupying a niche similar to that held in this country by Geo. Arliss.

Like every true artist Mr. Derwent has associated with him a company of genuine expert players with whom he stands ready to divide honors. Among his support in "The House of Ussher" are to be found such sterling artists as Esther Mitchell Henrietta Adams, Elfreda Hornell, C. Bailey Hick, Ferdinand Hast, Will T. Chatterton and Thos. McElhany and others.

The House of Ussher

is the last play of a great playwright, Henry V. Esmond. It affords a glimpse into the household of a great financier, Jacob Ussher, whose enormous fortune has been used many times but do not meet the requirements of the present ethical standards. With all his wealth and power he has to deal with his own daughter, who possesses the same brilliant mind as her father. The battle between them is the subject that Mr. Esmond chose to eliminate ith his masterly touch. His "When We Were Twenty One" is so well remembered that further identification is unnecessary. Those who enjoyed "The Vortex" and Galsworth's "Loyalties" should not miss the genuine treat awaiting in "The House of Ussher" at the Grand tomorrow night.

NEW JACK LONDON IS THE AUTHOR OF "ROCKING MOON"

Miss Barrett Willoughby, Author of Novel, is a Native of Alaska.

Since the passing of Jack London, whose writngs are known where the printed word is enjoyed, there has not appeared a writer to successfully carry on the work he began until the discovery of Barrett Willoughby, author of the noel, "Rocking Moon," a picturization of which will be shown at the Regent Theatre starting today.

Metropolitan Pictures Corporation sent an entire production unit to Sitka and Juneau, Alaska, where Miss Willoughby wrote "Rocking Moon,' and where many of the scenes were actually filmed.

Miss Willoughby is regarded as the feminine Jack London. No other recognized American writer has spent so much time upon a novel as Miss Barrett Willoughby. She secured her literary training while acting as secretary to Fred O'Brien, a South Sea writer. Her noel is historically correct and she spent many months examing government reports, United States records, and gathering data on native Indian and Russian religious rites. Much of the material of this story is founded on actual experiences and observations during her childhood with her father, who ran a trading post in a town north of Sitka. Each of her characters in "Rocking Moon" is alive and can be found in Sitka, Junean and Ketchikan.

Father Kasheyaroff, the last remaining Russian priest in Alaska, collaborated with Miss Willoughby and Director George Melford in filming "Rocking Moon, so that the production reaches the screen as one of the most unusual and authentic motion pictures of Alaska ever filmed.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S TRAVEL

Throughout the year there is no period so like a magnet for drawing people together as Christmas time.

No matter where you may be, there is an intensive longing for Christmas at home. Long ago, when travelling facilities were limited, people journeyed many weary miles and endured great hardships in order that they might be with their friends and loved ones on Christmas Day, but this has all been changed by the applicatiop of modern railway methods, whereby even the Continent may be crossed in safety and with every comfort, in a comparatively short journey.

This year Christmas and New Year's travel promise to be heavy, and with a view to placing every facility at the disposal of their patrons, Canadian National Railways have made their advance preparations and plans for extra trains and additional equipment on regular trains. Full particulars will appear in newspapers, and special time tables will be shortly obtainable from any Agent of the Company.

Those who wish to prepay the fare of relatives or friends from any outside point can deposit the money at any Canadian National Agency and the transportation will be delivered immediately and economically.

The Canadian National Telegraphs place at your service their wonderful facilities for the quick transmission of Holiday Greetings. A special staff is engaged during the Christmas rush in order that transmission and deliveries may be quickened to the highest point. A very attractive design of message form is being prepared for the holiday season.

The Canadian National Express offers the best vehicle for the safe and swift transport of Christmas gifts. That particular feature receives special supervision at holiday time, and this in itself is a guarantee of efficient service. Remember that a Canadian National Express receipt will protect you and will ensure complete satisfaction.

Canadian National solicits your patronage for every branch of its public service utilities. Every effort of each employee is centred on the efficient performance of his or her duty, and those who place their business in the hands of this great merchandising organization may rest assured that they will receive the full value for whatever expenditure they make, plus that measure of personal interest which is the true complement of perfect service.

NEW STYLE SEEN IN DECORATIONS

Cheu's Rose Cafe Is Unique With Personal Touch By Mrs. Cheu.

Some thing quite distinctive in the way of interior decoration has been achieved in Cheu's Rose Room, the new cafe and ice cream parlour which is being opened this week at 334 George Street by Mr. C. Cheu. The scheme has been carried out in a Chinese effect, and the mural decorations are the work of Harris and Boddy, with W. D. Thomas in charge of the painting of the white woodwork. The decorators have executed a unique idea in the large and small rectangular and oval panels which adorn the walls, colored in pale rose flat-tone finish, above a dado of green, with a molding of black and gold and an ornamental paper frieze, also of Chinese design. In the odd panels, which were done on canvas in the studio of Harris and Boddy, appear the traditional Chinese arrangements of birds and flowers, with backgrounds of weeping willows and pagodas and balconies, the peacocks and parrots and storks of the designs done in colors, in the stilted Oriental fashion. They make an effective decoration and chime in admirably with the lovely shades on the large central electroliers and the side wall lamps. These, the handiwork of Mrs. Cheu, are exceptionally artistic, carrying out the Chinese motif in their execution. They are done in the lovely scissors point work, in which floral and bird designs are pasted on linen, then sprinkled with varnish and crystalline beads. The large shades for the central lights are made in pagoda shape, with tassels of colored beads.

The conveniences of the new Rose Room include a dining-room, with alcoves furnished attractively in dark green finished British Columbia fir, the bench stalls being in the bungalow or "mission" style, an ice cream parlor and a lunch counter at the front of the store. There are also separate washrooms for ladies and gentlemen.

Every item, even to the pretty green and rose menu cards, carries out the idea of Oriental decoration. A feature of the opening is the wonderfully-iced storey cake which has been decorated by Mr. Cheu's own chef in delicate traceries of colored frosting, with roses and leaves in natural colors, silver balls, and lace-like festoons and fluted columns of white frosting sugar.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

There were no clergy business in the days of the early church. Our Lord and His apostles gave time and strength to the preaching of the Gospel and they did not expect to be remunerated in this world. The apostle Paul never put the prefex "Reverend" to his name, but rather called himself bond servant or slave of the Lord Jesus Christ. Surely if any one beside "Jehovah God" had a right to use that prefix, it was the Apostle Paul. Erecting beautiful costly buildings, with costly organs installed, for entertainment, was not in vogue in the early days. Advertising sermons, by using meaningless and silly phrases to attract the curious, is more of it. Preaching on subjects that have nothing to do with religion, in any way, shape or form, is more and more of it. It is not a pious act to go on building church edifices of extremely expensive kind, which are not necessary, especially when the whole land, or rather the inhabitants, are crying out for suitable houses for the deserving ones to live in. — M. T. Butcher. 1-136-1672

Many Suggestions In Report Tabled On Maritime Claims

Preferential Freight Rates, Larger Dominion Subsidies, Encouragement of Steel Manufacture and Coke Making Among Proposals of Commission.

REPORT IS LENGTHY DOCUMENT AND WILL BE FULLY DISCUSSED

OTTAWA, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—Preferential freight rates within the Eastern Maritime Provinces of Canada; payments of money grants from the Dominion to the Maritime Provinces approximating $1,400,000 pending an upward revision of present annual grants; bonuses for steel manufacturing; establishment of coking plants in other parts of the Dominion to encourage the use of Nova Scotia coal; and other important and far-reaching recommendations were made in the report tabled in the House of Commons today from the Royal Commission on Maritime claims, which, under the chairmanship of Sir Andrew Duncan, of London, England, spent some months this year in its investigation.

The report will be discussed at considerable length in Parliament. It runs into about 30,000 words and covers a wide range of observation of conditions in the Maritime Provinces.

In addition to definite recommendations on various subjects the commission draws attention to opinions expressed by witnesses from the province of New Brunswick that free entry to the United States of pulp and paper, with the exception of newsprint, and a general trade treaty with the United States covering forest products, would greatly benefit the industry. Attention is also drawn to the request of Canadian fishermen for entry to the United States for fresh fish and lowering of the duties on "manufactured" fish.

The report recommends the appointment of a deputy minister of the Dominion Government to deal entirely with fisheries. The placing of the ports of Halifax and St. John under harbor commissions is advised, as are also certain improvements in car ferry and other services connecting Prince Edward Island with the mainland.

In making their report the commissioners observe that they approached consideration of the claims of the Maritime provinces, "not from the point of view of finding palliatives for the dissatisfaction and political unrest which have been prevailing in that part of the Dominion, but with an endeavor to apply equitable correction where we have found their claims, to be, in our opinion, well founded."

LOCOMOTIVES GET SPEEDOMETERS.

At last locomotives have been fitted with speedometers, the swaying and vibration of the train having long hindered the accomplishment of this feat. Electrically operated, the new device employs a magneto run by the engine wheel, reports Popular Science Monthly. An indicator, calibrated in miles per hour instead of volts or amperes, is mounted in the cab.

Good-Sized Lynx Caught In Thickly-Settled County

BRANTFORD, Dec. 10. — (Special).—A good-sized lynx was killed by Lorne Helmer of Silver Hill, fourteen miles west of Simcoe. Residents of the Silver Hill district are of the opinion that the animal shot by Mr. Helmer may be the same one which attacked a youngster in that vicinity a few weeks ago.

WEATHER WAS GREAT SETBACK GRAIN HARVEST

Report on Movement of Western Grain Crops During November.

DELIVERIES LOWER.

Export From Montreal Much Smaller Than of Former Years.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press)—Following is the report of K. A. Ursell, statistician to the Board of Grain Commissioners, on the movement of Western Canadian grain crops during November, 1926:

"For the third month in succession inclement weather in western Canada and around the Great Lakes has continued to add to the difficulties experienced in the harvesting, marketing and movement of the grain crops. Happily farmers were able to complete the threshing of practically all of the grain before heavy snow storms and sub-zero temperatures prevented further work in the open. Deliveries at country elevators are considerably below those of last year, to the end of November in spite of the fact that every effort was made to have as large a proportion of the surplus delivered as possible, in time to allow of large shipments down the Great Lakes in readiness for export sale during the winter [illegible] addition to hampering the [illegible] from the country, the [illegible]orms and later the formation of heavy ice, difficult to keep broken in narrow channels, have caused delays in lake transportation and prevented vessels making as many trips as they would otherwise have been able to.

"To add to all the difficulties, the shipment of grain for export from Montreal due to fewer tramp steamers being available, has been relatively so much smaller than was anticipated that congestion at Georgian Bay and Lake Erie ports became imminent also. To avoid this and still provide for the movement of a large volume of grain at the more favorable lake freight rates, the chartering of vessels to take winter storage cargoes for November shipment commenced earlier and was heavier than usual. By the middle of the month winter storage cargoes were being taken freely.

"At that time the order-in-council granting permission to vessels of U. S.A., registry to take cargoes for winter storage at Canadian points, to be unloaded after the close of

MASSEY TO BE HIS EXCELLENCY

Canada's Representative in Washington To Rank as Ambasasdor.

TITLE ANNOUNCED.

OTTAWA, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press). — Hon. Vincent Massey, when at Washington, D.C., will be officially styled "Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary in the United States for His Majesty's Dominion of Canada," Premier Mackenzie King has announced here. This will entail the salutation of "His Excellency" to Canada's first Minister to the United States.

LEAGUE COUNCIL AT GENEVA ASKS DATE FOR ARMS PARLEY 1927 SESSION IS IMPOSSIBLE

Directs Commission To Report Earliest Time For Meeting.

MEET IN MARCH.

Cautions Against Calling Conference Too Soon For Fear of Failure.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—The possibility of convoking a disarmament conference next year practically disappeared yesterday afternoon when the Council adopted a resolution asking for the Preparatory Commission's advice on the subject of a possible date.

Sir Austin Chamberlain, speaking, he said, in the name of public opinion, stressed the importance of proceeding cautiously and building solidly. He was supported by Signor Scialoja of Italy.

M. Paulin Boncour made an eloquent plea for expediting the preparations and pointed out that the Assembly resolution asked for a conference to be called at the earliest possible moment.

The Council, nevertheless, adopted the resolution in which the Preparatory Commission was asked to "submit proposals with regard to the moment at which it will be possible to convene a conference."

This means that the preparatory mission, which meets at the end of March, may take a decision which will only be considered by the Council in June. Then it will be too late to convoke a conference before the Assembly meets, and there appears to exist a feeling against conferences in the last quarter of the year.

On the other hand the Council in a private session decided that the economic conference should be held in Geneva on May 4.

This decision means that Russia will not participate and consequently the opinions of Russian experts are not considered essential to a correct estimate of the situation and the measures to be taken to ameliorate it.

The United States, it is learned, will be invited in the same manner as the League members to send unofficial experts.

Plan to Build Wireless Station.

During a discussion of the report of the Council Committee on measures to expedite Council decisions in the event of danger of war, the Council adopted a resolution to build a huge wireless station. The proposal, which was strongly supported by the Chilean delegate orders the League section on transit communication to institute immediately in co-operation with the Secretary-General, with a view to submitting a report to the Council at the earliest possible date, the necessary enquiries in order that the League may have at its disposal a sufficiently powerful radio-telegraphic station of its own which will permit it to communicate independently with the greatest possible number of States, members of the League."

The decision to build a wireless station is not the only indication of the feeling of the permanency of the League, but of the determination of the Council members to use it as an agent to prevent war. The proposal was submitted along with a provision for inviting all League

Two Boys Chase And Catch Lone Timber Wolf: They Thought It Was a Neighbor's Pet Dog

DINORWIC, Ont., December 10. — There is a dog named Queenie, owned by Mrs. Hall, that cannot bark, it being part wolf. This dog howls like a wolf quite often and on a recent occasion was howling, which attracted a wolf in this neighborhood to come to town.

Two boys, Johnnie Ovenstone, 14, and George Huckell, 12, going to school, saw the lone wolf in town. Both boys being accustomed to seeing fur bearing animals in this neighborhood, which is a Hudson Bay post, gave chase as they could see that the wolf had difficulty in getting through the deep snow, which is four to four and a half feet deep, and they managed to keep close behind the wolf.

After chasing it around the neighborhood they finally cornered it inside of the church yard and it laid down panting and played out and on going close to the animal they discovered it had had an encounter with a porcupine as there were many quills on the wolf. The wolf did not show any resistance and the boys secured a barrel and kicked the wolf into it. They brought their captive home to their parents on a sleigh and kept it for two days. On account of not being able to sell a live wolf their parents had it shot and the boys are rewarded by the bounty.

VISCOUNT GREY IS CONSIDERED LIKELY LEADER

May Follow in Earl of Oxford and Asquith's Footsteps.

CONTROLS FUNDS.

Announced That Grey Will Accept If Assured Adequate Support.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Viscount Grey of Fallodon, who as Sir Edward Grey was secretary for foreign affairs at the outbreak of the Great War, is spoken of as leader of that section of the Liberal party over which the Earl of Oxford and Asquith held sway until he withdrew from the leadership of the party about a year ago.

It is announced by the Evening Standard that Viscount Grey will accept, if assured adequate support. This would indicate that Former Premier Lloyd George, the parliamentary leader, is still the centre of fierce animosities in the party ranks.

Mr. Lloyd George by his control of huge funds, holds the power of the purse. He has offered to use these funds to the party's advantage, but only on condition that he be allowed to completely reorganize the party's headquarters staff, whereby he would be enabled to nominate candidates of his own choice at the next general elections.

The Asquithian faction, including those numerous leaders who joined in the movement to read Lloyd George out of the party after the recent general strike, refuses to give this compete power to him. A dinner is to be given in honor of Vivian Phillips, the Asquithian chief organizer, next Monday, at which it is supposed Lord Grey will be offered the leadership, but Grey's action will entirely depend on the amount of support he can count on, and Lloyd George is still a great power, with possibly a majority of the Liberals of the country.

Mr. Lloyd George will start Friday for a month's holiday on the Riviera, and there is much annoyance among the Asquithians at his leaving London at a time when the party is heatedly arguing as to whether it shall accept his offer.

Report has it that £50,000 has already been subscribed to finance the Grey faction and it is rumored that Lord Cowdray is offering to provide the party with election funds, but only on condition of total exclusion of Lloyd George from the party.

Burglars Steal Lone Cent And Leave Note Of Thanks

WINNIPEG, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—Burglars who broke into the premises of the Canadian Sales Company, St. Boniface, during the night were no pikers. After prying open the back door and breaking open the cash box, they found it contained only one cent. They took the copper and replaced it with a note of thanks.

LEMIEUX AGAIN RE-ELECTED AS HOUSE SPEAKER

Sixteenth Parliament Adjourns Until Friday After He is Chosen.

CHOSE SENATORS.

Throne Speech Will Be Delivered on Friday at 3 P.M.

OTTAWA, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The first business of Canada's 16th Parliament took place in the Senate shortly before three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Before the Usher of the Black Rod summoned the House of Commons to meet, the Deputy Governor-General, the following new Senators were formally introduced and took seats in the red chamber: Senators W. L. MacDougald, Quebec; D. E. Reilly, Alberta, and Paul Hatfield, Nova Scotia.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux (Liberal, Gaspe), Speaker of the House of Commons since 1921, was re-elected to the chair yesterday afternoon. The House then adjourned until today.

For the second time this year, the House of Commons assembled to begin a new Parliament and for the second time it found itself without a Speaker. For a while the members wandered about the Chamber greeting old friends and meeting new ones, and when the Clerk of the House, Arthur Beauchesne, K.C., called the Chamber to order from the Senate came "Black Rod" Col. W. H. Thompson, to summon the members to meet the deputy of the Governor-General, Chief Justice Anglin.

Throne Speech To-Day.

Mr. Speaker Bostock of the Senate then informed both Houses that the Governor-General did not see fit to read the Speech from the Throne until the House of Commons had chosen a Speaker. His Excellency fixed to-day, at three p.m. as the hour at which he would meet Parliament.

E. Taschereau Choice.

The first act of Speaker Lemieux after taking the chair was the announcement of the appointment of E. Taschereau as deputy Sergeant-at-Arms for the session.

When Premier King moved the adjournment of the House, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative leader, said that he would like to make the special request that the report of the commission which had enquired into maritime rights be tabled at the earliest possible moment. He understood that copies had been printed and were available for distribution.

Premier King replied that the report would be tabled to-day.

Mr. Lemieux was escorted into the House by Premier King and Mr. Lapointe, took his seat, and replied as follows:

"Madam, fellow-members of the House of Commons:

"For the third time I have been called to the high office of Speaker of the House of Commons. Let me assure you how deeply I appreciate your nomination. If the honor is great, greater still are the responsibilities.

"After 30 years of continuous service in this House, where it has been my privilege to observe men and events, I more than ever realize that in the discharge of my duties, justice, fair play and strict impartiality will always exercise a moderating influence on political passions.

"And need I say that the respect for parliamentary institutions in a young democracy like ours it is too precious a boon not to be constantly set before my eyes as a guiding star."

T. L. Church, North Toronto, while recognizing the gifts of the proposed Speaker, took exception to the fact that he was director of various companies, including the Bank of Montreal and other corporations which came before parliament frequently for consideration of various kinds. In the opinion of Mr. Church the Speaker of the Commons as well as all Ministers of the Crown should relinquish all directorships of such a chararcter and should be paid sufficient salary to enable them to do so.

Government Plans To Re-Introduce Legislation Held Up

Speech From Throne Also Mentions Encouragement of Canadian Coke Industry — Rules of Commons To Be Amended — Railway Legislation.

PARLIAMENT IS OPENED TO-DAY WITH ALL OLD TIME FORMALITY

OTTAWA, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The Speech from the Throne, read at the opening of the 16th Parliament of Canada today by His Excellency, Lord Willlingdon, outlined the legislation which the Government proposes to introduce this session. This includes:

1—The re-introduction of Government measures which passed the House at the last session, but which failed to become law. Amendments to the Canada Grain Act will also be submitted.

2—Measures providing for assistance to works constructed for the production of domestic coke from Canadian coal.

3—Legislation dealing with the report of the Maritime Rights Commission, to be tabled today.

4—Re-introduction of the three-year programme for Canadian National branch lines construction.

5—Legislation for the approval of the agrement with the holders of Grand Trunk Pacific perpetual debenture.

6—Amendments to the rules of the House of Commons will be considered.

The Speech also announces that good progress had been made with the work on the Hudson Bay Railway, and it is planned to continue construction as early as possible next year.

Prince Accepts Invitation.

His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, it is announced, has accepted the invitation to visit Canada for the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. Premier Baldwin, of Great Britain, has also been invited to attend, and may be present.

Canada's sixteenth Parliament was opened by His Excellency amid the booming of guns. The clattering mounted guard provided by the Princess Louise Dragoons, accompanied Lord Willingdon to Parliament Hill and lined up before the buildings. The guard of honour was from the Governor-General's Foot Gaurds.

Show and Formality.

Within the buildings also were all the glitter, show and formality of days gone by. The Senate Chamber, where Lord Willingdon read the speech, bore a rather somber hue yesterday, but to-day glittering uniforms, the scarlet and ermine of the Supreme Court Judges, and the evening gowns in the ladies' gallery, provided light and color to the scene.

Mr. Speaker Lemieux, standing at the Bar of the Senate, informed His Excellency of his election as Speaker of the House, and in traditional phrases asked His Excellency that errors made might be imputed to him and not to the Commons.

Speaker Lemieux also made a formal claim to all rights and privileges of the House of Commons.

LOCAL FIRMS MAKE CHANGES

Find Business On Up Grade and Prepare New Quarters.

NEED MORE ROOM.

Several business changes of considerable importance have taken place during he past few days that would seem to indicate, as far as Peterboro is concerned, that business is once again on the upward grade.

J. E. Adams and Son, formerly engaged in the wholesale grocery, flour and cereal business, have decided to specialize in flour and cereals, and have sold the grocery business to Cameron and Matthews.

Lowe and Outram, wholesale confectioners, have purchased the building immediately south of the Coca Cola building on George street, and will carry on business at that address after December 21.

Brooks Brothers, wholesale confectioners, are moving to 255 George St., just south of the Peter Hamilton Company's premises.

J. E. Adams of J. E. Adams and Son, told the Examiner that due to pressure of business he had found it impossible to give his full attention to both groceries and flour. He had therefore decided to develop one portion of the business, namely, Purity and Marvel flour, and other cereals. He is now in a position, he said, to give full attention to this end and will be in a position to give even better service than ever before. The firm has rented the warehouse on Bethune street, south of Simcoe, formerly occupied by D. Florence and Son.

S. A. Lowe of Lowe and Outram, told the Examiner that their business had increased to such a degree that they had found their present premises inadequate, and consequently had been forced to secure larger quarters in order to cope successfully with the demand.

Many improvements have been made by Brooks Brothers on their new premises at 255 George street and when they move in on December 21, they will have every facility for taking care of their thriving business.

WOMENS FAITH SAVES SAILORS

Upholds Their Morale While They Man Vessel's Pumps.

SCHOONER LOST.

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press). A woman's faith in prayer maintained the morale of the crew of ten men of the schooner Edna M. McKnight of Boston, while it was sinking on Tuesday, 160 miles off Virginia Capes.

Mrs A. Loescher, wife of the schooner's master, and the crew were brought here after they had been rescued by the British steamer Radnor. The men attributed their rescue to her comforting words and prayer while they were working frantically at the pumps from Sunday to Tuesday, with the ship partially submerged.

REGIMENT SEEKING SLAYER OF FASCIST

Bandit Still at Large Despite Great Scar Which Betrays Him.

ROME, Dec. 10.—A regiment of royal infantry is searching the neighborhood of Ventimiglia for the notrious bandit, Sante Pollastor, who escaped after murdering two policemen at Milan recently and is supposed to have muredred two policemen near Ventimiglia and caused the disappearance of a policeman and a Fascist militiaman. Bands of Fascist militia are guarding frontier passes to prevent him from reaching France.

Despite a great scar on his face, Pollastro has escaped capture. He has appeared in small villages, bought supplies of cigarettes, wine and bread, and vanished into the rough frontier country. The inhabitants either have not recognized him immediately or have feared to attempt a capture.

The official Tribuna says his crimes are another form of the anarchist activities suppressed by the new laws. It stresses that he spent years in France, whence, it says, kindred spirits filter into Italy, presumably committing common crimes but really striving to embarrass the Government.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Rev. David Wren Speaks on Value of Imagination and Vision.

"WHAT DO YOU SEE?"

Rev. David Wren of Trinity United Church was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Y's Men's Club. The meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. and was the largest gathering yet held by this new organization, President Roy White was in the chair.

Mr. Wren spoke from the question, "What do you see." He said there were three important questions that might be asked, "Where do you live?" "What do you do" and "What do you see?" The importance of dreamers and visionaries in the world was stressed. Most people, he said, seem to be concerned with the things of lesser import, whereas there are many fine things in life to see.

Mr. Wren spoke of the necessity of having a proper vision of God and of His workings in the world, and said it was for the young people to think of Him as a God of Peace, and to counteract the belief held by so many that God meant war between races to continue for all time and that another great war is on the way.

There is physical vision, spiritual vision, and intellectual vision, the speaker continued. He urged the development of magination, or intellectual vision, saying it was the greatest creative force in the world and the source of the inspiration of youth. He instanced the ambitious dreams of his own youth which had held him to hard tasks in the hope of reaching success some time. He gave credit to imagination and dreamers for most of the achievements and progress of the world. The great scientists were dreamers, he said, and were laughed at as fools; Columbus told his men he would know the new world because he had seen it in his dreams.

The speaker commended the formation of such clubs, where young men could gather for laughter and fellowship, and also for the advancement of their dreams. Trevor Miller and Charlie Crease moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Bill Giles was the booster for the meeting. Suggestions of efforts to be taken up by the club in the line of service through the Y.M.C.A. were advanced by Trevor Miller and Aubrey Adams, and a committee to take action.

OBITUARY.

SAMUEL VOSBORGH

COBOURG, Dec. 10.—The funeral took place at Castleton on Sunday of Samuel Wellington Vosborgh. Mr. Vosborgh passed away after only a little more than a week's illness with pneumonia. He was a well-known and esteemed resident of the locality and was in his 67th year. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Floyd and Claude of Castleton, and one daughter, Mrs. William Sabins of Grafton. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Beckel, pastor of Castleton United Church.

J. M. WOOD

OTTAWA, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The death at St. Petersburg, Florida, of J. M. Wood, aged 67, one of the outstanding mining men of Northern Ontario, was reported here yesterday. Mr. Wood was one of the pioneer prospectors of the province and discovered the famous Keeley silver mine at South Lorraine in the Fall of 1907. He was also personally interested in many of the mining ventures of the North, including the Kirkland Lake properties. While no word has been received of any funeral arrangements, it is expected that the body will be brought north and interment will take place at Springhill, his native town, of Toronto.

Surviving him are his widow, and two brothers, Dr. Duncan Wood, of Needham, Mass., and Albert Wood, of Osgoode Township, near here.

COLET A. MALLORY

COBOURG, Dec. 10—The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence, Provincial Highway East, to Grafton for interment of the late Colet A. Mallory, a former reeve of Percy Township, and Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. Mr. Mallory was born in Hamilton Township, being a son of the late C. R. Mallory, Esq., and a member of a pioneer family. He married Harriet Furlong and took up residence in Percy, where he farmed for a number of years. Mr. Mallory was prominently connected with the patrons of industry when it flouished in this district and was a Grand Master of the Order. He twice contested his riding as Liberal standard bearer, once against the late Dr. Willoughby of Colborne for the Provincial Legislature, and against Edward Cochrane of Cramahe Township for the Federal House. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and a member of the United Church at Grafton.

After residing for some years in Percy, Mr. Mallory moved back to the old homestead about four miles east of Cobourg on the Provincial Highway.

After the death of his first wife he married Margaret Berry, who also predeceased him. Mr. Mallory was in his 86th year.

Surviving their father are five sons and one daughter, Harry of Oshawa, Albert of St. Clements, Graham Island, B.C., George of Colborne, Frank on the homestead, Roy of Warkworth, and Mrs. Cole of Vancouver, B.C. A daughter, Mrs. William McKay predeceased her father.

Mr. Mallory is survived also by two brothers, David of Toronto and George of West Duluth, Minn., and by a sister, Mrs. Jones, wife of the late Dr. Richard Jones of Cobourg. The latter Dr. Millory of Colborne, the late clerk, and B. J. Mallory of Hamilton Township, were brothers of deceased.

The funeral services were conducted Rev. Andy McLaughlin, pastor of Grafton United Church.

DEWAR MEALL BUTTERS.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 10. — The sudden death of Dewar Meall Butters, on Friday, December 3rd, deprived the town of one of its oldest and most highly respected residents, who will be sadly missed not only by his home circle but by the people in the community in which he has spent 41 years of his life.

The deceased had enjoyed good health until about two weeks ago when he took a chill which developed into intestinal grippe, death resulting from heart trouble.

The late Mr. Butters was born on November 17, 1847, in Perthshire, Scotland, and came to Canada at the age of 21.

In 1872 he was married to Miss Christan Craig, who predeceased him 42 years ago. Of the family of five children, one daughter, Mrs. Robert Jack, passed away in 1911, the surviving members of the family being Mrs. A. Anderson, Mr. F. Butters, of Havelock, Mrs. H. Jewett of Toronto and Mr. Thomas Butters of Hornepayne. Two sisters in Scotland also survive.

The funeral service was held at his late residence at 10.30 a.m., on Monday, and was conducted by Rev. W. R. Archer of the United church. Interment took place at Vernonville cemetery, near Cobourg, where his wife is buried.

The pall bearers were five grandsons, Messrs, Ronald Jack, Lorne Jack, Lynn Anderson, William Butters and Loudon Butters, and his son-in-law, Mr. Harry Jewett.

The many beautiful floral tributes spoke eloquently of the love and esteem in which the deceased was held.

COUNCIL MEETING

Full Meeting of Alnwick Township Held on Saturday.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 10. — The Alnwick Township Council met in the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon, November 27th, at 2 o'clock, pursuant to adjournment of October 30th.

All the members were present, with Reeve R. H. Mouncey in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and on motion by Gordon Parker and Alfred Braithwaite were adopted as read. A communication was received from A. E. Wilson and Co., re township insurance.

Miss Jessie J. Johnston came before the Council asking for the use of the Town Hall free for the bazaar and tag day for the children for Saturday, December 11th. Also Mrs. George Mouncey, representing the Women's Institute, asking a grant to help defray the cost of electric light in the shed. Moved by Alfred Braithwaite, seconded by Edwin Brown ,that this Council give permission to give the hall free for the bazaar and tag day for the children.

Moved by Ernest Timlin, seconded by Alfred Braithwaite, that this Council grant the Women's Institute $25 for lights in the shed.

Moved by Ernest Timlin, seconded by Gordon Parker, that the Reeve sign orders on the treasurer for the following amounts:

John Linton, work on road, $25; Joseph Dunnette, repair two culverts, $10; Archie Waldie, gravelling, $15; Archie Waldie, 21 yards gravel, $2.10; Women's Institute, for lighting purposes, $25; Albert Halstead, dragging road, $2.25; Earl Shearer, drawing tile and cutting brush, $3.25; Alfred Braithwaite, committee work, $1.50.

Moved by Erwin Brown, seconded by Alfred Braithwaithe, that this Council adjourn and meet on Wednesday, the 15th day of December, at 10 o'clock a.m.

BUSY LITTLE BEE SLAVES LIFE AWAY

Horrible Example of Over-Socialization Says Expert.

TORONTO, Dec. 10. — The busy little bee, which grasps the shining hours, has been held up, times without number, as a worthy object of imitation for the human race; but never again. For, according to the findings of the research work of the students of bee culture, as outlined before the Ontario Beekeepers' Association by George S. Demuth, editor of Gleaning's and Bee Culture, of Medina, Ohio, the busy little bee is one of the most horrible examples of slavery and over-socialization to be found anywhere in the whole realm of lower existence. If the human race were to copy the example of the busy litile bee it would shortly become the premature victim of all the evils of over work; it would acquire hardening of the arteries at about the age of twenty, and it would be a crippled old man long before its normal age of usefulness had been reached. It would laze through a brief period of existence, then it would step into things at the double, and while many of the Spring blossoms were still glowing upon the trees and the vines, it would lay itself in the grave, a victim of premature old age and of over indulgence in the luxury of work. So who wants to be a busy little bee, and woh can have any confidence in those old time school readers which held up the bee as a glittering example of making hay while the sun shone?

the bee provides a remarkable illustration of the folly of working at the double. During the Winter months, while the swarms are hived up, the life of a bee may extend over six or seven months; but in Spring when all things are bright, and the temptation comes to the busy little bee to go out and show man how to step, there is another story to be told. He, or rather she, steps all right; but the buzzing lasts for six or eight weeks at the most, and then it is a case of hardening of the arteries, corrosion of the liver, or something else of that sort, which snuffs the worker off. If the worker had been able to resist the temptation to get her name in the school books, it might have been a case of living out a normal old age, such as prevails through the lazy Winter season; and the bee, through all the centuries of its existence, has never appeared to grasp the theory of the folly of piling up its millions of honey atoms at the expense of its arteries. There are some men of whom the same might be said.

Problem for Research.

The bee's Springtime activity, in addition to shortening his or her life, has provided a problem for the students of research. The beekeepers thoroughly approve of the lady bee working at the double, but the instinct to strengthen the population of the colony has man's brain at work. According to Mr. Demuth research has solved the problem of the early Summer swarming. There used to be a time when the swarming of the bees was welcomed by the ringing of bells and by a variety of other foolish demonstrations, the idea being that it meant another hive, but now a beekeeper looks upon a swarming much as he would contemplate a cow pasturing in his garden. It is so much lost effort. But swarming has been largely overcome, and Mr. Demuth told the story. It is accomplished by playing a neat little trick on the busy bee.

In the Springtime, when the first crop of bees hatch and the population of the hive increases to such an extent that there is a feeling of congestion in the home, the swarms are certain t take to the wing. That is, they would take to the wing except for the trickery of man. For the students of bee culture have decided that swarming is due to congestion only; so now, just about the time the colony is due to split in two, they enlarge the hive. And the bees, instead of hurrying out to look for a new home, make the discovery that they have an attic which they had forgotten all about, and which must be filled with bees and honey before any of the youngsters dare to leave home. That sort of thing keeps up, with man increasing the attics, until the instinctive period for swarming is over and the work of storing up honey must be faced. Through that process the students of the bees have reduced swarming to the minimum, they have succeeded in building up larger colonies and have increased the honey gathering accomplishments of the busy little bee. They have turned the bees activity from swarming to honey gathering, and that explains why almost anybody, the world over may now have Canadian honey on his pancakes in the morning. The beekeepers no longer worry about starting new colonies by the old process of swarming; they buy the bees, instead from the United States at two dollars a pound.

SALES AND BAZAARS

WARSAW, Dec. 10—The ladies of Carmel, Zion, Bethel and Warsaw United Churches held a bazaar on Tuesday afternoon and evening in the basement of the Warsaw United Church. The basement was very prettily decorated. In the centre the tea-room was enclosed within a lattice of brown and yellow crepe paper. The tea-tables had pretty cloths and dainty china. Tea, sandwiches, cake and pies, if one wished it, were served for fifteen cents. At one end of the room was a long table, prettily laid, where after four o'clock luncheon was served. Delicious cooking, cakes, pies, cookies and tarts, were on sale in one of the booths. Some of the young girls had charge of a fish pond. There was a booth where very pretty aprons, towels and bags were sold. At another booth knitted goods, handkerchiefs, and other things were on sale. The candy store was a busy place; the sweets were displayed in dainty green and white baskets, little red pails and fancy boxes.

There was a splendid attendance all afternoon. Two ladies of long ago, Miss Krim and Miss Breese appeared. Miss Prim wore a black silk dress with basque, draped overskirt, crinoline and bustle, long skirt, long sleeves and high neck. Miss Breese wore a tight-fitting trailing one piece dress of red and black. The head dresses hardly fitted the costumes, but they completely disguised the wearers. Miss Prim's head gear was a red-floppy hood, a mask and brown veil. Miss Breese covered her face with a thick black crochetted affair.

Nearly everything was sold and the ladies are pleased to have about one hundred and forty dollars. This is circuit money and will be used for a new roof for the parsonage shed.

The Warsaw Ladies' Aid have donated fifty dollars to help pay for repairing the Warsaw sheds. They have also gotten, and put on, new felt for the church doors. The old had become very ragged.

The town hall was crowded with men all Tuesday afternoon. The council had called a telephone meeting. Railway officials were there and all the books for three years back were examined.

Mrs. Ellen Brown spent a few days this week with her mother, Mrs. Clements.

The stores are showing their Christmas goods and very pretty some of them are.

NEW GLASS SAVES ACTORS' EYES.

Movie actors and actresses no longer need fear 'Kleig eyes' from the powerful studio lights, reports Popular Science Monthly. Bureau of Standards experts have developed a remarkable new glass said to protect the eyes from harmful ultra-violet rays, such as are radiated from the movie studio arc lamps. The glass is in the form of shades for the lights. It contains cerium oxide, an element said to absorb the harmful rays without affecting the power of the light.

AN EMPHATIC MANDATE.

Revised figures covering the results of the Provincial election leave no doubt as to the emphatic nature of the endorsation given the Government control proposals of the Ferguson Government.

Not only were candidates representing that policy elected in 79 out of the 112 constituencies in the Province, but the popular vote was very strongly in favour of Government control, a majority of well over 200,000 being piled up behind the Government proposals.

Three out of every five people who voted on December 1st showed themselves as willing to give the Government control plan a trial, a percentage that affords a considerable contrast to the result of the 1924 plebiscite when 51 out of every 100 voters supported the retention of the Ontario Temperance Act.

The completeness of the mandate given the Government cannot be questioned, and with that mandate comes the responsibility of rigidly administering a well thought out Government control act that will appeal to the 600,000 people who voted for such a policy as sane and reasonable.

The onus is on the shoulders of Premier Ferguson and the members of his Government.

FOR THE UTILITIES COMMISSION.

Although Lee Barns has dropped out of the Utilities Commission race, the electors will have at least three choices when they come to mark their ballots for this important position, and the campaign promises to be a particularly interesting feature of the coming municipal election.

The latest entrant is E. R. Shirley, well known in engineering circles, whose hat is now in the ring in company with those of Fred Hills, the first to announce his candidature, and ex-Mayor George H. Duncan.

It is possible that these three aspirants may have further opposition to contend with when the official nomination day arrives, but in the meanwhile the electors can be sure of a three-cornered campaign.

It is a healthy sign to have so many candidates for one municipal position in the field weeks before the election, and a spread of the same activity and interest to other branches of municipal politics would be a welcome development.

Aldermanic candidates in particular are coy about declaring themselves, and thus interest that might be stirred up if the voters had an early line upon what they could expect in the aldermanic race is killed.

MODERN FIRE PROTECTION.

Although there have been some disagreements as to details and as to the design of the equipment to be purchased, the City Council is pretty well of one mind as to the advisability of giving the local Fire Department modern facilities for fighting fires.

The majority of the citizens will approve of this desire to make Peterboro's protection against fire as efficient as possible; it is a policy that will prove in the long run to be genuine economy.

The fire loss in Canada each year is heavy enough to be staggering to those who give the figures any serious consideration.

It is true that the chief reduction in this annual loss must come from educating people to be careful, and that the old proverb, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," applies with peculiar force to the fire situation.

Yet human nature being what it is and educational campaigns being therefore necessarily slow in achieving complete success, wise communities keep their fire-fighting resources up to the mark in efficiency and in equipment.

The new apparatus to be furnished the Peterboro Fire Department, judging by the experience of other cities, will materially add to the effectiveness of the department as a fire-fighting unit.

CONSTRUCTION IMPROVED.

Construction reports for the eleven months of this year ending November 30th show that the building program during 1926 was far in advance of the same period in 1925. It is noteworthy that the business building classification leads all this year, as it did last year, and that this year's business building is far ahead of that of last year. It is estimated that business construction works will double those of 1925 as those of that year did the construction in this classification in 1924.

This surely means a healthy condition of affairs with business concerns leading. It indicates a feeling of stability and enterprise which would not be manifest if trade conditions were at low ebb.

Residential construction throughout Canada, according to McLean's building reports, shows signs of a similar healthy advance in this classification of building.

The volume of building for the eleven months of this year is set at $359,222,800. What that means to the people of Canada may be left to the imagination. Canada is rapidly reaching the place in the world where she will begin to think and talk in billions. With the continued healthy advance this year's figures will in the near future seem quite insignificant in the light of what is bound to come in the way of outgrowth in the next few years.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

An enumeration of the reasons for advertising has recently been given out, says The Kingston Whig-Standard. There are eight reasons advanced, but there are many others, of course. However, here are eight that are very splendid and highly convincing, as given in a southern newspaper:

Newspaper reading is a universal daily habit; newspaper, therefore, reaches each day virtually all who buy.

Newspaper advertising is the life blood of local trade because it touches all consumer sources in every community. It gives the national advertiser the same opportunity for complete consumer appeal in any locality.

Newspaper advertising cuts selling costs because it entails no waste in locality of circulation. Manufacturers use it to cover markets where it is profitable to do business.

Newspaper advertising insures quick, thorough and economical dealer distribution and dealer goodwill, because retailers are willing to sell products advertised direct to their own consumers.

Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers to tell where their products may be bought.

Newspaper advertising can be started or stopped over night, can be prepared between days to meet certain developments and to obtain immediate resultse.

Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers to check advertising reaults and costs in every market which they enter.

Newspaper advertising costs less than any other kind.

The merchant or other business man who is taking advantage of the opportunities offered by newspaper advertising to boost his business during the Christmas season will be able to face the quiet months of January and February without undue worry.

THE LITERARY FAKER.

"Some men has plenty money and no brains, and some men has plenty brains and no money. Surely men with plenty money and no brains were made for men with plenty brains and no money." So declared the notorious and illiterate yet wily Tichborne claimant, and the aphorism goes far to explain the philosophy, not only of that daring impostor, but of many other clever people who wander from the straight and narrow path. It certainly helps to account for the activities, rather conspicuous of late, of the type of artist known as the literary faker.

As the result of recent revelations, British publishers and collectors have awakened to the fact that to distinguish a good book from a bad one is not half so difficult as to determine what is a genuine manuscript and what is not. Not long ago there was the case of the English laborer who announced the discovery of a number of Shakespearean MSS, the authenticity of which was questioned and disproved only after some of them had found a ready market.

Not so heinous was the deception practised by the clever young Irish lady who wrote a book purporting to be the diary of an eighteenth century dame, which many well-informed critics, believed to be genuine, but which the fair "editor" naively confessed later to be a hoax. And now literary circles and publishing houses have been stirred by two other cases that touch the ethical side and legal limitations of book production—the one arising from the publication of "The Whispering Gallley," the other from an action for damages raised in the London courts by a reputable firm of publishers who had issued what was represented as a posthumous work of Oscar Wilde.

In the latter case, a recognized authority on Wilde had denounced the book as spurious, and charged the publishers with fraudulently foisting it upon an innocent reading public. Legal proceedings followed, the publishers explaining that they had received the manuscript from a lady whose bona-fides they had no reason to doubt, and insisting that they had printed it in good faith, believing it to be a genuine production of the author of "De Profundis." At the trial, a number o literary experts were called upon to give their opinion as to the authenticity of the manuscript, but the question was left undetermined, the jury finding that there had been no fraudulent intention on the part of the publishers, and returning a verdict in their favor with an award of £100 damages.

The point raised in all those cases emphasizes anew the temptations that the literary field offers to skilful but designing people who, for money, or from other motives not easily explained, lend themselves to the forging of autographs, the fabrication of manuscripts and the production of works calculated to deceive editors, publishers and readers alike. The history of literature is filled with such instances of duplicity, and the curious thing is that the law affords little or no protection against them. The man who imitates the handwriting of his butcher or baker is very apt to go to jail, but one may fake an autograph of Shakespeare, forge a letter of Burns or counterfeit a manuscript of Shelley's with impunity.

The difficulty seems to lie, not only in the detection of such spurious productions, but in measuring the culpability of the offenders. Some years ago a well-known author suggested the creation of a special assize for the trial of questions involving literary authenticity. As a preliminary, it might be well to have some eminent jurists draft a code of law that the proposed new tribunal could administer.—Ottawa Journal.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—There was but a small run of fresh cattle offering and these, with the week's left overs, were readily cleaned up at steady prices. Heavy runs are looked for next week and there will be a good demand for fair quality and extra choice finished cattle. Shippers are warned, however, that the demand for medium and common stuff is likely to be very small, as packers are already well filled up in this line.

There is an unusually heavy holdover of lambs in the market. Prospects are slim for a clean up, and many will have to be carried over to next week.

Choice heavy beef steers, $7 to $7.50, Choice handy weight butcher steers and heifers, $6.75 to $7.25. Fair to good butcher, $5.50 to $6.50. Good to choice butcher cows, $5 to $5.50. Bulls steady, $4.50 to $5. Calves strong, $11 to $13.50. Hogs steady at $10.25 f.ob.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was slow owing to the somewhat indifferent demand from foreign buyers. There was no further change in the condition of the domestic market for coarse grains, prices generally being maintained but the volume of business transacted was small.

A feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for Winter wheat grades and prices were reduced 10 cents per barrel. This was attributed principally to the increased offerings from Ontario millers and the lack of any important demand.

On the other hand a firmer feeling prevailed in the Spring wheat flour situation but values showed no change. The market was quiet.

Considerable business was transacted in all lines of millfeed and prices ruled steady. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was firm uner a steady demand.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a good demand. The receipts were 1,024 cases.

The trade in potatoes was rather quiet, but prices were unchanged. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.90 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.70 to $1.75 per bag in bulk, and Quebec White stock at $1.55 to $1.60 per bag ex-track.

The tone of the market for beans was firm with a moderate trade passing in car lots of choice white handpicked selling at $2.75 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $3.00 per bushel.

The demand for butter was quiet and the volume of business was small but prices were firm. The receipts were 151 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade and prices were fractionally lower. The receipts were 306 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press). — Owing more or less to word that big shipments of Canadian wheat by lake were still being prepared for, wheat averaged lower in price yesterday. Ice blockades, however, were again reported effective. Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, 3-8 net lower to 1-4 advance; corn unchanged to 1-4 to 3-8 off; oats 3-8 to 1-2 down, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

Likelihood of larger receipts of corn next week tended to weaken the corn market and oats as well. Weather conditions for corn were more favorable.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

ELI AND THE BOY SAMUEL

Text: 1 Samuel: 3:1-10, 15-19

And the child Samuel ministered unto the Lord before Eli. And the word of the Lord was precious in those days; there was no open vision.

And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, and his eyes began to wax dim that he could not see:

And ere the lamp of God went out in the temple of the Lord, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to sleep;

That the Lord called Samuel: and he answered, Here am I.

And he ran unto Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou calledst me. And he said, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

And the Lord caled yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose, and went to Eli, and said. Here am I; for thou didst call me. And he answered, I called not, my son; lie down again.

Now Samuel did not yet know the Lord, neither was the word of the Lord yet revealed unto him.

And the Lord called Samuel again the third time. And he arose, and went to Eli, and said. Here am I; for thou didst call me. And Eli perceived that the Lord had called to the child.

Thereforce Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee that thou shalt say, Speak, Lord; for thy servant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

And the Lord came, and stood, and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel answered, Speak; for thy servant heareth.

And Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of the house of the Lord: and Samuel feared to show Eli the vision.

Then Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel, my son. And he answered, Here am I.

And he said, What is the thing that the Lord hath said unto thee? I pray thee hide it not from me: God do so to thee, and more also, if thou hide any thing from me of all the things that he said unto thee.

And Samuel told him every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, It is the Lord: let him do what seemeth him good.

And Samuel grew, and the Lord was with him, and did let none of his words all to the ground.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for December 12. The Boy Samuel. 1 Samuel: 3:1-10, 15-19.

(By Wm. E. Gilroy, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist.)

The story of Samuel, from every point of view, is one of the most beautiful recorded anywhere. It is a story that must appeal particularly to mothers for it expresses so much of the longings, aspirations, and triumphs of motherhood; it is a story peculiarly adapted for children because its central figure and its hero is after all the boy Samuel; and it is a story of general interest because it has such rich spiritual significance.

It begins in that deep note of yearning in a woman's heart, her prayers for a child and the joy of an answer to her prayer. Its foundation is in a woman's piety and devotion. Her motherhood is not a vain and selfish thing. She dedicates her boy to the highest that she knows, giving him to the service of the High Priest in the tabernacle. Here Samuel, even as a child, becomes conscious of God's call.

Simplicity.

One finds in the little boy no smartness beyond his years, no precociousness and presumption, but a pleasing simplicity. He is not expecting revelations; there is nothing of that Pharisee-ism of the spoiled child of privilege; he seems to have imbibed the simple and devout spirit of his mother.

The relations of Eli with Samuel are very beautiful. When the little lad comes to Eli twice, assuming that the latter had called him, Eli perceives that he had heard another voice, and so he gives Samuel good advice. When he hears the voice again he is to say humbly, "Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth."

The message that Samuel had was not very encouraging or pleasant to Eli, but Eli again showed good judgment and a good spirit in taking that message without any malice or jealousy against the messenger. He gave Samuel, at that moment, a lesson in faith and in self-control. He recognized the justice of God's judgment even though he suffered from them, and he said, "It is the Lord, let him do what seemeth him good."

Wise Guidance.

In this atmosphere Samuel had his training. He had, first of all, the heritage of a good mother and father; he had the influences of a holy environment; he had the inspirations of an early call and a sense of purpose; and he had the wise counsel and guidance of Eli.

Not every man, even with all the influences in his life favorable, has attained to mastery and service. But Samuel, like a greater child of a later period in Israel, apparently grew in wisdom and in stature and in favor with God and man. From childhood to old age he is the type of a consecrated, intelligent, capable, spiritual leader, a man who combined in his character and services the noblest aspects of the priest and prophet with the skill and sagacity of a statesman.

WEATHER WAS GREAT SETBACK

navigation or on the resumption of navigation next spring, became known, with the consequence that a number of U.S. vessels were chartered for storage at Georgian Bay ports and Fort William-Port Arthur.

"Stocks in store at Fort William-Port Arthur are much larger than usual so near the close of the navigation season. Unless a considerable volume of tonnage is available to augment the elevator capacity, the problems arising out of the necessity for immediately drying of the large volume of damp and tough grain, which will be moving to terminal points during the winter, will be greatly increased. The driers at all points are working continuously, but storage space for the grain after treatment is imperative.

"The movement via Vancouver and Prince Rupert so far has been quite small, comparatively. Evidently the effects of the rapid rise in the rates for ocean tonnage have caused a substantial reduction in the volume of shipments anticipated six weeks ago.

"The collapse of the strike of coal miners in Great Britain was followed almost immediately, by a substantial reduction in rates for ocean shipments of grain. European requirements are reported to be heavy and stocks low in all countries importing. It is expected the export movement of Canadian grain will assume larger proportions in filling requirements, at least until shipments of new crop, Argentine and Australian grain are due to arrive at European ports.

"Cars inspected in November, 1926, in the western inspection division were as follows:

Wheat, 56,670; oats, 2,752; barley, 4,656; flax, 1,200; rye, 1,098.

In November, 1925, the figures were:

Wheat, 54,187; oats, 4,232; barley, 4,792; flax, 1,592; rye, 363.

Friend of Charles Dickens Passes Away in Ottawa

OTTAWA, Dec. 10. — Another of the few remaining links with Charles Dickens has been broken with the death yesterday of Benjamin Acworth, who was a noted cricketer in his younger days, had often played the game with the great novelist in Gadshill. Ever an ardent admirer of his friend Dickens, Mr. Acworth was the author of a series of articles, "Reminiscences of Charles Dickens." He was the composer of a number of anthems, and was an associate of the famous Dr. Bridges who became organist of St. Paul's Cathedral. He also was a friend of General William Booth and of Rev. Charles Haddon Spurgeon.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

ON THE SIDE OF THE ANGELS
By Dr. Frank Crane.

Lady Astor the other day, without pointing at anybody, gave Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator Wadsworth something to think about.

She pointed out the fact that all this movement toward prohibition was really and at bottom a movement to remove the satisjactions of man from a physical basis and put them upon a moral or spiritual basis.

Brushing aside for the moment all questions of how it is done and whether prohibition is effective or not and all that sort of thing, we ask ourselves what is the object of prohibition?

The object simply is this: We have gone around for many years picking up victims of the saloon and taking care of them. We have had Keely Institutes and other institutions or looking after intoxicated people. We have had poor houses and orphan asylums for their victims.

It suddenly occurred to us to do away with the evil which causes all these calamities.

We cut the whole alcohol business out. We cut it out so thoroughly that we put it in the Constitution of the United States from where to date nothing has been put in that has ever come out.

China did a similar thing some years ago in regard to opium. Tired of the evil effects of opium smoking, she abolished the whole business. Christian greed, backed by Christian guns, nullified this arrangement.

To say that just as much liquor is consumed as ever is to say what is manifestly absurd. Thousands of corner saloons have been suppressed and the open and public sale of liquor has been stopped. The liquor interests, the distillers and brewers are all against prohibition, and naturally they would not be agianst it if there was more liquor used than ever.

The prohibition laws we have may not be the wisest nor the best, but at least they are an effort in the right direction. The prohibition law is on the side of the angels, and those who are seeking to break it down or nullify it might do well to keep this in mind. A great moral conviction is back of prohibition, and a moral conviction never yet went backward.

FIRST WOMAN ENVOY ARRIVES IN MEXICO CITY

Hopes to Strengthen Friendly Relations Between Russia and Mexico.

QUIETLY DRESSED

Will Have Nothing to do With Activities in United States.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The first woman diplomat to serve in the Western Hemisphere brings more books than dresses to her new post. The newly arrived Russian Minister, Mme. Alexandra Kollantay, is a quiet-voiced, mild-mannered woman, whose hope is to strengthen the friendly relations between Russia and Mexico and who disavows the slightest intention of attempting activities in the United States.

Shortly after her arrival—with luggage consisting of only two trunks, in which more space was given to her library than her wardrobe—Mme. Kollantay began to suffer from the effects of the high altitude and summoned a physician to the hotel where she is staying until she moves to the Legation residence. The physician ordered quiet and avoidence of exertion for a few days.

The Soviet Minister travelled in a day coach from Vera Cruz, the pullman accommodations being exhausted. As she stepped from the train she was attired in a dark gray coat and skirt and small becoming black hat.

A large crowd, including a considerable number of women, "intellectuals," Labor leaders and workmen in overalls applauded and pressed around in an attempt to shake hands with the envoy. A representative of the Foreign Office extended an official welcome and quickly escorted Mme. Kollantay to an automobile and rushed her to a hotel because she was weared by the journey.

Yesterday, tastefully gowned, her short brown hair well sprinkled with gray, she gave the appearance of any stylish woman equally at home in the drawing-room or business office. She laughed heartily when the Associated Press correspondent asked her about the report that she had brought sixty trunks containing the latest Paris gowns.

"If the world must know the terrible truth," she chuckled, "one of my two trunks contains books only, and the other trunk has my wardrobe."

Her library consists of a wide range of general literature in half a dozen languages, with philosophy, treatises on government, history and poetry predominating.

"I am accredited to Mexico," said the Soviet Minister, when asked as to reports that she might use Mexico City as a base for propaganda in the United States. "I have nothing to do with any other country and will have no activities in the United States. It would be going beyond the bounds of diplomacy if I did.

"Although the United States has not recognized the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, we are doing quite a good commercial business with the United States, and Russian markets are buying largely from the United States. Certainly it would be to the interest of the populations of both countries if we could come to a better understanding.

Mme. Kollantay said she felt no bitterness against the United States for refusing permission for her to enter that country; she regarded it merely as a misunderstanding on the part of the United States in not realizing that she, as the Minister of a great country which is recognized by the most important European nations, has nothing in common with "agitators."

Her Mexican mission, she added, was to strengthen friendly relations and increase the commerce between Russia and Mexico, and concluded:

"Being a country without any imperialistic aspirations, Soviet Russia has in common with Mexico the wish that the growing tendency toward independence and self-government of non-imperialistic countries should be victorious all over the world. Bolshevism is a constructive, not a destructive force, and the new Russia has entered a new phase — it is stable and making rapid strides in the sciences and arts, production and everything that means progress."

King George Lost In Fog, Gets Home Late For Dinner

LONDON, Dec. 10 (A.P.),—Dinner, even in Buckingham Palace, is sometimes delayed by the eccentricities of England's famous pea soup fogs.

Returning by automobile from a day's shooting visit at Chilton near Hungerford, Berkshire, the home of Sir John H. Ward and his wife, formerly Miss Jean Whitelaw Reid of New York, King George ran into a dense fog bank on the Great West Road.

The royal chauffeur tried to make a detour, but found himself floundering hopelessly in the murk, and his royal master had to exercise patience while he groped his way along the grass edge of the road.

The situation was not without its perils, for there are extremely dangerous unlighted stretches on the Great West Road, and there had been several bad smashes during the last foggy period.

At is was, it made his Majesty somewhat late for dinner.

WOMEN PROTEST THE VOTING AGE

Organize Vigorous Campaign To Reduce Time From 30 Years.

WILL HOLD PARADE.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press.)— England's young suffragists, who don't like the law that bars women from the vote until they are 30, are organizing a vigorous campaign in London and plan a great parade of protest on December 18, their last parade was held up by the police because their posters were larger by a few inches than the size permitted.

Caustic comments on womens' ability to swim the English Channel are among the slogans that will be carried in the new demonstration.

The leading spirits of the voteless women under 30 are Miss Veida Greer, a handsome brunette, and Miss Dorothy Woodman, B.A., an attractive blonde. Both belong to the Society of Friends, and are proud that in their community women have always had an equal place with men.

Miss Greer organized the poster parade, which was held up. Miss Greer, who was threatened with arrest, says: "We are not discouraged and are organizing another parade for December 18, when we shall march to Hyde Park to hold open air demonstrations to be addressed by women under 30, who, of course, are voteless. This time we shall carry sandwich boards, back and front, inscribed with such mottoes as: 'We can X the channel, but may not X a ballot'; 'Gentlemen prefer blondes—blondes prefer the vote'; 'We can be wives, mothers, teachers and I.P.'s, but cannot be citizens'."

Mrs. Barbara Wooton, justice of the peace and principal of Morley College, is president of the Voteless Women's Union, but must retire before long as she soon will be thirty.

SHIPS RELEASED FROM BLOCKADE

Estimated It Has Cost Vessel Owners Approximately $50,000 a Day.

CUT THEIR WAY.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Michigan, December 10. Canadian Press.—The great fleet of grain burdened steamers which has stretched for fifty miles from Sault Ste. Marie to Detour locked in ice blocked channel, pulled itself free yesterday and is slowly moving southward.

Checked once on Thursday, when the big car ferry Saint Marie, rescuer of the fleet, itself became wedged in an ice barrier in the West Neebish cut, the ships are once again under way.

The freighter Garretson, the key ship in the blockade was yanked free after eight days of effort Wednesday but yesterday the Saint Marie and the steamer Frank Bailey, which she was attempting to rescue, were caught in the ice jam and held helpless.

Through the combined strength of the Garretson and tugs the two ships were drawn into line again and the downward push of the steamers resumed.

Mild weather has assisted the efforts of the rescue crews.

Lake carrier officials estimate that the blockade has cost vessel owners approximately $50,000 a day.

WANTED $2,000 BLOW UP BANK

So Note From Customer Informed Toronto Bank Teller.

ATTEMPT FOILED.

TORONTO, Dec. 10. — "I want $2,000. Must have it, does not matter how I get it. In this bag, I have enough glycerine to blow up the bank and everybody in it. I do not care about myself, but I want the money."

The above note was shoved through the wicket to Howard Burk, 179 Howland avenue, a teller in the Imperial Bank, Leader Lane and Wellington Street shortly before the bank closed yesterday afternoon.

Standing in front of him the startled teller saw a man wearing a peak cap and carrying a black bag.

Burt calmly threw the note to one side on the counter, as he served the next customer.

"How about it?" demanded the man with the black bag.

"Just a moment," replied Burt, and leaving the cage, went for the accountant, H. C. Scarth, but when they returned the man and black bag had disappeared.

Burt questioned some of the customers who had been waiting and was informed that the man had beat a fast retreat out the door.

"He was about 5 feet 11 inches in height," said Burt to The Telegram, "clean shaven and wore a cap. He may have been a 'nut' but he knew enough to run when he saw his trick had failed."

A hurry call was sent to the police but when detectives arrived no trace could be found of the man.

TREATY RATIFIED

Albania Acts Against Hopes of Jugo-Slav Officials.

TIRANA, Albania, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—The treaty of friendship and security between Albania and Italy, the subject of censure in Jugo Slavia, has been ratified by the Albanian Chamber.

(A Belgrade despatch today said Jugo Slav officials believed Albania would not ratify the pact, thus easing the excitement in Jugo Slavia.

NOT ALL BIRDS SHUN DIVORCE.

The idea that birds never get divorces but stick to their first loves throughout life received a rude jolt the other day when S. Prentiss Bald win of Cleveland, O., announced the results of a ten-year intensive study of bird habits.

Mr. Baldwin kept a day-by-day record of the lives of a number of household wrens that nested on his estate. These wrens, according to his report in Popular Science Monthly, usually raised two broods of young a year. But each year, between the broods, the parents usually changed mates. The mating lasted only while the young birds were helpless; then the parents felt free to make a new marital arrangement.

Reviews Activities of First Ten Months of This Year.

PERCY IN LEAD.

Road Work and Purchase of Gravel in the Township Comes To $15,427.10.

(Special to The Examiner)

COBOURG, Dec. 10.—The feature of Wednesday's sessions of the Council of the counties of Northumberland and Durham was the review of his work for the first ten months of this year by George Greer, County Road Superintendent. His report set out the details of construction and maintenance at a total expenditure of $81,645.34 for the period of January 1st to October 31st. Percy township bulked largest in the ten months' operations with the construction of three miles of road between Hastings and Roseneath, and the resurfacing of a stretch of the road between Warkworth and Hastings, the purchase of a gravel pit near Warkworth and other items aggregating $16,427.10.

The monies spent in the municipalities were as follows:

Cartwright township	$ 2,440.52
Darlington township	5,921.86
Clarke township	3,364.81
Newcastle village	1,505.00
Newcastle village	376.48
Manvers township	5,534.83
Cavan township	5,301.40
Hope township	3,728.32
South Monaghan	251.40
Hamilton township	8,618.01
Haldimand township	5,542.25
Alwnick township	535.05
Cramahe township	4,502.68
Percy township	15,427.10
Brighton township	1,652.51
Murray township	1,905.27
Seymour township	5,115.29

Some of the details of Mr. Greer's report follow:

Hamilton Township.

On the county No. 18 road between Gore's Landing and Harwood construction work was done covering about one and a quarter miles. We completed the grade a little over a mile. We purchased the land and widened the right of way for the full distance, also cleared and blew out the stumps. The grading of this piece of road was heavy work on account of the high bank and being so hard and full of stones that we had to use blasting powder. We put in two corrugated iron culverts and built four end walls. We also rip-rapped with stone about three hundred feet of grade next to the lake.

The clearing and grubbing cost $378.13, ditching $582.25, grubbing $1,271.33, culverts $364.30, surfacing $5,47.10 and land $205. Cost of construction $3,348.13.

The total expenditure in Hamilton was $8,618.01, work on road No. 19 (Cobourg to Hastings) costing $3,857.36 and maintenance on Roads 18 and 19 being $1,412.52.

Percy Township.

Total expenditure in Percy township was $15,427.10. On County Road 19 we constructed three miles of road, commencing at the boundary between Alnwick and Percy townships. This work has all been graded, but we have not as yet done any surfacing. We have moved the old fences and widened the right-of-way in some places, but have not paid for the land. We put in twelve corrugated iron culverts, eight side entrances, and built forty end walls. The grubbing and clearing cost $2,227.05, grading $3,528.00, culverts and side entrances $1,062.05. Cost of construction $4,818.

On County Road No. 25 we put the concrete floor on the Warkworth bridge and paid for some cement that was used in the bridge work in 1925 at a total cost of $701.64. We graded and ditched about one mile and put in two corrugated iron culverts and built four end walls, bought one gravel pit consisting of one and a half acres and fenced it. We purchased a piece of land in Norham to improve a bad corner and paid a bonus on 75 rods of wire fence.

We have surfaced six miles of roads numbers 25 and 25b, using 5,482 yards of crushed pit gravel. The grubbing and ditching cost $268.50, culverts $324.55, land $20, fencing $54.65, gravel pit $850, surfacing $4,967.60. Cost of construction $7,204.00. Total cost of construction $12,022.44. Maintenance of Road No. 19 was $335.60.

On County Roads Nos. 25 and 25b, the maintenance cost includes the painting of a bridge at the north end of the village of Warkworth, calcium chloride for Warkworth streets, the resurfacing of about one mile of road, together with other maintenance $2,546.70.

Maintenance on County Road No. 35 cost $400.35. Road No. 38 was $122.01. Total cost of maintenance $3,404.66.

Seymour Township.

On County Road No. 31 we put in one corrugated iron culvert and built two end walls, graded and ditched a short piece on each side of the culvert.

Culvert cost $60.70, grading and ditching $163. Cost of construction $223.70.

On County Road No. 38 we constructed one mile of road, put in one corrugated iron culvert, one side entrance and built four end walls, also paid a bonus on wire fences. Ditching and grading cost $1,024, culverts $81.20, fences $91.39. Total cost of construction $1,420.29.

Maintenance on County Road No. 31, we put on about 300 yards of gravel together with other maintenance at a total cost of $573.

On County oRad No. 35 maintenances cost $503.90. On Road No. 38 we put on 770 yards of gravel, paid $529 for painting Trent bridge, paid $75 for use of township crusher and in 1925 with other maintenance at a total cost of $2,618.10.

Total cost of maintenance $3,695. Total expenditure in Seymour $5,-115.29.

Cavan Township.

On County Road No. 35 maintenproved two bad corners, widened the right of way, and completed about forty rods of road; put in five corrugated iron culverts, two side entrances and built fourteen end walls; built about sixty rods of fence, and paid a bonus on two hundred rods of wire fence. We surfaced about three miles with crushed pit gravel, and stored in storage piles along the road about two hundred yards.

The clearing and grubbing cost $4.50, grading $122.50, culverts $321.-15, surfacing $2,893.53, fencing $80.21. Total cost of construction $3,621.89.

Maintenance—On County Road No. 10 maintenance cost $1,160.95. This includes $85 for painting Cavanville bridge.

On County Road No. 14 we put on 167 yards of gravel, together with other amintenance at a total cost of $384.58.

On County Road No. 16 cost of maintenance $133.98. Total cost of maintenance $1,679.51. Total expenditure in Cavan township $5,-301.40.

Machinery Bought.

We purchased one Power Grader at a cost of $2,275.00. We also purchased one plow, one stoneboat, fifteen slush scrapers, three wheel scrapers and some tools that were required for each gang.

Up to date we have spent $81,-645.34.

The stone-crushing outfit during the season up to November 1st, crushed thirteen thousand three hundred and eight yards of gravel, and placed it on the raod, together with repairs on machinery, including seven new tires for the dump trucks and a new set of cups for the conveyors on the stone crusher, and interest on investment of crushing plant, at a total cost of $13,207.73 making an average cost per yard for the season's output of 99 cents per yard.

The Power Grader operated one hundred and thirty-seven days, from the middle of April up to November 1st, at an average of nine dollars per day. This includes operator's wages, gasoline, oil and grease and repairs. During that time we improved one hundred and sixty-nine miles of road, at an average cost of seven dollars and thirty-nine cents per mile. In order to cut off the shoulders and put the road in shape, we had to cover the distance on an average of ten times, together with moving from road to road and spreading gravel the machine covered a distance of nineteen hundred miles, at an average cost of sixty-five cents a mile.

Summary of Work Done.

We built one concrete bridge in Clarke township, at the Village of Orono, 12 foot span and 44 feet long, known as Orono Bridge.

We built one concrete culvert in the Village of Newcastle, 4 x 4 and 85 feet long. Also one concrete culvert in the Township of Darlington, Concession 3, Lots 10 and 11—5 x 8 and 26 feet long.

We built two concrete bridges in the Township of Cramahe, Concessions 9 and 10, Lots 16 and 17, one 10 foot span and 28 feet long and the other 16 foot span and 28 feet lon, known as Dingman bridges, No. 1 and No. 2.

We built one bridge in Hamilton township, Concession 3, Lot 6, 34 foot span and 18 foot roadway. With concrete abutements and steel top with concrete floor, known as Baltimore Bridge.

We built one bridge in Haldimand township, Concession 2, Lot 14, 24 foot span and 18 foot roadway with concrete abutements and steel tops with concrete floor, known as Gillespie Bridge. We also built on bridge on the same road, Lot 14, Concession 2, 40 foot span and 18 foot roadway, with concrete abutements and steep top. The floor has not yet been constructed. This bridge is known as Cooney Bridge.

We put in all told forty-five corrugated iron culverts, sixteen side entrances and built one hundred and twenty-two end walls.

We constructed about ten miles of road and brought it up to Government regulations. We gravelled thirty-two miles of road and stored in storage piles along the road about one thousands yards of crushed gravel. Using all told thirteen thousand three hundred and eight yards of crushed gravel and twelve thousand yards of pit gravel not crushed, making a total of twenty-five thousand three hundred and eight yards of gravel. This includes patching and concrete work also ordinary maintenance work on the whole system.

SORE THROAT?

DEAL promptly with the first sign of hoarseness, soreness or inflammation—it might be the forerunner of laryngitis, influenza or serious bronchial trouble.

The quickest, safest and most soothing remedy is Peps. As a Peps tablet dissolves in the mouth it gives off medicinal fumes that are breathed into the innermost recesses of throat and chest.

In their speedy direct way Peps thoroughly disinfect the throat and air-tubes, destroy mischievous germs, relieve any soreness, inflammation or irritation.

Take Peps whenever you suspect you need them. A Peps in the mouth filters the air you breathe, and fortifies against sudden colds and chills and the infection dangers encountered in trains, street cars and crowded assemblies.

Peps are equally good for obstinate coughs and colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma, and other chest weaknesses of old and young.

members to consider the desirability of assuming formal obligations to facilitate by every means the most rapid effective action to aid the League in case of emergency. Such obligations include a preference for League messages by all systems of communications.

In adopting the resolution of the Council Committee on the Council made changes to stress the importance it places on Article 11 as a means of preventing war, rather than on Article 16 as a means of combatting a state of war.

The arrangements made by M. De Brouckere for a preliminary economic and financial study which will permit the Council immediately to apportion between the states the economic and financial aid which they may be called upon to give a victim of aggression were adopted.

The Council likewise adopted the Benes report instructing the Secretary-General to recommend all States to conclude agreements of arbitration, security and pacific settlement of international disputes, offering the co-operation of the Council in the conclusion of such agreements.

WESTWOOD NEWS.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"You do look adorable in that apron." Bob Hathaway looked at Faith with quizzical, rather shy blue eyes. "What are those thingmaajigs on it?"

Faith glanced down at her tall, splendid figure in its dainty, unbleached muslin apron, and smiled with a shyness that more than matched his own. "Appliqued morning glories," she told him. "Scraps of Joy's school dresses, put on with a buttonhole stitch. This piping around the edges is the last earthly reminder of the first dress I ever made for Cherry. She was eleven and I was thirteen. She looked too adorable for words in it—a coral pink chambray with white pique Peter Pan collar and cuffs."

"How terribly busy you have been all of your short life," Bob Hathaway reflected, as he allowed himself to be swathed in a less decorative apron of blue and white checked gingham. "It's always been—Cherry first, hasn't it?"

"Yes, life has been easy for Cherry, because of her beauty and her charm. She's like Fourth of July fireworks—easy to set off, exciting, beautiful, thrilling—"

"And dangerous," Bob Hathaway finished her sentence rather grimly. "I wonder if you realize what this 'Cherry first' program has done for you? It's suppressed all your natural gayety, given you—I hate the phrase, but there doesn't seem to be any other—an inferiority complex. Away from Cherry, you bloom with a shy radiance; with her, you become almost dull—flattened out, dim. She does it deliverately; I've watched her. She snuffs your steady, sweet light out as if it were a candle no longer needed, then—as you say— she stages her own fireworks exhibition, and no one remembers the dim, sweet altar candle that was Faith."

"Don't," Faith choked, reaching blindly for a stack of soiled plates. "Oh, I've broken a plate. It's all your fault. No, don't bother, it doesn't matter, really. Cherry would be glad if I broke the whole set. She loathes it." She dropped the broken halves of the thick, green-vined plate into the waste basket and went back to her dishpan.

"I won't 'don't,'" Bob smiled at her. "What I was saying about Cherry's effect on you—and all that Cherry stands for in your home—was on the debit side of the ledger. On the credit side, you have gained more than you have lost. Do you know, Faith, I believe you're the only thoroughly unselfish and womanly girl in this whole flapper-mad town? A born mother and a born—wife," his voice dropped the last word softly. "You've mothered this whole ungrateful brood, but it hasn't been wasted—on you."

"But I don't want to be just a womanly girl, that people respect and don't admire—as they admire Cherry." She looked up at him with unveiled envy-tortured eyes. "I want to live while I'm young, Bob, not just form a respectable, wholesome background for Cherry! I want to work and meet people and develop my personality—away from Cherry and Mother and Dad—be just Faith Lane for once in my life.

"Oh, I love them all, but I want to have a real girlhood before I turn into an acid-tongued, good-hearted old maid, like my Aunt Hattie. I suppose it sound ridiculous and that I'm spoiling your nice picture of me—"

"No, you're not. I don't blame you a bit. You'd not be human if you didn't want your innings as a girl. But I rather thought that with George Pruitt rushing you, with honorable intentions written all over his good old ugly mug, and with me—trying to get a date in edgewise, that you were coming into your own as a popular young lady. How many cavaliers do you want, you siren?" he ended jocularly.

"Oh—George!" she laughed tremulously and turned back to her work. "He's surrendered to Cherry, at last. Didn't you notice them at dinner tonight?"

"Grandstand play." Bob Hathaway waved his dish towel with a dismissing gesture. "Trying to make you jealous. I really didn't believe you'd fall for it so easily. But if it were true, would you care—much?"

"A little." Faith smiled up at him with a rare touch of coquetry. "Hurt vanity, you know. But after that, I'd be glad because—oh, Bob, you've got to know soon, and I might as well be the one to tell you. Cherry's engaged to your uncle, Mr. Cluny."

"To Uncle Ralph! Whew!" Bob Hathaway's face sobered instantly, as his lips puckered in an incredulous whistle. "The little devil! And the poor old ass! Are you serious, Faith—or is she?"

"That's what the wall papering's all about," Faith nodded. "He's coming Friday evening to ask Dad for her hand. Rather charming of him, but—Oh, Bob, I'd rather see Cherry dead than married to an old man for his money."

"You wouldn't, really," Bob reproved her gently. "That's just one of the things we say so easily, and don't mean. But of course it's terrible. If you think it would do any good for me to tell Uncle Ralph a few unsavory truths about himself—and Cherry—I'll do it."

"And get yourself left out of his will?" demanded Faith indignantly. "No, don't say a word to him. We—I'll manage somehow."

"That's applesauce about his will," Bob grinned at her. "He's got two grown children—a son and a daughter and two grandchildren, who'll raise merry hell about a flapper stepmother. But I don't believe for a minute she's serious. I understand now why she's making this last minute assault upon George's heart. If she can land George Pruitt, she'll ditch Uncle Ralph without a qualm. Nice girl—Cherry."

"Don't make me hate you, Bob," Faith commanded sharply. "Cherry isn't an angel but I love her with all my heart, and I'm going to save her if there is any way in God's world to do it."

"With all your heart, dear?" he stepped close to the flushed, angry girl, and laid his hands upon her shoulders.

"Just what I expected! Oh, that deadly kitchen apron!" Cherry's voice sang out tauntingly from the doorway. "Come look, George! Isn't this touching? 'Yes, sir, that's my baby'?" she began to sing in a high mocking voice, her bare knees weaving the figures of the Charleston.

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, Dec. 10.—Deloro Safety First Committee met at the Hub on Monday evening for general business which was of the usual routine.

Despite the snowy weather there was a splendid attendance at the weekly meeting of the A.Y.P.A on Tuesday evening. The greater part of the evening was taken up with urgent business matters such as the handling of a Fish Pond and Novelty Stall at the forthcoming sale of cooking which is being held by the Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's church. Upon the closure of the meeting Miss Rose Hart delighted the gathering with several songs.

CONFIDENCE IN SITUATION REFLECTED IN ADDRESSES AT BANK OF MONTREAL MEETING

Sir Vincent Meredith, President, in a Survey of Conditions, Points to Tremendous Strides in Power Development and Paper Industry — Says Underlying Conditions in Country Are Sound.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager, Strongly Emphasizes Reasons Why British Capital and Emigrants Should Be Attracted to Canada—Gives Interesting Information on Many Services Rendered by the Bank to Its Customers.

Optimistic references to business conditions in Canada were made at the 109th annual general meeting of the Bank of Montreal by the president Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., and by the general Manager, Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor.

Sir Vincent Meredith, President, in a survey of conditions, said in part:

"A broad survey of trade conditions in the year under review finds much to hearten and little to discourage. In almost every department of commerce activity is greater and, despite keen competition, profits are larger. Confidence finds practical demonstration in increased capital investment in development of natural resources and to a lesser extent expansion of manufacturing plants. Outstanding in this respect is the growth of the pulp and paper industry, the exploitation of mineral deposits and the harnessing of water powers, closely allied industries indigenous to Canada and in respect of which she may be said to stand unrivalled. The growth of the pulp and paper industry is remarkable and has produced large profits. In ten years our exports of wood, wood products and paper have increased from $83,000,00 to $278,000,000. The United States consumption of newsprint is over 3,000,000 tons a year, of which Canada supplies rather more than one-half. Within the next twelve months Canadian mills now under construction will be adding about 450,000 tons a year to their present output, and unless the present rate of consumption expands, there is the possibility of a surplus of newspriat coming on the market at no distant date.

Outstanding Developments

"The Power development on the Saguenay by the Aluminum Company of America is an undertaking of more than local interest. When completed, the plans provide for a total of about 1,100,000 H. P. (nearly 50 per cent larger than that available at Niagara for Canada). The creation of this new industrial centre, with its model city of Arvida, will add materially to the resources of the Province of Quebec.

"Then we have our great mineral resources. In 1913 Canada's mineral production was $145,000,000; in 1925, $228,000,000, a gain of 57%. As a producer of gold, the indications are that we may soon rank second among the countries of the world, and there can be no doubt as to the vastness of our potential mineral production in general.

"Rapid as has been the development of these sources of national wealth in recent years, no limit can reasonably be put upon their progression. There is, indeed, the frequently discussed question of the extent of our pulpwood and timber resources and the danger of production in excess of current demand, but a growing sense of the vital importance of forest conservation bids fair to act as a deterrent to excess, and I hold the conviction that these mainstays of Canadian commerce wil' long flourish.

Survey of Conditions.

The president proceeded to survey conditions in the leather and footwear industry, in textiles, iron and steel and pointed out the possibility of a slowing down in the building trades following a very active period. The noticeable improvement of business has brought with it a decline in unemployment.

"The aggregate of Canada's foreign trade still expands, having had a value of $1,290,500,000 in the seven months ending October 31st, or $42,000,000 more than in the corresponding period last year. The character of the trade, however, is changing, imports having increased and exports decreased, as a consequence of which the favorable balance has diminished".

Trend Upward.

Describing present conditions in Canada, the president drew the conclusion that the Dominion has emerged from the shadow of restricted business, unsatisfactory earnings and indifferent balance sheets and the trend of business is now distinctly upward in practically all lines of trade. I cannot see any indication that this period of prosperity is soon coming to an end. I believe the underlying conditions are sound and the future can be viewed with confidence."

General Manager's Address.

Sir Frederick Williams Taylor, in his address, said in part:

He declared that there were very few new Canadian issues floated in London during the past year, and apparently there is little prospect of an early re-entry to that market. He added, however, that American capital continues to flow into Canada.

Oustanding Facts.

Three outstanding facts regarding Canada are stressed in the report, with a view to informing potential investors in Great Britain who have the welfare of the Empire at heart.

Firstly it is pointed out that less than 50 years ago the three Prairie provinces were uninhabited. Today on the fertile plains is a population of two million prosperous people, with millions of rich and idle acres awaiting settlers. In 1909 the value of the field crops of these provinces is given at 32 million dollars; now it is close to 700 millions.

Secondly, although Canada is known as an agricultural country, it may not be realized abroad that the gross value of our manufactured products in 1924, the last obtainable figures, was $2,695,000,00, nearly twice the agricultural production for the same year.

Thirdly, such progress has been made in harnessing water power, that Canada is now the second country per capita in this respect in the world. "When developments now under way are complete, Canada will have in use 4,500,000 horse power, representing a capital investment in power plants and transmission lines of 854 million dollars.

"These three facts alone," the General Manager says," should be enough to attract the notice of British engineers, promoters, investors, manufacturers and intending emigrants."

Many Services Rendered.

As illustrating the Bank's settled determination to keep in the van of banking progress, let me mention some comparatively new special services we now render to our clients and the public at large.

At the Head Office of the Bank several special departments are in operation, each of them manned by specialists in their respective lines.

We have, for instance, a Foreign Department, which keeps in constant touch with all important foreign countries, facilitates the foreign trade relations of our clients, and endeavours to create or increase, among persons and firms abroad, an interest in this country and its opportunities.

A second department watches the hourly fluctuations in the many foreign exchanges and disseminates this information through the medium of our system of private telegrap wires to central points and thence to our hundreds of offices throughout Canada. We are thus able to give to the public facilities in exchange transactions and the benefit of the closest competitives rates.

We have also a department which specializes in securities, maintaining contact at all times with the markets in this country and abroad. The services of this department are at the disposal of our clients through the medium of any of our offices.

As you are no doubt aware, the Bank for several years has been publishing weekly reports upon the condition of our Canadian crops during the growing season. Further, we are now issuing a monthly Business Summary covering all phases of business activity throughout Canada and in the several countries where we maintain offices. Copies of this Summary are sent free to anyone on request.

In the past few years our Bank has distributed to the farmers of Canada more than 150,000 copies of excellent handbooks dealing with farming subjects, and the many letters of appreciation received have shown that our efforts to further the interests of this section of our population, and to increase their profits, are widely appreciated.

Not all of these services perhaps are directly remunerative, but we believe they have all been of very definite value. They are broadening the facilities available to our clients creating goodwill, and demonstrating that the Bank is keenly concerned in the public welfare and in furthering the general interests of this country. (Advt.)

HANGS HIMSELF AFTER TEASING

Simcoe Boy of 13 Drives Brother From Barn With Fork.

FOUND BY BROTHERS.

SIMCOE, Dec. 10.—After driving his younger brother from the barn with a pitchfork, Lawrence Henry Lee, aged 13, hanged himself last night. The lad had returned home from Round Plains School in a violent temper, and told his mother that he had been fighting with two other lads, who had been teasing him, the authorities were informed. He went right to the barn and drove away his brother, Reggie, saying he wanted to be alone. At 7 o'clock his body was found by his two older brothers, George and Clemenceau.

Coroner R. J. Teeters of Waterford, who investigated the case, said last night that there would be no inquest. What led to the teasing by the other boys had not been discovered, he said.

The father of the family, George Lee, is a returned soldier, and is at present in Toronto undergoing treatment at Christie Street Hospital.

One of Britain's greatest hockey clubs was the Irish Club, of Palmerston, which in six successive seasons lost only two matches of 160 played.

The General Committee of the American Trapshooting Association makes all the rules that govern trapshooting competition throughout the United States, Canada and the Canal Zone.

PUPILS ORDERED TO BE VACCINATED

Lakefield Board Will Refuse Admittance to Those Not Complying.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 10.—A special meeting of the Public School Board was held in the council chamber on Monday evening last.

The members present were: Trustees J. W. Ridpath, chairman; F. S. Brown, G. H. Spence, Dr. J. C. Smith and H. R. Wagar. Dr. J. R. Fraser, medical health officer, was also present, representing the Board of Health.

The chairman explained that the object of the meeting was to decide what steps had best be taken in view of the cases of smallpox and diphtheria in the village.

Moved by Trustees Wagar and Brown, that the secretary write to the principals of the public and high schools, asking them to request pupils to be vaccinated against smallpox, as it had been decided at a joint meeting of the Board of Health and the School Board that pupils who cannot show certificates of successful vaccination against smallpox will not be permitted to attend school on and after December 13 next. Carried.

Mr. Wagar explained the intention of the Canada Cement Company to put on a display of pictures, illustrating accident prevention and asking leave for pupils to attend.

Moved by Trustees Smith and Wagar, that the board request the principal of the public school to dismiss pupils at 2:45 on Thursday to enable them to attend the moving picture display in Queen street theatre at 3:00 p.m., under auspices of Industrial Accident Prevention Association and Canada Cement Company. Carried.

The Finance Committee presented a report, recommending payment of the following accounts: Educational Publishing Company, books, $19.98; Mark Paul, cleaning grounds, $3; J. M. Dent and Sons, books, $7.15; Musson Book Company, books, $4.75; secretary-treasurer, petty cash, $5.55; L. H. E. C., light, $5.95; W. G. Morrison, $55.

The report was, on motion, received and adopted. The meeting then adjourned.

Council Notes.

A special meeting of the village council was held in the council chamber on Friday evening of last week.

The members present were: J. C Strickland, reeve, in the chair, and Councillors Tedford, Clarke, Kennedy and Robinson.

Councillor Kennedy outlined the situation regarding the proposed fire tank to be built on the east side of the village.

After considerable discussion, it was moved by Councillor Kennedy, seconded by Councillor Robinson, that the tender of Mr. W. J. Webster, of May 10, 1926, for the construction of a 30,000-gallon tank be accepted, work to be done under the supervision of the committee appointed October 11, 1926. The contractor to be paid up to $200 in current year and balance of tender price on completion of the contract. Carried.

By-law No. 652, to close up part of the highway in the village of Lakefield called River street, received its several readings, was passed and the reeve and clerk authorized to sign and seal the same.

The council then adjourned.

Thankoffering Meeting.

The annual thankoffering meeting of the W. M. S. of the United (Presbyterian) Church took place on Tuesday afternoon of last week with a good attendance of members and representatives of the Baptist Mission Circle. Presbyterian W. M. S., Regent street W. M. S., and St. John's W. A.

Mrs. F. J. Burgess presided and Mrs. (Rev.) T. M. Wesley acted as pianist. After the opening hymn, Mrs. Sidney Hunter led in prayer for the missionaries going out to service, and Mrs. (Rev.) William Spencer led in prayer for those already in the field. The secretary, Mrs. Porter, read the minutes of the previous meeting, and Mesdames Grant and Yale sang a duet, "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning."

Mrs. Brown, of Peterboro', was the speaker of the afternoon. She has not been long a resident of Peterboro', having come from Huron Presbytery in the London conference, and while she has been for years a member of the W. M. S., her chief interest has been in Mission Band work.

She spoke on some of the noble women of the Bible and the inspiration their lives are to women of to-day.

Hannah was a mighty power in prayer and Deborah was a leader who judged Israel for twenty years. The story of Ruth is the coming of the Kingdom of God into the heathen world. But, of all the noble women of the Bible, only one was called great and that was the Shumenite woman who sheltered Elisha. We are not told her name; but her hospitality to the man of God is an inspiration to us to found homes and hospitals for missionaries. We have profited by this lesson, at least to some degree, as many outposts would have closed their doors but for the help of the women's missionary societies.

Then there is Dorcas, the promoter of women's work. She had visions of service and worked with her needle and thread in Joppa; giving a service of love. Many organizations are honoring her to-day in calling societies after her. There is a great influence left behind by those who have passed on. There is a great value in prayer for those who are doing the Lord's work.

Mrs. Bailey moved, and Mrs. Walton seconded a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Brown for her address.

Mrs. Harvey moved a vote of thanks from the ladies of the Baptist Mission Circle for the opportunity of being present on this happy occasion. Mrs. Gillman seconded the motion.

At the close of the meeting, the ladies served afternoon tea, and a social half hour was spent.

Mrs. Thomas Hendren celebrated her eighty-third birthday at her home on William street on Tuesday last. The celebration was quiet, and the Hendren family, children and grandchildren, as far as possible, spent the day with her.

The Ladies' Aid of the Regent street church are holding their annual bazaar on Friday afternoon from 3:00 to 6:00 o'clock in the basement of the church.

The Chancel Guild of St. John's church are holding their annual sale of work and afternoon tea on Wednesday afternoon in St. John's school room.

Running up and down stairs is the favorite training stunt of Miss Daisy Crossley, the London business girl athlete who set up a new world's record by accomplishing the 1,000 metres walk in 5 minutes 10 seconds at the Women's Olympiad at Gothenburg.

Women's Health

Is protected and charm assured this NEW way of solving their oldest hygienic problem

SCORES of women's disorders are largely traced today to old-time "sanitary pads," insecure and unsanitary.

8 in 10 better class women today employ "KOTEX."

Wear lightest gowns and frocks without a second thought, any day, anywhere.

5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

Deodorizes. Ends ALL fear of offending.

SHIELD TELLS BEEKEEPERS OF WORK DONE HERE

Local District Has Been Freed From Ravages of Foul Brood.

IMPORTATION CAUSE.

Disease Has Been Imported From U.S.A.—Many Infected.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—In discussing yesterday "clean-up areas" T. H. Shield told the Ontario Beekeepers' Association of the work done during the past Summer in the Peterboro district, where there had been considerable trouble with foulbrood. The inspectors had gone into the bee colonies in a thorough manner, and by weeding out the infected hives, either by destroying them or by treatment, they had cleaned up several counties. That was the sort of work which would be carried out from year to year, until eventually the whole province would be free of the trouble.

"We used to be able to count on our fingers all the counties troubled with foulbrood," he declared, "but now there is scarcely a county in the province which has not faced the problem."

That importing of bees has created the foulbrood problem, which was taken up by Professor Eric Millen, Provincial Apiarist. This disease, at times, has created great havoc among the Ontario colonies. Mr. Millen recalled that, twenty years ago, the beekeepers were allowed to carry out their own inspections and fight the disease in their own way, but now, with the advent of the provincial inspection system, there is a systematic attempt to stamp out the trouble. During the last inspection year, for example, some 40,366 colonies were inspected in Ontario and 4,134 were found to be infected. Of that number, 404 colonies were treated, and the balance were destroyed. The best policy, he felt, would be to confine the inspection to "clean-up areas", in order that certain districts could be made absolutely clean before the inspectors passed on to others. The chief dififculty has been to get experienced inspectors. The recent increase in the Ontario Government grant from $9,000 to $15,000 a year for this purpose has been of decided advantage to the beekeepers.

C. B. Gooderham, Dominion Apiarist, pointed out that the Dominion Department has 25 apiaries under its control, and while little research work was being done, apart from the tests at Ottawa, much practical work was being carried out at various points in the Dominion. The aim was to solve such problems as winter, swarming control and queen breeding. They had 48 projects under way, all of a practical nature, and, so far as wintering was concerned, he was able to state that the quadruple hive was the best, and that the packing should be four inches thick. As to Winter feed, the only safe honeys to use were alsike and buckwheat.

Two resolutions were passed. One called upon Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, to enforce the regulations regarding the registration of beekeepers, and the second asked that the inspectors should be sent out earlier in the Spring, if possible. The earlier the inspectors start on their work the better it is for the beekeepers, as they know then the number of colonies they must destroy, and can accordingly make their plans to build up new ones.

The following officers were elected: President, Morley Pettit; First Vice-President, J. A. McKinnon; Second VicePresident, Hector Inch; Secretary-Treasurer, F. E. Millen; Assistant Secretary-Treasurer, G. L. Jarvis.

Egg Baffles Kingston Bears Date of Jan. 1, 1901

KINGSTON, Dec. 10.—There is an egg in Kingston. And just to think of this would make the bravest actor waver. It is not like any other egg in Kingston, which has had its share of bad eggs, just like other communities.

This egg demands and is accorded a large measure of that respect which is due age. It is a venerable egg of twenty-six winters. This morning it came in with a batch of fresh eggs of a younger generation to a Kingston housewife, who was very exasperated indeed when she discerned printed faintly on its shell the date Jan. 1, 1901.

Woman's intuition came to the aid of the housewife in this crisis, and she refrained from cracking the shell. She sensed a certain deception in its bald and innocent aspect. But, as she had paid 75 cents a dozen for the eggs, she naturally expected something better than this sample, which might be priceless as an antique, but was not good at all for boiling. So she sent the aged egg back to the grocer, who also has scruples against opening it shell.

That egg with its reputed age, promises to present a problem as puzzling as the recent case of the safe which a burglar had filled with nitroglycerine. In the meantime some skeptics are wondering if the age of the egg isn't exaggerated but none has volunteered to open it.

FIGHTING ICE JAM AT SAULT STE. MARIE

Tugs Smash Their Way Toward Ice Bound Grain Vessels.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press)—One more the grain fleet is moving down toward Bufaflo from Sault Ste. Marie, after being bottled up for more than an hour this morning when the steamer Frank Bailey and its would be rescuer the car ferry, Sainte Marie, became stuck in the west Neebish Channel. Tugs Alabama and General smashed their way to the enmeshed vessels and then towed them out of the ice jam. Each member of the grain fleet is now being conveyed by the tugs through the dangerous section. Broken telephone wires to the upbound Neebish Channel have prevented obtaining information on the situation in Little Mud Lake and at the dyke where fleet of vessels is imprisoned.

The Northern Navigation steamer Huronic is in the upbound fleet in Mud Lake. As result of the temporary difficulties of the car ferry and the damage to the two tugs orders have been issued for all the tugs within reasonable distance from the scene to lend their assistance.

When gloves were first introduced in baseball, about 1879, the fans thought the players were becoming "childish" and it was a long time before the players themselves could become accustomed to their use.

Her Little Boy Caught Cold While Out Playing

Mrs. F. Cade, Elmwood, Man., writes:—"My little boy caught cold while out playing in the snow. He coughed incessantly all that night and the next day, and nothing I gave him seemed to relieve him. When my husband came home he brought a bottle of with him. After the second dose my boy was greatly relieved and after the third dose he went to sleep and slept the whole night through without any coughing. I am never without it in the house, and whenever any of the children get the slightest cold it's the first thing I give them."

Price 35c. a bottle, large size 60c.; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TOY HOSPITAL IS BUSY SPOT

Peterborough Scouts Preparing To Bring Cheer To Many.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

The toy repair shop, operated by members of the Peterborough Boy Scout's Association, is rapidly becoming the gathering place of the young fry of the city.

Last night, a gang of youngsters stood outside the store, with their noses glued to the window, making many comments on the array of toys that greeted their eyes.

A visit inside the workshop reveals a varied assortment of toys of every size and shape, ranging from sleighs to toy pistols. The majority of them are in a pitiful state when they arrive. Toy autos minus wheels; sleighs minus runners; toy horses that have lost their tails, but gradually, as the scouts get to work on them, they are once more taking a new lease of life and will in a few days again be in a position to bring delight to the heart of some youngster whose Christmas would otherwise be lacking in good things.

The back portion of the store is fitted out as a workshop. Four regular carpenter's benches are in position, together with complete sets of tools.

As the toys are repaired they are given a fresh coat of paint, making them look as good as new.

District Scoutmaster G. Murray Fraser told The Examiner that a great many more toys were still needed. Owing to the number of repairs that have to be effected, the number of toys received is considerably reduced, due to having to take parts of one toy in order to remake another.

Wooden toys, such as kiddie cars, doll's furniture and carts are particularly acceptable as they are more easily repaired and refinished than others.

All of the five troops in the city are engaged in the task of rebuilding the toys. One troop, in charge of its scoutmaster, takes over the store each day and carries on with the work.

More toys are needed, and it is the wish of those in charge that any person who has any old toys to donate, should give them as soon as possible, in order that they may be repaired in good time for Christmas.

The toys can be left at the workshop 374½ Water stret, or call 2412 or 1800 and they will be called for.

Women's hockey clubs exist in nearly all of the cities and towns in Holland.

ICE BRIDGE FORMED.

North Channel of St. Lawrence Barred To Shipping.

QUEBEC, Dec. 10.—Illustrating the unusually early cold weather this year, a report here yesterday from Baie St. Paul to the effect that the ice bridge between that point and Isle aux Coudres has been used for the traffic since last Saturday. As a result the few steamers which generally use the north side of the island at this time of the year have been forced to go to the south. The ice is reported as very heavy at various points also down the north shore, much in advance over previous seasons.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT we are born and sojourn here for a time. A new year is ushered in and its span of life is run. Associations are formed—beautiful friendships, and then comes the parting the passing on, and the coming of the new. So it is with life. We are born, and in the springtime we plan and build for the future. Then comes the summer of life, when we are watching the beauty that surrounds us and wondering if the harvest will be all that we hope for; then the afternoon of life, or in other words, the fall, when our fondest hopes are realized or shattered. We cannot go back and plant anew; we must harvest what we have sown, and then by that harvest we will be judged. And then comes the evening of life, or winter, when we look back over a profitable or unprofitable life, and review, just as we do today, the things that have taken place—the worth-while and the failures. And by this record we will be measured.

So the year ends, just like a life ends. A year seems short; a life is short, and we must crowd a lot into that life if we expect to leave for posterity something that will make the world a little better. If we are going to leave behind pleasant memories, we must of necessity render some service to humanity.

* * *

As the year is brought to a close, another takes its place, and we go on planning just as vigorously as of old. This gives us a beautiful thought—that life does not end at the grave. If all our hopes and ambitions were centered in one year there would be little in the way of accomplishment or profit accruing to humanity. And so it is with life; if we lived with the idea that everything was swallowed up in death, that there was nothing beyond the grave, no future, the whole thing would be a sham.

NEXT SESSION DECISIVE POINT FOR PILSUDSKI

What Support He Has Now is Purely Personal.

GREAT MAGNETISM

Socialist Party Not Undivided In Its Enthusiasm for Marshall.

LONDON, Eng., Dec.10 (By Canadian Press).—The "Times" correspondent at Warsaw gives an interesting outline of the present situation in Poland and Marshal Pilsudski's probable future as follows:

"The next Session of the Seym will, it is thought, mark the decisive point in the career of Marshal Pilsudski as the deliverer of Poland. The support he now enjoys is almost wholly personal. During the last four months he has been at work reorganizing the Higher Command in the Army so as to make it his main source of strength. He has now around him a number—one hesitates to estimate, but it must run into some thousands—of men, not only soldiers, who, under the spell of his personal magnetism, are prepared to lay down their lives for him without any regard for material reward. This, though a sufficiently striking phenomenon in the present age, hardly amounts to adequate support for the work which lies before him. He has also the affection of the common people, but that is probably not less fickle among the Poles than among other nations. Nor is it wholly disinterested, for there has been a marked cooling off in the enthusiasm of the Socialists for their one-time leader.

"Socialism in Poland is also at the parting of the ways, and these ways are the National and the International. Marshal Pilsudski joined the party (as did so many patriotic Poles) when it was a conspirator party offering the one hope against Tsarist oppression. This Socialism had nothing in common with that of the International or the teaching of Karl Marx. He has remained the conspirator, and the more nationally-minded Socialistic leaders, aristocrats by origin, like himself, show signs of cleaving to him. The doctrinaire Socialists will probably go their own way.

"It is clear that, in the circumstances, Marshal Pilsudski must revise anew the basis of his power. There has recently been a good deal of talk about Polish Monarchism as the outcome of the incidents at Nieswiez. It certainly gave some color to the rumor that Marshal Pilsudski contemplated alliance with the land-owning nobility on Royalist lines. But the whole Monarchist movement in Poland needs closer examination before that theory can be accepted.

"The movement, which is about four years old, began in the universities among the younger men, possibly as a reaction from the democracy which had become to them as much as absolutism or Bolshevism a symbol of suppression. The Polish peasantry regard democracy as a new thing; all of them have lived the greater part of their lives under Tsar or Kaiser, and their conceptions of leadership are monarchistic.

"The incident at Nieswiez was by no means accidental. It was carefully prepared, but it is probable that its promoters placed higher hopes upon it than all the facts warrant. Marshal Pilsudski was moved by genuine admiration for Prince Radziwill, as he always is by any honor paid to romanticism and courage. He is also particularly proud of his own noble origin and sees himself at one with the ideas of his class, which in Poland has never lost touch with the poetry of national self-sacrifice. But, politically, to him the ceremony was a demonstration that he is ready to accept help and co-operation from any party, and that he is not leaning for support on some particular group. Whether the gathering at the tomb of Radziwill viewed the situation in the same light may be open to doubt. It would seem that they did give Marshal Pilsudski to understand that he could rely upon their support to a much greater extent than was put into words.

"Evidently, therefore, Marshal Pilsudski is standing clear of dictatorial powers for the present. If he had wanted to grasp them, he had opportunities enough, the last being in May, when he deliberately rejected the presidency in order to avoid all appearance of a dictatorship. He is credited with the same intentions still, providing that he can get a parliament with which he can work; and, above all things, his past history has shown that he would be likely at all costs to avoid a situation which might contain the elements of the ridiculous.

"Hitherto Marshal Pilsudski has been immersed entirely in jealousies of internal politics, but the time is now arriving when he will face and attack the greater problems of state. He has shown litt e interest in the economic affairs of his country, and perhaps even regards them as a subject unworthy of the attention of a romantic soldier. Yet they dominate the fate of Poland.

"It is now thought that the time has now come when Marshal Pilsudski will reveal whether he is the statesman or merely the romantic soldier-conspirator. As conspirator he worked in secret and his methods can only be inferred. His aim seems to be to break up the existing classes to produce a combination that will support him on national lines, but seeks once more the man as opposed to the party. It is a programme that will take time, and meanwhile Poland waits. Monarchism, Fascism, new groupings, are all symptoms of haste and nervousness on the part of a people that has now staked its whole fortune on the single throw."

Although England has a number of women who conduct betting establishments, there is only one of the number who conducts her business at the race-tracks. She is a Mrs. Verney and her profits are said to amount to something like $40,000 a year.

PRESENTATION MADE TO POPULAR ORGANIST

Murray Street Choir Honors Francis Sutton, Who Is Leaving City.

On Tuesday evening of this week the members of Murray Street Choir held a very enjoyable party, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Pettit, 27 Benson Avenue, in honor of Mr. Francis Sutton, the talented and genial leader, who ,much to the regret of the many friends he has made during his brief residence here, is shortly leaving the city.

After a short guessing contest a much-appreciated musical and literary programme was presented, including a piano solo by Miss Constance Lewis, vocal solos by Miss Maybee and Mrs. Ingram, readings by Mrs. Pettit, and violin solos by Mr. Sutton.

It was then announced that Mrs. Ingram and Mr. Raddon would present a duet for the special enjoyment of Mr. Sutton, who was requested to "face the music."

Mr. Raddon then read the following address; Mrs. Ingram making the presentation of a handsome watch, set in white gold:

Dear Mr. Sutton:

The word of your decision to accept the invitation of Trinity United Church, Bowmanville, to become their organist, has been received with deep regret by the choir of Murray Street Baptist Church. Though you have only been with us for a short period, you have by your courteous and tactful manner, as well as by your thorough Christian character, won for yourself a place as a musician and leader which will ever be remembered with pleasure.

Under your leadership the choir has grown in numbers and we believe in efficiency. The attendance has been uniformly good, especially during this, your second year. Your happy faculty of always being in good humor and always ready to give special assistance has meant much toward securing the harmony which has prevailed. Choirs and their leaders have the reputation of being over-sensitive and given to hasty words and acts, due to the musical temperament. That reputation we do not accept as applying to Murray Street. If, however, it should be true of choir members we know that you have never manifestdd anything but the choicest spirit.

We shall follow you to your new field of service with the very best wishes and also with the expectation that there you will render exceptional service through the ministry of music and in a few years be one of the prominent men in the musical profession. If at any time you are visiting the city we shall be glad to have you call, either in our homes, places of business, on Thursday nights during choir practice, or at our Sunday services.

Please accept from the choir this token of our goodwill. May it ever be a reliable guide in temporal matters and a daily reminder that you have abiding friends in the Murray Street Baptist Church Choir.

Signed for the Murray Street Baptist Church Choir—Walter H. Kidd, President; Edith Smith, Secretary.

Mr. Sutton expressed his thanks and appreciation in his usual happy manner, assuring the choir of his regret at severing the pleasant relations which have existed, not only with the choir, but with all departments of the church's activities, during his connection of a little more than a year.

Dr. Rose added a few sincere words of appreciation, intimating that he wished to speak at greater length on the same subject in the near future.

Dr. Morgan, as chairman of the music committee, then spoke briefly, and after the serving of dainty refreshments, and a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Pettit for their gracious hospitality, the evening was concluded by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

In the olden times mistletoe was used for other purposes besides the decorating of houses at Christmas. It had a great reputation as a "cure for convulsive distempers."

if you wish to be certain of securing for Christmas the delights of the world's newest and greatest musical discovery

THURSDAY DECEMBER 2nd marked the first anniversary of the Orthophonic Credenza. The reception which during the past year, has been accorded this remarkable invention exceeded even the most liberal calculations.

The demand for this remarkable new musical instrument, created on the Victor principle of "matched impedance" or "smooth flow of sound", has increased so enormously, we have as yet been unable to supply it fully. This,—despite the fact that we have been working our manufactory overtime.

Those who read this announcement have a distinct advantage among music lovers. They will profit by the information it contains, to place their orders, now, for that Christmas Credenza. Any "His Master's Voice" Dealer will explain his plan of convenient payments, which applies to any of the Orthophonic Victrola models, . . . from $115.00 to $430.00.

Note: We made the same announcement about a year ago. Yet, many people suffered temporary disappointment.

A Simple and Smart Apron

Much can be said in favor of this apron. It is unusually attractive, yet very simply made, besides being a source of joy to the busy housewife who hurries home from her shopping and slips it on with a knowledge that her dress is protected while she goes about her work. The pattern is cut in one piece and has a becoming V neck and useful patch pockets, while the back fastens over on the front at both sides under the arms. Chintz, gingham, chambray, cretonne or percale are all suitable materials, and may be appropriately trimmed with rickrack braid, or bound with self or contrasting material. NO. 1024 is for ladies and misses and is in sizes 36, 40 and 44 inches bust. Size 36 requires 2¾ yards 27-inch material. 20 cents.

The garments illustrated in our new Fashion Book are advance styles for the home dressmaker, and the woman or girl who desires to wear garments dependable for taste, simplicity and economy will find her desires fulfilled in our patterns. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

OLD MASTERS

When I consider how my light is spent
Ere half my days, in this dark world and wide,
And that one talent which is death to hide
Lodged with me useless, though my soul more bent

To serve wherewith my Maker, and present
My true account, lest He returning chide—
Doth God exact day labor, light denied?
I fondly ask: But Patience to prevent

That murmur, soon replies: God doth not need
Either man's work, or His own gifts, who best
Bear His mild yoke, they serve Him best: His state

Is kingly; thousands at His bidding speed
And post o'er land and ocean without rest:
They also serve who only stand and wait.

—J. Milton: On His Blindness.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1926

Astrologers read this as rather an unimportant day in planetary direction. The Sun and Mars are both adverse.

Under this rule there may be betrayals of confidence on the part of those who have been most trusted.

The seers declare that selfishness has grown with the trend toward individualism to such an extent that loyalty is sadly undermined.

This is a sway that may encourage discontent and quarrels of every sort. Egotism will be strongly manifested as offense on account of trifles.

Among legislators there may be clashes regarding disarmament and militarism.

This is not an auspicious day to claim any sort of political reward for the Sun is in an aspect encouraging forgetfulness of promises and contracts.

It is not a lucky day for seeking positions and there may be an unemployment problem in many cities.

The seers declare that there will rise among the people a clamor for a new leader in this country, a Moses to lead out of the wilderness of greed and graft.

There is a sign indicating much work for physicians under this sway and some sort of epidemic appears to be foreshadowed.

Women are to come much to the front and they will make many important demands for reforms in administering public affairs.

Changes in court procedure are to be much discussed, if the stars are read aright.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury that the year is to bring them many important opportunities. Journeys are indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be of sanguine nature and strong character. These subjects of Sagittarius often make good builders and they should be handy with tools.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

When you are painting the kitchen, why don't you paint the pipes black? All the pipes, the radiator and heat pipes, the drain pipes under the sink. The effect will surely strike you, if you carry it out, as quite interesting and unusual. The lines of black here and there on a yellow cream, a light green or a blue wall are pleasant to the eye and really an improvement on any other color scheme you might choose.

The advantage of such treatment is that the black does not rust or discolor as quickly as a more delicate color, and which is sometimes affected by heat or moisture from the pipes themselves.

The Egyptians, you remember, used lines of black for emphasis between their lines of color. Somehow the straight or curving lines of the black pipes give just the same sort of emphasis to the other color values in the room.

Some of the big dress establishments in New York employ motor mannequins, who drive small cars in the fashionable thoroughfares, and exhibit the latest modes in motoring dress.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

WHICH LOYALTY FIRST?

Disloyalty is despicable. We are all agreed upon that. But sometimes our loyalty can be torn two ways and we are called upon to make painful decisions.

Ethel's case is one in point. She has served her firm 12 years and enjoys their trust and respect. She is also popular with the staff, who have likewise recognized her inherent loyalty and sense of justice.

Recently she discovered that a woman working in the office, with whom she is on terms of good friendship, has been indulging in some petty little grafts. She knows this woman is not too well paid and has, perhaps, some slight excuse for her mean little depredations. But Ethel herself cannot sympathize with any excuse for this sort of thing.

So, reluctantly and with what grace she could muster, she chided the offender—who promptly resented her interference and said it was none of her business.

Ethel considers it is very much her business. She is jealous of the prestige and well-being of her firm, jealous of the good character of its employees, and believes very sincerely that, so long as she works for this firm, it is part of her business to help maintain the finest scruples.

"Hence, since this woman will not listen to me, or express any regrets for her conduct, and in fact, is now completely antagonized against me, I feel that the matter should be laid before the head of the firm," says Ethel, "but at the same time I cannot bring myself to lose this woman's job for her. And I hate to be a tale-bearer. I can also see the force of this woman's argument, that it is not my place to be a self-righteous critic and troublemaker. And, of course, I do want to be loyal to her just as I wish to be loyal to the firm. So what is my duty?"

I imagine most of us have been in a similar quandary at some time or another. It can even happen as between father and children, as between two friends, as well as in business. If we have a strong sense of right and wrong, we cannot bring ourselves to condone things that outrage our scruples. Yet we hesitate to take a self-righteous attitude, knowing full well that we, too, can make our miss—steps on occasion.

I think, in speaking to this woman directly, Ethel was doing the fair thing. If the woman would undertake to mend her ways, Ethel might bjjustified in keeping her own counsel. But so long as she shows every sign of persisting in her mean little grafts, Ethel's first loyalty is to her firm. I think she should make sure that her little warning is being ignored before taking the boss into her confidence, but otherwise for the sake of the morale of the w ole office, she would be justified in taking some step to frustrate future depredations.

We have a case in our neighborhood, too, in which one neighbor is disregarding the fire and building ordinances. He, too, resented being "called" in the matter. So another neighbor feels that the fire and building inspectors should be notified—but, she hates to create an unpleasant neighborhood situation. All the same, for the sake of the whole neighborhood, the matter should be set right—even if it does mean making the offending neighbor spend a good deal more than he had intended, or can afford, upon his "improvements."

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Those who wear the amethyst, today's talismanic stone, are promised temperance in all things. Leonardo claimed that this stone controlled evil thoughts, quickened the mental powers of those who wore it, and made them shrewd in business matters. It is also believed to have the power to protect soldiers from harm, and to guard those who wore it from dangers of contagious diseases.

For those born on an anniversary of this date, the topaz is the natal gem. Symbolic of the sun, it drives care and worry away from its wearer, and dispels all fear.

Pink is today's lucky hue, and brings happiness and mental strength to those who wear it.

Today's flower is the violet. It should be worn, rather than used for decoration, and is symbolic of modesty and true love.

WHEN YOU HAVE CABBAGE

Cabbage is so wholesome that we ought to eat a great deal of it. It is valuable for its vitamines, both raw and cooked. One of the up-to-date moment foods for one-year-olds is raw cabbage juice, squeezed and chopped from the cabbage. We grown-ups needn't take our cabbage that way, but we shall do well to make it an important item in our diet.

If you are, say, a family of two, don't hesitate to buy a big cabbage. Have a third of it boiled—or a quarter, if that is enough. Next day, cook another third or quarter of it, and serve it with a cream sauce poured over it and then baked. Next day—or next two days, if you have as yet only used half—have cold slaw or cabbage salad or any other form of raw shredded or chopped cabbage. Or, if you want, save the raw cabbage for several days before you have the cold slaw.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The higher, more shapely waistline is interestingly achieved on this frock of crepe georgette trimmed with tucks and embroidery.

Every problem that confronts us as we study this more or less important question of women's fashions is complex, and the more closely we study these problems the more complex they become. For centuries the question whether women dress to suit themselves, other women or men, has been propounded, and you can usually start quite a heated argument on this subject, hackneyed though it is. It is the nature of women, now as ever, to dress to please and attract men. That is what some one is pretty sure to say. Very well, says someone else, if this is so why do women of to-day cut their hair and wear straight-line frocks when the majority of men are weak minded enough to admire long hair and curving contours? It seems as if the question had been settled. But the matter is too complex to be settled quite so easily.

There is that highly complicated thing known as fashion, the prevailing mode or what you will that steps in—something that seems to have existence quite apart from what men, or women either, must admire. No one has been able to analyze it to figure out just what elements enter into its make-up. It is a sort of norm toward which every woman who is part and parcel of the period in which she lives strives to approach—regardless of what she herself or her husband or her fiancee or the man who most admires her or her next-door neighbor or the woman she most dislikes finds most attractive.

And oddly enough men normally want their women to attain that prevailing norm of fashion too. So it is that while the majority of men would insist if you asked them and if they spoke truthfully that they find shapely figures more enticing than those that seem to be straight up and down—it is the bobbed haired girl with a boyish—or apparently boyish—figure who dances all her dances, and the quaintly dressed damsel with an old-fashioned figure, long skirt and long hair who is in danger of sitting among the wall flowers.

Now, we are told, fashion is tiring of the perfectly straight figure. But the new curving waist will not be like anything that women of the present day remember. And when and if it comes, then the up-to-date woman wears it—regardless of what she herself or the neighbors or the men she knows say or think.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

FOOD AND THRIFT WEEK

It is none too soon to be thinking about how we are to fit our food plans into the scheme of national Thrift Week. From January 17 to 25, 1927, the committee in charge of this project will be busy as bees, watching the operation of the various plans instigated by their members for the purpose of setting the national mind thinking along thrift lines.

The food item is, of course, of vital importance in planning for thrift, whether daily or weekly. Don't you remember Mr. Wilkins in "The Enchanted April" and his conception of thrift? When his wife saved on her own clothing allowance and went about looking dowdy, that was thrift. When thrift was allowed to get into his own meals, that was bad management!

So the average housewife aspires to accomplish a thrift plan that will be sound, one that will keep the various members of the family looking smart and well turned out and one that will, above all things, keep them well fed and well nourished.

The very words, "food budget," have a hollow sound! Just as one turns a lack lustre eye on the prospect of "counting calories," that is, eating by rule of thumb, so he fails to sparkle with enthusiasm over the prospect of eating just so many dollars' worth of food in a given time. How we did wrestle with this problem and with our consciences during the days of war conservation! Now that times are a bit more stabilized, however, it should be possible for us to evolve a food-budget—and—thrift-plan that will possess at least an element of sound interest and workableness.

To begin with, we may have to revamp our definitions of thrift. It does not mean niggardly scrimping so as to save for the sake of saving. Rather does it imply a sensible thinking over of just what the family should have in the way of food, just how much money it possess that may reasonably be devoted to the purchase of such food, and just how to go about making the purchases.

Percentages of the total income to be spent? Or, provide yourself with tabulations of these standardized figures, by all means, if you are interested. Personally, as a nutrition person, I'm not! Statistics are all very well for providing certain checks on our goings and our comings in, but where the food expenditure is concerned far better results are to be obtained if you will begin by informing yourself as to what is a reasonable and necessary diet for your family. Then all you have to do is to calculate roughly the cost of such a diet; think over the sum you will have left for other expenses and for saving and there is your food budget!

Not very scientific? Perhaps not, so far as cut and dried budget making is concerned, but as I have said, far more likely to result in a well fed family group.

As for the question, where does thrift come in, that is another matter! True thrift will be shown if you follow first of all the above suggestion, then see to it that, in planning your dietary you do not indulge in out of season luxuries, nor othrwise break the unwritten laws of sensible purchasing.

FORMER WARDEN OF COUNTIES DEAD

Caleb Mallory Presided Over Council During Year 1888.

COBOURG, Dec. 10.—The grim truth of Gray's immortal line, "The paths of glory lead but to the grave," arose with modest application in the minds of members of the Counties Council Wednesday afternoon, and especially in the memory of Warden McCubbin, when he referred to the death here on Monday of Caleb A. Mallory, who was Warden of Northumberland and Durham in 1888.

A resolution of condolence was passed with standing vote to the bereaved family, and Warden McCubbin announced that he had anticipated the wishes of the Council by sending a wreath on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Mallory died in his 86th year. For thirty years he had lived at Oak Heights in Percy Township, the scene of the most active period of his career in public service. In 1900 he contested East Northumberland as a candidate of The Patrons of Industry against the late Edward Cochrane, and later contested the same riding as a Liberal against the late Dr. Willoughby for the Provincial Legislature. He was a member of Percy Township Council for a number of years, and represented that municinality in the Counties Council, achieving the distinction of the Wardenship in 1888. He was a Methodist and a Past Master of Percy Lodge A. F. and A. M. Mr. Mallory is survived by five sons: Harry in Oshawa, Albert in Point Clements, B.C., George in Colborne, Frank of Cobourg and Ray of Warkworth, and one daughter, Mrs. Cole, in Vancouver. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon from the Mallory homestead on the Front Road East here to Grafton.

SPEAKER TELLS ABOUT LEAGUE

Former Official Addresses Women's Canadian Club on Canada's Poet.

STRESSES GOOD WILL.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club held in the auditorium of the Public Library yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Norman Mackenzie, now of Toronto, formerly legal adviser to the International Labour Bureau of the League of Nations, at Geneva, spoke to the members. Mr. Mackenzie, who was introduced by the president, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, took as his subject, "Canada's position in External Affairs and Canada's Relationship to the League," giving his audience a comprehensive outline of the various activities of the League of Nations, and urging a more intensive interest in its programme.

'International co-operation and international good-will" were recommended as helps towards a better spirit among the nations of the world.

Canada, said Mr. Mackenzie, has an unusual opportunity and an unusual responsibility in such things by reason of the fact that she is "the only Anglo-Saxon country represented at Geneva." Problems which confront those interested in the furtherance of international peace are those of population, for one of the causes of the recent war was Germany's over-population and her desire to find an outlet for this condition; also, the question of natural resources. To Canada would fall much of the responsibility of bridging the gap between various intellectual difficulties, such as the theories held in other countries; of capitalism in the United States, of Communism in Russia, of a tendency toward Socialism in Great Britain, and of the theory of Imperialism and of self determination.

"Around such ideas and around the fundamental questions of race and color, War is made, and it is tremendously to Canada's interest to see that she does her share to prevent this. War does not solve any problems, but only creates more of them. And the sensible and pacific solutions of such problems lies with the League of Nations, for whose creation Canada had a share of responsibility in the Paris proceedings of 1914."

Mr. Mackenzie went on here to outline the internal machinery of the League of Nations, and the manner of its organization in various parts, such as the Assembly, the Council and the paid secretariat, also the International Labour organization and the Permanent Court of Justice.

"The world is at peace now for two reasons. One is because of poverty, and the other because we have still with us the generation that saw War and its horrors. But let us gather up enough money and see a new generation grow up and we will have a recurrence of war. A creation of informed public opinion is very necessary, and a creation also of international good will and understanding, so that you can sit around a table and settle your problems. When war is ended, you do this anyway, so why not do it before?"

Canada's budget for the year, said Mr. Mackenzie, is $133,000,000, of which $77,000,000, or more than one-half, is spent on debts contracted owing to the war. He then went on to enumerate some of the activities of the League, in the way of settling problems with regard to refugees, slavery among backward peoples, in the opium traffic and in child welfare questions, in protecting women and children in the Near East, and in epidemics, and also referred to Germany's admission to the League this year.

"It is important, because Germany is, in my mind, potentially the strongest force in Europe, and to attempt to settle European questions without the voice of Germany being heard, is impossible."

The possibility of the future of the creation of an American or Pacific or Asiatic League on this side of the ocean was visualized by the speaker, who saw in this possibility another opportunity for Canada to act as an interpreter between the old world and the new, on account of her relationship with each of the elements in both

In the building of permanent places of abode for the League units at Geneva Mr. Mackenzie saw the assurance from the nations of their belief in the efficacy of the League of Nations as an effective means of settlement of various international difficulties. "An aid toward international peace is the pressure that may be brought on the great Powers by the combination at international gatherings of smaller powers."

Mr. Mackenzie concluded his discourse with a recommendation to his hearers of more interest in international problems of the day, and was accorded a hearty meed of applause, also a standing vote of thanks from the audience, after Mrs. Allan had formally thanked him for his "clear, lucid and instructive address."

Mrs. Allan also spoke briefly, asserting her opinion that the churches should strive to further the work of the League of Nations here, as they do in the Old Country, by helping to create a popular interest in its methods and aims.

You will find many things in the Classified Ads. of the Examiner.

L.O.L. 50 INSTALS OFFICERS FOR 1926

M. D. Sproats Master For Coming Year—County Master Present.

The annual meeting of Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 50., was held in Victoria Hall last evening, when reports for the year just closing were presented and the officers for 1927 were duly elected and installed. Wor. County Master S. Harrison of Lakefield was present and conducted the election and installation which resulted as follows:

Wor. Master—M. D. Sproats.
Im. Past Master—A. W. Spencely.
Deputy Master—Frank Millard.
Chaplain—George Raines.
Recording Secretary—Robert C. Carney, Apt. E. Goodwill Aparts.
Financial Secretary—George McCullough, 310 Margaret Ave.

5th Committeeman—F. T. Brown.
Sentinel—Lloyd Redmond.

Speeches were given by the newly elected officers and the County Master and Deputy County Master, after which a dainty lunch was served. Votes of thanks were tendered to the installing officer and his assistants and the enthusiasm manifested last night promises to be carried into every meeting during the year. Altogether it was one of the best annual meetings ever held.

MINE DIRECTORS MEET.

Prospectors For Nipissing Report on Property in Quebec.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The regular quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the Nipissing Mines Company was held at the head office here yesterday. A report was received from prospectors who are working on the Montbray property in Robb County, Quebec, on which the company has an option, according to E. P. Earle, one of the directors.

LEGION NOTES

The first of a series of concerts which will be held monthly for War Veterans' during the winter months was held last night at Legion headquarters, when some 600 Veterans and their lady friends spent a most enjoyable evening. The Dixie Minstrels, under the direction of Eddie Leonard, assisted by Kearney's Orchestra, provided the fun of the evening. This troupe is deserving of special mention and great credit reflects upon the director and each member of the troupe for the manner in which each one played his part, and also to the chorus members. From start to finish the whole programme was a scream of laughter, and the concensus of opinion was, "Let's have another same as tother." Special mention should also be made of Jack Primeau who, in his own inimitable way by his monologues, created much laughter.

The concert opened by a short address from the preseident of the local branch of the Legion, Col. Charlie Ackerman, who in a few well chosen words thanked the members and their friends for their attendance and emphasized the fact that all returned men were welcomed to the hall. He trusted that such entertainment as was being provided now would be a means of bringing the men together again, and that by doing this it would also mean the building up of a branch of the Legion in Peterborough that would eventually become a tower of strength for good in the community. He also expressed his thanks to the committee who had been the means of providing such a splendid evening of enjoyment for those present.

At the conclusion of the concert the hall was cleared and dancing took place till long after midnight, when the evening's fun was brought to a conclusion by the singing of the National Anthem. The success of the evening was largely due to the efforts of the committee who had charge of the affairs, and Comrades E. G. Abraham, Arnold Everett, and Albert Fisher were largely congratulated upon the success of their first enterprise.

The committee desire to express their many thanks to Eddie Leonard and his troupe of minstrels, to Kearney's orchestra and all who in any way contributed to the success of the evening. All present expressed the opinion that it was the largest gathering of Veterans that has ever been held in the hall, and all agreed that a most enjoyable time had been spent.

FACTORY PATRONS WIND UP SEASON

Young's Point Cheese Factory Has Had Successful Year.

YOUNG'S POINT, Dec. 9.—On Friday afternoon, November 26, the winding-up meeting of the patrons of Young's Point cheese factory was held in the factory.

There was a good attendance of the patrons, also T. Braden and J. S. Montgomery, manager of the Standard bank, Lakefield.

They both addressed the patrons on the successful season they had. The following is the statement:

Number pounds milk, 1,528,397; number pounds cheese made, 137,998; average pounds of milk to one pound cheese, 11.07; price per cwt., $128.53; average price per pound of cheese, $17.04; average price per pound butter-fat, $40.01; total amount of money received, $23,518.09; value to patrons, $20,645.13.

On Tuesday evening there was held at the rectory a very successful euchre party, in aid of St. Aiden's church. Nine tables were played. Lady's first prize was won by Mrs. William Millage of Lakefield. Gentleman's first was won by Mr. William Dever. Lady's second was won by Mrs. Wilbert McNaughton. Gentleman's second was won by Mr. Stuart McNaughton. The consolation prizes went to Mrs. C. Stenner and Mr. Reg. Murduff, both of Lakefield. Among those from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Chappel, Mr. and Mrs. William Millage, Mrs. T. Waldon, Mrs. C. Stenner, Miss Iva Windsor, Messrs. T. Simpson, F. Moon, R. Murduff, L. Sabatino, J. SALES AND BAZAARS

SALVATION ARMY

The sale of work held in the Young People's Temple of the Salvation Army on Wednesday came up to the expectations of those responsible, and a nice sum was realized for the locat work. Mesdames Pammett and T. Hedge were general convenors, and were assisted by Mrs. W. R. Robinson, with the Misses Olive Foy and M. Boorman assisting at the Young People's Legion stalls. Mesdames A. McDonald and Withers, Senior, were in charge of the rummage sale, Mesdames F. Wells and H. Wells conducted affairs at the Band booth, Mesdames White and Reid had the sale of fancy work and the Misses J. Gilmour and J. Dey were in charge of refreshments. The Temple Band, under Deputy Bandmaster Jack Smith, provided a much appreciated programme in the evening.

THAT PAIN IN YOUR RIGHT SIDE

The immediate cause of most abdominal pains is gas pressure, due to fermentation of food in the small intestines or in the colon. Sometimes this gas pressure will produce distress in healthy organs, but the most acute pain will be experienced when some inflamed organ or tissue is pressed upon by the gas distension.

There are some sections of the colon where this gas forms more readily than at other places because of the anatomical position or shape of the colon in this section. For instance, on the right side of the body the normal colon extends directly upwards from the hip and ascends approximately nine inches. The feces must be forced upward through this extension and if there is any sluggishness at all of the bowel action, there will necessarily be a weakness shown in this ascending colon. Due to daily indiscretions in eating, causing excess food fermentation, constipation, biliousness, etc., the ascending colon gradually becomes distended and enlarged, often more resembling a balloon than a colon tube.

The appendix is the sensitive extension of the colon at the caecum and resembles a very small pig tail. When gas forms in the colon at this section, the increased pressure upon the appendix often causes it to become irritated and inflamed. In some rare cases, pus pockets gradually form around the appendix section, breaking down into abscesses. However, very few of these pus cases are found when the patient is operated upon, but usually only the red inflamed appendix is discovered. It is then removed anyway, because of the theory that it might some day become filled with pus and suppurate.

With women, the pain on the right side is often caused by gas pressing against the right ovary, and in many cases, with either men or women, this pressure against the gall bladder higher up on the right side will produce great discomfort.

The first thing to do, if you have any distress in the right side, is to take an enema as soon as possible, cleaning out the entire lower bowel. If one enema of plain warm water is not sufficient to remove the cause, use a larger one of soapy water. This is the emergency treatment to use no matter what might be causing the pain. You should then search to discover the real cause of the trouble and see that this cause is not continued.

Change your food habits from bad to good ones, keep your bowels clean for several weeks with enemas and strengthen the abdominal muscles by vigorous physical exercises, and you will be free from the terror of a pain in the right side.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE ANCHORS OF THE HOME

He wants to buy a flivver for a journey east or west,
He wants to join the navy, or the city seems the best.
And Mother's growing grayer now, and Father growing white;
And there is something wrong, somehow, with ev'rything tonight.

This hour will come to many a sire, to many a mother's heart,
When from the roof-tree and the fire some loved one would depart,
But long before the hour is here, with all its care and pain,
I hope the home has grown so dear the world will call in vain.

I hope the anchors will not slip, the anchors of the past.
I hope a sire's companionship will hold the youngster fast.
That long before this moment sad when someone wants to roam
A mother's love surrounds the lad with anchors of the home.

No words of anger will avail, no words however wise;
We must make ready for the gale in days of sunny skies.
Oh, guide him through the growing years with all the love of old;
And, when the sudden storm appears, pray God the anchors hold!

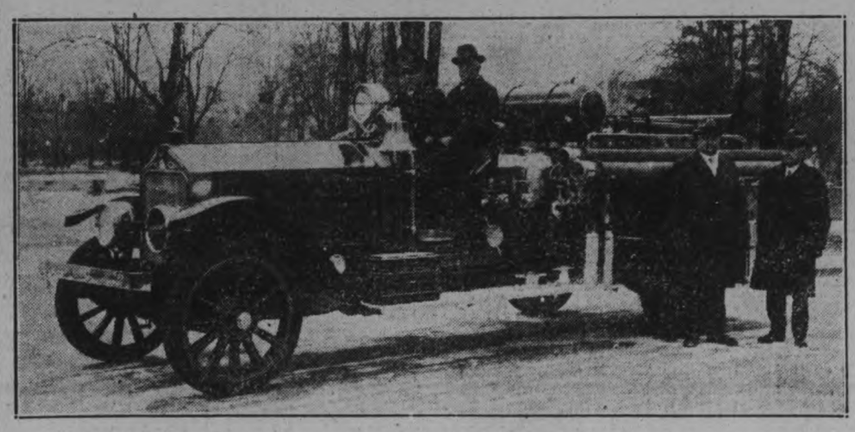
NEW PUMPER BOUGHT



The new La France Metropolitan pumping engine and hose car, Canadian built, one of which has been purchased by the City of Peterborough. This apparatus is the very latest in fire fighting equipment, and embodies all of the newest ideas in pumping engines. It was selected by the City Council after very careful investigation of various makes, as being the most suitable equipment for the city's needs. Delivery will be made in the latter part of March.

COLLIE'S WHINE SAVES FAMILY

Wakes Up Landlady of Burning Rooming House in Oshawa.

HOUSE SAVED.

OSHAWA, Ont., Dec. 10. — The persistent whining of a collie aroused Mrs. M. Vance, keeper of a large rooming house on Simcoe Street South, this city, yesterday morning, and when she was in the act of putting the animal outside by opening the door to the kitchen, she was enveloped with smoke from a fire which had started underneath the woodshed. Mrs. Vance rushed to her three children who were asleep in a room downstairs, wrapped them in blankets and carried them out and then went back and aroused the other inmates. Firemen soon had the blaze under control, but not before considerable damage was done by smoke and water. Two older children with other roomers ran to a neighbor's house in their night attire.

The dog which saved the lives of the entire household cannot be found, and it is thought that it was overcome by the dense smoke and died.

MERCHANTS FIND BUSINESS GOOD

Best Christmas Trade Since War—Wave of Prosperity Coming.

PEOPLE BUY EARLIER.

Peterborough merchants are doing one of the best, if not the best, Christmas trades since the war. Those merchants interviewed by The Examiner all expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied with the Christmas trade so far. People are buying earlier this year and more money appears to be in circulation. Business as a whole is brighter and there appears to be a happiness all along the line.

but still with all this there is quite a lot of out-of-town buying. People send away to large mail order houses to get their Christmas goods and then they wonder why this city does not prosper. They fail to realize that they are the chief knockers. Buying in Peterborough helps the merchants, the merchants are able to employ more help, overhead expense is reduced, and articles can be bought cheaver by everyone.

This city, from all reports, seems to be entering into a wave of prosperity. Grafton's Company reported business never better since the war and in looking through their store it was found they were carrying a fine large line of assorted stock, as they believe in the next year and this coming winter things are going to flourish. The Turnbull store is dosing a very satisfactory Christmas trade, and business in the Hall Store is much brighter this year.

All along the line merchants appeared to be doing a very thriving trade, and all of them are carrying lines of good which do a credit to them and to everyone who buys.

ORMISTON TO FIGHT CALIFORNIA ARREST

Will Battle Against Extradition Proceedings in Chicago Court.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—It is intimated that Kenneth G. Ormiston, elusive radio operator of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, who is on his way here from Harrisburg, Penn., where he was arrested on Wednesday night, will fight extradition to California when he arrives.

District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles, who is in Washington, insists that he will battle to send the radio man to the Pacific coast city, where he is charged with conspiracy to defeat justice in connection with the grand jury investigation following the alleged kidnapping of Aimee Semple McPherson, Angelus Temple evangelist.

Ormiston declined to answer any questions concerning Mrs. McPherson at Harrisburg. District Attorney Keyes charges that the prisoner occupied a cottage at Carmel, California, during part of the time the evangelist said she was in the hands of kidnappers in Northern Mexico, where she was held for ransom.

The radio man told reporters at Harrisburg that he believed he never would have been found if he had stayed on Broadway (New York). "I roamed the gay white way for months this summer and laughed to see my picture in the paper," he said. "In spite of my limp no one recognized me. My only disguise was a little sandy moustache," a Chicago Herald and Examiner copyrighted story quoted him as saying.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

POWER FOR CITY FROM OTTAWA

Robert Hicks Addresses Kiwanis Club On Peterborough's Electric Supply.

URGES CO-OPERATION.

A resolution was endorsed by the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon today at noon whereby the Peterborough-Lindsay highway follow the roads designated by the Department of Highways. Which is out the Chemong road to the fourth line of Smith, then through Smith and Emily to Lindsay.

The United Counties of Durham and Northumberland wish the highway to go out the Peterboro-Port Hope highway to Scott's corners, then across the 12th line of Cavan to the Middle road and thence north through Mount Pleasant to the fourth concession of Emily and from there through Omemee to Lindsay.

The speaker of the day, Robert Hicks, was introduced by Dr. Ray Scott who said Mr. Hicks came to the club to speak on the power question as an unbiased citizen.

In discussing the future possibility of power in this district the speaker informed the club that the new Carillon development in the Ottawa river would be unable to serve Eastern Ontario as it was being developed for Toronto and Western Ontario in 25 cycle units whereas the power in Eastern Ontario is in the form of 60 cycle frequency. These cycles could not be converted for Eastern Ontario commercial use in any less quantity than 50000 horsepower.

The speaker said there was considerably more power on the Ottawa river which would probably be developed when needed into 60 cycle power for Eastern Ontario. This development would supply enough power for this part of Ontario until such a time as the St. Lawrence power was available.

It was the speaker's own opinion that the St. Lawrence scheme is in abeyance for there is a difference between members of the joint board of engineers and when work is begun it will take from three to six years to develop power.

The speaker then referred to the amount of undeveloped power in this district which he estimated at 5,400 h.p. The cost of power was referred to which amounted to $26.80 per h.p. in this city last year. Mr. Hicks advised against the city developing its own power and said "we as a city should forget about developing our own power for the only economic way to be served with power is from large public service corporations who are supplying many municipalities with power. In this way power is cheaper, less power would be lost for our peak day would not be the same as the peak day of one of the other municipalities."

The power in Peterborough last year cost the consumer 16.46 per h.p. This city, explained Mr. Hicks, was not burdened with a share of the debt of the Central Ontario system, for this city had an agreement with the Hydro Electric Power Commission for thirty years whereby the power would be supplied to Peterborough at cost. With Montreal under private interests and this city under public ownership, the cost of power was compared by the speaker. In Montreal the big user gets his power cheaper, while the small user pays a high rate. For this city they are all treated the same. The average cost of power per kilowatt hour in Montreal is 2.6, while in this city it is 1.7, although in Montreal it should be cheaper for the population is more congested.

Mr. Hicks, in closing, made a plea to the members of the club to get behind the Utilities Commission, for they were men who were doing a great, unselfish service for this city.

Herb McCannon moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

The visitors at the luncheon were Clair McDonald, who was introduced by C. H. Huffman and Reg. Turner introduced by J. Turner.

Roy Taylor was introduced as the youngest member of the club and he was addressed by J. Wearing as to his duties towards the club and the citizens as a whole.

Five Priests Officiate At Funeral Of Brother

RENFREW, Dec. 10.—At the funeral services of the late James Harrington, Killaloe, one of the best known of the younger farmers of South Renfrew, there were present five brothers of his who are members of the priesthood of the Catholic Church. Rev. Alfonsis chanted the Requiem Mass, assisted by Rev. John P. and Rev. Patrick, as deacon and subdeacon, and at the same time Rev. Jeremiah and Rev. D. J. celebrated low Mass at the side altars. Three of these clergymen are stationed in the Ottawa Valley, and two in the Canadian West. Right Rev. Monsignor French of Renfrew preached the funeral sermon. James Harrington died rather suddenly at the age of 33 years, leaving a wife and two children. His mother survives, and there are two brothers who follow farming in this county, also two sisters, one Mrs. Samuel Coyne of Brudenell, and the other Sister Benilda of the Grey Nuns, Pembroke.

New York Exchange Movement Is Upward

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—The line of least resistance in to-day's stock market was again upward.

International Harvester again sprang to the forefront of the advance, soaring over six points to a new high record at 155 1-4, before the end of the third hour. About a score of other issues also broke through to a new high level, the list including General Motors seven per cent preferred, American Railway Express, South Porto Rican Sugar and National Supply.

United States' Steel Common crossed 152 in reflection of an increase in orders and the expansion in mill operations. Crucible Steel was bid up three points to a new peak. Activity of several of the low and medium priced motors was accompanied by the revival of merger rumors.

Mining Market Firmer Trading Continues Light

TORONTO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—A firmer tendency was in evidence on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, although trading continued light and occasional recession were shown. Noranda was the leader both in strength and activity, reaching a record high at 21.50, and closing at noon with a 65 cent gain at 21.40. Teck Hughes gained one at 482, Pioneer two at 108, and McIntyre 20 at 24.50. Nipissing eased ten at 6.85 and Dome 10 at 11.50.

Toronto Exchange Shows Many Drops in Prices

TORONTO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press). — Despite a prevailing tendency to depress prices this morning's active session of the Toronto Stock Exchange had many interesting features. On the weaker side Industrial Alcohol, the leader, sold down to 29.78, and closed with a net loss of 1 1-2 at 30, and Consolidated Smelters was run down 9 points at 250. Brazilian at 104 and British Columbia Fishing at 97 1-2 were fractionally lower, like a number of other stocks. Noranda climbed to a record high of 21.46 and closed with a gain of 50 cents at 20.40. British American Oil held steady around 76 1-2. The active Seagrams finished with a quarter point gain at 16 1-2.

Wheat Prices Go Down In Selling Rush To-day

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—In a rush of selling, wheat prices underwent a decided early downturn today. An 8,000,000 bushel enlargement of an unofficial estimate of the Argentine exportable surplus of wheat was chiefly responsible.

Starting 3-8 to 7-8 cent lower, wheat quickly suffered a material setback. Corn, oats and provisions also gave way, corn opening 1-8 to 5-8 cent off and subsequently showed a further drop.

ANOTHER SHIP JAMMED IN CUT

Twenty-five Down-Bound Vessels Clear—Others Held Up Again.

LOCKS CLOSE DEC. 14.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).— Twenty-five of the 110 downbound grain vessels are clean of the ice jam in the West Neebish Channel and are proceeding toward the Buffalo grain elevators but the rest of the procession is being held up by the Bricoldoo, which is stuck in the worst part of the jam at the foot of the cut. The steel car ferry Sainte Marie and two tugs were working on her this morning. The Westmount passed the dyke with 15 to 20 boats behind her. This is the first movement in the upbound channels since yesterday morning. Practically all the tugs in this section of the Great Lakes have been called out to help relieve the situation.

Announcement was made at the Michigan Soo Canal this morning that locks would be held open for boats leaving head of the lakes by midnight on December 14.

FISH AND CABBAGE SAVE THE TEETH.

Before many years the dreaded visit to the dentist may be a thing of the past. In place of drillings and fillings to preserve the teeth we may substitute an easy diet of fish and cabbage. This, says Popular Science Monthly, is the recent prediction made by Dr. Bernhard Gottlieb of the University of Vienna. Tooth decay may be prevented by eating certain foods, he declared, and within five years the dentists hope to have enough scientific data to present a definite tooth preserving diet. "Experiments with sea foods have encouraged us to believe we are now on the right track,' he said.

He named cabbage, brussels sprouts and spinach as valuable tooth builders for the reason that they contain lime salts which are the basis of tooth enamel.

Leaders of English League Divisions Are Not In Danger

MANY VICTORIES EXPECTED IN ENGLISH LEAGUE

Contests Will be Close—Home Clubs Have the Pull.

BAD FOR VILLA

Motherwell, Leader of Scottish League, is in Real Danger.

By BILLY FENTON.

Environment will play a big part in deciding many of the Old Country League games scheduled for the week-end and there should be a big percentage of home victories. In neither case is a club leading its section threatened seriously with dethronement. Newcastle, who top the First Division, visit the Wednesday, who are by no means out of the running, but the 'Geordies' should hold them. Sunderland have little need to fear the invasion of Manchester United, but Huddersfield, third in the running, will require to be very watchful of Bolton Wanderers, who are only a point behind them with a game to spare. The advantage of playing at home might turn the tide in favor of Birmingham, whose performances are about on a par with those of their opponents, Arsenal.

Villa, further weakened by the absence of Kingdon, will not find Elwood Park a bed of roses, although Blackburn Rovers are not any great shakes this season. Leicester City have a game in hand in which to draw level with Burnley, and, while the Turf Moorites are moving pretty well at present, the engagement at Gilbert Street might provide the home club with a point. Liverpool on their recent showing cannot hope for much mercy at Tottenham. Derby County are due to meet their cellar companions, West Bromwich Albions, and, following their defeat of Sunderland almost a week ago, their visit to the "Hammers" will be watched with interest.

Hull City will find it hard to keep the leadership of the Second Division, Oldham being a tough lot to subdue at Boundary Park, whereas Swansea should not go under to Port Vale at the Vetch ground. Preston North End, although away from home, should keep climbing at the expense of Darlington, as Middlesboro, as a result of Reading's Cup engagement, will be out of action for the afternoon.

Motherwell in Peril.

Motherwell, who boss the Scottish League, will be in real danger at Love Street, Paisley, the home of St. Mirren, and Rangers are not at all certain to find the going at Dens Park altogether to their liking. They must do something desperate to redeem themselves in the eyes of their supporters after last Saturday's exhibition against Hamilton Academicals, and by the same token it is time Dundee encouraged more confidence among the Dens Park crowd. Celtic appear to have the easiest job of the lot with St. Johnstone at Celtic Park and should the Ibrox and Fir Park forces succumb, Celts will take over command of the division.

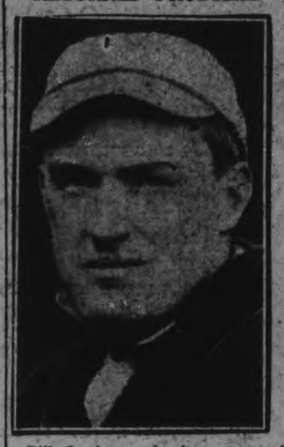
RETURNED PRODIGAL



Bill Carrigan, who has returned to the Boston Red Sox as manager after an absence of ten years.

CHIEF CONCERN OF M'GRAW IS 1927 OUTFIELD

Recruits Face Great Opportunity to Win Berths for Team.

MEUSEL GONE

Reese and Jeanes Have Shown Impressive Work So Far.

(By W. J. Slocum).

With Irish Meusel gone and Ross Young rated as a doubtful performer, for the present at least, John J. McGraw is giving most of his attention these days to the outfield which he must rely upon in the 1927 campaign. The outfield is now shaping up as the real problem in connection with the Giants of next season.

McGraw is hopeful, of course, that Ross Young will be back on the job and able to play through the season. Any time Young is in good health that is sufficient to prevent any worries by McGraw in regard to the right - field sector. But Young was ill early last season and then, after a brief period in the line-up, he had to give up again and was out for the balance of the season.

Since that time McGraw has received most favorable reports concerning Young's condition. Until Young can prove, however, that his illness has its effect on his playing he must be rated in the doubtful class. Even a complete return to health might still show Young suffering as a result of his absence from the game.

Real Vets Missing

As the outfield stands now there is a marked absence of Giant veterans. Al Tyson and Heiner Mueller come closest to certainties for places next year and each made his Polo Grounds debut last season. Jimmy Johnston, who spent an occasional afternoon in the Giants' outfield last season, is no longer with the club.

Under the conditions it is not surprising that McGraw is keenly interested in what some of his outfield recruits will show him next Spring at Sarasota. If any of his Spring crop can display something close to major league skill McGraw will be willing to admit that Santa Claus arrived several months ahead of schedule.

Two of the new-comers who will face a grand opportunity to make New York their Summer address are A. J. Reese, last season with Memphis, and E. L. Jeanes, who comes from Birmingham. Reese was purchased just before the season closed but an infected toe prevented him from getting a Fall tryout. Jeanes came to the Giants in the draft net. The latter was with the Senators in 1925 but was sent back during the off season.

Impressed by Both

McGraw has seen both men in action and he was impressed with the style of each. Reese is only twenty-two years of age, and he did so well in his first year as a professional that McGraw is more than satisfied that he has landed a bright prospect.

"He hit .302 in 144 games for Memphis last year," said McGraw yesterday, "and that may not seem impressive. But he hit twenty-one triples, and that is very impressive. Home runs are often due to close fences, but you have to hit hard to get triples, and this kid got plenty. His record shows fifty-four hits that were better than singles."

LEI TAKES DROP

Speculators Are Capitalizing Rumanian Political Difficulties.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—The Rumanian Lei yesterday took a sharp drop from 199 to 209 to the dollar. Foreign exchange can be bought only on a permit from the ministry of finance. Financial circles express the opinion that outside speculators are capitalizing the political difficulties in Rumania because of the illness of King Ferdinand.

PETE LATZO WINS AFTER HARD BATTLE

Comes From Behind in Fourth to Retain Welterweight Championship.

THIRD VICTORY

Appeared Somewhat Affected as Result of Long Absence From Ring.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Pete Latzo, the fighting miner of Scranton, Pa., has again demonstrated his right to the world's welterweight championship.

Coming from behind in the fourth round of a ten-round fight with Joe Simonich, hard-hitting slugger from Butte, Mont., at the Newark Armoury last night, Latzo carried the battle to his oppponent with a whirl wind finish that earned him the decision of newspaper men at the ring-side.

Latzo's title was not at stake, and he fought as a middleweight, tipping the scales at 154 pounds. His victory was the third since he won the title from Mickey Walker last May. Latzo last summer knocked out Willie Harmon in five rounds and won on a foul from George Levine in the fourth. The title-holder appeared somewhat affected as a result of his six months' absence from the ring, due to sickness and injuries.

Latzo Slow to Action

Latzo, fighting his first match in six months, was content to stave off Simonich's rushing attack that did little damage in the first session. The champion broke up Simonich's body attack in the second with a sharp rally that drove the Montana battler to cover. The Westerner tore back in the third pummelling Latzo severely with a heavy body attack. Latzo could not seem to strike his stride.

The battlers smashed head-on in the centre of the ring in the fourth round, Latzo suffering a gash over the eye, but he rallied with a furious two-fisted attack. Simonich ripped into the champion with a fierce body assault in the fifth. Latzo fought back gamely, little hampered by the gash in his forehead. The champion tore into Simonich in the sixth with a volley to the head and body, driving the Westerner to cover.

Back to Form

The champion, apparently fighting his way back to old-time form, scored heavily to the Montana puncher's head and body as the latter tired in the seventh. Simonich rushed again to the attack in the eighth, but Latzo scored repeatedly with both hands to the head.

Rugged body punching at close range carried them both around the ring at even terms in a fierce exchange in the ninth session. Latzo spun Simonich around with a sharp right at the bell. A battering two-fisted attack drove Simonich to the ropes and had him hanging on in the final session. Latzo landed almost at will as the western challegger gave ground under the volley of crashing punches.

ST. PATS BEAT CHICAGO HAWKS

Bailey Plays Good Hockey When Team Wins at Home.

SCORE 5-2.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—Beaten by three goals at Chicago in the opening game of the National Hockey League season, Toronto St. Patrick's evened the count with the Windy City sextet by defeating them by a similar margin at the Arena last evening. The score last evening was 5 to 2, as compared with the 4 to 1 tally in the opener.

Clever hockey alternated with pell mell rushes to provide an exciting game in which there were few dull moments. A brilliant opening of the first period by St. Patrick's forwards; remarkable goal-tending in the second session by Roach of the locals, and another strong offensive by St. Patrick's in the third frame, were responsible for the victory.

Roach Plays Brilliantly.

Roach saved St. Pat's time after time in that second period, during which he was absolutely unbeatable. Chicago forced opening after opening, only to have Roach turn them back. Some of the shots he saved would have gone past almost any goaler in hockey. He was good in the first and third periods, but his showing in the second was nothing short of sensational.

Carson Plays Well.

Roach, of course, was outstanding. Carson was the best of the St. Patrick's forwards, with Bailey right in the running for the honors. Day played much more effectively than in Saturday night's game against New York Americans. Both offensively and defensively was this the case. Brydge started on the Toronto defence in place of Corbeau. The team was in this way strengthened, but the defence of the locals was at its best when Bourgeault and McCaffery were protecting Roach. Corbeau again proved ineffective. He was used but little, but it was his failure to check Wilson that allowed the first Chicago goal to be scored, while Wilson skated around him for the second tally.

"Cully" Wilson, former Hamilton Tiger, was the best man on the losing team. He proved extremely elusive, and did some good checking. Hay was strong on the attack, while McVeigh showed a world of speed. Trapp proved an adept at hook checking. He and Corbeau were the only men to incur more than one penalty, each visiting the box twice. Carson, Corbeau, Dye, Bailey and Bellefuille were others who were penalized.

Lahman's goaltending was in itself an interesting exhibition. The veteran net minder played a good game. Although beaten five times, only one goal, the second scored by Day, could have been called "easy." Lehman passed forward to his teammates accurately. He left the net to turn aside several shots, more than once returning in time to stop the rebound. Lehman is a better skater than most goalers.

St. Patrick's,—Goal, Roach; defence, Brydge and McCaffery; centre, Day; forward, aBiley and Carson; subs, Corbeau, Bourgeault, Cox, Dennenay and Bellefuille.

Chicago.—Goal, Lehman; defence, Trapp and Fraser; centre, Wilson; wings, Dye and MacKay; subs., Hay, Dutkowski, McVeigh, Irvin and Doratv.

Referee—Lou E. Marsh, Toronto.

CANADIENS WIN IN PITTSBURGH

Beat Pirates 5-2 in Hard Fought N. H. L. Game.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 10—The Canadiens of Montreal decisively defeated Pittsburg in a hard fought game here last night 5 to 2 and went into second place in the Canadian section of the National Hockey League.

Pittsburg was outclassed by the visitors. The Canadiens outskated, outplayed and outfought the Pirate sextet. Time after time Pittsburg's assault was broken up by the invader's defense.

The Canadiens sewed up the contest in the closing period. Scores by Gagne, Gardiner and Morenz enabled them to forge to the front.

All the tallies were lightning shots past Worters.

Leduc gave the Canadiens their lead in the second stanza. He sent the disc whirling into the net on a rebound from Lepine.

Canadiens — Goal, Hainsworth; defense, Gardiner and Leduc; centre, Morenz; wings, Joliat and Gagne; subs, Moran, Larochelle, Lacroix, Lepine, Mantha and Boucher.

Pittsburg — Goal, Worters, defense, Conacher and Smith; centre, Milks; wings, Arbour and Darragh; subs., McGuire, Drury, Cotton, White, McKinnon and Cleghorn.

Referee—O'Hara, Montreal.

Ottawa, 3; Detroit, 1

WINDSOR, Dec. 10 — Ottawa continued their undefeated march through the ranks of the National League hockey teams with a 3 to 1 victory over Detroit last night.

Adams, Boucher and Nighbor scored for the Senators. Arbour netted the Detroit tally in the second period, in which three goals were scored. Ottawa first tallied in the opener.

With eighteen stops apiece, Holmes and Connell broke even at goal, but Connell's work was more brilliant.

King Clancy had too much reputation and was so closely checked that, though he started several of his famous dashes down the ice, they ended fruitlessly.

Nighbor's goal was somewhat fluky, but he deserved it on the strength of consistent offensive playing of the first order.

The play saw sixteen penalties, growing especially rough toward the last.

SENATORS DEFENDING THEIR TITLE

Playing under winter weather conditions. Ottawa Senators successfully defended their title as Canadian rugby champions, defeating Varsity, the college champions, by 10 to 7. Conditions were entirely unsuitable for football. The weather was icy cold and the ground was frozen and covered with snow. There were many fumbles on both sides due to the cold weather. It was surprising that there were not more. The photographs show how difficult it was for the players to hold their feet. The TOP photograph shows Warren Synder, the Varsity captain, coming around the end with the ball and just before being tackled in the third period. Synder had a good chance to get through for a touchdown, but was tackled by Brassington. The LOWER photograph shows Frank Trimble falling to the ground after he had run the ball out from behind his own goal line. The Ottawa man missed his tackle but tripped the runner.

SERB WAR TIME PREMIER DEAD

Nikolai Pachitch Succumbs To-day To Long Illness.

81 YEARS OLD.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press). — Nikolai H. Pachitch, former Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, died today.

M. Pachitch had been ill for many months. He would have been 81 years old on December 19.

M. Pachitch continued active, however, during the latest political crisis in Jugo Slavia, growing out of the signing recently by Italy and Albania of a pact which has been considered by the people generally as detrimental to the interests of Jugo Slavia.

M'DOUGALL GOOD WHEN GRAYS WIN

Plays Centre in Exhibition Game With Paisley Intermediates.

PAISLEY, Dec. 10.—Local hockey fans had the privilege last night of seeing the Owen Sound Greys, one of Ontario's finest O.H.A. junior teams, in action when they played an exhibition game with Paisley O.H.A. intermediates in the arena here, the score being 5—3 in favor of the visitors. This was one of the best hockey games staged in Paisley for some years and attracted a very large crowd of fans. McDougall, Markle and Henry scored for the Greys, while Marshall and McArthur did the scoring for the home team. The score by periods was: 1-1, 1-3, 5-3.

Owen Sound Greys—Goal, Grant; defense, Beatty and Lauder; centre, McDougall; wings, Paddon and Markle; subs, Burns, Grant, Henry and Moore.

Paisley—Goal, J. McArthur; defense, G. Grant and H. McArthur; centre, H. Grant; wings, Marshall and Rickard; subs, McKenzie, Blue and Tanner.

Referee— Earl Hicks, of Owen Sound.

Trapshooting has been taken up in earnest by women members of the fashionable Nassau Country Club at Glen Cove, L.I., and a series of tournaments for the women shots will be held this winter.

LEAGUE MEETING.

Catholic Women Hear Fine Address on Canada.

A well-attended meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held last evening in the auditorium of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, the president, Mrs. John Lynch, in the chair. The feature of the evening was a very well-delivered and comprehensive address on "Canada," given by Mr. James J. Doris who enumerated some of the possibilities and resources of the Dominion, and the responsibilities of its citizens. During the evening, a pleasing musical programme was rendered, with a vocal solo by Miss Geraldine Collins and an instrumental number by Miss Louise Letellier.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA HOME AND SCHOOL

Routine Business Transacted at Meeting—Good Programme.

The regular monthly meeting of Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held in the kindergarten room on Monday evening, Dec. 6th, with a record attendance. Mrs. H. G. Walker was in the chair.

Routine business was attended to. Despite the cold weather another paper collection proved a great success. Mr. Dearborn's and Miss Burgess' classes won the prizes for December. The banner was awarded to Miss Walker's room, Jr. III.

A splendid programme arranged by Mrs. C. H. Chevrill was greatly enjoyed, with several selections by "The Big Four" orchestra, Max Parnell, Eric Westbye, Reginald Kingdon and Bud Munroe.

A Christmas story was listened to with great interest and profit given by Mrs. L. J. Pettit, and very much enjoyed by all. Recitation and encore by Joy Walker, vocal solo by Ruth Farnell accompanied by Max Parnell, violin selection by Miss Mary Westbye with Mrs. P. Westbye as accompanist.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the programme to a close, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Staunton and several ladies of the association.

INQUEST DATE SET.

Body of Young Man Shot in North Not To Be Exhumed.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 10—Crown Attorney Freeborn has set December 17th as the date on which the death of young James Elder will be probed by Dr. Danney, of Ghesley, and his coroner's jury. The inquest will be held at Tara, in Bruce County.

Elder was a young man, who while hunting in Algoma as a member of the Allenford Hunt Club in 1924, was fatally shot. He died at Killarney and his remains were brought home, no inquest being held at the time. Recent information secured by Provincial authorities showed conclusively that all the details in connection with the young man's death were not made known at the time. There are a number of important witnesses.

In view of certain information obtained by the Crown during the past few days it has now been decided that the exhumation of the body will not be necessary.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

"3 BAD MEN"

Under the direction of John Ford, who produced "The Iron Horse," a picture somewhat similar in many of its episodes is the feature at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end, in "3 Bad Men," with the majority of the interest of the piece centering about the great land rush of June 25, 1877, when the Government of the United States opened up a free grant of land to settlers. In the historic Jackson Hole country of Wyoming, the great rush was staged, and it makes a thrilling and dramatic scene, this speed burst of the settlers who line up in long rows waiting for the stroke of twelve to dash forward into virgin land and make it their own.

The parts of the "3 bad men" are taken by J. Farrell MacDonald, Tom Santschi and Frank Campeau, and there is something heroic about the manner of their passing from the scene, when each in turn gives up his life for his fellows, holding the pass against the onrush of the rascally sheriff and his men. "Spade" and "Mike" and "Bull," each in turn, holds the pass for a few minutes, in order to let their companions get away. The theiving sheriff, suave and unscrupulous, who deserts "Bull's" sister, Milly, and earns the vengeance of her brother, is taken in admirable fashion by the smooth Lou Tellegen, and George O'Brien is the young and handsome hero of the piece, joining in the pioneering rush for land and gold.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

MOST WONDERFUL ALASKA CURIOS IN "ROCKING MOON."

Forty-six trunks and one hundred and eighty-five boxes were required to bring home $70,000 worth of Alaskan "atmosphere" by the Metropolitan Picture Company filming "Rocking Moon" on its location trip to Sitka and Juneau. Unable to buy outright the Indian ceremonial relics, ancient Russian religious objects, the native jewelry and clothing, a bond was deposited with the Sitka museum to ensure the return of the historic treasures.

Ceremonial masks and heads, used once a year in a festive gathering of all the native tribes of Western Alaska, were bought from the natives. The rarest of them is beaten out of solid copper, has abalone-shell eyes and teeth, and is adorned with human hair.

Six totem poles are included in the museum collection, the most unusual of which is made in the form of a staff and is wielded by the chief in tribal dances, and a transparent coat, made of the lining of the stomachs of fifty wairuses, and decorated with eagle claws and the tails of foxes. It is the only known coat of its kind in Alaska, and is worn by Lilyan Tashman, the leading woman of "Rocking Moon," which is at the Regent Theatre. John Bowers plays opposite Miss Tashman. Others in the cast include Rockcliffe Fellowes, Laska Winter, Luke Cosgrave, Eugene Pallette and Evelyn Selbie.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE XLVII—A Day in Ancient Egypt. by MAX HAHN

THE MODERN WOMAN WHO USES POWDER AND ROUGE IS COPYING HER ANCIENT EGYPTIAN SISTERS. THEY WERE FOND OF COSMETICS AND APPLIED THESE WHILE THEY LOOKED IN POLISHED BRONZE MIRRORS.

THE EARLY EGYPTIAN BOATS WERE AN ADVANCE OVER THE PREHISTORIC DUGOUTS WHICH HAD TO BE POLED ALONG. EGYPTIAN BOATS HAD OARS, SAID TO HAVE BEEN DEVISED IN IMITATION OF A PADDLING DUCK, AND A RUDDER MODELED AFTER A FISH TAIL.

AFTER A COOLING BOAT RIDE ON A HOT DAY THE EGYPTIANS SAT ON SHORE WHILE ONE OF THEIR GROUP FURNISHED MUSIC.

WHEN IT WAS TIME TO SLEEP THEY HAD NO BEDS LIKE OURS. THEY LAY UPON MATS AND INSTEAD OF A PILLOW THEY USED A QUEER HEADREST. IT KEPT THEIR HEADS OFF THE HOT GROUND.

SEE THAT THE LIVER IS ACTIVE

You've heard it today—the story of the bright young woman, whose energy is sapped by bilious headaches and constipation. Complexion blemishes or sallow skin perhaps give the first warning. Then the attacks of headache become more frequent, and a chronic state of nervous depression ensues.

Women in business and in the home, in need of a gentle tonic and laxative that assists Nature in cleansing the system of poisons, and keeping stomach, liver and intestinal tract in a state of healthy activity find prompt relief and permanent satisfaction in the use of

ANOTHER BLAST IN WRECKED MINE

PRINCETON, Ind., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—Another explosion occurred in the Francisco Coal Mine, No. 2, this morning, but as no rescue workers were in it at the time, no further casualties resulted. The mine was ordered sealed immediately, leaving within its working the three men unaccounted for and the bodies of two others which were located early today.

BEEBE—BARNARD

A most interesting event took place in South Monaghan on Wednesday, Dec. 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Barnard, when their daughter, Florence Josephine, was married to Mr. Harold Wightman Beebe, also of South Monaghan, at high noon, with Miss Bernice Barnard, the bride's sister presiding at the piano, the wedding was solemnized, by their minister, the Rev. H. W. Foley, B.A., B.D., of Fraserville. The near relatives in both families were present as guests, while Edwin Eagleson and Bernice Barnard signed the register as witnesses.

After a brief honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Beebe will settle down on Mr. Beebe's farm near Bensfort, where they will be at home to their host of friends after January the 1st.

IN POLICE COURT.

The motoring fraternity, already sadly handicapped by weather conditions, found trouble of a different variety awaiting when a number of them were haled into court this morning, charged with various breaches of the Highways Traffic Act.

The offences consisted of having dirty markers, travelling without tail lights, and crossing intersections at a greater speed than ten miles an hour.

The offenders were fined $5 and costs, or, in default of payment, a week in the common jail. They all paid.

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall told The Examiner that these offences were continuing despite repeated warnings given by members of the department. The laws must be obeyed, he said, and offenders will be brought before the Magistrate.

PUPILS OF COLLEIATE INSTITUTE RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AND AWARDS AT COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Large Attendance of Parents, Friends and Pupils at Ceremonies.

INSPIRING ADDRESSES.

Principal's Prize For Best All Round Boy Won By George Rishor.

The Annual Commencement Exercises of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, were held yesterday afternoon in the Assembly Hall, with a large attendance of parents, friends and pupils of the school, who listened to some a very fine programme of addresses and musical numbers, followed by the service of afternoon tea in the library downstairs.

The fine programme opened with a school chorus, in "Rule, Britannia," and the "Song of Love," from "Blossomtime" which were tunefully sung by the scholars under direction of Mr. Carl S. Browne, M.A. This was followed by the address of the chairman, Mr. J. A. McCone, chairman of the Board of Education, who congratulated the teachers and pupils alike on the exceptionally fine showing made at the recent examinations. He also congratulated the school teams on their prowess in sports during the year, and spoke in hopeful accents of the possibility sometime in the future of an extension to the Collegiate Institute, a possibility which had been mentioned, he believed, by several of his predecessors in the chair at annual commencement exercises of the school.

The prize presentation of the Nicholls Scholarships was made by Mr. A. Mowat G. B.A., Public School Inspector, who said the winners of these awards possessed latent ability, and had shown application in their studies. He regretted that the example of Mrs. Nicholls in presenting such scholarship awards to the school had not been followed by other citizens, and went on to speak enthusiastically of the benefits to be derived by pupils who take Fifth form work, which he characterized as "valuable as one year in the University."

Mr. E. F. Reid, chairman of the Property Committee of the Board of Education, presented the Commercial Diplomas, commenting on the fine record made by the students while working unaside the handicap imposed upon them by inadequate school buildings. Mr. Reid said that the Board of Education would, early in the year, hope, submit a proposition with regard to increased P.C.I. facilities, which he thought would meet with the approval of the city council and the citizens generally.

Owing to the absence, through illness, of Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, who was scheduled to present the Graduation Diplomas, his place was taken yesterday by Rev. David Wren, pastor of Trinity Church, who made a humorous speech that was heartily applauded by the audience, and by the pupils in particular, the youthful members appearing to enjoy mightily the witty remarks of the speaker. Reverting to a more serious vein, after a jocular introduction, Mr. Wren spoke of the possibilities of youth, with its dreams and romance, in making lasting contributions to the upbuilding of the nation, and of the assistance it would give in solving problems which have baffled the men of yesterday and to-day. He also spoke of the dreams of militarists and the way in which their aspirations might be frustrated by the young people of vision and enterprise and enthusiasm.

The presentation of athletic prizes was made by Miss Marjorie Craig, B.A., and Mr. R. C. Cummings, B.A., both commending the girls and boys for the interest they had taken in sports during the term, and the man-

INCUBATES 500,000 EGGS AT ONCE.

Three million baby chicks a year is the output of a California hatchery, where the incubators have a capacity of 500,000 eggs, thirty tons of them, at a time. Electricity is used throughout, says Popular Science Monthly, to turn the eggs automatically six times a day and to maintain an even temperature of 103 degrees. After twenty-one days electrically operated gears open the long line of incubator doors so that the new chicks may have light and air.

Skipping the rope has for years been recognized as one of the best of exercises. It improves the wind as well as the leg muscles. Nearly every professional boxer includes skipping in his training.

PREMIER TELLS OF WORK DONE BY CONFERENCE

Details Message Sent By the Conference To Their Majesties.

DETAILED ACCOUNT.

Reviews Action With Regard To Inter-Imperial Relations.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—The report of the Imperial Conference recently held in London was tabled in the House of Common yesterday afternoon by Premier Mackenzie King. It gave a resume of the work carried out by the Conference and the conclusions arrived at. Most of these conclusions have already been summarized more or less extensively in the cabled reports from London.

The report goes into details as to the message sent by the Conference to Their Majesties, the resolution passed in connection with the loss of H.M. ship Valerian, which was sunk off Bermuda, and the decision with regard to publicity.

The action of the Conference with regard to inter-Imperial relations is reviewed at length. In this connection a change in the title of the King, of which announcement has previously been made and the definition of the position of the Governor-General as representative of the Crown rather than of the British Government is set forth in detail.

In connection with the operation of Dominion legislation involving the power of disallowance or reservation possessed by the Crown, the report explains that the Irish Free State representatives were particularly desirous that this point be elucidated in regard to the practice in Canada in view of the fact that "the position of the Irish Free State in relation to the Imperial Parliament and Government and otherwise" is the same as that of the Dominion of Canada.

It was placed on record at this point that "it is the right of the Government of each Dominion to advise the Crown in all matters relating to its own affairs," and that it would not be in accordance with constitutional practice that this advice should be tendered through the Government of Great Britain.

With regard to the legislative competency of the Dominions, a number of questions were submitted to an expert committee.

Many of the questions raised at the conference were referred to sub-committees. The reports of these committees are to be tabled in the House of Commons later on, Premier King intimated yesterday.

Smallpox Quarantine For Oshawa Hospital

OSHAWA, Dec. 11.—Oshawa General Hospital is in the unique position of being under quarantine for smallpox. Every patient in the building has been vaccinated. One case is isolated in a room in the basement. The one other case in the city is in a private home. Both are very mild cases. Every precaution has been taken, the development of any potential cases is keenly scrutinized and the situation is well in hand, according to medical authorities.

ELECT OFFICERS ANNUAL MEETING U NDERWRITER'S

Neil Tobin To Hold Presidential Chair For Year 1927.

INCREASE MEMBERS.

Report Indicates Past Year Has Been Most Progressive For Years.

The several reports presented at the annual meeting and election of officers of the Life Underwriter's Association of Peterborough held in the Empress Hotel indicated that the past year had been the most progressive in the history of the organization. The retiring president, W. H. Boulton of the Confederation Life Assurance, in his review of the year's work extolled the good work of the secretary, J. W. Kenmure, of the Imperial Life, who, he said "most of the credit for the successful season was due." An increase of 24 members over last year was registered.

Mr. Kenmure was re-elected as secretary of the association for his third successive term.

Special musical numbers featured the gathering, the different numbers gaining hearty responses from the members present. Encores were demanded in a manner that would not permit refusal and were graciously accorded by the artists.

Martin B. Crenhall, A.R.C.O., acted as accompanist for the various numbers; Arnold Spencer played a violin obligato for the several tenor solos sang by J. W. Bryan.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Neil Tobin, Metropolitan Life; Immediate past president, W. H. Bolton Confederation Life; Vice President, H. B. Matthews, London Life; Secretary Treasurer, J. W. Kenmure, Imperial Life; Executive Council — D. M. Bissell, Canada Life; E. Davis, Sun Life; E. L. Sackville, Manufacturer's Life; R. F. Sedgewick, Prudential Life; J. B. Charlton, Ontario Equitable Life; and A. T. Jones, Dominion Life.

Short speeches from the newly elected officers brought to a close what proved to be one of the most successful meetings of the year.

OPTIMISM GROWS FOR SETTLEMENT

German Delegation Announces Agreement Practically Reached.

GENEVA, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press)—Optimism for settlement of the differences over Germany's military control continues to-day despite indications that all had not gone well at the morning meeting of the foreign ministers.

Dr. Streseman, the German foreign minister, left the conference looking black and unhappy brushing by the newspaper men and refusing to make a statement but early this afternoon a spokesman for the German delegation went so far as to say that a complete agreement had already been practically reached.

Sky Scraper Garage Solution Of Congestion

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (United Press).—Sky scraper garages on the fringes of big city business districts are the solution of traffic congestion, according to the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. Convenient terminal facilities for automobiles are the only solution for increasing motor congestion, the traffic committee of the association stated, and it has appeared that the demand for lofty garages has become insistant enough to warrant their construction.

May Be Asked To Join Pan-American Union

LONDON, Dec. 11.— That Canada will be invited to join a Pan-American Union, which will be held in Havana in February, 1928, is asserted by the Washington corespondent of The London Times yesterday, who says that Latin-Americans would welcome Canada in order to redress the heavy balance of United States influence in Latin America, and adds that Hon. Mr. Massey's appointment to Washington removes any theoretical objections.

HITTING THE ROUGH SPOTS

LARGE MARKET THIS MORNING

Fowl and Meat Plentiful — Chrismas Trees Appear.

BUTTER SCARCE.

There was a very large farmers' market this morning, both outside and in. The market square was dotted with small evergreen clumps a sure sign that Christmas was not far away, and people were buying their Christmas trees.

Pork and beef were plentiful, especially the former which seemed to be a drug on the market, selling from 18 to 20c a pound.

Beef was 13c and 15c a pound, with potatoes a little cheaper, at $2.00 a bag.

In the market hall fowl were plentiful and if the poultry sale had been on to-day buyers would have been able to secure more fowl.

Geese sold at 23 to 25c; chickens, 28c, and ducks 25c a lb.

Turkeys were scarce.

Eggs were up in price when the market opened as 75c was asked, but before it closed 65c was being asked. Butter was 45c, and not very plentiful.

POISONED LIQUOR BLAMED FOR DEATH

Police Arrest Man Who Brings More To Woman's House.

SHELBURNE, Dec. 11.—Poisoned liquor is thought to have caused the death of Miss Claresse Webster of this town Thursday night. A week ago License Inspector Thomas J. Robinson of Orangeville paid a visit to the residence of Miss Webster, who lived alone, and discovered five quart bottles of whisky and several empty bottles.

While a post-mortem on her remains was being held, Inspector Robinson and Provincial Constable Joseph Nelson again visited the Webster residence. While they were searching the house Frank Green of Arthur entered with twenty-four quarts of whisky, which together with an expensive car, were confiscated, and Green taken into custody. He appeared before Police Magistrate Hugh Falconer yesterday afternoon and was remanded until Wednesday, December 15, without bail. Miss Webster's stomach will be sent to Toronto for analysis.

At the various harness meetings conducted by the Grand Circuit since its organization in 1873, numbering nearly 500 in all, premiums amounting to nearly $16,000,000 have been paid to horse owners.

Husband Held Responsible For Action of the Wife

WINNIPEG, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press). —The law-abiding husband of Mrs. Catherina Nucal, of Winnipeg, learned a new point of law yesterday when he was held responsible for the actions of his wife, who was fined $300 in court yesterday on a charge of assaulting a neighbor.

The bench ruled that a husband was liable for damages, despite the fact that he took no actual part in the assault. The plaintiff was also given permission to add her husband as co-plaintiff, in which case the fine would be increased to $652.

Relics Of Apostles To Be Sent To Rome

CHICAGO, December 11. —... What are said to be relics of several of the disciples and apostles in the form of bones and parts of bones, were withdrawn from the Gunther collection sale yesterday. The Chicago Historical Society is conducting the sale.

Representatives of Cardinal Mundelein will send the relics to Rome to a church in which they formerly reposed. The consideration was not named.

ARE CONSIDERING COAL SCHEDULE

For Disposal of Schedule Between Province of Ontario and Alberta.

RAILWAY BOARD.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 11 (Canadian Press)—Consideration of the application for an early disposal of the coal rates schedule between the provinces of Alberta and Ontario, was given by Chief Commissioner McKeown and Deputy Chief Commissioner Vien at yesterday afternoon's session of the Board of Railway Commissioners. Application had been made earlier in the week by the two provinces for an early disposal of this question. S. C. Woods, K.C., for Alberta had petitioned that this matter be taken up definitely on January 11 when the court resumed after the Christmas recess, the general investigation being halted for the time being to allow this to be done.

Judge McKeown remarked that the Board was anxious to do whatever was possible to meet the wishes of the petitioners, but he was desirous of knowing whether all the required data was available so that the case could go ahead with the least possible delay. Mr. Woods replied that there need be no delay on that score but to-day he had received a request from Toronto for further consultation and reference to Premier Ferguson before final decision was reached. He had an appointment with the Ontario officials at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and had every expectation that the result would be to clear the way to a resumption of the hearing on Jan. 11 if the court would set that date. Alistair Fraser for the C.N.R. said he would not oppose the application but he could give no promise as to the time the hearing might take Mr. Woods had estimated four days as sufficient time.

Assistant Deputy Commissioner Vien suggested a written submission of the argument after evidence was in as a means of saving time as he imagined the hearing itself would be largely a battle of experts.

Finally Chief Commissioner McKeown decided to postpone a decision until Tuesday next at 5 p.m., when Mr. Woods would be able to report on the result of his trip to Toronto.

H. P. Deuchenien K.C., Halifax, inquired on behalf of the province of Nova Scotia if the eastern coal rates case which had also been referred to the board by a separate order in council would have to be taken up too. His government preferred that the eastern rates case be deferred until the general freight rates investigation had been disposed of. The Board assented to this propose

Man Abandons Suicide Is Killed On Way Home

MONTCLAIR, N.J., Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Gustave Ekstrom, an importer in New York, went into a wood near his home here with a rifle to commit suicide, then, giving up the idea ,started back and was killed by a bullet through the brain when he tripped in the brush and caused the accidental discharge of the gun. County Physician William M. Brien concluded after an autopsy and investigation yesterday.

Mrs. Ekstrom told the police that her husband had been worried by finacial matters.

CANADA FINDS IRISH ANXIOUS TO ENTER U. S. A.

Those Refused Entry Never Turn Up at Jobs Secured in Canada.

QUOTA REDUCED.

Reply Made To Suggestion of Migration By Surplus To Dominion.

DUBLIN, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press)—In view of the prospective reduction of about two-thirds in the Free State's quota of emigrants to the United States, the Irish Times suggests that Irish emigrants should be diverted to Canada. This has brought from the Canadian government agent in Dublin a record of Canada's experience. He says that during the spring of 1924 the Government arranged for the placing each month of 300 young men who had found it impossible to get quota visas to the United States. Not one in fifty turned up at the jobs arranged. The deportation records, the agent said, showed that of the many hundreds returned to Canada for crossing the United States border, illegally, the bulk had not remained in Canada more than ten days.

The Sisters of Charity, the agent added, could not induce young girls on their arrival in Canada to take employment in good homes. Many of the girls also refused to take domestic training under the sisters, plainly indicating that their whole intention from the start was to endeavor to join relatives or friends in the United States.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION MEETS

Miss Bonnycastle Gives Talk at Central School on Egypt.

The regular monthly meeting of the Central Home and School Association was held last night. There was a large attendance of members and friends of the Association.

After a short business session, preceded by reports of the various officers, it was announced that Miss Bonnycastle's room had secured the banner for the month.

The programme committee provided a splendid evening's entertainment for those present.

Miss Bonnycastle delivered a very interesting and instructive address on Egypt, describing the peculiar customs of the people and also gave a vivid description of the various cities visited, the scientific method of agriculture by irrigation, the system of government, the mode of travel and her visit to the pyramids and tombs.

During the evening Mrs. H. E. Connolly gave two very much appreciated readings. Musical numbers were given by the pupils of the school, viz.: Piano solo by Lindley Pratt and John Kelbrick, and vocal solo by Nelson Stanger.

MINISTER URGES TACT IN DEALING WITH SOVIET

Country Should Be Designated Union of Social Soviet Republics.

RECEIVE NOBEL PRIZE.

Remarks Made While Debating Convocation of International Conference July Fourth.

GENEVA, Dec. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Foreign Minister Stresemann, of Germany, caused spectators at yesterday's session of the Council of the League of Nations to sit up and take notice when he championed courtesy and diplomatic correction in league relations with Moscow.

Dr. Stresemann said that the Moscow government objected to the use of the word Russia, and that deference to Moscow's wishes the country should be designated Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

His remarks were made in course of discussion on the confication of an international conference July 4, 1927, to frame rates for an international union the relief of people's stricken disasters, such as earthquakes. council, in voting to call this ference, included Russia, the ed States, Mexico, Ecuador, land and other non-members of league, in its invitation for participation.

Members of the council league observers in general seemed to interpret his initiative in matter as an intentional manifestation of friendship on the part Germany for Russia. The incident caused special comment because while the military and commercial groups in Berlin are credited with being particularly interested in developing the ties between Germany and Russia, Dr. Stresemann has always been cited as a leading German who ever turns toward Europe for the best orientation of Germany's future.

Indication that the league council was paying sharp attention to the Balkans was given in the warning by Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, that Bulgaria must make a better showing in connection with straightening out the affairs of Greek refugees, Sir Austen, who was speaking in behalf of the council, said that the matter was an important phase in maintenance of peace in the Balkans.

With the leading statesmen attempting to attain harmony in international matters and to save Locarno, Dr. Stresemann, Sir Austen and Foreign Minister Briand of France were officially notified that they had been designated in the Nobel peace awards for their achievement at Locarno in promoting world peace.

Sir Austen modestly gave the chief credit for Locarno to Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand, declaring that they had done the largest share of work. He added that he was greatly pleased to have his name associated with theirs in the awards.

"The awards set the seal of international approbation on the work for peace accomplished at Locarno," Dr. Stresemann said. "It is a symbol of the peaceful evolution and development of peoples. There are many difficulties ahead but we are confident that we will surmount them."

M. Briand laconically remarked that he hoped that "history would justify this attribution."

Later Dr. Stresemann paid tribute to Sir Austen and M. Briand in maintaining world peace and said that the aim of statesmen's policies was to obtain lasting peace and prosperity among the nations. "I am confident that this aim will be reached while men like Briand and Chamberlain direct the destinies of their countries," he said. "Both are working body and soul for a real understanding among the nations. Their great achievements for world peace already are historical facts."

GEORGE ST. FIRM IS EXPANDING

Porter S. White Co. Build New Groceteria in the West End.

SUCCESSFUL OPENING.

Following out the maxim that to stand still is no better than to go backward, the Porter S. White Company made a move to take care of an enlarged business by recently building a new store at 346 Charlotte street. The new building is conveniently situated, near the busy corners of Park, Charlotte and Downie streets, and is expected to take care of the west-end part of the P. S. White Company's business.

The store has a bright centre entrance front, and brings a quite "uptown" touch to this busy six-cornered section. The interior is much like that of the George street store, of which it is, however, an improved copy—slightly wider, and considerably longer, the view from the front to the rear is unbroken, giving an impression of roominess, that adds to the freedom of the shoppers in making their selections at their leisure.

Yesterday was opening day and the throngs that visited the store appeared to thoroughly appreciate its convenience, cleanliness and invitation to "help yourself."

Forecasts Long Winter And Year Without Summer

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 11.—(United Press).—Herbert Janvrin Browne, long range weather forecaster, has predicted that this winter will be one of the most severe ever experienced on the North American Continent and that next summer will "parallel the summerless year of 1818." His predictions were based on solar radiation and the amount of heat absorbed by the ocean currents, he explained.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

MY MUSINGS this week have to do with a press cutting from a certain great daily newspaper which I shall refrain from naming. And I have some very good reasons for my silence. The greatness of the paper is so generally recognized that it can well afford to dispense with any advertising I might give by telling its name. Moreover, this particular cutting carries the name of a celebrated scientist which I do not want to mention out of regard for what he has done for humanity by his many inventions. Indeed, if it had not been for what his reported statement might do to shake and perhaps shatter the faith of some good folks, I should doubtless have banished it from my mind after having once read it. But, because of the poison put into this declaration, without malice or forethought, I feel constrained to raise my voice in protest. Unfortunately too many people are more impressed by the drawing of the cork than they are by the contents of the bottle. The table appointments seem to count for more than the sort of meal that is served. Let the average person like, or have any kind of regard for a preacher and they will take without question anything he cares to give, even if it be heresy of the rankest kind.

THE STORY

"Mr.——, the great scientist, has come out with a public declaration that he is a believer in the theory that man is nothing more than a collection of entities. He declares he has discarded the old, accepted theories of life and death in favor of the conclusions which his sixty years of work as a scientist have led him to adopt."

Some men might make such a statement and none would take any notice of it. But it is different in this case. Many will be inclined to accept it at its face value. The mere fact that so eminent a scientist has made such a statement will carry great weight with some people. Therefore it might be well to examine his words and see, if we can, what the implications are. Because, if he has good ground for his position there are multitudes of splendid souls who are greatly and tragically mistaken.

AN ANALYSIS

What is an entity? According to the dictionary, it is 'a substance,' 'a thing.' Therefore, according to this eminent scientist, man is nothing more than a collection of things! If that be true, man has less cause than ever for being conceited. To tell me that I am just a collection of things or substances is to make me more perplexed than I have ever been before. I suppose a chair is just a collection of entities; and that may be the reason why it is 'sat on' so much! But I am going to be rather chary about accepting any such definition of my own being.

I am satisfied that I am more than a collection of entities. I am more than the thoughts I think; more than the feelings that surge through my soul. I can gaze upon my outward appearance as it is reflected in a mirror; listen to the sound of my own voice, and know that I am more than all these. I am like a spectator watching a procession. When I give myself up to thought I am so impressed with the mystery of my own being that no definition such as has fallen from the lips of this scientist is acceptable to me.

WHOSE THEORY IS IT?

What is a theory? The dictionary tells us that a theory is just 'an idea.' It is an idea regarding something or other; and that idea may, or may not, have any foundation in fact.

Whose theory is it?

An authority on one subject does not necessarily make a man an authority on every other subject. Even John Ruskin once wrote that a man might be a very excellent Greek scholar and be an ignoramus for all that. The knowledge of any one man, however great, is limited. Learned men have been known to so concentrate upon one line of study that they lost, if indeed they ever had, all appreciation of poetry and of music.

Therefore I, for one, don't propose to accept without challenge the statement of any man, however great he may be in his own department of scientific research. A mole may have much to teach me regarding what it knows about burrowing in the earth, but I prefer to go to the eagle when I want any knowledge about the upper regions and the sunlight.

And I am not forgetting that a certain Old Book, which, in spite of all that men may say about it, is as far above all other writings as Jesus is above all other men, tells of one occasion when the Son of God said:

"I thank Thee, O Father, that Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and revealed them unto babes."

So far as his public utterances reveal this scientist has given no evidence that he knows even the most elementary things about a revelation which can only be spiritually discerned.

THE NATURE OF THINGS

Joseph Cook, in some of his famous Monday Lectures delivered in Boston many years ago, used to speak about "The Nature of Things." And it would be well, if some of those who are too prone to undermine the faith of those who look upon the Bible as a supernatural revelation; upon Jesus of Nazareth as the Son of God and the Saviour of sinners; upon the new birth as an absolute necessity and glorious possibility—would keep in mind that they still have to account for and reckon with "The Nature of Things."

When Jesus said to Nicodemus on the occasion of his interview by night, "Ye must be born again," He was uttering no arbitrary law, but simply recognizing "The Nature of Things." Man comes into the world spiritually dead; and, because of that condition, is absolutely unable to have communion with God. He needs a new nature. And the only way by which he can get that nature is by a spiritual birth. Hence the reason for that 'must,' as uttered by Jesus.

OLD-FASHIONED

Of course I know that I am what is sometimes spoken of sneeringly,—an old-fashioned believer. And there are some folks who seem to think that because of being an old-fashioned believer I ought to hang my head in shame and slink away in silence into some corner. It seems that it is almost a crime to be old-fashioned in this up-to-date age when young folks in their teens are supposed to know more than their grandmothers knew when they were nearing the allotted span. But I for one refuse to be laughed out of my faith by the superficialities of any set, be it smart or even ultra smart.

If I find that the nature of things is in perfect agreement with the teachings of the Word of God, then I have another illustration of the truth of that statement which tells me that out of the mouth of two witnesses shall every word be established!

THE CENTRAL IDEA

There are four separate portions of the New Testament each of which has a central idea having to do with human experience in this world and in the world to come. In Luke 16 :1-8, sometimes called the parable of the unjust steward, the central idea is that this steward had a sense of accountability. Does universal experience not bear witness to the fact that every moral being carries within his breast a similar sense of accountability? We know that there is a Power over us which shall hold us to strict accountability.

A SENSE OF JUSTICE

In the story of the rich man and Lazarus as told by Jesus, we cannot get away from the conviction that if life for these two men had ended at the grave then justice had not been done. Probably the rich man was rich because he had inherited riches; and Lazarus was a beggar because he had inherited poverty.

Every man carries with him a sense of justice even when he may be acting in a very unjust way. And we know that for multitudes of people there must be a life beyond the grave if justice is to be done.

A SENSE OF INCOMPLETENESS

In Matthew 20: 1-16 the central idea seems to be that through this present life we have a sense of incompleteness. Surely every thoughtful person will agree with this. After the longest and most useful life has been lived, death is its portion. Do we really feel when we stand in the presence of our dead that the silence of the tomb would be a fitting finish for any life? No, that sense of incompleteness we all feel demands a life beyond the grave.

THE HOMING INSTINCT

In Luke 15:11-14 we have the story of a son who left the father's house to waste his substance in riotous living. At last we are told that when he came to himself, he said, "I will arise and go to my father." But if there had been no father, and no home—what then?

The homing instinct is to be found in the breast of all created beings, of birds and beasts as well as of men.

Are we to believe that the Power that has made us with such an instinct has placed it there to mock us in the disappointment of despair? No! He, Who spake as never man spake, said, "In My Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you. I go away to prepare a place for you, and if I go away I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also.

—Allan Fairbairn.

A Confession Of Faith

MATCHLESS words! I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing. We may, by virtue of His Cross, make these words our own, and go out into the Great Beyond with the triumph of them throbbing in our hearts.

Christian Endeavorers in India

IN INDIA, where Christian Endeavor has a strong hold, the Indian Christian Endeavor Union publishes a very helpful and interesting monthly magazine. Regular conventions are held which are always well attended. One remarkable feature of the work is that the Indian societies are especially interested in evangelistic efforts, and are a great help to the missionaries, who greatly need the help of these native Endeavorers.

Lincoln Cathedral

THE state of Lincoln Cathedral, England, like that of St. Paul's and other ancient buildings in Britain, has been causing great anxiety. It seems that some years ago the walls began to crack, and there was danger of the west front falling outwards, it never having been properly attached to the towers. At present the fine central tower is split in all directions. Fortunately, there is nothing wrong with the foundations, which rest on a solid bed of limestone rock. The repairs now in progress have taken the form of grouting under pressure such as has been successfully employed at Salisbury Cathedral, St. Paul's, and elsewhere. When the work is completed the fabric will have been enormously strengthened, while the noble antiquity will have been in no way impaired.

Moody Bible Institute

CHICAGO, with a population made up of peoples from all lands and all races, has within its borders one of the most cosmopolitan groups imaginable, meeting two evenings a week for study at the Moody Bible Institute. Harold L. Lundquist, assistant dean of the Institute's Evening School, has just completed a registration analysis which shows more than eight hundred students coming from two hundred and nine local churches in Chicago and suburbs and representing twenty-seven distinct Protestant denominations. Among the students, men and women, are about equally divided numerically, and practically every occupation to be found in Chicago is included in the list of employments. Mr. Lundquist says that strange contrasts are presented as the students gather in their classes Tuesday and Friday evenings. For instance, a Chicago policeman sits between a native Korean college professor and a missionary on furlough from work in South America. Many come to the Evening School from out of town, knowing that employment is always to be found here. The institute maintains an employment bureau which assists both day and evening students to find work, and also a cafeteria to which they may go directly from work and thus lose no time in getting to the 6.30 classes.

Sunday in Denver and Philadelphia

SUNDAY means Church in Denver, Colo. The street cars carry large advertising cards reminding of this fact. It was in Denver that John McNeill, the great Scottish Presbyterian preacher was when the call came to go overseas to minister to the troops in France and Flanders during the war. At that time his ministry was meeting with much success and his departure was a distinct loss to a city where Sunday is held in high regard and church going is still in fashion.

Rev. Walter B. Greenway, minister of Bethany Temple, Philadelphia, together with some of his members, was recently responsible for stopping Sunday repair work by a hundred men engaged near his church in track replacement on the Philadelphia Rapid Transit. The police aided Mr. Greenway when it was learned that the repair gang had no Sunday permit for work in that section.

World Peace

AT ONE of the sessions of The World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches held in Pittsburgh recently, Dr. John J. Cornelius of India said:

"The so-called Nordic suffers from an over-dose of a sense of race superiority.

"Man's religious intolerance has been as bad as his political imperialism in generating race hatred. Some of the darkest pages in human history are those which record the cruelty, hatred and bitterness among peoples resulting from religious conflicts. We have enough nationalism to slaughter each other mercilessly, but not enough to serve each other disinterestedly; we have enough race pride to despise each other, but not enough to recognize the common humanity of us all; we have enough religion to hate each other, but not enough to love each other."

• • •

Will the Churches Accept?

FRED NIBLO, film director of Hllywood, California, says that radio sermons illustrated by motion pictures are a possibility. Advance films of proposed sermons, on a choice selection, could be sent to churches subscribing to the service. He said the wave length would be printed on each film and, by tuning in on the specified Sunday, the picture could be projected to the accompaniment of radio subtitles and oratory of nationally-known pulpit figures. This is all very ingenious and very interesting, but not very impressive to those who know what the Church's real business is in the world. Who, that has ever listened-in on the radio would not far rather have had the privilege of the actual presence of the speaker or artist? Neither the press, the moving picture, nor the radio will ever be able to take the place of the preacher.

Texas Baptists

HOW would this do in Canada? An ultimatum demanding that the 5,022 members of the First Baptist Church of Houston, Texas, repledge themselves to avoid "tattling, backbiting, unrighteous anger and intoxicating drink," or consider themselves out of the church, was recently issued. A resolution was passed by the church providing that only those signing up" before January 1st, 1927, constitute membership of this church." Were such a plan to be put in operation in some places that I know, some congregations would about reach the vanishing point.

• • •

REV. JOHN McNEILL says: "It is a wonderful thing that straight talking, in God's name, does not empty churches; no, blessed be God! it fills them. People come back to be battered and pounded where you struck them last week; to get it all over again; for I do not believe that where we are honest with the sure truth of God, though men may feel badly, and even say hard things against the preacher, in the secret soul there is a bell ringing responsive to the truth." I have lived long enough to know the truth of the famous Scottish preacher's words. If men in our pulpits were as much concerned about offending God as they seem to be about offending some of their hearers their preaching would be with far more power.

Children's Corner

TELL US A STORY

MORE than a century ago, in the northern part of Europe, there stood an old cathedral, upon one of the arches of which was a sculptured face of great beauty. It was long hidden, until one day the sun's light, stealing in through a slanted window, revealed its matchless features. And ever after, year by year, upon the days when for a brief hour it was thus illuminated, visitors came and waited eagerly to catch but a glimpse of the face. It had a strange history. When the cathedral was being built, an old man, broken with the weight of years and care, came and besought the architect to let him work upon it. Out of pity for his age, but fearing lest his failing sight and trembling touch might mar some fair design, the master set him to work in the shadows of the vaulted roof. One day they found the old man asleep in death, the tools of his craft laid in order beside him, the cunning of his right hand gone, his face upturned to this other marvellous face which he had wrought there—the face of one whom he had loved and lost in his early manhood. And when the artists and sculptors and workmen from all parts of the cathedral came and looked upon that face, they said: "This is the grandest work of all; it is the work of love."

Think Of It!

THE physiologist tells me that in every two square inches of the human brain there are two hundred millions of fibres, each of which can receive a mental impression. Just think of it! A hundred millions of fibres in one square inch of the human brain. But one step between the best of us and madness. They who make psychology a study tell us that thin is the veil that separates genius from insanity. Fortunately, most of us are credited with being rather far removed from the latter; and I don't think there can be much doubt but what we are also quite a distance from the former. So, after all there is something to be said for the happy medium.

What Shall We Call It?

WHEN Dr. Howard, now minister of Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, was preaching in Australia, he on one occasion dealt with sin. At the close of the service one of his church officers came into his study to see him. He said to Dr. Howard: "We don't want you to talk as plainly as you do about sin, because if our boys and girls hear you talking so much about it they will more easily become sinners. Call it a mistake if you will, but do not speak so plainly about sin." Then Dr. Howard took down a small bottle and showed it to his visitor. It was a bottle of strychnine and was marked "Poison." Said he, "I see what you want me to do. You want me to change the label. Suppose I take off this label which is marked "Poison" and put on some mild label, such as "Essence of Peppermint," don't you see what happens? The milder you make the label, the more dangerous you make the poison."

We have to remember that our sin is the sin we have permitted, that we have enjoyed, that is to-day mastering us. We may call it by another name, but it is sin.

What Makes News

REV. W. B. NORTON presides over the editorial desk of the Chicago Tribune, and what he has to say about anything that has to do with news is worth knowing. In speaking to the editor of a paper which is widely circulated among ministers he says:

"I just point out that papers publish the kind of news which people want—even preachers. I had a splendid opportunity to illustrate it at one conference. I noticed during the devotional services that many ministers had absented themselves and gone into the corridors and committee rooms, probably to talk over their appointments and other important things. But when the committee which had been investigating the character of one of the ministers was ready for its report every man was back in the room and the free seats were crowded. That is a pretty good indication that a minister's interests are not so much different from the people he often condemns."

It is interesting to remember this where you think of the resolutions which are frequently brought in at conferences and conventions, condemning the amount of space given movies and scandals and the small amount allowed religious news.

What Think Ye of Christ?

Who Is This Jesus?

THE finest intellects of eighteen centuries have believed that He was the greatest man that ever lived. All who have so believed have become better men therefor. He never performed an act or spoke a word which would have been unbecoming in the Creator of the universe, if the Creator should ever clothe Himself with human flesh. Millions of men—kings, historians, philosophers, merchants, mechanics, and purest women—have believed that He is God. All who have devoutly believed this, and lived by this as a truth, have become exemplary for all that is beautiful in holiness.

HON RODOLPHE LEMIEUX.

While there may be some merit to the point raised by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Acting Conservative Leader, that since Confederation the speakership of the House of Commons had been given alternately to French and English-speaking members, The Examiner is sure that the majority of Canadians will approve of the re-appointment of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux.

By reason of his long experience in Parliament, his ability to speak both official languages fluently and the fair and impartial manner in which he has always carried out the duties of his responsible position, Mr. Lemieux is pre-eminently qualified to preside over the deliberations of the House, and this fact, we are sure, is recognized in all quarters.

The opinion is steadily gaining ground in Canada that the speakership should be of a more permanent nature, following the British practice, and that little is gained by calling upon the Speaker to test his political fortune every time there is a general election.

A speaker of Mr. Lemieux's calibre would be an asset as a permanent holder of the position.

THE NEW HIGHWAY.

The attempt of the Council of Northumberland and Durham to have the Lindsay-Peterboro highway diverted through Durham County should be vigorously combatted by local authorities.

The logical route for a highway connecting Peterboro and Lindsay is the present route via the Chemong road and then through Omemee, and that fact should be impressed upon the Ontario Government with emphasis that could not be disregarded.

The local Kiwanis Club has already set the ball rolling by passing a resolution opposing the Northumberland and Durham suggestion, and similar action on the part of other organizations would do much to convince the department that the people of Peterboro want the present route taken over as a Provincial highway and are opposed to any divergence from that plan.

The whole campaign for the Lindsay-Peterboro highway has been based on the assumption that there would be no change in the route, and now that the road has been approved by the department, the eleventh-hour attempt to substitute another route should be emphatically opposed.

THE COCKSHUTT BANQUET.

Peterboro City and County should—and no doubt will—be represented at the complimentary banquet to be tendered Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt, an affair that it is hoped to make representative of every part of Ontario.

The Lieutenant-Governor has earned this demonstration by reason of his faithful service to the Province, and Peterboro should have a part in the tribute that is to be paid him.

Col. Cockshutt entered upon his duties of Lieutenant-Governor with the idea that he could make the position of some value to the people of Ontario.

The old conception of the office did not appeal to him; he wanted to help his native Province, and his every act since has had that aim.

Under his administration Government House, that 'white elephant" at which political speakers had launched their shafts of sarcasm unceasingly before the Cockshutt regime, became a rallying centre where the people of Ontario got to know each other a little better.

People of all walks of life, people from all parts of the Province, were brought together by the Lieutenant-Governor at a series of successful functions, and they learned a lot about the other fellow's viewpoint and shook off to some extent at least the village pump attitude toward public questions.

Col. Cockshutt has done much for Ontario; the honour that is to be paid him now is a much merited reward for faithful service.

THE KEY MEN.

One of the factors that will enter into the bringing into effect of a Government control policy that is likely to give the Ontario Government a good deal of worry is the question of the appointment of vendors.

Much of the success of the policy will depend upon the attention that is paid to this important matter.

The vendor promises to be the key man of the whole plan.

It is of the most vital importance that the men selected to manage Government liquor stores should be men of sound reputation, business ability, good habits and noted for backbones rather than for wishbones.

The position will be no sinecure, no place for a weakling, if Government sale of liquor is to be given an honest chance to justify itself as an improvement over the Ontario Temperance Act.

The man who is placed in charge of a Government liquor store must be of the type that will see to it that the regulations are rigidly adhered to by everybody, strong enough in will-power to insist that the law must be respected under any and all circumstances.

There will be a temptation on the part of the Government to treat these appointments as a piece of party patronage, and this temptation will doubtless be strengthened by the eagerness with which party workers will—and do—offer their services.

There are two choices before the Government: (1) it can yield to this clamour of its camp-followers, handle the appointment of vendors as a matter of plums for the faithful, and thereby jeopardize the whole scheme of Government control at its outset; or (2) it can take a firm stand, insist that its vendors must be chosen with a view to their fitness rather than to their party service, and thus build its method of handling the liquor problem upon a solid foundation.

A weak and short-sighted Government would probably follow the first course; a strong and shrewd Government would have no difficulty in recognizing the value of the second as the only policy leading to permanently desirable results.

In The Examiner's opinion, therefore, the manner in which Mr. Ferguson and his Government deal with the appointment of the key men of its control policy will be a real test of the administration and of the genuiness of its claims that it is interested in promoting temperance in the Province.

THE DIGNITY OF THE LAW.

The Supreme Court of the United States has just admitted to practice an Oklahoma "cowboy lawyer," but before doing so insisted that the gentleman don a necktie in appearing before the august tribunal. He entered the court wearing a "ten gallon" hat, shirt open at the neck, and so on. The judges demurred. No one had ever appeared before them minus a necktie. The cowboy didn't like it, but when he found that it was a question of "no tie, no admission," he retired for a moment, borrowed a tie and then satisfied the court.

A small thing, some persons will say. Why should a necktie make any difference between admission or refusal to practise before the Supreme Court or any other court? But the matter goes deeper than that. A Canadian court would no doubt have gone further in its objections. It would have stipulated general dress in conformity with the seriousness of the tribunal. And the Canadian court would be right. One of the things that has contributed to the general loosening of the machinery of justice in the United States is the fact that courts are conducted in a fashion that is altogether too free and easy. In some of them, it is said, smoking is even permitted. All kinds of liberties are taken by newspaper photographers and others. It is no wonder, then, that respect for the law has more or less broken down.

Courts, quite as much as churches, must be conducted in accordance with their serious mission. When this factor is overlooked or taken lightly, respect for courts must inevitably break down. Some ultra democrats may be inclined to laugh at gowns and wigs for judges and lawyers, but they have played their part in upholding the majesty of the law in Great Britain. And there are a good many serious-minded Americans who wish that the dignity of the law was half as well sustained in their country.—Border Cities Star.

REMARKABLE PROGRESS IN THE AIR.

That commercial flying is rapidly coming into a success is indicated by the figures provided by the Imperial Air Ways, Limited, of Great Britain; also by the figures from Germany. The result of Henry Ford's system also shows that safe flying is possible. In Britain in the last 21 months some two million miles have been flown, 52,000 passengers carried, and bullion and other valuables to the amount of $45,000,000. Not a passenger was injured, and when one big plane dropped into the English Channel, all were rescued. Germany has also an air service which in five months past has carried 56,000 passengers safely, while it is Henry Ford's boast that his machines travel on a railway time table and there is little question as to safety.

Sir Eric Geddes, Chairman of the British company, had good reason, therefore, for emphasizing the factor of safety in his annual address. He declared that his company's standard of maintenance was the highest in the world. It had even incurred an operating loss of $108,500 in the year by its voluntary withdrawal of one-engine airplanes and their replacement by multi-engine machines of greater power and capacity, which insure greater safety. Although the single-engine planes were excellent, he said, they had been taken off in order to "provide the public with a service established on the safety and reliability principles of British transport organizations, believing that the company will, without doubt, reap the reward of its policy.

The Imperial Air Ways are opening up new lines, and in January expect to begin the service from Cairo to Karachi in India. Toward this the British Government has granted an annual subsidy of $458,000. Each of the especially-built airplanes will be fitted with three air-cooled motors and will be capable of maintaining flight easily with two engines only. The journey will occupy at first three and a half days, but as night flying is developed it will be cut further. Sir Eric Geddes was particularly happy to announce that not only will Sir Samuel Hoare, the Secretary of State for Air, be a passenger in the first Cairo-Karachi airplane, with his personal staff, but he will be accompanied by his wife. No more striking tribute, Sir Eric thought, could be given to his organization, for this will be by far the longest air journey ever undertaken by any woman.

Commercial aviation has indeed had an amazing development in Europe since the war. People may now travel to nearly all the capitals of Europe and many of the large cities by daily air services. One line is operating two planes at night with sleeping berths, moving pictures and radio sets. In this field the United States and Canada are surprisingly behind the Old World, though so much in advance of it in nearly every other application of science and invention to the use and comfort of humanity.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Well, they're off at Ottawa.

The Council of Northumberland and Durham has the wrong idea. We want a road to Lindsay, not a belt line.

So far no aldermanic candidates are in the running. In fact, they're not in the walking stage yet.

Without any inside information on the subject, it is safe to assume that there are more people anxious to take charge of the Government sale of liquor in Peterboro than there are citizens willing to accept positions in the municipal government.

It is to be hoped that the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne will be brief. Canadians generally can see nothing to be gained in dragging it out to any great length.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 11. — Export business this week was comparatively quiet, with buying limited to about 100 heifers for Manchester. There were no orders for heavy steers, but for next week orders so far are for 500 finished steers.

Increased activity in the demand or choice butcher cattle for the domestic trade made up for the paucity in the export trade. In Monday's market choice butcher steers were selling readily at from $6.50 to $7, and in subsequent markets $7.25 to $7.50 for extra choice heavy beef steers. Fancy quality up to $7.75 for individual steers. Choice butcher heifers $6.50 to $6.75; good to medium kinds $5 to $6, according to quality. Coice butchers' cows were in good demand at $5 to $5.50, with several fancy cows, including some Kosher cows selling at $6.50. Baby beeves met with good trading for choice quality at $9.50 to $10.50; good, $8 to $8.50; medium, $7 to $7.50. Bulls held about steady with last week, heavy export going to the abattoirs at $4.50 to $4.75. Choice butchers bulls, $4.50 to $5; bologna bulls, $3.25 to $4.25. Canners and cutters were numerous and sold from $2 to $3. There are a lot of green steers coming in not fat enough to suit the abattoirs, and selling from $5 to $5.50. They should be held at home for better finish. No common butchers' cattle wanted next week. Choice cattle will be wanted. Prices for the week averaged an advance of from 25c to 50c on the choicest butcher offerings.

Springers and milkers: Choice cows were $15 less than the previous week for the same quality. A large percentage of cows had to be sold over the scales, especially the backward springers and milkers. Advise holding back until after the New Year rather than sell at a sacrifice. Backward springers in any case should be kept on the farm until close up to calving, and should be properly nourished before shipping.

Stockers and feeders: The demand is only fair and inquiries are for only good choice quality. Steers ranging in price from $5.25 to $5.75. A few cars of choice yearling heifers sold from $4.25 to $4.65. Some heavier heifers from $4.75 to $5 for short keep purposes.

Sheep and lambs—There has been quite a volume of lambs coming in that are rather underfinished with a poor dressing percentage. These were hard to dispose of at around 11c; choice lambs selling at 12c, with some fancy lambs selling at 12 1-4c; heavy lambs, 10c; bucks, 9 to 9 1-4c; yearling sheep, 7 to 8c; choice butchers' sheep, 5 1-2 to 6 1-2c; good, 4 1-2 to 5c; heavy sheep and bucks, 4 to 4 1-2c; cull sheep, 2 to 3 cents.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday continued inactive owing to the fact that the majority of foreign bids were below local exporters' views. An easier feeling developed in the local market for Canadian Western oats, and prices were reduced 1 cent per bushel.

The undertone to the market for Spring wheat grades of flour was easier but prices showed no change. The volume of business was small. The demand for Winter wheat flour was also limited but values ruled steady.

The market for all lines of millfeed continued active and firm. A moderate amount of business was done in standard grades of rolled oats and prices were unchanged.

A stronger feeling developed in the market for baled hay and prices were marked up 50 cents per ton owing to the small supplies coming forward.

Owing to the increasing scarcity of fresh eggs and the good demand, a stronger feeling developed in the market and prices scored an advance of 3 to 5 cents per dozen. Prices for all grades of storage eggs were also marked up 1 cent per dozen. The receipts were 149 cases.

The trade in potatoes was quiet but prices were steady. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.90 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.70 to $1.75 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Quebec White stock at $1.55 to $1.60 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The feature of the butter trade was the further strength that developed and prices were marked up another 1-4 cent per pound. The volume of business transacted was large. The receipts were 78 packages.

The export trade in cheese was quiet, but the local and country demand was fair and the undertone was firm. The receipts were 452 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press)—With North American clearances for the week the smallest for some time, and with estimates of the Argentine exportable surplus, wheat values dropped yesterday. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1-8 to 1 5-8c net lower; corn 1-4 to 3-8 and 3-4c down; oats 1-8 to 1-4 and 1-2c up, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents decline.

Clearances of wheat flour from the United States and Canada for the week were announced as only 8,697,000 bushels against 11,681,000 bushels the week previous.

Colder weather expected to bring about larger receipts of corn tended to weaken the corn market.

Oats met with a good class of buying and turned strong in the late.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—Hogs 30,000; bulk desirable hogs, 170 to 270 pounds, $11.65 to $11.85; top $11.90; paid for choice 240 to 300 pound weights; most slaughter pigs $11.50 to $11.75; packing sows weak to unevenly lower late; closing bulk $10.50 to $11.00.

Cattle 4,000; bulk offerings $9.50 down to $7.75 and below to killers; best yearlings $12.00; 1,501 pound bullocks $9.75.

WHAT A HOPE!

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The petition now being circulated asking the Ferguson Government not to establish a Government Control shop here might very well be agreed to insofar as to require that people who voted against Government Control shall not take advantage of it. This would meet the wishes of the petitioners.

CONSTANT READER.

QUESTION

Mr. Editor:

I noticed in the columns of The Examiner a question asked, in reference to a statement made in one of our city churches, by a visiting preacher, namely—"No one has gone into hell" (endless torments). If the dead are more alive than ever when dead, where are the countless millions who have died

Possibly Mr. Allan can explain. Has the preacher ceased to believe Satan's lie, and now frankly admits the dead are dead, and will not live again except there is a resurrection?

M. T. BUTCHER.

BOOTLEGGERS' UNION.

To the Editor, Peterboro Examiner:

Dear Sir: At the weekly meeting last evening of the P.B.U. (Peterboro Bootleggers' Union) a vote of thanks was unanimously carried to Mr. W. Merell, for his action in trying to prevent a liquor store in the city.

We, like Mr. Merell, are of the opinion that one will not be needed or granted within one hundred miles of this city. At our last meeting we had almost decided to disband; but now we intend to carry on in the hope that no store will be opened in Peterboro.

Some of our members were in favor of joining forces with Mr. Merell's band, but ultimately we decided the better way would be to let Mr. Merel conduct his campaign in his own way.

Meanwhile, the P.B.U. will still continue to deliver the goods.. Yours very truly,

W. E. P. IZENEM.

MR. MARKS' ANSWER

Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—In answer to a Campbellford news item of Dec. 7, 1926, was very much surprised after reading the above mentioned item at the very summary treatment handed me by our 1926 Council, for I had no suspicion of anything like this till I read it in your paper.

Now, after again checking up my previous measurements of my land, I find as before, that the municipality of Campbellford is trespassing on my land to the extent of some two feet. Now, did I put up a howl about it. No, I said nothing; but after the treatment they have given me I am likely to have considerable to say about this affair to our town councillors in general and to one in particular, and which if it were put in print would make interesting reading for all your readers. It seems a despicable way to get election advertising for that certain counellor who says, "Be firm, gentlemen, business is business.

Yours truly,

U. V. MARKS.

THE SENATE VACANCY

To the Editor:

Dear Sir.—I wonder if our citizens are getting behind J. J. Duffus for the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of Senator McHugh of Lindsay, as they should. The vacancy will undoubtedly be filled with one of the same religious faith as the late Senator McHugh, and rightly it should be, and no place is any more entitled to the appointment than Peterborough. No one of the same faith, both religious and political, better fitted for the position than J. J. Duffus. While I am just speaking for myself I feel that these are the sentiments of the vast amount of true Conservatives througout the surrounding country that has just finished a battle for the democracy of the great Conservative party. And might I say that if W. D. Euler cleans up the Customs scandal, that in the next Dominion election that Maybee, Stinson, Bowen and some more of the Dominion members have already nailed their flag half mast.

Thanking you, I remain,

Yours, etc.,

W. H. MERRILL

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

COMING TROUBLE

By Dr. Frank Crane.

One of the most firmly fixed beliefs in the human mind, one which most of us share, is that trouble is surely coming.

The would-be philosopher sneers at people that are happy. He says to the little children: "Play on! Life will be along pretty soon with its cares and difficulties. It will be but a short time until you will cease to laugh and begin to weep."

I knew a woman, a grandmother, who wept whenever she heard of a child being born. The child was going to have so much trouble. The calamity of life was too much for him.

We all enjoy tragedy with a certain relish. We love our misfortune and think that we get what is coming to us. But somehow when we are happy and prosperous we look upon ourselves as cheating somebody.

Fate surely cannot mean that we should be glad. It is only amusing itself with us, getting ready for the blow which is to destroy us.

So there are people who at every happy family reunion persist in complaining that perhaps we shall never all meet again.

Where did we get this notion that trouble is due us, that everybody is bound to suffer sooner or later, and that tragedy is inevitable?

It has often been remarked that the primitive religions were religions of fear. Their rites consisted merely in placating the adverse powers of nature.

The most striking fact in the philosophy of Jesus was that He considered God as friendly. He taught us to say "Our Father" and to rely upon Him in confidence. He is not our enemy, but is constantly working for our good.

Let yourself go, therefore, when you are at peace. Be as happy as you will. Play with a whole heart. Enjoy yourself when moments of enjoyment come and do not cloud the present by the adumbrations of the future.

One wise man remarked on his deathbed:

"I have seen a great many troubles in my life, but most of them never happened."

Ship Flour By Mail To Isolated Utah Town

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 10. (United Press.) — The little town of Kanab, in the isolated section of Utah, is getting its winter supply of flour by mail. The nearest railway station is at Elsinore, 100 miles away.

After 23 tons of flour—the amount needed for the winter in Kanab—had been delivered to Elsinore, it was discovered that the cheapest method of transportation from the rail terminal was by mail.

Accordingly the Elsinore postmaster sent a hurry call to Salt Lake City for $500 worth of stamps to cover the postage and shipment of the flour, in 70 lb. parcels was begun. It will be hauled in motor trucks.

Was Nearly Crazy With Boils All Over His Body

Mr. S. L. Burke, Barronsfield, N.S., writes:—"For some time I was nearly crazy with boils all over my body. I tried everything I could think of to get rid of them, but to no avail, for as soon as one was healed up another would appear to take its place.

I was advised to take

and after I had used two bottles the boils had all disappeared and I have not been troubled with them since."

A Gift that Increases in Value

Presentation Covers are provided for Christmas Gift Books.

WHAT DID YOU GIVE LAST CHRISTMAS?

Toys for the kiddies—most of them broken by now. "Something useful" for the grown-ups—now worn out or forgotten. Cash to your employees—appreciated but soon spent. Other presents—hurriedly bought and perhaps ill-chosen. Are they remembered now?

Suppose this year you give them each a Bank Book containing an initial deposit, and urge them to add to it regularly. Could anything be more suitable?

FIRE SWEEPING MINE EXPLOSION

Necessitates Abandonment Of All Rescue Work at Princeton.

FIVE IN MINE.

PRINCETON, Ind., Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—A raging fire, necessitating abandonment of all rescue work, yesterday ended the vigil at Francisco Mine No. 2, near here, where an explosion Thursday brought death to 28 men and serious injury to a score of others.

The mine was ordered sealed while it still held the bodies of five men—S. J. Rohl, W. P. Ratcliffe, Emery West, Walter Thomas and Claude Wright—but only after the rescue crews were convinced that all were dead and that further exploring in the face of the new danger was useless.

The bodies of Rohl and Ratliffe had been found and were about to be lifted to the surface when the fire forced the rescuers to run for their own lives. The remains of the other three miners had not been located.

Dry-eyed relatives of West, Thomas and Wright stood outside the cage and airshaft houses and watched workmen place heavy coverings over the two surface outlets, entombing with their loved ones the last flickering hope for their recovery alive. Mining experts had sought previously to convince them that there was no hope that the men were alive.

Of the twenty-eight dead, the lives of all but two were snuffed out within the subterranean passages of the mine. The two died after being removed to hospitals.

Mining authorities said the fire would continue in the shaft for from thirty to ninety days, burning itself out when all the oxygen in the mine had been consumed.

Twenty-eight injured men remained yesterday in the Methodist Hospital here. Four were in a critical condition. Physicians expressed the belief that the others would recover. Fifteen escaped uninjured or with only minor hurts. Twenty-one homes completed preparations for the funerals of the explosion victims. Two homes will have a double burial. J. H. and Earl Gates, father and son, of Princeton, both lost their lives. The accident also dealt a double blow to the James family of Francisco. Fred and William, brothers, dying in the blast. A third brother, Jesse, was critically injured. The funerals will be private ceremonies, with the Miners' Local Union lending the only touch of ostentation.

Since the Irish Free State and Northern Ireland have formed their on Parliaments, the Irish representation in the British parliament has dropped from 105 to 13.

THREE YOUTHS GET LONG TERM FOR BURGLARY

Plead Guilty of Robbing Milne's General Store at Menie.

GO TO REFORMATORY.

Stole Men's Wear, Cigarettes and Other Articles From Shop.

(Special to the Examiner.)

COBOURG, December 11.—Pleading guilty to burglary committed at Alex. Milne's general store at Menie, on Sept. 9th last, three Seymour township young men, W. J. Cross, 27, Wm. Dunk, 20, and Clarke Haig, 19, were each sentenced by Judge Haig here yesterday to eighteen months in an Ontario Reformatory, three months being determinate and fifteen months being an indeterminate sentence. They were charged with having broken into the store and stolen a quantity of men's wear, including socks and boots; also cigarettes and some other articles.

Mr. N. A. McColl of Campbellford represented the young men in court and made a strong plea that sentence be suspended. W. F. Kerr, K.C., Crown Attorney, submitted the evidence for prosecution.

At the outset and frequently throughout the proceedings, it was reiterated with regret that the names of Crossen, Haig and Dunk are among the most prominent and honorable in the Seymour district.

"I know these young men bear very respected names," said Mr. Kerr "and when I first heard of the case I asked myself: 'How can we protect law and order if sons of families like these give us trouble?'"

Too Much Alcohol.

The offence was the chief episode in a night of folly, and, according to the evidence, was inspired by the demoralizing effects of an alcoholic spree, the physical danger of which prompted Judge Huycke's remark — "Whether you go to prison or not you can thank your stars that you are alive."

Crossen's story of the affair showed that there had been no preconcerted design or plan of shopbreaking. Nor did they need money. Crossen owns a 325 acre farm, is married, and has several children.

Took Truck for Ride.

In the evening of September 8 they appropriated a motor truck, and drove off for a ride. Arriving at Stirling one of them suggested Belleville, and on they went. At Belleville, a "crock" was mentioned, and finally they managed to buy a "script" for twenty ounces of alcohol, which they obtained at a drug store. Returning, they stopped whenever the notion persuaded them that "another little drink won't do us any harm."

When they drew up at Menie, Crossen said that they were all pretty drunk, and the halt was made simply for another drink. They were at Milne's store, opposite his residence, and were jostling around. It was about 1 a.m., Friday, September 9.

"The first thing I knew," Crossen continued, "Haig and Dunk came out from behind the store with an armful of stuff. We put it in the car and drove off, but about a mile north of Menie we broke a wheel of the car."

Planned Restitution.

They got a coupe one of them owned and left the damaged truck behind, a clue that led to their arrest. Towards morning, as they were sobering, Crossen said he didn't want his mother, who lived with him, to find out what was done, so they hid the merchandise in a bush. Haig then suggested that they had better arrange to go back to Menie and "see Milne about this mess." They discussed confessing the theft, but they were nine miles from Menie. It rained Friday and on Saturday Crossen's car was out of order until late in the afternoon, when Harry Meiklejohn

AGED FINANCIER WILL MARRY AGAIN

Still a Young Fellow, W. T. Graham Says in Explanation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (United Press).—"I suppose you fellows think I'm an old fool," remarked William T. Graham, 76-year-old president of the American Can Co., in confirming his intention of getting married to-day, "but all the members of my family are married and I want to be too."

The former associate of the late Daniel G. Reed, "the tin plate king," will become the husband today of Mrs. Mary A. Staats of Kent, Conn., who is nineteen years his junior. She is a widow.

Graham's first wife died several years ago. With a daughter she was among the survivors of the steamship Titanic disaster. Since her death Graham has lived in a suite at the Hotel Plaza and a summer home at Greenwich, Conn.

"I'm still a young fellow and I'd like to have my own home. I see nothing to cover up in that," he joyfully explained.

THIEF DESTROYS FINE PAINTING

Ruins It While Trying To Cut It From Frame.

ARRESTED.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—The valuable oil painting, "Lilith," the work of John Carroll, the New York artist, was found practically ruined yesterday by an amateur thief who hacked the picture while trying to remove it from its frame in the Palace of Fine Arts at the Sesquicentennial.

Harry Cuneo, plumber's helper, has been arrested ,charged with the attempted theft and also the stealing of a bronze statue entitled 'The Promenade,' by Alexander Archipenko, well-known sculptor.

He was held in $1,000 bail. Cuneo was arrested as he was leaving the Fine Arts Building. His bulging overcoat attracted attention of one of the guards, who searched him and found the statue.

An investigation was started and the guards found "Lilith" hopelessly mutilated and roughly rolled, hidden behind statuary. The police say Cuneo intended to take it from the building after disposing of the statue.

A pair of pliers and a penknife were found in Cuneo's possession and both of these crude tools were smeared with the oil painting, showing that the thief had used these in ripping the picture from its frame. The investigation showed that three or four other valuable statuettes had been loosened in other galleries in the building, which is now being dismantled. The painting "Lilith" was missed before Cuneo was arrested and it was thought at first that it had been done by some one angered at the artist, or the work itself.

"Must have been drunk," was the only excuse offered by the prisoner.

GERMANY NOW ACTIVE MEMBER OF WORLD COURT

Decided It Useless To Wait For Lead By the United States.

SIGN PROTOCOL.

Ambassadors Unable To Agree For Settlement on Armaments Question.

GENEVA, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Germany yesterday became a member of the permanent court of international justice, when Foreign Minister Stresseman signed the protocol which was recently the subject of an international conference in connection with the United States reservations.

The Germans had been waiting to see what the United States would do about the court, but apparently decided that non-acceptance of the United States conditions postponed the adhesion of the United States indefinitely.

Ministers Disagree

PARIS, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press). —"Still a good way apart," was the term used last night to describe the position of the Germans and the Allies with regard to a settlement on the armaments question. Allied military experts were distinctly pessimistic after the Council of Ambassadors at a two hour session yesterday failed to get very far in the direction of recommending that the control of German armaments be placed under the direct jurisdiction of the League of Nations, instead of the inter-Allied Control Commission, as at present.

The Council of ambassadors simply drafted a "new report" similar to that of Wednesday, and sent it to Geneva for consideration by the various foreign ministers gathered there for the League Council. These ministers have it in their power to accept the claims of the Germans in good faith and settle the whole affair, but it is more likely the ambassadors will be asked to continue their efforts.

General Von Pauwels, representing the Germans, is described by those negotiating with him as "a very nice gentleman, very polite, but quite unbending in defending German practices to which the French and British military experts have been objecting."

The two principal obstacles remaining in the way of an agreement are the Koenigsberg fortifications and the exportation by Germany of possible war materials. These exportations, it is explained in reports, consist of material than can be used or quickly converted for war purposes, although it might have peacetime use, and also machinery designed for the manufacture of arms and munitions.

During Wednesday's and yesterday's conference it was brought out that the Allies have compelled Hungary to observe strictly the very restrictions about which Germany is arguing.

It is insisted by the Germans that the Koenisberg fortress is merely a defensive post, although the Allies regard it as a strong position for the start of an offensive. There has been much additional construction at the fortress, which the Germans say is merely in the way of modernizing it, but which the Allies contend has turned it into an entrenched camp.

RUM RUNNER HEAVILY FINED

George Kasovitch Must Pay $380—Caught in Detour.

LIQUOR CONFISCATED.

(Special to The Examiner)

COBOURG, Dec. 11—For "running rum" from Toronto to his home near Canton in Hope township, George Kasovitch was fined $380 and costs by Magistrate Floyd at Bowmanville on Thursday. He pleaded guilty to illegal transportation. The liquor was ordered to be confiscated. Kasovitch ran into a traffic jam on a detour near Newcastle about ten days ago. License Inspector Goodrich and Provincial Constable Fewtrell who had started from here to search the Kasovitch farm came upon his car blocked in the detour and found in it twenty gallons of alcohol.

ITALIAN BANDIT FLEES TO FRANCE

Murders Militia Man and Takes His Clothes, Then Kills Soldier.

VENTIMIGLIA, Italy, Dec. 11.—The desperate bandit Sante Pollastro eluded the troops hunting him on the frontier and escaped to France Thursday night. After murdering a militiaman in a lonely valley, Pollastro donned the Fascist's clothes and boarded a train here bound for France. A carabinier recognized him by the great scar on his face and tried to arrest him on the train; the outlaw murdered him and escaped. An armored car filled with French and Italian police pursued him, but were unable to find him. He is supposed to be near Mentone.

With two accomplices, Pollastro killed two policemen and a jeweler in a robbery at Milan two weeks ago, obtaining loot estimated as high as $1,000,000. Three murders near the frontier are credited to him. Mansari and Peotta, his confederates, are believed hiding in the frontier valleys.

WELCOME PERSONALS.

WELCOME, Dec. 11.—Mrs. Lancashire and son of Millbrook visited her sister, Mrs. James Walker of Welcome, on Friday.

Rev. and Mrs. Clare and Master Earl visited friends in Colborne on Friday.

Miss Ruth Fanning has returned home from Peterboro.

The Toronto-Cobourg 'bus which has not been running for the past two weeks, on account of the detour at Newtonville, started its regular trips again on Monday.

The storm on Sunday disorganized all the church services. The attendance at the evening service was very small.

Mr. John Pearce, Sr., who spent the summer in this vicinity, is spending the winter in Vancouver.

The scholars of the United Church Sunday School at Welcome are busy practicing a cantata for Christmas Eve.

These Improvements are Important

There are two general classes of motor car improvements. Those made primarily for their effect on the public—and those made primarily for their effect upon the car.

You will perceive at once that Dodge Brothers new five-bearing crankshaft, two-unit starting and lighting system, air cleaner and other recent improvements, are the sort that represent genuine value.

They are sound and substantial betterments, producing definite and marked results, and as such they are typical of Dodge Brothers methods and product.

PUZZLE Who Won the Movie Channel Swim? WIN

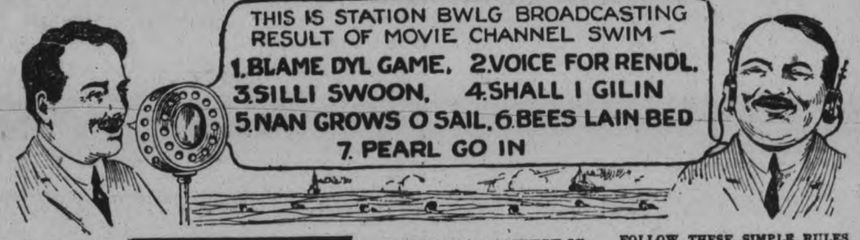
New 1927 Chevrolet Coach $1800.00 IN PRIZES

NAMES OF ALL THE MOVIE STARS WHO SWAM IN THE CHANNEL RACE—THE 7 FIRST ARE AMONG THESE—Alice Joyce, May McAvoy, Lillian Gish, Constance Talmadge, Colleen Moore, Madge Bellamy, Corinne Griffith, Norma Shearer, Seena Owen, May Allison, Gloria Swanson, Norma Talmadge, Bebe Daniels, Clara Bow, Vilma Banky, Pola Negri, Viola Dana, Florence Vidor, Marion Davies, Marie Prevost, Lois Wilson, Mary Brian.



WHO ARE THEY?

Twenty-two popular moving picture stars are supposed, recently, to have swam in a race across the English Channel. Their names are printed above. The results of the race were broadcast by Radio Station PWLG, but the operator, to have some fun and keep the thousands of interested listening fans in suspense, announced the names of the first seven to finish, jumbled up. For instance, he gave number 6 as "Nan grows o sail" instead of Gloria Swanson, and offered big prizes to those who could correctly name the first seven he announced. In the picture above you see him announcing the names in ridiculous fashion. If you can put the letters of each name back in their right places you will have the names of the first seven whose pictures are shown to the left in the order in which they finished. Find their names and send them in to compete for the big prizes.

SOLVE IT AND WIN FIRST PRIZE

If you are clever enough to solve this fascinating puzzle you have opened the way to being declared first prize winner. If your solution is successful in winning 175 points, the maximum for being correct, we will write you and show you how first prize can easily be won. Be neat and careful. Comply with rules.

WIN THIS CAR

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES

1. Write answers in pen and ink on one side of the paper only. Put name and address and name of this paper in upper right hand corner, stating whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss. Put anything else on separate sheet. Don't send fancy, drawn or typewritten entries. 2. Contestants must be 15 years or over. Employees of this company, their friends and relatives are forbidden to enter. 3. Three entries may be submitted. Only one can win a prize. 4. Different members of a family may compete. Only one prize will be awarded in a household. 5. Final awards will be made by a committee of 3 Toronto gentlemen having no connection with the firm. Their names will be made known to all contestants. Contestants must agree to abide by their decisions. Prizes will be awarded by points. 300 points, the maximum, will take first prize. 175 points will be awarded for the correct solution to the puzzle. 10 points each for general neatness, appearance, spelling, punctuation and handwriting of entry, and 75 for fulfilling the conditions of contest. Contest closes June 30th, 1927. Entries should be forwarded promptly. $100 extra prize for promptness will be given. 6. Each successful contestant wishing to comply with the conditions of the contest will request that he or she be sent a few pairs of Sterling Hosiery on approval and to show a few friends who will want to become wearers of Sterling Hosiery. This advertising favor need not cost you any money or much time, and will win you increased pointage toward first prize.

GET LIST OF PRIZE WINNERS

Contests are an annual feature of Sterling Hosiery advertising. We originated this plan, the success of which has prompted many cheap and unreliable imitators to adopt. Be warned. Sterling contests are genuine, trustworthy, honestly conducted, dependable, and the prizes awarded just as promised, fairly, squarely, surely. We will send you a list of previous prize winners that will convince you. You can enter in confidence and win.

The Company conducting the contest is an old established, reliable and responsible Company.

SLAP ON HEAD IS CONSIDERED CAUSE OF DEATH

School Boy's Brother Says He Was Cuffed For Misbehaviour.

DIED FROM ABSCESS.

Infection in Ear Spread To Brain—Operation Too Late.

PORT COLBORNE, Dec. 11. — The body of little Arthur Hoyle, 10-year-old schoolboy, who died Thursday night of an abscess on the brain, alleged to have been caused by a slap on the side of his head at school, lies in a little coffin at the home of his grief-stricken parents here.

The lad passed away in the Welland General Hospital on Thursday night after an operation on the head performed by physicians in a last effort to save his life. An inquest was opened here yesterday in Darte's undertaking parlors by Coroner G. N. Black, and adjourned until December 20 without any evidence being taken. A post-mortem has meanwhile been conducted by Dr. H. C. Workman, the result of which will not be made public until the inquest is resumed.

The lad's fatal illness dates from November 19, when he complained of a pain in his ear, and the family physician, Dr. E. A. MacKenzie, was summoned. He found the boy to be suffering from what is known as a running ear. The lad was reticent to his parents as to what had happened to the ear, but his elder brother, John, told his father that the previous day the lad had been cuffed because he was misbehaving in the line. He had trouble with the ear before, declared the father. He was operated on for chronic mastoid four years ago. He never had any trouble with it since.

The father and mother, grief-stricken in their home, would make no statement about the cause of the tragedy. "There have been too many conflicting stories," the father declared. "And I'm not saying anything until after the inquest."

The cause of death was attributed to abscess of the brain by Dr. MacKenzie, the attending physician. He admitted the ear condition, which was the first symptoms of the lad's fatal illness, might have been caused by a blow on the head. The ear condition, he stated, had pretty well cleared up, but the infection had travelled through to the brain, causing an abscess. It was to clear up this abscess that the operation was performed in the hospital.

ILEANA TO WED ITALIAN PRINCE

Rumanian Princess To Become Bride of Heir. To Throne.

WEDDING ARRANGED.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Princess Ileana will marry Prince Humbert, Crown Prince of Italy, within six months, if King Ferdinand lives, or as soon threafter as the period of mourning ceases, should the monarch die. The Associated Press has been given this information in circles close to the Royal Palace. Ileana, the youngest daughter of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie, is 17 years old. Humbert is 22.

The betrothal of the Princess and the Prince, so the story goes, was arranged at the time of the Italo-Rumanian convention last September, when, among other things, Rumania obtained a credit of 200,000,000 Lei from Italy.

GIVING OXYGEN TO EMPEROR

All Japan Anxiously Watching Reports From His Bedside.

BUSINESS HELD UP.

TOKIO, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—Six oxygent tanks were installed today in the sick room of Emperor Yoshihito, indicating his condition is critical. Empress Sadako is at his bedsde. The striken ruler's weak pulse is causing considerable anxiety. Heart stimulants are necessary.

The navy is considering dispatching a cruiser to Vancouver, B.C., to bring Prince Chichibu homeward in case he is unable to make connections with a trans-Pacific liner on his arrival there from England.

The entire nation is anxiously watching the reports from Hayama, where the Emperor is confined in his villa. Holiday business already has suffered. The merchants may lose millions if New Year's parties and other celebrations are halted.

The Essenuals for an Attractive Living Room

By W. S. Limbery.

It goes without saying, that this is the most important room in the house. It is the one room that can make the house a HOME; the one in which the members of the family will LIVE, and where they will MEET with their friends. Every care should be exercised in order to have it essentially comfortable, attractive, and restful.

To be comfortable it must be furnished with easy chairs that can be readily grouped near the tables and around the fireplace. To be attractive, it must be bright and cosy, decorated with taste—not necessarily at great cost—but in harmonious color; and to be restful it should not be over furnished and must be free from too many things. A sense of spaciousness that can only be obtained by leaving actual floor spaces should pervade the room. Most people over-furnish their living room.

First, as to the decorating, make the room bright and cheerful; to do this, finish the walls in either tan, buff or cream tones, or if it is a sunny room, pale grays or putty colors may be used. Under no circumstances have dark walls, figured papers or borders. This room, of all rooms, must have a continuous color background.

Finish the ceiling a lighter tone of the wall color; a three inch moulding should be placed on the wall at its junction with the ceiling, and painted the same color as the wall.

The woodwork can be enamel painted a darker shade of the wall color, and the floors toned a shade of walnut brown.

The fireplace facings and hearth will look well if of darker tan tiles or brick; an iron basket and andirons for a coal or wood fire will be necessary. The mantel should be of simple design, and finished in the same color as the woodwork.

Let us make a list of the furniture really necessary for a living room: but first, have built-in book shelves somewhere near the fireplace, of simple design, about 5 feet high. It is not a real living room unless there is a place for books; they are decorative as well as companionable.

As to the moveable furniture, a davenport and an armchair, both covered with denim or velour in simple shades of tan, soft blue or dull green, should form the nucleus of your furniture. These being the large pieces, it is advisable not to have them too vivid in color, you will tire of them. If you do not like plain materials, use coverings of two tones in fine strips, of the colors suggested.

Buy as many chairs as you think you need; but do not forget that space is as valuable as furniture for both beauty and comfort. A small fire side chair, and a comfortable armchair covered with cretonne tapestry of simple design will make a good start with possibly an odd chair or two of a more formal design, say of wood with or without cushioned seats. A wicker chair or two painted soft shades of green or tan, to go with your colour scheme will be found effective.

Do not cut up your floor space by having a centre table. Nothing is as useless or as ugly! But a small library table, having simple lines, and place it behind the davenport or against the wall, where it will be of use, and on which you can place a lamp carefully shaded to match your color scheme.

A small writing desk should be in evidence and an "occasional" table or two, to draw up to your reading lamp and chair. Just tables large enough for a book or two, and to lay your work on. Leave a corner for music; if not a piano, then a gramophone or a combination cabinet with Radio and Victrola, now made in such suitable and attractive design.

Lighting arrangement can make or mar the living room. Avoid ceiling outlets and use wall lights sparingly and only for general illumination. Instead, have plenty of plugs put in for table and chair lamps. A switch at the door can operate a couple of the wall brackets. Copyright, 1926, MacLean Building Reports, Limited.

Question—I have a bungalow with a finished attic. I am figuring on dropping sawdust between the outer walls. Would this be satisfactory? Would a layer of tar paper on the rafters help keep the house warm? For plastering around the chimney do you frame flush against the brick?

* * *

The loose sawdust will not give you effective insulation. It will increase the fire risk and will be a harboring place for vermin. Tar paper on the inside of the rafters also will not be effective insulation. Use one of the standard insulating mediums between the ceiling joists. Wood framing around the chimney stack should not touch the brick. Set up 2 x 4's flatwise and apply metal lath.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

SOMEONE'S GOING AWAY

Someone's going to leave us,
Someone's going away—
Just can't think of anything
But that the livelong day.
Someone's going to journey,
Someone's packed to go—
And that's about as awful news
As anyone could know.

Someone's going to wander,
Someone that we love,
That's the thing the livelong day
That we are thinking of.
Someone's going to travel
Away from us awhile,
And it's hard to say goodbye
And say it with a smile.

Someone's going to leave us,
Someone that we'll miss,
But we hope there'll be a time,
A better time than this.
Someone will be coming
Back to us someday—
That's the only thing that helps
When someone's going away.

THIRD "VIMY" PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

Well, here is the "Third' back in the news. We are not dead, or even dying, but our reportig service has fallen down on the job. However, we will try to give a report of our activities each week.

Druing the past month we have held three Sunday morning hikes, starting out about 9 a.m. and returning home about 1.30, to allow the Scouts to attend Sunday school. On these hikes, Scout Billie Inch passed fire lighting, Scout Jack Gray passed part of the fire lighting and part of the cooking tests. The weather has been very bad, but each hike was attended by three or four Scouts.

The new troop room of the Third was opened in October, and each meeting since has been a humdinger, full of pep and keen competition. In the inter-patrol competition the Wolves and Hawks have been running a close race for first place, first one and then the other taking the lead, and on one occasion they were tied. The Hounds got away to a bad start and have not been able to make up the lead gained by the Wolves and Hawks. Handicapped by the lack of a leader, the Chickadees have not had a chance, but this is to be remedied for the New Year. At present the standing is: Wolves 225 1-2, Hawks 206, Hounds 184, Chickadees 171 1-2. The competition comes to an end next week, when the awarding of the prize will be made to the winning patrol.

A new competition will be started immediately after New Year's, for which a shield is being donated by the members of the Troop committee.

Last week a competition was held to determine the "champion knot tier' 'of the troop. The first round determined the champion in each patrol, and in the final, the four Scouts tied their knots in the dark. Scout Robert Ross of the Hawks turned out to be the fastest and most accurate knot tier in the troop.

F. Taylor, Asst. Scoutmaster.

PAPERS WELCOME NEW LEGISLATION

Forbidding Publication of Divorce Evidence Makes Cleaner Press.

LONDON, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—Commenting on the bill given third reading in the House of Commons last night, forbidding newspapers to publish details of divorce cases, the majority of newspapers welcome the legislation as making for a cleaner press. The Daily Mail points out, however, that one of the results may be to make divorce commoner by reason of secrecy. The Westminster Gazette attacks the measure on the ground that it curtails the freedom of the press, and that the open trial system is one of the safeguards of justice.

The bill will not affect the importation of foreign papers carrying details of foreign divorces cases unless they are indecent.

Sugar Group Advances Reaching New High Level

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(Canadian Press.)— Heavy porfit-taking by the professional traders, following five consecutive days of advancing prices, impeded the resumption of the upward movement in to-day's brief session of the stock market. In the main, however, the seling was well absorbed A number of issues selling one to five points above Friday's final quotations.

South Porto Rican and Great Western led the advance in the Sugar group, each moving up over three points to new high levels for the year. Case Treshing Machine was bid up nearly five points on rumors that the stock would be placed on bond basis and then split up four for one. Texas and Pacific Land Trust jumped 60 points on few sales to 1300.

Mining Exchange Strong Many Stocks Advance

TORONTO, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—The tone of the market was stronger and trading heavier in volume during the week's closing session of the Standard Mining Exchage. Noranda reached a record high at 22.00, and at the close of 21.95 was 25 cents higher than yesterday. Kirkland Lake advanced a half at 75 and Keely at 156 was 5 cents higher. Nipissing firmed 5 at 685, and Duprat, which was active, 2 at 24 1-2. Tough Oakes was a soft spot losing 1 1-2 at 57. Teck Hughes eased 1 at 482.

Noranda Makes Record Atlantic Sugar a Leader

TORONTO, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—Atlantic Sugar issues were the centre of the moderate upward movement during this morning's active session of the Toronto Stock Exchange when quotations of varied extent were recorded throughout the list. Sugar Common climbed two points at 30 1-2 and the Preferred sold up to 93, closing at the top, a gain of 5 points. Noranda Mines, another active leader, reached a record high of 22,00 and closed at that mark, a 20 cent gain. British American Oil advanced 3-4 to 77 1-4 at the close, and Industrial Alcohol raillied 1 1-4 to 31 1-4. Brazilian, inclined to be easier, recovered to 104 at the close, unchanged. Seagrams, the unlisted leader, eased an eighth at 16 7-8. Dome Mines closed 60 cents higher at 12.05.

Wheat Prices Undergo General Downward Turn

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices here underwent a material fresh downturn today in the early dealings. Liverpool quotations lower than due counted as a hearish factor, and so likewise did excellent hafvest weather in Argentina. Starting unchanged to 7-8c off the Chicago wheat market soon showed a decided general setback. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, corn opening unchanged to 3-8c lower and subsequently receding a little all around.

MAKING CHECK OF CANADIANS

U. S. Government Asks Detailed Information on Workers Crossing Daily.

LABOR PROTEST.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 11. Canadian Press. — Canadians who commute to Detroit and who, labor leaders say, compete with American workmen, have come under the scrutiny of the Federal government.

The government wants to know about the 10,000 Windsor residents, who are said by the Detroit Federation of Labor to commute daily to Detroit where they earn wages which the Federation thinks should go to United States citizens.

A protest against the commuting condition was lodged b ythe Federation with Dr. P. L. Prentis, district Director of Immigration, and remedial action urged.

Dr. Prentis put the matter up to Washington and last night Harry Hull, Commissioner General of Immigration, ordered Dr. Prentis to obtain detailed information about each Canadian worker who passes through the immigration office here.

Dr. Prentis would not say that the Washington order was in response to the Labor Federation's protest. The check is desired, he said, for statistical purposes. Results of the check, whic his to be started Monday, are to go to Washington each month.

ORMISTON PLANS EXTRADITION FIGHT

Has Committed No Crime, He Says, and Won't Go To Los Angeles.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—Kenneth G. Ormiston, Los Angeles radio operator, is in Chicago, but whether he will be taken back to Los Angeles to answer charges of conspiracy to defeat justice remains a question for the future.

The Los Angeles authorities want back the long missing figure in the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnapping case, and are preparing extradition papers, but Ormiston said he would fight any attempt to get hm farther west than Chicago.

Ormiston arrived here last night from Harrisburg, Pa., accompanied by two detectives and a nespaper man, and immediately went into conference with his attorney, Edward H. S. Martin.

So far as Chicago police know, Ormiston is not under arrest, although one of his companions on the hegira to Chicago was Sergeant Harry Donnelly of Chief of Police Collins' personal staff.

The district attorney's office at Los Angeles, however, has moved to take Ormiston off the hands of what they termed 'private captors.'

Ormiston spent the night here at a south side hotel. "District Attorney Keyes won't get me back to California," he said in a copyrighted story in the Herald and Examiner. "I don't believe he wants me back there. Keyes and his associates can't prove a crime against me. I have done nothing wrong and have nothing to fear."

Mr. Kenner's Prize.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, thanking all who had assisted in any way in the programme, announced the winner of the special prize to the all-round boy of the school, in George Rishor. Mr. Kenner said he had been uncertain about the awarding of the prize this year, two boys, both of whose initials happened to be "G.R.," qualifying equally in the qualifications of scholarship, character and leadership. George Rishor, however, also qualified in games, which is another requisite, and so received the coveted honor.

Mr. Kenner referred to the records of other boys who had, in past years, won this award, in E. Legon, now in his final year at Queen's University, and qualifying for a Rhodes Scholarship; Herbert Bradburn, in his third year at Toronto University; Elwood McBrien, who was both deaf and dumb, but despite these handicaps, managed to go through Toronto University without a black mark on his record, and is now practising his profession in Sarnia; Harry Ebbs, who is studying medicine at Toronto 'Varsity, and "Bill" Yelland, one of the brightest students at the Boston Technical School.

The valedictory address, written by William Yelland, was read in his absence by Gordon Richardson, president of the P.C.I. Literary Society, and was a brief and humorous affair, filled with references to school life that appeared to tickle immensely the risibilities of the youthful members of the audience.

The musical programme which formed a pleasing portion of the afternoon's entertainment included a second chorus by the pupils, led by Mr. Browne, when they sang "A Song of Canada" and "Bye, Bye, Blackbird." Accompaniments for the choruses were played by Miss Nellie Boorman. There was also a violin solo by Stewart Widdess, who played the "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn," and, as an encore, Beethoven's "Minuet," with accompaniments by Miss Margaret Widdress, and a violin solo and encore, in "The Volga Boat Song" and variations of "The Last Rose of Summer," played by Arnold Spencer, with accompaniments by Miss Mildred Morphet. Miss Jean Padget sang "Hayfields and Butterflies" and "Where Bee Sucks," with accompaniments by Miss Gwen Donley.

In the presentation of athletic prizes to the girls, Miss Grace Comstock, captain of the softball team, and Miss Edith Killaly, star player on the basketball team, a'so received handsome pennants as prizes. The Graham Eastwood trophy in the boys' awards went to Murray Hartley for the 120-yard low hurdle.

Harry Westbrook, captain of the Rugby team, who spoke later of the credit due to Mr. Carl Browne, coach of the Rugby team, and to Dr. F. C. Neal, who assisted materially during the year in encouraging the boys in every way. Gifts from the boys were provided for both of these gentlemen.

At the conclusion of the program, afternoon tea was served in the library by the staff and the graduating class.

The presentation of the diplomas and prizes in the different departments was as follows:

WOMEN APPROACHING MIDDLE LIFE

WHAT MRS. GODIN SAYS ABOUT "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. O. GODIN.

Mrs. Godin's letter is of particular interest to women approaching middle-life. It reads:

"I am giving this testimonial hoping it will benefit every woman suffering as I did at the change of life. I was obliged to go to bed, had terrible dizziness and pain, and felt extremely weak. "Fruit-a-tives" were really a God-send to me. Now I am in perfect health. Every woman should follow my example. They would surely get the wonderful relief I did."—Mrs. Onesime Godin, Paquetville, N.B.

By toning up the stomach, kidneys and bowels, "Fruit-a-tives" is a great help to women at this trying stage of life. "Fruit-a-tives" is a sane medicine. It acts in a natural way because it is made of intensified fresh fruit juices combined with tonics. Let 'Fruit-a-tives" help you, too. Start today. 25c and 50c a box everywhere.

COUNCIL AGREES ON CONTROL PLAN

League Will Investigate German Armaments, Replacing Allies.

GENEVA, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press)—The council of the League of Nations, meeting in private today, reached an agreement on the terms of a plan for league investigation into German armaments.

League officials said that the investigation will be substituted for inter-allied control of Germany on Feb. 1, subject to the approval of the French cabinet. The question of German armament on which disagreement is considered probable, will be left for solution to the regular diplomatic channels and failing that to arbitration.

KEARNS FLAYS SOREHEADS FOR DECISION ROW

Walker's Manager Says That Mickey Won Squarely From Flowers.

LOST $10,000.

Walker Being Made Victim of Few Sorehead Writers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Indignantly ascribing criticism of the Walker-Flowers decision to "a few sore-headed writers", Jack Kearns, manager of the new middleweight champion, arrived in New York last night.

"The Chicago boxing commission can't change the decision," he said contemptuously. "Ring custom says the verdict of the referee shall be final. There can be no appeal.

"Walker is being made the victim of a few sore-headed writers who have no love for me. There was nothing phoney about the decision. Walker won the fight. It was close, but Mickey had the shade.

Fans Satisfied.

"Why, he had the fellow down in the first, out in the ninth and in a bad way in the tenth. He did all the effective punching.

"The fans were satisfied. Phil W. Collins, the American Legion man who refused to referee, said he would have given the same decision that Benny Yanger gave.

"It was doggone close, I'll admit, but the damaging work was done by Mickey.

"Stories that big money was wagered on the fight are hay wire. I don't think more than $5,000 changed hands all over the country. None of us connected with Walker bet a dime."

Kearns admitted he paid dearly for the championship. He and Walker lost more than $10,000 on the promotion, he said.

Guaranteed $65,000.

Under the terms of the match, Kearns said he guaranteed Flowers $65,000 for his end. The negro scrapper was to receive 40 per cent of the gross receipts, and Kearns agreed to make up the difference between his percentage and the guarantee.

The gate ran $85,000, Kearns said Flower's end ran around $40,000 and Walker's share amounted to $8,500. The victors were obliged to turn over their purse to the loser. Also, Kearns reluctantly admitted, he was forced to write a check for the balance.

Kearns said a return match is assured, but nothing definite has been determined on the location. He said it may be staged in Chicago next Summer. He will talk to both Tex Rickard and Humbert Fugazy this week, he said. He said he may not decide on pending offers until after the first of the year.

HOCKEY LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

J. H. Bell Again President of Campbelford Organization.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 11.—At a meeting held in the Public Library last night the following officers were elected for the Town Hockey League—President, J. H. Bell, re-elected; Vice-President, Rev. C. D. Daniel; Secretary-Treasurer, H. W. Atkinson; Executive Committee: the officers and the manager of each team.

The executive committee favored following the footsteps of the curlers, and foster hockey among the younger boys. They plan to get two teams of juveniles and name a manager and coach for each from among the older players, and give them half an hour's play before the big game each night of a scheduled game. Realizing that to-day's juveniles are the future stars of faster company, the committee hopes to give the youngsters every chance to bring out the best that is in them. All boys wishing to play juvenile are asked to hand their name to the secretary before Saturday, December 18. Another meeting will be held then in the Public Library at 6.30 to distribute the surplus players among the four teams, draw up the first part of the schedule and make any other necessary arrangements prior to the opening of the League the first part of January.

Below is a list of the proposed teams and their players as well as the surplus to be distributed. Others who wish to play hockey should get in touch with the secretary.

Hydro: Hilton Beatty, C. Johnston, C. Watt, Jack Cowell, Jack Nesbitt, P. Saunders.

Menie: Rev. C. D. Daniel, W. Hume, A. Lynn, J. Rannie, R. Haig, L. Shillinglaw, 'Ted' Owens.

Mill: T. Stewart, V. Cochrane, M. Reid, J. Wilks, S. Nicholson, R. Ayrhart.

Clerks: H. MacArthur, H. Wood, "Bun" Keir, E. Fox, E. Labrash, M. Cook, H. Atkinson.

Surplus: F. Ingram, E. Coulter, C. Smith, Jack Brown, G. Anderson, W. Owens.

Hiller Out of the Game With a Fractured Hand

KITCHENER, Dec. 11. — Geo. Hiller, the star right winger of the Kitchener senior O. H. A. team, is out of the S.P.A. series and possibly part of the regular O.H.A. campaign. George has his hand in a cast as a result of a fracture in the bone above the thumb and below the wrist of his right hand. Hiller got a bad slash in the Peterboro game on Tuesday night in Toronto, causing the fracture. He continued playing even scoring a goal afterwards, though he was in great pain. It is the hand that Hiller hurt late last season when a bone was splintered. Unfortunately it is Hiller's shooting hand that is affected.

RICKARD SOON TO PUT CORNER ON BERLENBACH

Promoter Ready To Close Contract For the Year 1927.

ALL ENGAGEMENTS.

Former Champion Also Willing To String Along With Rickard.

By JOSEPH GORDON

"Heavyweight Preferred" continues to dominate the New York Stock Market, and the threatening corner in the commodity promises to become a near reality. It was learned yesterday that Tex Rickard, Forty-ninth street's biggest operator, is about to close with Paul Berlenbach, the traveler, for all his engagements from the time he is released from his contract with Humbert J. Fugazy until November 1, 1927.

Which makes it almost unanimous. Rickard has Sharkey tied up for his next four bouts. He has Maloney, the other Boston heavyweight, signed up. Jack Dempsey has expressed on various occasions that he was willing to string along with Rickard. Harry Persson, the "Serious Swede" and Paolino, the bashful Basque, are both under contract with Rickard. And now Paul Berlenbach. The corner on 'logical contenders' and "formidable challengers" seems to be just about complete.

Rickard admitted yesterday that Jack Sharkey's next bout will be in the Garden on the evening of February 7. After a severe grilling, which lasted some two or three—perhaps four — minutes, Rickard broke down and confessed that Sharkey's opponent will be the winner, if any, of the impending bout between Harry Persson and Jimmy Maloney

The question of the validity of a contract with Berlenbach may prove to be very complicated, indeed, Berlenbach just now is under contract with Fugazy to meet one Tommy Loughran. The bout was to have been staged long, long ago. The contract is still in Fugazy's possession. And Fugazy, so far, has no indoor arena in which to stage it. The matter will be taken up by the Boxing Commission in the near future.

With Bud Gorman signed by Humbert J. Fugazy to meet Jack Delaney in the main bout of the New York American Christmas Fund show, the success of the event is practically assured. The show will be held in the Fourth Regiment Armory, Jersey City, on the evening of December 20.

Gorman, one of the best heavyweights in the Middle West, has already gone into training. For the next ten days he will train at Stillman's Gymnasium. The man who won from Jimmy Maloney, Franz Diener, Jack Sharke and Harry Persson, will make the attempt of his life to score a victory over the light heavyweight champion.

A hurry call was sent out for sparring partners for the big lad yesterday and in a few days he will have enough of them to keep battering away to his heart's content.

Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, bantamweight champion, will appear in the semi-final bout of the show against any opponent that Promoter Fugazy may name.

Bill Taylor, regarded by the National Boxing Federation as the bantamweight champion of the world, will meet Tony Canzoneri in the main bout of the bantamweight show in the Garden next week it was announced yesterday. Canzoneri recently defeated Andre Routis in a whirlwind bout. The winner of this event, it is promised, will get a chance at the winner of the Rosenberg-Graham bout and the bantamweight championship.

JOHNNY HINES IN STEPPING ALONG

With a Famous "Beauty Chorus" Right Out of Broadway

THEATRE AT THE REGENT

KEEP 'EM LAUGHING IS JOHNNY'S ADVICE TO THEATRE OWNERS.

"Make 'em laugh," says Johnny Hines, First National's comedy star, whose latest picture, "Stepping Along," comes to the Regent Theatre next week, starting Monday.

"The screen is literally flooded with productions having as their basis only marital and domestic troubles," added the comedian.

"Give the public the serious side of life, show them their foibles, but mix it up with the proper amount of comic relief and sprinkle it with hilarious situations.

"There you have the recipe for an enjoyable evening without any stupid problems to worry over.

"Life is too serious a proposition to spend much time watching the troubles of others. We want to forget the things that are worrying us.

"We want to laugh.

"And because motion picture comedies are in a measure able to meet that desire, hordes of people the world over gladly flock to see the good comedies of the screen that promise an hour of merriment and usually give it."

AT THE GRAND.

THE HOUSE OF USSHER

An unusual and keenly interesting—if not a pretty and convincing—story and a capital performance by a clever and well balanced cast made 'The House of Ussher" at the Grand last evening a very entertaining offering witnessed unfortunately by a small crowd. There were no big dramatic moments in "The House of Ussher" which inclined toward that type of stage attraction sometimes described as "talky" but there were a number of remarkable characters that made the play memorable and the talk was sparkingly epigrammatic and flashingly clever.

These samples will illustrate:

"Much of the trouble in this world has been caused by women who thought they had a duty to perform."

"Are there any good people?"

"Yes, among the men the unintelligent; among the women the unattractive."

This was no play to point a good moral: if it taught anything it taught the dangerous theory that a girl could flout the seventh commandment, commit forgery and still "live happily ever after." Yet it was clever and forcible and in its unusual characters and through the masterly manner in which it was acted will take its place among the distinctly worthwhile attractions the Grand has offered us in recent years.

Clarence Derwent the featured member of the cast and Esther Mitchell who had the leading feminine role divided the acting honors. Mr. Derwent, well known overseas as a character actor of parts, and with his reputation enhanced by an eight months run in New York had in the part of Jacob Ussher, the unscrupulous, hard-boiled head of the house of that name a character study that gave him full opportunity to demonstrate his artistry and he responded with a characterization that was as much a masterpiece in its way as Cyril Maude's never-to-be-forgotten picture of "Grumpy."

Miss Mitchell's portrayal of "Constance Ussher was equally successful. The part called for versality and ability and this clever artist met every test triumphantly. The supporting company measured up to the stellar standard of the two principals. Elfrida Cornell won an individual triumph through the effectiveness of her sketch of the old "Aunt Grace." Lewis McMichall contributed a life-like and likeable presentation of the role of the "Rev. Hugh Gorwin," and the other members of the cast gave polished performances in their respective parts.

As a demonstration of the actor's technique at its finest, as a revelation of how speeches should be enunciated rather than mumbled or screamed, "The House of Ussher" will be recalled when other much more pretentious offerings have slipped out of memory.

CATHOLICS WIN MEXICAN FIGHT

One of Leaders Says Calles Must Soon Repeal Laws or Resign.

THREATENS REVOLT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (United Press). — Mexican Catholics are slowly winning their fight against President Calles' anti-religious regime in Mexico, according to Rene C. Garca, vice-president of the National League for Religious Liberty. Garca, who is regarded as the leader of Catholic youth in Mexico, was imprisoned, following the promulgation of the religious laws, finally escaping to the United States in disguise.

The economic boycott which Mexican Catholics are enforcing against the Government will eventually cause Calles either to repeal the religious laws or retire from office, Senor Garca declared. If Catholics do not regain their privileges through this or other peaceable means, Senor Garca added, an open revolution against the present Mexican Government might be the final result of the conflict.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE XLVIII—How Slavery Began. by MAX HAHN

SLAVERY IS NOT NEW. THERE WERE SLAVES THOUSANDS OF YEARS BEFORE THE CHRISTIAN ERA. THEY WERE THE CAPTIVES OF WAR.

THEIR CONQUERORS TREATED THEM LITTLE BETTER THAN CATTLE. BUT SLAVERY WAS A BETTER FATE FOR CAPTIVES THAN DEATH, WHICH PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN THE LOT OF THE LOSER IN WAR.

WHEN BIG STONES HAD TO BE MOVED THE SLAVES WERE ORDERED TO GET BUSY. IT IS POSSIBLE THAT THE WHEEL IS THE INVENTION OF SOME SLAVE WHO GOT HIS IDEA FROM LOGS USED AS ROLLERS.

THE OX-CART WAS PROBABLY THE FIRST VEHICLE. IT WAS FOLLOWED BY THE CHARIOT, THE ORIGINAL JOY-RIDING DEVICE.

KEARNS FLAYS SOREHEADS FOR DECISION ROW

Walker's Manager Says That Mickey Won Squarely From Flowers.

LOST $10,000.

Walker Being Made Victim of Few Sorehead Writers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Indignantly ascribing criticism of the Walker-Flowers decision to "a few sore-headed writers", Jack Kearns, manager of the new middleweight champion, arrived in New York last night.

"The Chicago boxing commission can't change the decision," he said contemptuously. "Ring custom says the verdict of the referee shall be final. There can be no appeal.

"Walker is being made the victim of a few sore-headed writers who have no love for me. There was nothing phoney about the decision. Walker won the fight. It was close, but Mickey had the shade.

Fans Satisfied.

"Why, he had the fellow down in the first, out in the ninth and in a bad way in the tenth. He did all the effective punching.

"The fans were satisfied. Phil W. Collins, the American Legion man who refused to referee, said he would have given the same decision that Benny Yanger gave.

"It was doggone close, I'll admit, but the damaging work was done by Mickey.

"Stories that big money was wagered on the fight are hay wire. I don't think more than $5,000 changed hands all over the country. None of us connected with Walker bet a dime."

Kearns admitted he paid dearly for the championship. He and Walker lost more than $10,000 on the promotion, he said.

Guaranteed $65,000.

Under the terms of the match, Kearns said he guaranteed Flowers $65,000 for his end. The negro scrapper was to receive 40 per cent of the gross receipts, and Kearns agreed to make up the difference between his percentage and the guarantee.

The gate ran $85,000, Kearns said Flower's end ran around $40,000 and Walker's share amounted to $8,500. The victors were obliged to turn over their purse to the loser. Also, Kearns reluctantly admitted, he was forced to write a check for the balance.

Kearns said a return match is assured, but nothing definite has been determined on the location. He said it may be staged in Chicago next Summer. He will talk to both Tex Rickard and Humbert Fugazy this week, he said. He said he may not decide on pending offers until after the first of the year.

HOCKEY LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

J. H. Bell Again President of Campbelford Organization.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 11.—At a meeting held in the Public Library last night the following officers were elected for the Town Hockey League—President, J. H. Bell, re-elected; Vice-President, Rev. C. D. Daniel; Secretary-Treasurer, H. W. Atkinson; Executive Committee: the officers and the manager of each team.

The executive committee favored following the footsteps of the curlers, and foster hockey among the younger boys. They plan to get two teams of juveniles and name a manager and coach for each from among the older players, and give them half an hour's play before the big game each night of a scheduled game. Realizing that to-day's juveniles are the future stars of faster company, the committee hopes to give the youngsters every chance to bring out the best that is in them. All boys wishing to play juvenile are asked to hand their name to the secretary before Saturday, December 18. Another meeting will be held then in the Public Library at 6.30 to distribute the surplus players among the four teams, draw up the first part of the schedule and make any other necessary arrangements prior to the opening of the League the first part of January.

Below is a list of the proposed teams and their players as well as the surplus to be distributed. Others who wish to play hockey should get in touch with the secretary.

Hydro: Hilton Beatty, C. Johnston, C. Watt, Jack Cowell, Jack Nesbitt, P. Saunders.

Menie: Rev. C. D. Daniel, W. Hume, A. Lynn, J. Rannie, R. Haig, L. Shillinglaw, 'Ted' Owens.

Mill: T. Stewart, V. Cochrane, M. Reid, J. Wilks, S. Nicholson, R. Ayrhart.

Clerks: H. MacArthur, H. Wood, "Bun" Keir, E. Fox, E. Labrash, M. Cook, H. Atkinson.

Surplus: F. Ingram, E. Coulter, C. Smith, Jack Brown, G. Anderson, W. Owens.

Hiller Out of the Game With a Fractured Hand

KITCHENER, Dec. 11. — Geo. Hiller, the star right winger of the Kitchener senior O. H. A. team, is out of the S.P.A. series and possibly part of the regular O.H.A. campaign. George has his hand in a cast as a result of a fracture in the bone above the thumb and below the wrist of his right hand. Hiller got a bad slash in the Peterboro game on Tuesday night in Toronto, causing the fracture. He continued playing even scoring a goal afterwards, though he was in great pain. It is the hand that Hiller hurt late last season when a bone was splintered. Unfortunately it is Hiller's shooting hand that is affected.

RICKARD SOON TO PUT CORNER ON BERLENBACH

Promoter Ready To Close Contract For the Year 1927.

ALL ENGAGEMENTS.

Former Champion Also Willing To String Along With Rickard.

By JOSEPH GORDON

"Heavyweight Preferred" continues to dominate the New York Stock Market, and the threatening corner in the commodity promises to become a near reality. It was learned yesterday that Tex Rickard, Forty-ninth street's biggest operator, is about to close with Paul Berlenbach, the traveler, for all his engagements from the time he is released from his contract with Humbert J. Fugazy until November 1, 1927.

Which makes it almost unanimous. Rickard has Sharkey tied up for his next four bouts. He has Maloney, the other Boston heavyweight, signed up. Jack Dempsey has expressed on various occasions that he was willing to string along with Rickard. Harry Persson, the "Serious Swede" and Paolino, the bashful Basque, are both under contract with Rickard. And now Paul Berlenbach. The corner on 'logical contenders' and "formidable challengers" seems to be just about complete.

Rickard admitted yesterday that Jack Sharkey's next bout will be in the Garden on the evening of February 7. After a severe grilling, which lasted some two or three—perhaps four — minutes, Rickard broke down and confessed that Sharkey's opponent will be the winner, if any, of the impending bout between Harry Persson and Jimmy Maloney

The question of the validity of a contract with Berlenbach may prove to be very complicated, indeed, Berlenbach just now is under contract with Fugazy to meet one Tommy Loughran. The bout was to have been staged long, long ago. The contract is still in Fugazy's possession. And Fugazy, so far, has no indoor arena in which to stage it. The matter will be taken up by the Boxing Commission in the near future.

With Bud Gorman signed by Humbert J. Fugazy to meet Jack Delaney in the main bout of the New York American Christmas Fund show, the success of the event is practically assured. The show will be held in the Fourth Regiment Armory, Jersey City, on the evening of December 20.

Gorman, one of the best heavyweights in the Middle West, has already gone into training. For the next ten days he will train at Stillman's Gymnasium. The man who won from Jimmy Maloney, Franz Diener, Jack Sharke and Harry Persson, will make the attempt of his life to score a victory over the light heavyweight champion.

A hurry call was sent out for sparring partners for the big lad yesterday and in a few days he will have enough of them to keep battering away to his heart's content.

Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, bantamweight champion, will appear in the semi-final bout of the show against any opponent that Promoter Fugazy may name.

Bill Taylor, regarded by the National Boxing Federation as the bantamweight champion of the world, will meet Tony Canzoneri in the main bout of the bantamweight show in the Garden next week it was announced yesterday. Canzoneri recently defeated Andre Routis in a whirlwind bout. The winner of this event, it is promised, will get a chance at the winner of the Rosenberg-Graham bout and the bantamweight championship.

THEATRE AT THE REGENT

KEEP 'EM LAUGHING IS JOHNNY'S ADVICE TO THEATRE OWNERS.

"Make 'em laugh," says Johnny Hines, First National's comedy star, whose latest picture, "Stepping Along," comes to the Regent Theatre next week, starting Monday.

"The screen is literally flooded with productions having as their basis only marital and domestic troubles," added the comedian.

"Give the public the serious side of life, show them their foibles, but mix it up with the proper amount of comic relief and sprinkle it with hilarious situations.

"There you have the recipe for an enjoyable evening without any stupid problems to worry over.

"Life is too serious a proposition to spend much time watching the troubles of others. We want to forget the things that are worrying us.

"We want to laugh.

"And because motion picture comedies are in a measure able to meet that desire, hordes of people the world over gladly flock to see the good comedies of the screen that promise an hour of merriment and usually give it."

AT THE GRAND.

THE HOUSE OF USSHER

An unusual and keenly interesting—if not a pretty and convincing—story and a capital performance by a clever and well balanced cast made 'The House of Ussher" at the Grand last evening a very entertaining offering witnessed unfortunately by a small crowd. There were no big dramatic moments in "The House of Ussher" which inclined toward that type of stage attraction sometimes described as "talky" but there were a number of remarkable characters that made the play memorable and the talk was sparkingly epigrammatic and flashingly clever.

These samples will illustrate:

"Much of the trouble in this world has been caused by women who thought they had a duty to perform.'"

"Are there any good people?"

"Yes, among the men the unintelligent; among the women the unattractive."

This was no play to point a good moral: if it taught anything it taught the dangerous theory that a girl could flout the seventh commandment, commit forgery and still "live happily ever after." Yet it was clever and forcible and in its unusual characters and through the masterly manner in which it was acted will take its place among the distinctly worthwhile attractions the Grand has offered us in recent years.

Clarence Derwent the featured member of the cast and Esther Mitchell who had the leading feminine role divided the acting honors. Mr. Derwent, well known overseas as a character actor of parts, and with his reputation enhanced by an eight months run in New York had in the part of Jacob Ussher, the unscrupulous, hard-boiled head of the house of that name a character study that gave him full opportunity to demonstrate his artistry and he responded with a characterization that was as much a masterpiece in its way as Cyril Maude's never-to-be-forgotten picture of "Grumpy."

Miss Mitchell's portrayal of "Constance Ussher was equally successful. The part called for versality and ability and this clever artist met every test triumphantly. The supporting company measured up to the stellar standard of the two principals. Elfrida Cornell won an individual triumph through the effectiveness of her sketch of the old "Aunt Grace." Lewis McMichall contributed a life-like and likeable presentation of the role of the "Rev. Hugh Gorwin," and the other members of the cast gave polished performances in their respective parts.

As a demonstration of the actor's technique at its finest, as a revelation of how speeches should be enunciated rather than mumbled or screamed, "The House of Ussher" will be recalled when other much more pretentious offerings have slipped out of memory.

CATHOLICS WIN MEXICAN FIGHT

One of Leaders Says Calles Must Soon Repeal Laws or Resign.

THREATENS REVOLT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (United Press). — Mexican Catholics are slowly winning their fight against President Calles' anti-religious regime in Mexico, according to Rene C. Garca, vice-president of the National League for Religious Liberty. Garca, who is regarded as the leader of Catholic youth in Mexico, was imprisoned, following the promulgation of the religious laws, finally escaping to the United States in disguise.

The economic boycott which Mexican Catholics are enforcing against the Government will eventually cause Calles either to repeal the religious laws or retire from office, Senor Garca declared. If Catholics do not regain their privileges through this or other peaceable means, Senor Garca added, an open revolution against the present Mexican Government might be the final result of the conflict.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE XLVIII—How Slavery Began. by MAX HAHN

SLAVERY IS NOT NEW. THERE WERE SLAVES THOUSANDS OF YEARS BEFORE THE CHRISTIAN ERA. THEY WERE THE CAPTIVES OF WAR.

THEIR CONQUERORS TREATED THEM LITTLE BETTER THAN CATTLE. BUT SLAVERY WAS A BETTER FATE FOR CAPTIVES THAN DEATH, WHICH PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN THE LOT OF THE LOSER IN WAR.

WHEN BIG STONES HAD TO BE MOVED THE SLAVES WERE ORDERED TO GET BUSY. IT IS POSSIBLE THAT THE WHEEL IS THE INVENTION OF SOME SLAVE WHO GOT HIS IDEA FROM LOGS USED AS ROLLERS.

THE OX-CART WAS PROBABLY THE FIRST VEHICLE. IT WAS FOLLOWED BY THE CHARIOT, THE ORIGINAL JOY-RIDING DEVICE.

The papering of the living room and dining romo was finished just before twelve that night. Mr. Lane and Bob had teamed together in the living room, and George Pruitt and "Long" Lane had manipulated the long, paste-daubed sheets of green and silver in the dining room. Cherry and Faith had cut cheesecloth and tacked it upon the walls of both rooms, while the men measured and cut the thick, expensive strips of paper. Their part of the work done, Faith had played the piano, and Cherry had sat cross-legged upon the davenport, twanging at her ukulele and singing the latest song hits in her high, childish, sweet voice.

"Looks sorta spotty," said Cherry, "but it'll be dried out by tomorrow night. But doesn't this ratty old furniture look like the dickens against this ritzy paper? Dad, can't we buy some new stuff—dollar down and a dollar forever? We should worry. We won't live forever, and our grandchildren can finish paying for it."

"Not a stick o' new stuff," Mr. Lane said firmly, but wearily. "Well, I guess I'll turn in. Got to get on Hathaway's job bright and early tomorrow. How d'you think the work's coming, Hathaway?"

"Splendid, sir," Bob answered with enthusiasm. "Believe you'll finish before the contract date. Good, solid work, too—no shoddy and no skimping."

"Well, good night, folks." Mr. Lane peered about the group of joyous, unfatigued young people. "Don't keep the girls up late. This is a workin' family, you know."

When he had pottered out of the room and off to bed, Cherry closed the door carefully, then faced the men with sparkling eyes. "Let's celebrate! Let's have the first annual ball of the Myrtle street chapter of the paperhangers' union!"

"Mother needs quiet," Faith demurred.

"Silly! I don't mean here! We can change our clothes in five minutes and go to Sam Lee's chop suey joint for a midnight supper and dancing. He keeps open till two. Three-piece orchestra. Not bad a-tall! Ain't life wonderful?" She whirled around rapidly on the toes of her little low-heeled patent leather slippers and, apparently by accident, hurled her light body into George Pruitt's arms.

"Swell idea!" George Pruitt, with his arms still around her, began to fox trot.

"All right," Faith cried blithely. "But we won't have to dress up, will we?"

"Any old thing," Cherry cried blithely. "But keep the soft pedal on, Honey. If Dad gets wise he'll throw a monkey wrench into the party."

Faith took Cherry at her word, and reappeared almost immediately in her white flannel coatsuit, and Cherry's white felt hat, but Cherry, when she joined her fellow-conspirators in the living room, wore an evening dress of black chiffon, sparkling with rhinestones.

Faith stared, then flushed darkly with anger and humiliation. "I thought you said 'any old thing,' Cherry! Where did you get that dress?"

"Secret!" Cherry sang out gaily, pirouetting before the dazzled men, so that the fire of the rhinestones played like lightning over her tiny body. "Oh, I won't tease, Faith darling! It isn't mine, really—yet. I took it out on approval—the Vanity Shop. I can have a grand time in it tonight, return it tomorrow, and no harm done!"

"That's dishonorable, Cherry." Faith caught the arm of the whirling girl and spoke in a low voice, for Cherry's ears only.

"Don't be a sap," Cherry whispered fiercely. "Mr. Cluny has opened a charge account at three stores for me to shop for my trousseau. He knows we're poverty poor."

"I—I don't think I'll go." Faith dropped her hand from her sister's arm and faced the embarrassed men with upflung head and brown eyes bright with tears.

Bob crossed the room to her in a swift stride. "Please come, Faith. I've never danced with you. Besides —" his voice was barely a whisper— "give Cherry her chance. If you're right about George—".

"I'll go," Faith smiled through her tears. "Ready, everybody? Where'll we go? Bob's roadster won't hold us all."

"You with me and Cherry with George," Bob decided quickly.

"I've got a sedan with me," George interrupted. We'll all go in that."

Faith wondered what motive was behind his rather truculent insistence. Was he afraid to be alone with Cherry, or was he afraid to have her—Faith—alone with Bob? Was he really interested in Cherry at last, or was he, as Bob had insisted, simply making a grandstand play to arouse Faith's jealousy?

After the short drive, during which Cherry and George had made the night hilarious with their very creditable singing of "Always" and "Remember" and "The Prisoner's Song," the sedan parked before what Cherry had loosely and incorrectly called a "joint." Lights blazed, Chinese lanterns swung tipsily from the upstairs windows, and dragons writhed along the staircase of Sam Lee's "Oriental Palace."

As soon as the men had checked their hats and coats, Cherry held up her bare white arms invitingly to George. "Come on, George, let's not miss a second of this! Isn't it funny how they've jazzed 'The Prisoner's Song'? 'Oh, if I had wings like an angel—'" she sang happily, as they glided to the edge of the crowded dancing floor.

"We'll order for the bunch and then dance," Bob told Faith, after he had selected a table by a window. "Two chicken chop sueys with mushrooms, two chow mein, one egg foo yong, Oolong tea," he told the hovering Oriental. "Want to try it, dear?"

It was the second time that night he had called her "dear." Her eyes were brilliant, her lips trembling with a tender smile, as she lifted her arms to him on the edge of the dance floor.

"Don't look right now, but there's Chris Wiley over there by the orchestra. He's with some little cheap thing that evidently believes it when he tells her she's a 'red hot mama'." Hathaway spoke in a low voice as he guided Faith expertly away from the orchestra.

CHAMBERLAIN GIVEN NOBEL PRIZE SHARE

Divides 1925 Award With Dawes — 1926 Given Briand and Stresemann.

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The Nobel Peace Prize for 1925 has been awarded to Sir Austen Chamberlain, and to Charles G. Dawes, Vice President of the United States.

This announcement was made today at a meeting of the Nobel Institute.

It was also announced that the 1926 Peace Prize had been awarded to Aristide Briand and to Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German's Foreign Minister.

King Haakon, Crown Prince Olaf, representatives of the Storthing, the Government, and the Diplomatic Corps and other prominent persons were present.

Dr. Fritjof Nansen, in a speech, recalled the feeling of helplessness of Europe during the post war days. He said the first light shed on the darkness was by the adoption of the Dawes plan, which permitted Germany to rehabilitate her finances and commence payment of reparations.

The United States, he said, stretched a helping hand when the darkness was thickest. The people of that country recognized their duty to assist Europe in her reconstruction.

It was an important condition, Dr. Nansen added, to the police of peace which led to the Locarno conference, the outcome of which was the Rhine pact and four arbitration treaties.

CLERGY ARGUE AFTER LECTURE

Atlanta Pastor Questions Dr. Straton About Evolution Address.

ANGRY DEBATE.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—An address on "Man or Monkey, Which?" delivered by John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of New York City, was brought to a tumultuous close last night when Dr. Wilber Spoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Congregational Church of Atlanta, sought to question the speaker on the accuracy of his interpretation of evolution.

After a few heated questions and answers had been exchanged, Dr. Straton shouted: "I know what I am. You don't know what you are. And I know too, that any man who believes in evolution won't be saved. I know I will go to heaven."

"I doubt it," flung back Dr. Dodge, his face red with anger as he was shouted down by the audience.

of Campbellford went out and repaired it. Sunday passed without any action towards reparation, and on Monday evening, half an hour before the time they had arranged for transportation, Provincial Constable Fewtrell arrived. Haig acknowledged the shopbreaking and the others were equally prompt in their admission when questioned.

Fred King of Rawdon township, testified that "Haig had asked me to drive him down to Menie, as he wanted to make a settlement."

Haig and Crossen said that no plan of entering the store had been suggested during the motor trip.

Character Evidence.

James Allen of Campbellford, John Haig, Reeve Grills of Seymour, F. M. Rutherford of Bonarlaw, and George Brady of Hoard's, all testified to the good reputation of the three young men and also of their parents. It transpired that Clarke Haig is a nephew of Alex. Milne, and that on a previous occasion he had some trouble with his uncle.

Mr. McColl in his plea to Judge Huycke for suspension of sentence pointed out that the robbery had not been planned and was accountable only from the oblique effects of too much alcohol.

"But the alcohol did not go to them. They went to it," Judge Huycke remarked.

Mr. McColl replied with a reference to modern youth, and said spirited young men in the country had not the advantages and facilities for recreation that were available to youth in the cities. He stressed the evidence as to the good reputations of the young men up to Sept. 9, and requested His Honor to consider the families of the prisoners. Crossen, especially, had a young wife of 22 years whose father was not expected to live many days.

Judge's Censure.

Judge Huycke said in part: "The case of you three young men, as I have heard it to-day, has caused me a great deal of anxiety. Neither the Crown Attorney or I wish to appear hard or vindictive. Your counsel has persistently and ably argued that you should be allowed to go on suspended sentence. Sometimes I have thought that on first offences it is best to give a suspended sentence, but the difficulty weighs on my mind that the statute permits that only in crimes of a trivial nature, and I can't bring to my intelligence that the crime you are guilty of is a trivial one. You broke open the cash till, which, however, was empty. You took goods away and did not return them; and you made no serious effort to do so. Mr. McColl says you intended to and that I should consider that you were nine miles away. But you waited five days, and you could very easily have walked the nine miles. I can't see for the life of me how you can ask me to hold that this is a case of a trivial nature. You were off on a drunk and you did a thing which I hope you would not do if sober, for which the maximum punishment is fourteen years.

Not a Trivial Affair.

"I can't see my way clear to find this a trivial affair. I have great sympathy for you. You have respectable relatives who look with sorrow and anguish at you to-day, but I want you to remember that it is your fault, not mine. You should have thought of that before. I won't prefer to let you go on suspended sentence, but the community must be protected. You should be penalized for your own sakes so that you will realize that life is not merely a hurdy gurdy. The property and rights of others must be respected."

"Crossen was the oldest and should have known better. Haig had been brought up by a well-to-do bachelor uncle," said Judge Huycke. "You did not make good use of the chance you had. You are a bright, good looking boy. My heart's nearly broken thinking of what you chaps have brought upon yourselves in this business. You are getting off lightly and I can only hope and pray that you will make up in the future for the mistake you made last September."

The three prisoners will be taken to the reformatory at Whitby or Guelph. It is possible they may remain in the Cobourg jail. Good conduct will likely cancel the fifteen months indeterminate part of the penalty.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WATCH PRESENTED TO WARDEN BY UNITED COUNTIES COUNCIL

Remembrance of Appreciation of His Term in High Office.

SUITABLY INSCRIBED.

Warden McCubbin Has Been Reeve of Percy For Five Years.

(Special to The Examiner.)

COBOURG, Dec. 11.—A handsome gold watch with chain and locket was presented to Warden McCubbin, Thursday afternoon, by the members of the council of the counties of Northumberland and Durham as a remembrance of his term in the wardenship and as a token of the esteem of his colleagues and of their appreciation of his kindly, efficient administration.

The presentation was made by Reeve Holdaway of Port Hope, who congratulated Warden McCubbin upon the success of his regime in the exacting position, whose fine traditions had been established by the long line of gentlemen who had graced the chair, and, in turn, had been honored by its occupancy since 1842. The wardenship of John McCubbin had been marked by his personality and his administrative ability, Mr. Holdaway said. He had always shown consideration and forbearance to the members and had been a peacemaker.

"We regret deeply that we are to lose him, if indeed we do lose him, but he knows that he takes with him the warmest friendship of those with whom he has been associated in this council. And when you look at this watch, Mr. Warden, we hope that it will always bring back to you memories of the old days we have spent together in the counties' council."

Warden McCubbin thanked the councillors for their fine gift and said that his long sojourn in the council had been a great pleasure to him.

"You have all been very attentive to the work of the various committees, and every chairman had given his best efforts to the county's welfare. So, there was but little left for the warden."

He said it was a great satisfaction to know that the House of Refuge was in capable and sympathetic hands, and that its management had received the brain of the Grand Jury. He did not think that the superintendent and matron could be improved. The management of the jail was likewise deserving of every confidence and compliment.

"I am glad to be able to say that our clerk, Colonel MacNachtan, has recovered from the illness he had last summer. I wish to thank him here for the kindness and courtesy he has always shown and for the assistance he gave me in performing my duties. I have done my best to fulfill the requirements of the position. I don't expect to be back with you. I have served many years, and there are young men coming up that would probably be better than I have been. I thank you, every one, and wish you all a merry Christmas and a happy New Year."

Warden McCubbin has been five years in the county council as reeve of Percy. He entered the municipal field in 1915 and was never deputy. In 1922, he was defeated for reeve in a three-cornered contest, but was pressed into service again by the ratepayers in 1924, and was re-elected in the last two years. Prior to that period, he was reeve in 1920 and 1921, and, in retiring with the highest honors the counties' council could bestow upon him, he leaves behind an enviable record, a real contribution to the progress of the counties, and beyond that he bears with him the respect and goodwill and good wishes of all his associates.

Heart Palpitation Dizzy, Sinking Spells

Mrs. M. A. Gagnon, Donatville, Alta., writes:—"Some time ago I was very nervous, could not sleep at night, often had dizzy, sinking spells and palpitation of the heart, and was so run down I could not do my housework, but just leave everything and sit down.

I spent a lot of money using medicine from the doctor, but it did not do me any good.

At last a friend told me to use and after using a couple of boxes I was not the same woman. I began to feel so much better, and after a few more boxes I was in perfect health. I always recommend them to all those I know who are suffering from heart trouble."

1,000 SEARCHERS PATROL DOWNS

Seeking Missing Novelist Near Home—Police Hold Out No Hope.

DOG FINDS NO CLUE.

LONDON, Dec. 10—Police decided last night to disband the civilian army searching on Surrey Downs for Agatha Christie, American mystery story writer and wife of a British army officer, who disappeared a week ago. Yesterday a thousand men women and boys, spaced less than thirty feet apart, patrolled the desolate, beautiful country in which her motor car was abandoned. They were aided by airplanes flying low. A caterpillar tractor covered swampy ground. Some searchers were mounted, with hounds before them.

Police will continue the search, although they believe there is little chance of finding Mrs. Christie alive. Despite reports that she has been seen in London, Deputy Chief Constable Kenward of Surrey is confident her body will be found on the Downs. Scotland Yard has been unable to substantiate any clues. Her pet dog was taken to the Downs but failed to pick up a scent.

The mystery is the most talked of thing in England. Public interest is comparable only to that in the fate of Floyd Collins in his Kentucky Cave.

Friends recall that Mrs. Christie had been depressed during recent months and said: 'This house with its dreary loneliness will be the death of me if I don't get away." But nothing definite has been learned to motivate her disappearance.

In Porto Rico it is the custom to give tips to servants on Christmas day, but the general exchange of presents is reserved for "Three Kings' Day" (January 6) the day that the three wise men brought their gifts to the infant Jesus.

COUNTIES HOME REPORT IS GIVEN

Each Inmate Costs Seventy-five Cents a Day To Maintain.

SCHOOL REPORT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

COBOURG, Dec. 11.—The maintenance of each inmate of the counties' House of Refuge has cost 75 1-10 cents a day, according to the facts and calculation of the board of management as set out in their report to the council of Northumberland and Durham which was read Thursday afternoon by the chairman, Deputy-reeve R. Peake of Seymour township. The average cost, exclusive of interest on investment, was 65.3 cents a day during the last year. A summary of the report follows:

We also wish to express our appreciation of the superintendent and Mrs. McMillan as regards the sanitary condition of the house and the kindness with which the inmates are treated.

Signed: R. Peake, chairman; Stuart Fallis, John McCubbin, warden.

School Committee.

Deputy-reeve Nelson, of Percy township, read the school committee's report for the chairman, Dr. Hess, who went to Toronto early in the afternoon. It recommended payment of the following amounts to continuation schools for the current year, being the equivalent of the legislative grants:

No. 12, Clarke	$905.20
Blackstock	839.75
No. 7, Manvers	428.50

Mr. Nelson said that Millbrook and Warkworth schools were ineligible because their cost of maintenance exceeded the legislative grants. "And I certainly would like to have Warkworth get it," said Mr. Nelson.

Among the grants for equipment and accommodation were: Alnwick, $32.32; Percy, $133.30; Seymour, $122.82; Hastings, 10.35; Millbrook, 19.54; Cavan, 146.50; South Monaghan, 48.83; Manvers, 143.80.

For maintenance of county pupils at high schools: Colborne, $6,172.99; Port Hope, 6,402.09; Cobourg, 9,906.06.

At continuation schools: Havelock, $134.40; Orono, 3,354.56.

In the grants of 50 each for cadet corps were: Millbrook Continuation School, Campbellford High and Campbellford Public School.

Deputy-reeve Palliser noticed that requisitions had not come from Campbellford. He telephoned the school authorities and application was made by telegraph.

Property Committee.

Reeve M. J. Elliott submitted the report of the special county property committee, which was also signed by W. H. Nelson and H. Maguire: "We went all through the gaol and found everything in first-class condition, and we consider that the counties are very fortunate in having such efficient officers in charge of all our county buildings. The jail officials have asked for new suits and we have sent away for prices. We had laundry tubs installed in the turnkey's apartments."

SET SNAKES TO KILL RATS

If you are troubled by rats, gophers or other harmful rodents, why not try keeping a pet snake or two about?

In experiments in the zoological laboratory of the Kansas State Agricultural College, Prof. Frederick L. Hisaw and Howard K. Glyd have determined that the bull snake is death on rodents, and as such is a real benefactor to the farmer.

"A bull snake weighting about three pounds eats more than three times its own weight in rodents in the course of six months," reports Professor Hisaw in Popular Science Monthly. "This is equivalent to twelve gophers a year. One three-pound snake should be able to clear an acre and a half of alfalfa land of rodents." One five-foot bull snake might save a farmer $3.75 a year, he estimated.

COUNTIES PAY LIGHTING BILL

Agree To Foot Two-Thirds of Cost of Illuminating Bridge.

SOME OPPOSITION.

COBOURG, Dec. 11—Although an account for $54, two-thirds of the cost of lighting the Campbellford bridge, was rejected by the Finance Committee, it was passed as an amendment when the report was read at Thursday afternoon's session of the Counties Council. Winning the approval of the Council by a big majority represented a sharp victory for Reeve Davidson and Deputy-Reeve Palliser against the persistent opposition of Deputy-Reeve Maher of Cobourg.

Mr. Maher attacked the Campbellford bill, declaring that the counties might next be called upon to pay for the lighting of a county road if they were to be charged for the lighting of a county bridge.

"The Trent River is one of the best assets Campbellford has," said Mr. Maher. "People from ten or twelve miles on both sides of the river have to go to Campbellford to cross the river, and trade is enlarged as a result. We helped pay for the installation of the lights, but that does not mean paying for the power, although the bill has been paid up to now."

Mr. Palliser admitted that the bridge was a real asset to Campbellford, but it was a county bridge and its proper lighting for night traffic was an expenditure for which the county should pay its usual two-thirds part. If the Council decided that it was not liable for any portion of the cost, it should at least pay this year's bill with a notice of discontinuance in future.

Only Reeve Grills of Seymour Township supported Mr. Palliser in the committee, but the score was reversed when, in Council, Reeve Grills, seconded by Reeve Hess, moved an amendment to the Finance Committee's report, that the Campbellford account for 1926 be paid.

Mr. Palliser repeated the arguments he had stressed in committee and pointed out that the Council had paid in June for the lighting of the Hastings bridge. He contended that Campbellford was entitled to the same consideration.

"We shouldn't make fish of one and flesh of another," said W. H. Nelson, supporting the Campbellford request. "If we are going to discontinue these payments we should first notify the municipalities affected. In dealing with Campbellford, we should try to be fair."

To Mr. Maher's reference to 'log-rolling,' members promising one another assistance for measures they hoped to get through Council, Mr. Palliser said he resented the insulting remarks of Cobourg's Deputy-Reeve.

"To my knowledge it is true that members promise each other support in getting things through," said Mr. Maher.

Mr. Palliser — "Mr. Maher must deal in that kind of thing; I don't."

Mr. Maher said the amendment was out of order, because its mover and seconder had signed the committee's report.

Reeve Davidson — Mr. Maher says that in 1922 Campbellford members got promises from others for their support. I defy you or any member of this Council to show that I got promises from anyone. As to the bridge lights, we have them on a separate switch and could cut them off any time.

Reeve Wood of Millbrook ruled against Mr. Maher's point of order, because "we know they voted against the report in committee and it has been customary to sign reports, knowing they may bring the matter up in Council."

Reeve Grills' motion, authorizing payment of the Campbellford bill, carried with twenty-six yeas.

Inspected Bridges.

Deputy-Reeve Hooten of Cavan reported his inspection of Dunlop bridge on September 22. It was safe for traffic, but needed wedging at one corner. This repair could not be undertaken because of high water.

Mr. Palliser reported that Wilson Island bridge needed a few planks. He had arranged to get them from Mr. Plant of Hastings, but the September rains made it unsafe to approach the bridge.

W.M.S. PREPARES BALE FOR MISSION

Wooler Ladies Send Goods To West—Wooler News.

WOOLER, Dec. 11.—On Tuesday morning the members of the Women's Missionary Society met in the basement of the church and finished the year's sewing, and packed a box of seven new quilts, blankets, children's coats, hosiery, mittens and underwear to be sent to the Wahstao Mission in Alberta.

The bright, spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill was opened to the Women's Institute 'At Home' and bazaar on Wednesday afternoon. The ladies and their husbands were especially invited to enjoy the Christmas spirit, socially. The president, Mrs. W. Orvis, was in the chair.

After community singing, a roll call by the ladies was held on the work of the Women's Institute and linking it up with Christmas suggestions, of passing on a greeting of cheer to those who are less favored.

Mrs. (Rev.) Neal gave an inspiration in presenting ways to have Christmas spirit all the year. In spirit, let us kneel at the manger of Bethlehem. Christmas never grows old, the atmosphere awakens joyous feelings, and we yield to them, and in doing so we become a little more kind and thoughtful of others.

Love is another of the spirits of Christmas. Giving is one of the great impulses of Christmas. We should not measure gifts by a yard stick of intrinsic value, or yet by what the recipients think of them. Search diligently and you will find Christ at the head of the best thought, the purest desires, the noblest resolves for the betterment of the race.

An intermission was followed by all retiring to the beautifully decorated "bazaar" room. A most dainty lunch of sandwiches, cake, fruit salads, pastry and coffee was served.

Mrs. D. S. Austin spent this week at Bloomfield.

E. M. Wessels is seriously ill.

W. A. McColl is sick.

J. W. Downs is confined to his bed.

The young people of the Sunday School are practising for the Christmas entertainment.

Mr. Rose and family are moving into their new home, and intend opening up a bake shop.

MANY PILGRIMS NOW CONVERGING ON BETHLEHEM

About 4,000 Visitor of Various Sects There For Christmas.

LOOK FOR CHRIST.

Arab Christians Expect Him To Return Soon as Great King.

(By S. J. Williams, United Press Special Correspondent.)

BETHLEHEM, Holy Land, Dec. 10.—Thousands of Christians of all sects were converging on Bethlehem to-day to participate in the Christmas eve services in the Church of the Nativity, which is built over the stable in which Jesus Christ was born 1926 years ago this month.

It was estimated to-day that about 4,000 visitors would be present for the Christmas observance, which is vastly different here than in the countries where St. Nicholas with his toy-filled pack n a major figure. Green Christmas trees are unknown here. Instead of the exchange of presents, there will be rejoicing and the singing of carols. The ceremony of singing, praying and worshipping will continue through Christmas eve until noon on Christmas day. Many pilgrims, who already have arrived, believe that Jesus is coming to earth a second time and that His return is rapidly approaching.

"Jesus is again come to the world,' 'an Arab Christian merchant told the United Press, but this time He will not be born in a stable and laid in a manger. He will come as a king, a great king. All unrighteous people will perish, but those who have lived according to their light will be saved. All nations will bow to him and accept Him as their Lord."

The same belief prevailed among many Christians throughout Palestine. They said Jesus would return soon and henceforth the world would live in peace and brotherhood.

The new Balkite

Trickle and High-Rate Charger

The new Balkite Charger with both low and high charging rates is easily the greatest charger value in radio. It combines a trickle and rapid charger in one. As a trickle charger, it can be permanently connected to your battery and in effect converts it into an automatic light socket "A" power supply. Its high rate supplies a ready reserve of power for the largest sets.

Can be used with 4 or 6-volt batteries. Price $27.50. FOR THOSE WHO REQUIRE A CHARGER OF ONLY LIMITED CAPACITY—THE BALKITE TRICKLE CHARGER—$15. Ask your dealer.

The members of Trinity Church Flower Guild held a very successful tea and sale of Christmas novelties and cooking in the Paragon tea room, yesterday afternoon, with a large attendance of ladies. Decorations of the tea room were in Christmas wreaths and the tea table was centred by a huge Christmas pie, flanked by red candles in silver holders. Miss E. Morrow, president of the Flower Guild, was general convenor, and, with Mrs. G. E. Porter and Miss A. Wood, had charge of the sale of Christmas cakes and puddings. Other articles in Christmas cooking were sold by Mrs. Homer Meyers, assisted by Mrs. V. Eastwood Junior, Miss Ruby Clegg, and Miss Ola Parker. Christmas gift novelties were sold by Mrs. D. Walker and Mrs. N. D. Seaton, and Miss Margaret Hamilton, assisted by Mrs. Wilfred Derry and Miss Leone Walsh, was in charge of a bean jar, the prize for which, an angel cake, was won by Mrs. C. C. Cragg. Tea was poured by Mrs. G. N. Gordon and Mrs. D. Wren, the arrangements for the tea room being in charge of Miss M. Clarry. Tea room assistants were Mrs. J. A. Robinson, Mrs. C. S. A real Christmas note of cheerful color was struck in the decorations of the Library of the Collegiate Institute yesterday afternoon, for the tea which followed the Commencement Exercises. Red was the keynote of the color scheme, carried out under direction of Miss Mayme Montgomery, and the room was festooned with streamers of slashed red paper and silver tinsel, with a red bell above the entrance and an electrically-lighted Christmas tree in the bay window, to add another hint of the Yuletide season. The table, whose arrangement was in charge of Miss Kendall, the new Domestic Science teacher, was especially attractive with its large central silver urn filled with bright scarlet carnations and gypsophila, the cloth being garlanded with smilax and arranged with scarlet candles in silver holders and candelabra. Miss Pearl Faint acted as general convenor of arrangements, and was assisted by a group of boy and girl students from the fourth and fifth forms, the latter including Arleigh McKone, Dorothy Couper, Gertrude Comstock, Marguerite Mason, Mary Comstock, Margaret Denne, Lahring Parsons and Lily Kay. The guests were receieved by the principal, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Miss Faint, Margaret Hamilton, representing the pupils, and Gordon Richardson, president of the P.C.I. Literary Society.

Woman Burned To Death Saving Insurance Policy

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 11.—(United Press.)—After rescuing her three small children from their burning home early to-day, Mrs. Bertha Smith, 25, rushed back into the flames to save her insurance policy and was burned to death. The family was asleep when the fire started, apparently from an overheated stove on the second floor.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1926

This should be a fairly fortunate day, according to astrology, for Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are all in benefic aspect.

Under this rule writing is supposed to be well-directed, but it is well to avoid any letters regarding stock speculation, which is likely to be unfortunate.

Writers of every sort should benefit today when the stars are supposed to be especially helpful. Fame for new authors is presaged.

Advertising comes under a sway that is most promising and it is to become more and more of a science, the seers predict.

Construction work of every sort appears to be well directed today when it appears that there will be a tremendous demand for builders, owing to some sort of a disaster.

Storms and earthquakes continue to be forecast and it is probable that the winter will be exceedingly severe.

There is a sign indicating activity for philanthropic and charitable organizations. A great need of more hospitals appears to be foreshadowed.

Jupiter smiles on all leaders of thought and action. By this sign the clergy should benefit today.

It has been prognosticated that many young men would turn to the ministry and the seers predict that the scale of remuneration from the churches will be raised.

Astrologers foretell a revulsion from extremes of fashion and for women more extensive costuming.

The death of a man of national note is foretold at a time when he is carrying important international responsibilities.

Surprise is to be conspicuous element in public affairs, for the unexpected is to happen.

Many weddings are indicated from now until the end of January and of these many will prove fortunate, if the signs are rightly interpreted.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have great changes in the coming year. Good probably will come through letters or the columns of newspapers.

Children born on this day probably will be fond of roaming over the world. These subjects of Sagittarius are usually idealists who meet with remarkable adventures and much disillusionment.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

MONDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1926

Although Venus is in benefic aspect today, according to astrology the day is not altogether favorable. Mercury, Saturn and Uranus are all adverse.

This is a time moer advantageous for amusements and the less important things of life.

Weddings are fairly lucky today, but there is likely to be more romance than money under this direction of the stars.

This is an auspicious rule for the opening of new plays, even though critics appear to be subject to malefic influences.

Women should push all their interest, while this configuration prevails, but they are likely to be more concerned with flirtations than with finance.

The seers warn that there will be many new scandals, many of which are due to women's mania for conquests and for being entertained.

Under this planetary government women will manifest the extremes of character, for they will attain to intellectual heights and to the depths of foolishness.

All women may be interested in the prophesy that they are to gain great power in public affairs, for they will rise against the forces of evil, if the signs are read aright.

This is not a fortunate day for letter-writing and if the letters relate to love they are likely to be most unlucky.

There is an aspect presaging discontent among certain workers who may suffer severely as the winter advances.

This configuration is not especially promising to agricultural interests, and there is to be a farmer-leader who will win big influence the seers foretell.

Aviators should be especially cautious under this direction of the stars, as many accidents are indicated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of stable prosperity. They may not be lucky, however, in courtship or marriage.

Children born on this day may be rather too fond of all the material joys of life, but they are usually successful and able to curtail their desire for pleasure.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

THE PATRONESS

By Alma Whitaker.

A cynic once remarked that "some women were only born to be patronesses." He did not intend to be complimentary. But, of course, a great many social an d artistic enterprises would languish and die without patronesses.

On the other hand some women yearn to be patronesses who were not born to the undertaking. So they perform the task without distinction.

We will call the lady Mrs. Harris. In her way she is quite a remarkable person. She is well-to-do, dresses flamboyantly and is always explaining herself.

"I only live to do good to others," she assured us recently. "I am very democratic. I am even nice to quite poor people. As I always tell my husband they are human beings just as we are."

She gazed round upon us with comfortable satisfaction. We were, of course, tremendously impressed. I think we were highly entertained to discover that a woman of this type really existed, outside of plays and novels.

One day she was being extra democratic. She told us she had invited her manicurist and hair-dresser to lunch at a certain smart restaurant. These girls thought it extremely nice of Mrs. Harris, and secured themselves some new little dresses and furbelows for the stylish occasion.

When they arrived at the restaurant, Mrs. Harris was entertaining a dozen women friends at a specially set table. She greeted the girls effusively, and presented them to her guests as "my hairdresser and manicurist"— and then called the head waiter and told him to find them "a real nice table." Which he did, at the other side of the room.

"Now you girls just go and order anything you like. Anything. Eat all you want and have a good time. They are real nice girls," she explained to her friends, "and I want to give them a real treat."

The girls looked a little bewildered, but meekly followed the waiter to the other table. Mrs. Harris beamed at them across the room and waived to them frequently. "That's right, order anything you like. Eat a real hearty lunch," she called out. And then spent the rest of the lunch hour telling her guests how very democratic she was and how she just loved doing good deeds!

In the meantime, the girls had discovered they were not guests but beneficiaries. They were Exhibit A. for Mrs. Harris's good deeds. They would have preferred to walk out on her with what dignity they could muster and stand themselves a modest lunch down the street. But oh, dear, Mrs. Harris was a valuable patroness, she spent a great deal of money at their store, their boss would surely fire them if they offended Mrs. Harris. So they ordered as inexpensive a lunch as that restaurant provided, and let Mrs. Harris continue to make them conspicuous and cheap before her friends. They sat it out, but the smiles they gave her on leaving were reserved, comical little smiles—as Mrs. Harris protested that they had not ordered any of the restaurant's special dishes and really, the bill was not half big enough!

Mrs. Harris is comfortably assured she has done a good deed. Her guests at that special table are hilariously delighted at the incident and hastened to retail it all round. It is another good one on the patroness. But that lunch nearly choked the manicurist and hairdresser. If one must be a patroness one should really learn how.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Dark brown fur fashions collar and cuffs on this dark brown velvet coat, and circles of the fur adorn the sides.

* * *

Never were furs more ingeniously handled than they are this season. The fashionable woman is no longer satisfied merely with wearing costly furs of the sort that are considered modish. In fact some women would rather wear less expensive peltry ingeniously worked than sable and ermine put together in commonplcaes manner.

Some of the new French fur wrap for afternoon and evening are cut on simple straight lines, but are made ornate by having the fur worked into rather intricate design. Ermine, chinchilla, mole and sable are all used in this way. There are fur capes with designs worked in the same fur which stands out because it is left thicker to show the design. When this is done the trimming is of the same sort of fur as that used for the rest of the garment, but often fur wraps are trimmed with fur of a different and contrasting sort. Leopard is sometimes trimmed with skunk, pony with fox, and gazelle with fine badger. The French woman of fashion finds amusement in combining the peltry of two animals which would have been unfriendly in life.

Cloth and fur have been so attractively combined in the winter coats that there is no hardship now in not owning a wrap of fur. The collar alone may be of fur, there may be collar and cuffs or collar, cuffs and hem. Sometimes too the pockets are fur edged and in some of the newest coats there is an ingenious design of the fur on the coat for purely ornamental purposes. This purely decorative use of fur may be extravagant but it is surely primitive enough Ethnologists tell us that before our ancestors ever thought of clothing as a matter of protection or warmth—when they still dwelt in climates warm enough to make apparel unnecessary—they robbed the bird of his feathers and the beast of his fur in order to add to their own attractions. The woman who was decked out with a goodly number of fur tails thus boasted that her mate or lover was a mighty hunter. Fur tails are still worn as feminine adornment and if they do not indicate a brave hunter they at least suggest a fat bank account. Some of the new shawls are edged with ermine tails instead of silk fringe.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

One and three-quarters cups whipping cream, one and one-quarter cups evaporated milk, two and one-half cups mixed chopped fruits as maraschino cherries, pineapple, oranges, sliced peaches, stoned cherries, etc., one cup mayonnaise, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon gelatin, two tablespoons cold water, lettuce, parsley.

Soften the gelatin with cold water and set it over hot water to melt. Beat the melted gelatin into the mayonnaise. Combine evaporated milk and cream; chill and whip. Add the sugar and fold in the gelatin mixture and the chopped fruits. Pour into molds which have been rinsed in cold water. Seal with a strip of cloth rubbed well with butter or lard. Bury in equal parts of ice and salt for three hours.

SOUR MILK DIETS

Various forms of soured milk have been used from ancient times as part of the daily rations, or because of some medicinal value attributed to them.

There are four essential types of soured milk. First, the common butter milk, which is the liquid residue left when butter has been made. Of course, any kind of milk may be allowed to stand for a sufficient length of time to develop lactic acid bacteria, but the butter milk sold by most dairies today is made from milk which has been soured by the addition of a culture of lactic acid bacteria.

Kumiss is made in much the same manner, except that the lactic acid fermentation is supplemented by alcoholic fermentation.

Yoghoort is the name given to a special kind of soured milk which is made by the addition of the Bulgaricus bacillus. This bacillus increases the lactic acid in the milk from the ordinary one per cent to two or three per cent.

While Metchinkoff laid much stress upon the necessity for developing the Bulgaricus bacillus to overcome the micro-organisms in the colon, which produces fermentation, it has been found that the lacto-bacillus acidophlus is more effective in destroying these bacteria. Metchinkoff was so sure of his ground that he continued to consume large quantities of sour milk made by the souring of his favorite Bulgaricus bacillus, but died at the age of seventy-one from what was apparently the effects of auto-intoxication.

Great claims are now being made for the beneficial effects of using milk soured by the lacto-bacillus acidophlus, and certain experiments have shown that much may be expected from this form of treatment in the future. At the present time, however, the difficulty seems to be in developing this product for commercial use.

It is necessary to use sterilized milk, and after adding the bacteria to hold it to a temperature of 95° for thirty-six hours. Under the most favorable conditions enough of the souring takes place and enough bacteria re produced to make a useful product, but because of the difference in the cultures and the difficulty in handling, the companies attempting to manufacture this product have had a great deal of trouble in standardizing the acidophlus milk.

A delicious kind of soured milk may be easily made at home by setting aside milk protected in the proper container, so that the air does not reach the milk. This should be allowed to stand for about ten days in the ice box, then remove about half of the whey and mix the remainder with an egg beater. This makes a palatable and nutritious dish, but should not be used with any other food. It is a meal itself, if one pint is taken at meal time.

Those who are suffering from intestinal gas may find this milk to be helpful to them, if used in the proper way.

THE SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON

Ernest's Narrow Escape

Queen Of England Dusts Palace Just Like A Real Housewife

MRS. MARY WINDSOR HELPS MAIDS ON CLEANING DAY

(By Milton Bronner, NEA Service Correspondent.)

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Dec. 11.—
The King was on parade ground
Watching soldiers muster;
The Queen was in the parlor
Working with a duster.

No, this is not a new set of Mother Goose rhymes. It happens to be a fact, a very human fact about Queen Mary of England.

Most of her loyal subjects, when they see her at all, see only one side of her —the great lady, all dolled up in crown and jewels and gorgeous queenly robes of state occasions, or in the handsome clothes worn at receptions, and formal functions.

Mary, the Housewife.

The queen as everyday human being isn't seen by many people. But some of the villagers of this place have had that rare privilege. They've seen the queen with duster in hand, with smudges of dust on her happy face, and on some old clothes that she wore for the occasion. Sandringham recently saw Queen Mary as Mary Windsor, housewife.

It was no new experience for Queen Mary. She wasn't born to riches. And in her early 'teens she had little expectation of marrying a King. Her parents belonged to German princely families. And in the German tradition, they regard their only daughter to be a good housekeeper. Pennies meant something to her parents. The little light-haired, blue-eyed Mary was taught to count them and save them. She's never forgotten those lessons.

So when the present royal couple had the job of taking over a new home, the Queen herself superintended it.

The palace in this place was the favorite home of the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra. When King Edward died, Dowager Queen Alexandra retained it as her home and here she spent her last years.

Remodelling Home.

Now that she is gone, the King and Queen are taking it over. They used to live here in a humbler dwelling—York Cottage. Like any wife taking over a mother-in-law's home, Queen Mary has been turning Sandringham Palace upside down, so as to make it conform to her own tastes.

The stodgy Victorian tapestries and curtains have been removed. The old-fashioned decorations have been cleraed away. The rooms kept sacred by Queen Alexandra to the memory of King Edward and their eldest son, the Duke of Clarence, have been restored to everyday use.

The Dowager Queen had preserved the rooms exactly as they were when the King and the Duke passed away. Even the oose change left by the Duke on his dressing table remained undisturbed. Now all that is gone.

The only things piously preserved are the monograms of Queen Alexandra which are all over the place, and a heavy bureau in the King's apartment: It was proposed to remove this and put in something more modern. Queen Mary looked questioningly at the King.

"No, leave it," said he. "It belonged to my father."

Queen Mary has chosen fresh colors for the rooms and new and up-to-date furniture. The rooms are now mainly studies in cream and blue.

Forgot Her Lunch.

One day when the servants were busy putting things to rights, Queen Mary just naturally picked up a duster and started to work on dusty picture frames and table ornaments.

She had walked across from York Cottage. And she was so busy and happy that she forgot the lunch hour. So, at her request, they sent over a basket of cold things, which she ate hen and there just as would any other housewife.

And just like any other, she chatted with her fellow workers. Which is why Mrs. Henry Margetts, who was at the head of them, paid her a tribute which probably would tickle her far more than compliments of high society:

"She's the most practical and kindly Queen that ever lived."

"That a new girl you're paying attention to?"

"No, dad—just the old one repainted."—The Bulletin (Sydney).

How does the new British Betting Tax affect the man who woos the goddess of chance? On bets actually made at the race-track the tax is two per cent of the stake. On events others than horse races it is three and a half per cent. The tax must be paid on every bet made with a bookmaker on any event of any kind. Horse racing bets not made on the race-course are subject to the three and a half per cent duty.

Tossed for Hours Unable to Sleep

About the surest indication of exhausted nerves is sleeplessness. You may have headaches and indigestion. You may be nervous and irritable. But the most distressing symptom is lying awake at night unable to rest or sleep.

Mr. Fred Ross, Dresden, Ont. writes: —"I certainly can sympathize, with anyone who suffers from nerve trouble. For many months I was afflicted with nervousness, and after going to bed I would toss about for hours unable to sleep. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was recommended to me, so I gave it a trial. I found it a splendid treatment as I can now enjoy a good night's rest. For the nerves, the best password I can give is 'Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.'"

USE THE ROLLING PIN TO KEEP YOUR HUSBAND

The rolling pin, a relic that has come down to the modern housewife from the dark ages of the past, has been immortalized both by the comic feature artist and by numerous alleged humourists who make it the sole weapon of offence or defence used by the irate wife.

Why this is so is hard to imagine, unless it is the fact that the ancient gag seems to satisfy the public.

The husband, who has been imbibing,not wisely but too well; or the equally unfortunate husband who has been delayed at a poker game at some friend's home usually comes in for most of the caricatures in which this useful household article features.

Poor defenceless hubby is usually shown pausing on the front steps, removing his shoes and draping them around his neck in the authorized fashion, and then creeping cautiously into what represents his earthly paradise.

The wife, apparently wise to his stealthy arrival, lies in wait behind the door. In the hall stands a clock pointing to an hour that coincides with the milkman's idea as to the ideal time for a social or business call. Apparently the difficulty is one that cannot be handled or disposed of by the usual method—a tongue thrashing—but is one that requires action and lots of it. In her desperation she has seized upon the weapon that the experts insist helps in the reaching of a man's heart—a rolling pin.

But instead of using it for its noble purpose, she in her rage, has decided to use it as a club, in an effort to subdue his passion for wandering from the straight and narrow path that all model husbands are supposed to travel.

If the stories are true then the average wife is an optimist of the first water. The dimensions and weight of the usual rolling pin are such that if a person was to receive it with any force on the head he would quickly shuffle off this mortal coil, and finish his existence in silent retrospect wondering how he ever became enamoured with such a being. It is not out of reason to assume that she already has a successor in view, or else is a believer in the theory that there are better fish in the sea than ever were caught.

Exhaustive enquiries failed to discover any man who has ever been the victim of a rolling pin used in this manner. The only answer to this is that if they were they would not or could not, admit it.

Using it for purposes of violence is one way to ensure keeping a husband—quiet. Using it for its intended purpose is a sure way to keep a husband satisfied.

With the advent of the delicatessen and the modern bakery the art of home baking is rapidly becoming lost to the hosts of new wives that attain the highest calling of women. With it is going the rolling pin and, who knows, perhaps, the day is approaching when the much abused utensil or article will find its place of honor above the mantle shelf as a token to all and sundry that the head of the house is a fully fledged cook and has earned her spurs.

Someone has said, "Love is like a cafeteria; you grab the first thing that looks good and pay for it afterwards." True words, perhaps, but in most cases the paying process is not as bad as pictured, or else most men are adepts at hiding their true feelings.

Use the rolling pin to keep a husband, provided it is used in its proper capacity, and you will find that a man, like a dog, knows a good thing when he tastes it.

A bride's first biscuits are usually made out of a cook book—and they often taste like it.

THE MAGIC CIRCLE - -

By Sweet Sixteen

You all remember my adventure with John, and how he tied after his cave man tactics didn't succeed. I told you then that I had a new sweetie, and that we were soon to be wed. Well, it's happened. We're hitched, and our marriage is a great success. I don't see how they get all this bunk about unhappy marriages, divorces ,etc. Here we have been married for nearly two weeks and we haven't quarrelled yet. There must be something wrong with all those people who get divorces, or separations, or are always fighting.

Why, the other night my honeybunch come home late. He said he had had to work overtime on something special. Mrs. Smith, across the road, tried to tell me that a man never had to work overtime, and that he was out some place having a good time. "Applesauce," says I. "My hubby is happiest when he is with me and he isn't out boozing, or playing poker tonight. He's working, just as he said."

Her answer was most insulting. "That's all very well for now. Wait till he's seen you running around in an old dressing gown, with hair uncombed, before he goes to work, and then he goes down and sees some snappy girl all dressed up. You'll find out."

You know, that's just what is the matter with Mrs. Smith. She doesn't believe her husband when he had to work overtime, so he thinks he might as well use the excuse when it's not right. She runs around the house looking untidy, and then wonders why he stays out. You don't catch me doing that.

My pet has phoned me that he has to work overtime again, and that he will go a lodge meeting afterwards. The mean thing! As if I weren't more important than his old lodge. Maybe Mrs. Smith was right and he has a date to play poker, or —maybe—he has another girl. He always was a flirt; when he came to see me he acted as if he was well accustomed to going out with various young ladies.

Last night, or rather this morning, when he came home I smelt beer on his breath. He said that they served 4.4 at the lodge, but I know better. He was at a party somewhere. What's more, yesterday was pay day, but he's short a lot of money. Now I know; he deceived me, the wretch! Men are all alike.

How I wish I hadn't been so hasty with poor John. He never went with another girl in all the weeks we went together. I know he'd be true even if he was dumb. He would be one exception. I had the right man and didn't know it.

Now I know that only when the right guy marries the right girl is marriage happy. As the fellow says, "The marvel is not the number of divorces and unhappy marriages, but the number of cases where two persons choose each other from millions and live together happily." Just like the fairly tales.

Everyone who reflects can know that the inmost vitality of man is from love, since he grows warm from the presence of love and cold from its absence, and when deprived of it he dies.—Swedenborg.

It takes more than mere mortal male brains to ascertain the difference between a woman's winter and summer clothes.

A man may start an argument but his wife usually puts on the finishing touches.

With eyes whose brilliance matches the sparkling facets of the engagement diamond, the lovers are whispering plans. For them the future is an eternity roseate with hope, the present a succession of gloriously illuminated moments.

And by the gleam of the magic circle the symbol of their betrothal, are reflected the dreams and prayers of the man and girl bound by the invincible ring of love. And the passing years will only serve to reveal to each unexpected glories and charms in the other, a joy as many-sided as the facets of a gem.

But the lovers must beware of tarnish. They must keep the ring of their love free from taint of any kind. And if they are wise they will find that the only lubricant they need for this purpose is the oil of mutual faith and trust. This is the polish that will keep the ring free from ugly stains—the polish that will never wear off!

Fifty Fifty - - A Short Story

(By H. Irving King.)

Horace Melton grabbed the girl quickly and swung her out of the way of the auto truck.

"Ouch," said the girl, "you hurt. You are very rude." She said it rubbing her left arm which Horace had grasped harder than he intended in his excitement at the young lady's peril.

"And you," he retorted, "are very careless. Didn't you see that truck coming?"

"No," she replied, "I was looking the other way. Of course, I am very grateful to you for rescuing me as you did."

"I beg your pardon," said Horace, "but you see I didn't think. I was so fearful you would be hit."

In spite of her attempted self-control the girl was considerably shaken by her narrow escape. She trembled a little, seeing which Horace said: "You must sit down somewhere and rest a little. Come into this tea-shop here and have a cup of tea—you will feel more composed afterwards, and then can proceed to wherever you were going. But please don't be so careless again."

She had been studying the man's face intently—"sizing him up."

Horace was not feeling in the best of humor. Orphaned when a boy he had been receiving a liberal allowance from a rich uncle and had spent it for the past five years in roaming about the world, penetrating to many out-of-the-way regions, dabbling in archaeology, shooting big game and that sort of thing, confident of being his uncle's heir. And now his uncle was dead and a cablegram had called him home. He had called upon his uncle's lawyer in the morning and the lawyer had read to him his uncle's will.

During Horace's absence abroad it appeared the deceased millionaire uncle had become guardian of a young lady, the daughter of an old schoolfellow, who had begged him on his dying bed to look after the girl whom reverses of fortune had compelled him to leave penniless. And the will of Horace's uncle read that if Horace should marry Norma Richardson, the orphan aforesaid, then Horace would get the whole fortune. If he refused then the fortune was to be divided between Norma and Horace. Horace had balked at this condition. Marry a girl he had never seen and scarcely heard of? He would rather struggle along on half the fortune he had expected. He mooned around all the morning and in the afternoon had his adventure of the young lady and the auto truck.

She was a very pretty young lady, plainly dressed, and had an air about her as if she were quite capable of taking care of herself. Horace realized that as they sat at the table in the tea-room and the rescued girl composed herself with tea and toast and jam.

"It was awfully stupid of me not to have seen that truck coming," she said. "You see, I had been in to see a lawyer on some business and I guess I was thinking more about what the lawyer had been talking to me about than the perils of congested traffic."

She handed a card with a name and address on it to Horace, saying: "May I not know the name of the person who saved my life?"

Horace gazed at the card the girl had handed him for a full minute without replying, then stammered: "I—I am sorry—but I haven't a card with me. My name is Gunther—Maxwell Gunther. May I call to-morrow and inquire if you have entirely recovered from the shock of your little adventure?"

"Why, yes," she replied, looking at him keenly.

Horace escorted the young lady to the subway entrance where he left her and went to the office of his uncle's lawyer. "About my marrying Miss Richardson," said he, "perhaps I will, after all. How long have I got to consider it?"

"Oh, any reasonable time," was the reply. "But Miss Norma was here this afternoon and says she won't marry you."

"Perhaps she'll change her mind," said Horace. "You can't tell. She's a very attractive girl."

"So you have seen her?" exclaimed the lawyer.

"Yes," answered Horace. "I pulled her out of the way of an auto truck and blew her off to tea."

Scarcely had Horace left the office when the telephone rang. It was Norma.

"I met that Mr. Melton to-day," she said. "He saved my life. He gave me a false name; but I knew him from the picture my guardian had in his library. Perhaps I may accede to the terms of the will after all if he will have me. How long have I got to consider the matter?"

"Any reasonable time," said the lawyer. "Be at my office at ten, to-morrow morning." Then he sent a message to Horace to come to the office at ten the next day, also. The lawyer, in fact, confronted the culprits the one with the other.

"I gave you my real name, just to see what you would do," said Norma—"and you didn't do anything but just stare at the card—and give me a false name. Why?"

"I was afraid you would be prejudiced against me if I gave my real one," said Horace.

"Now you two stop quarrelling," said the lawyer, "and come around here two months from to-day and tell me what you have decided. Get out, both of you."

They were around on time and agreed to accept the provisions of the will. But Horace insisted upon settling half the fortune upon Norma after all. Said he wouldn't play if she didn't accept—so she accepted.

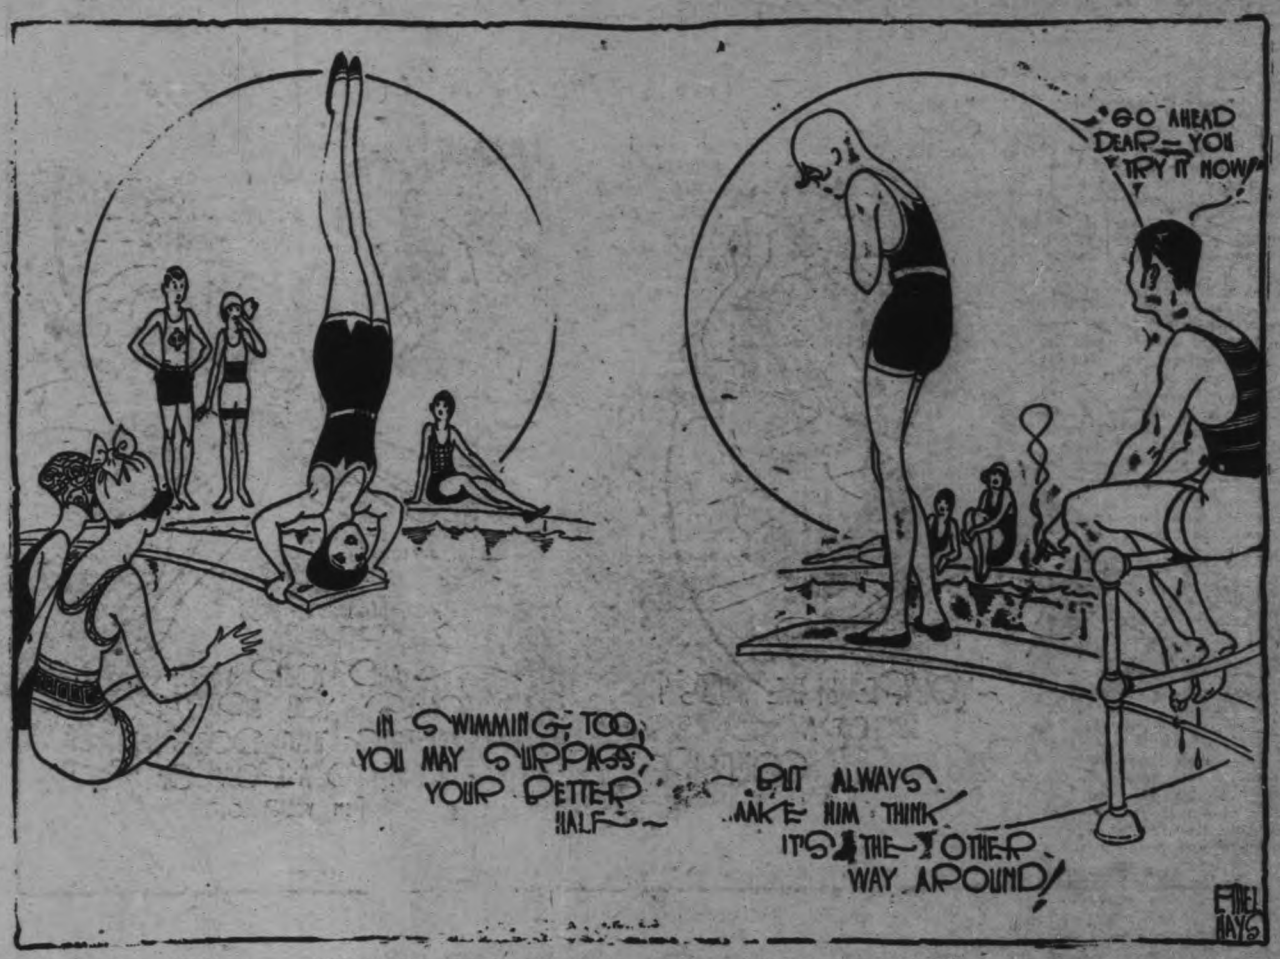
What The Census Records Tell Us



Census-taking, dates from the dawn of civilization. Moses numbered the Children of Israel in the fifteenth century, B.C. But investigations of a similar nature were known many centuries earlier—in Babylonia 3800 B.C., in China 3000 B.C., and in Egypt 2200 B.C. The census was one of the institutions founded by Solon at Athens in the sixth century, B.C. The Romans were also assiduous census-takers. The Breviary of Charlemagne and the Domesday Book of William the Conqueror are celebrated mediaeval censuses; then for several centuries the census disappeared from Europe.

It is worthy of remark that the credit of being among the first to take a census as is known in modern times belongs to Canada. In the year 1666, the census of the colony of New France, which is known as Canada, was taken and during the French regime it was repeated fifteen times.

Since 1881 the census has been taken every ten years for this Dominion. The census has many objects and uses and the one which is particularly adapted to this section of our paper at this date is the record of marriages in the Province of Ontario.

It is sad to relate that in the past years a decided decrease has been shown in the number of marriages in the premier province of Ontario. This likely has been due to the economic conditions which have prevailed in the last few years. There has been a large eflux of native sons and daughters to the United States and the reason always given by them is that as no work is obtainable in this province, they were migrating.

The question often arises at what time of life do most women marry, and when do most men marry? In Ontario last year there were more women (girls) married at the age of nineteen years than at any other individual age, there being 2,319 of that age marrying. The largest number of men at any one individual age was 1,971, at twenty-one years. In 1923, the largest individual age for both man and women was twenty-one years.

Women (girls) seem to be more apt to marry before coming eighteen than men, for in the last year 878 girls were married before they obtained their majority, and 26 boys before they became eighteen. There were also four bridegrooms over eighty and one bride over seventy-five married.

There always has been a decided tendency for men and women to marry consorts of their own religious inclination or denomination. There is also always an interest displayed regarding mixed marriages, so-called, and usually thought of as a marriage between a Roman Catholic and one professing another faith. Of the 9,146 Roman Catholics who ....ed during the past year, 7,852, or over eighty-five per cent married one another. Of those who went outside their own faith for partners the majority were women. Lately there has been a small amount of intermarriage between Jews and Christians, the majority in this case being on the side of the men who went outside their own faith to find a partner in life.

What Did Peterboro Do?

People in this city must not be of the loving kind, for of the twenty-five cities in Ontario, this city is the tenth largest, but it came fifteenth in the number of marriages. In 1924 there were 188 marriages in this city and June and September were the months in which the greatest number of marriages took place.

How To Break Up A Home

By Virginia Swain

It isn't beatings or flat irons or freelance pettings that break up happy homes. It is scorching the breakfast bacon, or leaving a shaving brush full of soap, or biting the fingernails or mixing up the pages of the morning paper.

For love can forgive brutality or infidelity or desertion. But let the small irritations of daily living go on too long—and Cupid will just lie down and take the count.

"Watch the trifles," warns Mrs. Viola Anglin, deputy chief probation

Some fellows tell their wives where they have been, and save the price of a box of candy.

Mrs. Viola Anglin

officer of Manhattan family court, after 15 years of observation on the front line trenches of New York's martial wars.

Last year, 10,000 cases came into her court, and a million and a half dollars was distributed in alimony through her office.

"Don't Be Yourself."

"The little rough edges of living together wear off the glamor of romance," she says. "I have seen more marriages beaten by uncurled hair than by infidelity, and more hearts broken by forgotten birthday gifts than by desertion.

"If you value your mate, don't 'be yourself.' Keep on being that charming, stimulating, highly artificial fake you were during courtship. After a while, you'll find it comes natural.

"Most human beings, unadorned, are pretty shoddy companions day in and day out. They simply must make the effort to be amusing, attractive, amiable, if they are going to keep the dust on the butterfly's wings. Romance is the most perishable of all known commodities."

The modern talk of woman's emancipation is not yet reflected in the married woman's feeling about her husband's money," says Mrs. Anglin. "Many women still are bent on extracting every possible dollar from the men they marry, in return for a negligible amount of housework and child rearing.

"Don't plot and scheme to get the coins out of his pockets, but make fair demands, and if they are not met, find some way to earn money for yourself, and let him get along as best he can without your services in the home. To have to beg for money is debasing.

"Don't be suspicious of infidelity. But use your energy to prevent it. Rolling pins and frying pans may tame recalcitrant husbands without being thrown at them. For good food is near to the heart of every romance.

"On the other hand, don't let your own graces and beauty slip away under the burden of housework. There is no excuse nowadays for a slovenly house or a slovenly appearance, for woman's work has been vastly simplified by science."

Then there is the question of the married woman who wants to go out after a career. "Don't do it," says Mrs. Anglin. "If your husband is making a living for you, be satisfied to keep a pleasant home and mother your children. No woman can handle a double job successfully.

"And if you don't believe that motherhood is woman's normal, happiest job, take a look at the 'successful' business women who have missed it!"

IS TWO COMPANY - - By Wm. Edgar

The origin of the much-quoted phrase, "Two's company—three's a crowd," is difficult to trace but, on the face of it, one is hardly likely to be very wide of the mark in the conjecture that it was coined by some exasperated lover, whose prospective mother-in-law insisted on chaperoning all the tender meetings of the young couple. In any case, the usage of innumerable generations has rendered the dictum an accepted social fact.

Now it has also been the established rule that men and women, with that little touch of hypocrisy that lies within mankind, should reserve their best manners and customs for company. Who has not encountered the individual who is the acme of politeness and culture in society, and is yet selfish, exacting and unreasonable in the home? Barrie, in "A Window in Thrums," sketches such a character with remarkable fidelity—depicting a breezy, likeable personality to the outside world, and at the same time within the home, a wastrel and a shameless, shiftless parasite and intolerable burden on a patient, submissive wife. But since it is required that company should see the better side of the individual, and, since two is company, why then, should husband and wife quarrel? People don't, as a rule, quarrel in company—"It isn't done." "Never quarrel in company" ordain the rules of etiquette—and two's company—so that participating in a domestic squabble is really as great a breach of established convention as eating peas with a knife, or drinking the contents of the water-bowl. But, alas! even well-bred husbands are known to quarrel with well-bred wives—"Having a few words" is the euphemistic term used to describe the combat.

Two, of course, is not a very large number, but under certain circumstances it may be one too many. For example, two is a crowd when one is mad.

The reflection, that one is really in company when in the home might well act as a check on women who are given to nagging. The continued volley of slight reproofs and unnecessary criticism has a very deleterious effect, damping a man's enthusiasm and robbing him of much of his joy of home life.

An almost incredible number of broken homes, separated couples and divorces occur after years of passive and uncomplaining endurance. People often comment at these spectacles and wonder that having suffered so long in silence, the injured one did not continue to the end. The tiny pin-pricks in the wounded soul have become hiding places for the minute bacteria of resentment which have multiplied into spiteful colonies during these slow, silent years. The growth is slow and unnoticed, but the malignant harvest at length appears and ruined lives are the result.

There are certain poisons, lead for example, whose toxic effect is cumulative. Particles remain in the system, gradually receiving accretions until the accumulated poison proves fatal. Criticism and nagging between husband and wife have like properties. A person can brace himself or herself against a sudden gust of anger and spring back to place with the elasticity of all living, growing things, but all must bend or break before a constant blast of criticism blowing regularly from one direction.

It is often asserted that trouble of this kind is a polishing process. On the contrary, it should be regarded rather as a corroding action, pitting the fine surface of character with harsh ineffaceable scars, and silently undermining the props of affection. In any case such criticism in company is evidence of bad breeding. Why then, when it is frowned on, when we are in the company of others for a few hours, should we practice it on those with whom we are to spend our entire lives? Lamentations over one's misfortunes and the open indulgence in self-pity are tabooed in company.

Some women suffer a great deal of unnecessary pain resulting from their ways of thinking when alone. They think of the inequalities of the distribution of the good things of life; draw unfavorable comparisons between their circumstances and those of seemingly more fortunate neighbours and friends, and finish with the reflection that their fate is a cruel one, that they were meant for something better, and that it is really a pity that they married when they did, and as they did. Thoughts like these are as a pack of ravenous wolves—when they once get in they never stop until they have completed the work of destruction. Such reveries and bitter reflections do not often find expression in company, but too often they are given outlet in the presence of the person who is most hurt by them. Bitter thoughts and words get one nowhere, and the bitter mind is pretty sure to be also an idle and unproductive mind. The indulgence in such a mental attitude is destructive, never constructive.

With the husband, the case is entirely different. Usually the business of bread-winning keeps him sufficiently on his toes to prevent his having leisure enough for the indulgence of self-pity. His fault is more likely to be that of failing to render to his wife all the little courtesies, which a woman expects from a man in company, courtesies for which she looks all the more eagerly after the novelty of marriage has departed and their omission is almost invariably a source of secret sorrow to any normal woman. The realization that in the presence of his wife, he was in company—in the best of society, ought to have a salutary effect on the man who is sliding into a rut of indifference and inattention.

Two is also a tolerably large company, when the husband is talking on that subject so very near to his heart—himself and his achievements. The applause of wife is often sweeter to a man's ears than the plaudits of the world. This is a fact that has been repeatedly discovered by the observant woman, who wisely makes use of it, in the management of her man.

Although reluctant to acknowledge the obvious truth, Mr. Average Man has a hunch that he is a kind of demi-god, who has graciously unbent to the extent of marrying his wife, a boon which he feels she can never adequately repay, but the recollection of which ought to keep her moving in the effort to approach the desired end.

The big outside world has a nasty habit of bumping hard against man's armor of self-esteem, and one of the considerations that induces him to enter into the matrimonial contract is his desire of securing for himself, a home worshipper who has the intelligence and good taste to recognize real merit when she sees it.

He is looking for a sympathetic audience to console him for the rude, chilly shocks of the everyday world. It follows, therefore, that when he finds in his way a critic instead of a hero-worshipper he feels that he has been handed a gold brick and that he has sunk his money in a profitless investment.

It is very difficult to give any account of the process by which a husband is reduced to the category of being hen-pecked.

As a matter of physchological speculation, it would be extremely interesting to have a complete account of his experiences related by the victim. There are such husbands. We recognize them in every circle of society from the millionaire financier who can be twisted around the little finger of his ambitious, socially-climbing wife, to the man who does the washing at his wife's bidding.

But who ever heard of a husband who would readily admit that he was hen-pecked? Some women take a kind of melancholy pleasure in retailing their marital grievances, because they are usually tolerably certain of getting a measure of sympathy, but the hen-pecked husband never tells—first, because he is ashamed to acknowledge the fact; second, because he knows that the recital of his tale of woe would excite mirth rather than compassion. Thus, his cock of the walk manner in society, which he has assumed to conceal his pitiable plight is one of the most patent symptoms of his case.

A husband, of course, likes to be bossed, provided that his wife is an adept at the business, and can act her part with a good degree of finesse. He likes her to go through the farce of seeming to submit to his will, while she is merely following the dictates of her own better judgment. His position in the home is somewhat analogous to that of the King in constitutional theory. He reigns, but does not govern. In other words, as the man in the street puts it, he is the head, but his wife is the neck, which she turns as she thinks fit.

But, in company, it is considered unseemly that the wife should domicile her lord. Hence the theory, the domestic fiction, we might call it, even in the home—that the husband should be the nominal sovereign and master, while the real authority is vested in the much more capable hands of his better half.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

VERSATILE CLOCK RUNS THE HOUSE.

With almost human intelligence, a recently invented clock assumes some of the usual duties of a responsible housekeeper. At any time desired, the timepiece turns the lights in the home on or off. Besides showing the time of day, it has two additional hands to indicate the day and the month. Outwardly resembling an ordinary clock, the new device, says Popular Science Monthly, contains a built-in electric motor that takes its supply from the house current. Its inventor is Dr. J. F. Van Slyke of the Horological Institute of America.

The four principal football games to be played by Columbia University next season will be with Cornell, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Colgate, the last-named being a newcomer on the gridiron schedule of the Blue and White.

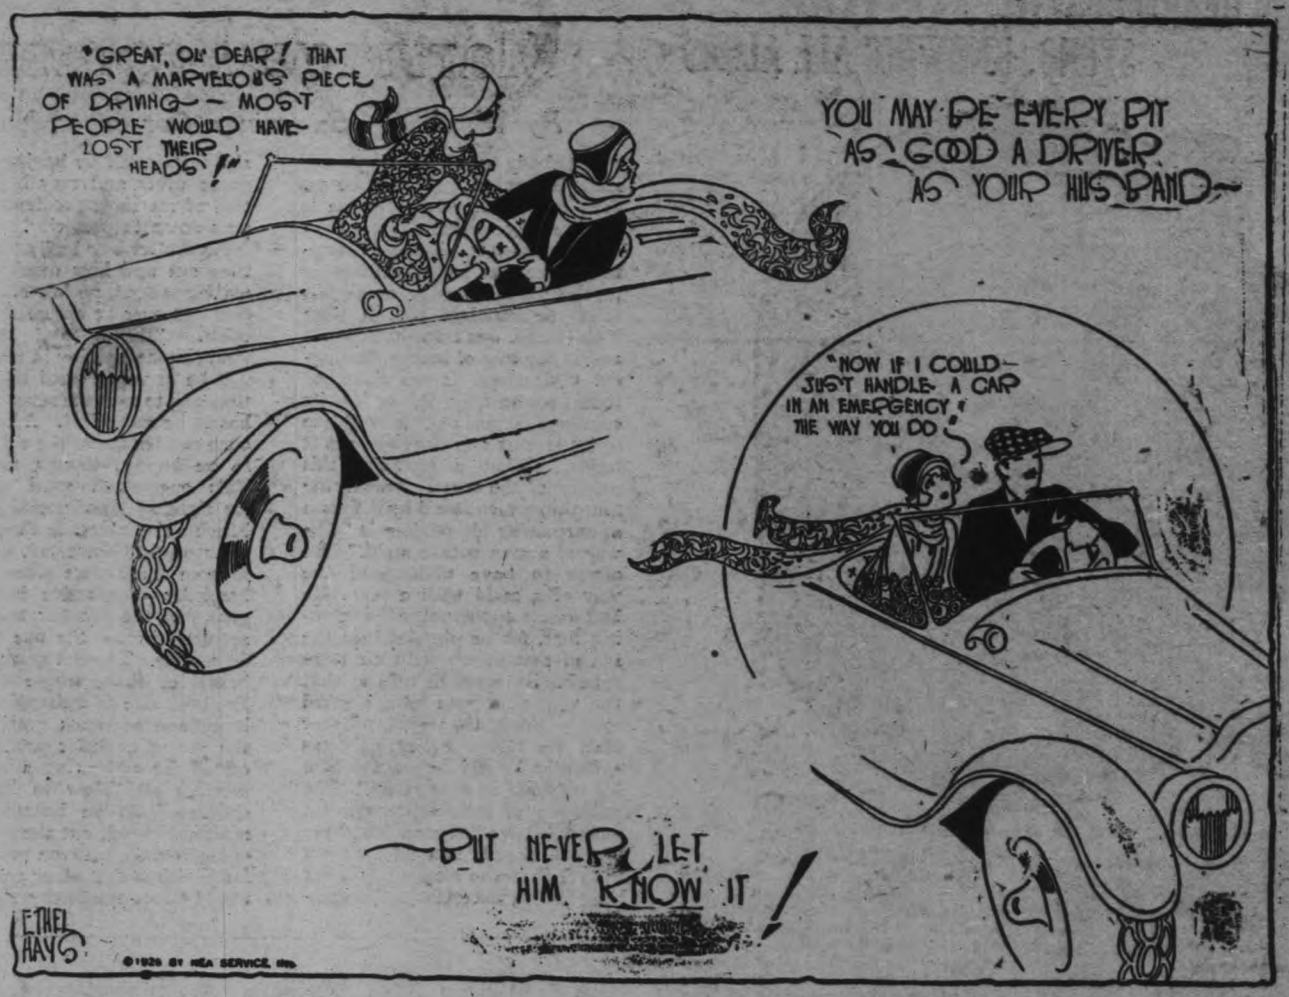
How To Keep A Husband - By Jeanette



(BY JEANETTE)

"If a woman but cook, we care not how she looks, for we never can find her peer. She may write many books, and convert all the crooks, but if she can't cook, then of her we would tire in a year. Though pure as the babbling brooks, and wise as the owls and rooks—and no cook—then of her we steer clear."

The man or woman who wrote that "said a mouthful." Although we regret to record it, the chief requisite of a happy marriage, according to the majority of the people we have asked, appears to be this ability to cook. But, oddly enough, the few voices who did not put this accomplishment at the head of the list were those of the masculine sex. Without one exception, the ladies all answered promptly, as a first thought: "Feed the brute!"

Writers for magazine sections such as this have many queer assignments placed before them, but they are usually able by dint of much brain-searching and application to grind out something that will do, even though it may not have any of the earmarks of genius. But a question like this requires interrogation of those who have already achieved matrimony or had it thrust upon them, as it were, or had it taken away from them. So we went to the fountain-head of wisdom and asked those who had been there. Some of them laughed and some of them sighed, and they all prefaced their remarks, at least the ladies did, with an expression something like this: "It is quite a problem!" Evidently, after having safely escorted a man to the altar, then the lady has to face the lifelong job of keeping him safely and securely.

One woman said: "A great deal depends upon a person's temperament. However, grumbling is a thing that ought to be forgotten altogether. Fault-finding and nagging will take the joy out of anything. If either the man or woman is not well, physically, they should not harp on this. A contented atmosphere is the best for any home. And a woman should never be slipshod in her dress."

Another lady considers as the best possible method of enchaining a husband permanently to "keep him guessing all the time. Don't be submissive. As soon as you knuckle down and give him his own way, he will lose all respect for you. Keep him always in pursuit of you." This idea is something along the line of the widom of Pliny the Younger, who said sagely enough: "An object in possession seldom retains the same charm that it did in pursuit," or, as the moderns put it, "a man seldom runs after the street car he has caught," the idea in the background being that the lady should always be just a little in advance of the gentleman's reach. We heard once of a young thing who pursued this policy to an extreme, and the gentleman in the case got so excited about it that he put a bullet through her head and its companion through his own.

This theory is in direct contradiction to the expressed belief of another lady, a widow, by the way, and Tony Weller always said that widows ar e wise people. This lady thinks that a woman should always "make a fuss over a man." She should be nice to him "all the time," without any let-up, and keep the house so comfortable and herself so amusing that "he will never even want to go out to a movie show" to be entertained. This seems like a fairly large order.

A woman writer, Cynthia Grey, lays down three rules for a lady: "First of all, she must flatter him. For beauty and wit haven't a chance compared with the art of a raw compliment. And feed him. For all the charm in the world goes down before the vulgar appeal of onion soup and a sizzling porterhouse. And, above all, listen to him. For a man is like a radio, whose function is to make a noise. And he has ust about as much use for a talkative woman as a receiving set has for one."

To coax the gentleman, to "kid him along," and "make him believe that he is always right," is another woman's formula for married happiness, and a bachelor listener added this: "get your own way if you can, but always let him think he is getting his way. Humor him and keep him in a good humor all the time."

An interesting sidelight on such marital deception is given in a story appearing in a recent issue of MacLean's Magazine, in which the fat and tiresome husband, a radio fan, perfects a radio attachment which enables him to unknowingly read the thoughts of those around him. Much to his horror, he finds that his amiable-appearing wife has the most treacherous thoughts about him and hopes that he will die soon, so that she may marry a younger and slimmer gentleman.

Another lady thinks a woman should not be too independent. The feminine member who demands attention, so she says, always gets it, while the lady who hops into cars unaided and is quite capable of encasing herself in her coat, for instance, without masculine assistance, is left to struggle nobly along alone.

The writer of a recent book states that a woman should be always the same. That is, she should pursue the same method after marriage as before, and never let a man know whether he really has her securely. An unmarried young man, who evidently prefers salt to sugar, thinks that a wife can make the mistake of being too amiable, but a lady of maturer years says it is quite all right for a maiden to be fractious and hard to please, but that no man wants a wife who keeps him continually in suspense as to her attitude.

"Keep yourself immaculate, retain a sense of humour, for use especially in quarrels, and flirt with your husband, but not with other men. Never let him be too sure of you," says a lady who is apparently quite successfully married.

This idea of neatness appears to be universal among men, too . A clerical gentleman refers to the Parisienne's habit of never appearing in negligee before her husband, and always having her hair beautifully dressed, and a widower says: "Always be as neat and tidy for your husband as you would for a sweetheart. Be a good cook and change the menus frequently. Never be careless in dress or deportment, or in your references to your husband in company. Some women refer to a man as though he were the hired help around the house. Show an interest in his business cares, and above all, do not let your love grow cold. Sometimes a well-meaning man or woman with love in their hearts for their partner will appear indifferent, and thus cause a break in their happy relations." The above appears to sum it all up pretty well.

Another married man gives the advice: "Make him have a hobby, if he hasn't one already, and then encourage him in it. He won't go away from homes at nights, if you do this."

Billie Burke, who appears to be successfully married to Florenz Ziegfeld, one of the greatest garnerers of female beauty for his shows on the American continent, says that she never allows stories which come to her ears of her husband's professional interest in other and more beautiful women, to disturb her at all, and, even if she is jealous in her heart, she never shows it.

An unmarried young girl thinks the successful formula would be to "always play fair, and always be amiable," a married man says a wife should never expect her husband to be an angel, and another thinks nagging and scolding is a great barrier to marital happiness. a young man who has had quite a wide experience of his own thinks amiability is a chief requisite. "Treat him nice, and don't nag,' he says. "Even if he comes home drunk, still don't say a word. Hit him with a rolling-pin.'

To make the home comfortabl' and to be neat and tidy in one's per-e sonal appearance is another married man's opinion of a successful wife.

Judge Emily Murphy ("Janey Canuck") says that, while married men often have occasion to pity the wives of their friends, they never think their own wives have any grievances, and cites the case of a woman who is ready to leave home because her otherwise kindly husband demands a reason for the smallest expenditure on her part, and won't give her money, even for hair pins, a peculiar desire in these days of bobbed locks. Mrs. Murphy quotes Tolstoy's saying: "Love cannot be stupid," as a reason for complete understanding in such difficulties, evidently thinking that love is absent when such difficulties crop up.

"A woman should be a good housekeeper, but not too good a one," says another sage lady. "Lots of drinking men have homes that are too immaculate and too spotless all the time."

A woman writer, Olive Roberts Barton, seems to think that the summum bonum, in a man's opinion, is the ability in a woman to make jam. She says that men adore jam and draws a word picture which delineates most of the masculine population of the world as bearing a continual hunger for such concentrated sweets. She says: "If you are in search of a husband, it matters not whether your nose is retrousse or your forehead high, your Charleston a bit stiff or your avoirdupois plus, learn to make jam and have him to dine." But a lady who has been married many years scoffs at this notion, and says men don't hanker for jam at all. So there you are.

An idea of the hazards involved in considering a man's happiness is contained in the following lines:

"He said: Don't bother about me, darling!" And so—she left the lather on his razor blades. And his towels on the floor. And his slipers under the bathtub. And the alarm clock under the bed clothes. And his golf sticks in the back yard. And his pet pipe on the radiator. And the top off his tobacco jar. And she did not peel his orange for him at breakfast. Or put the sugar in his coffee. Or find his rubbers for him. Or remember to give his tailor the deuce. And so one day he said to a friend, "Gosh, some-

"FAITHFUL HUSBAND? NEVER HEARD OF ONE," SAYS PRIZE STENO, KNOWING ALL ALIBIS

Ruth Olesen . . . may be sorry, but she won't be surprised.

A husband who is always and absolutely faithful? There isn't any such animal, says Ruth Olesen, New York's prize stenographer. She doesn't hope to find a husband who will be any more so than other women's husbands she has observed in offices. .

"I know men too well to expect to find a monogamous one for my very own," she declares. "Haven't I made excuses for a hundred husbands over the office telephone?

"That's one reason why men resent women's presence in business. The office girl knows too much to be fooled when her time comes."

Miss Olesen was chosen from among thousands of applicants to officiate as "Father Knickerbocker's Secretary" at the New York National Business Show, and to represent New York at the San Francisco show, in a contest for the title, "Uncle Sam's Secretary."

The applicants were recommended by their employers on the basis of personality, tact, accuracy, reliability and experience—which qualities were valued by the bosses in the order named.

Despite the tradition that a stenographer has the inside track to a man's heart, office romance, according to Miss Olesen, is "the bunk." "Never mix love and business," she says. "It's sure to get you in Dutch, even when the man is not married. No efficient girl likes to feel that her business progress depends upon her sex appeal."

But romance in general—that's a different matter! Ruth Olesen means to marry the first good looking, clean cut, well-bred, ambitious and considerate business man who comes along.

And if he divides his attention after marriage, well, she'll be sorry, but she won't be surprised.

How To Win a Husband !

(By Olive Roberts Barton.)

I don't know a man who doesn't like jam. I believe matrimonial bureaus would do a land-office business in husbands if they put among the credentials of their feminine clients, "She can make good old-fashioned gooseberry jam, and for cherry preserves she can't be beat." The "Billy boys" would be elbowing each other out of line at her door.

Have you ever entertained a bachelor who dines at his club or hotels and who knows no "spreads" save mint gelatina ted jelly with his lamb, a paper thimble of aenemic apple sauce with his duck, guava with his patties, and with his turkey cranberries the color and consistency of dried blood?

If he asks if there is such a thing as jam to be had the assistingwaiter goes to the waiter, the waiter goes to the captain, the captain goes to the head waiter, the head waiter goes to the steward, and the steward goes to the management. In three quarters of an hour he is presented with an individual glass the size of a spool with a rich label that tells him it is orange marmalade. He dips in a tentative spoon and tastes it.

"Just as I suspected," he remarks to the flower holder. "Up till to-day it has puzzled me to know what they did with the stuff they used to make overshoes out of."

Have you ever noticed your bachelor guest adroitly turn the conversation to jam? He will, invariably. He may be Machiavellian enough to make you think you have had an inspiration to offer it to him. But the fact remains; you send to the cellar for his favorite kind and thereafter you carry on the conversation yourself. He is delightfully, sublimely and entirely occupied.

I am trying to be subtle. I wonder if I am! Well, here it is. Girls, if you are in search of a husband, it matters not whether your nose is retrousse or your forehead high, your Charleston a bit stiff or your avoirdupois plus, learn to make jam and have him to dine.

A REAL DAD !

I'm strong for the fellow who says, "Say, I'm dad to some of the best kids that man ever had." He throws out his chest and he breaks into smile. I'll tell ya, that fella is really worth while.

He comes down the street, when his day's work is through. The feeling he gets—you'd be glad, if you knew. Some youngsters come runnin', then suddenly stop. A jump and a hug and a "welcome home, pop!"

They give him more tuggin' than should be allowed. And does it provoke him? Why, no, man, he's proud! Ya can't irritate him, 'cause such things are fine. Just think of the thrill, sayin', "yessir, they're mine."

As years roll along and the age lines creep in, that sort of a fella can still spread the grin. To him, he will find, youth has right closely clung, and the kids he's been close to have kept their dad young.

Concerning Marriage Problems

By W. J. C., Examiner Correspondent

Somebody said "Marriages are made in heaven." If that be so, then that great celestial clime is given to more practical jokes than ever conceded it. If there is anything that has contributed more to the world's humor or pathos than the marriage roll, it were high time it was brought to light, and in the case of humor, furthered. Marriage is no joke to those contracting it, or to its contemporaries, yet, how shorn of its serious side does one see it today. What a problem, this mating of the sexes. Among the four things mentioned by Solomon as surpassing his wisdom is "The way of a man with a maid." He seems to have understood the way of a maid with a man. He had ample opportunities of learning that, for he plunged into the sea of matrimony with an awfu splash. So, when he tells us that the way of a man with a maid was a thing too wonderful for him, we rather believe him as evidently he did not understand his own self in that respect. The problems of matrimony do not seem to have lessened with the flight of time.It is a long stretch from Solomon to Henry VIII., yet King Hal, so historians say, memorialised himself by having in turn seven wives and very little solution of marriage problems did he pass down to posterity.

No matter how badly marriages turn out and how much of mismating is seen, no law of prohibition can ever be enforced against them. "Eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage" will be in vogue until the end of time and to such the severest critic has to be reconciled. A book was once written under the title "How to be happy, though married." This suggsetted good remedies for righting matrimonial wrongs. Much unhappiness in the married state would be averted, however, if more study were given beforehand by prospective bride and groom to the peculiar tastes and requirements of the one selected for a mate. To exert sympathy on behalf of those whose marriage has been one of unhappiness will bring one as much gratitude as the young bachelor preacher received for addressing a mothers' meeting on "How to bring up children." So ye benedicts and matrons, thresh out the problems of married life between yourselves, for foolish is that other party who would waste sympathy upon you

John Ruskin, as usual, put the matter on a very high basis, when he wrote: "Ah! the true rule is—a true wife in her husband's house is his servant; it is in his heart that she is queen. Whatever of the best he can conceive, it is her part to be, whatever of the highest he can hope, it is hers to promise; all that is dark in him she must purge into purity; all that is failing in him she must strengthen into truth; from her, through all the world's clamour, he must win his praise; in her, through all the world's warfare, he must find his peace."

A modern writer, Sonia Novak Clary, in a little verse entitled "Clemency," says that women should never attempt to discipline men, nor tell them what to do. They should minister to their hurts and refrain at all times from preaching, "which creates a stubbornness that God nor man can reach!" and they should, to successfully manage men, "just let them be."

And another lady, in a few pithy Maxims for married women, from a book called "A Detached Pirate," hands out the following words of wisdom:

"Never mistake a man for a god. Never imagine slights, for men don't hint; they hit hard when they are angry. Be happy in yourself. A man is not always thinking of you when he looks cross. Don't flatter yourself it is because your nose is red, or that he fears you do not love him. Probably something has gone wrong with his work, and he will tell you when he feels like it. Don't ask too many questions, and never say, "I told you so." Always dress well, take more trouble for your husband than your lover—a husband lasts until death, a lover is easily replaced.

"Remember that a man does not how you just can't be too literal with a woman!"

And then again you have a case like this, observed in a married couple of long standing: She never saw his linen, not even his handkerchiefs, from the day they were married, only through an occasional peep into the bureau drawers when he was absent. He was so fussy about his personal belongings that he required and wished for no interference, and looked after all his personal clothing himself, even to the darning of his socks! She preserved a respectful distance at all times—and they are a happily married couple.

A married man, regarding the question from a jocular point of view, says that a woman always should do as she is told by her husband, but later gave it as his firm opinion that a successful marriage is always of the "fifty-fifty" variety, with no double set of rules.

The idea that a man sometimes mistakes the character of his affinity, and then rues the day, is expressed in a little poem by Theodosia Garrison, who goes on to chronicle the efforts of a bookworm to bring down to earth his little frivolous mate, and ends the poem with the lines: "A sensible man should stick to his clan and evade a butterfly chase—for somewhere, out in the moon-splashed wood, her painted mate must swim, and somewhere, earnest, spectacled, good, is the woman God meant for him."

always want to kiss you, and never at an exciting moment, when he is very much interested in anything. A man leads a much more dual life than a woman; he is two people.

"We forget that, and want him to live for love only. When he wants kisses, let him have them, but stop him, leave him, before he has had too many. He can have too much of you, little as you think it. And this I would say to the woman who loves with her head as well as with her heart: be two different beings with your husband, his wife and his friend, his pal. Be different in each capacity; then he won't tire of you. Don't mix up the parts; that would spoil both. Stage them differently."

And, just as a chaser, there is a homely bit of philosophy from the lips of "Aunt Het," the outsize lady who decorates the pages of the Mail and Empire: "A husband can forgive everything except his wife bein' untrue or failin' to ask what's the matter when he's poutin'."

SAYS MEN CAN BE BEARDLESS

The time may come when men ,if they wish, can relieve themselves of the both of the morning shave, and when women's won't need to worry about trimming their bobbed hair.

This promise, says Popular Science Monthly, is held out by H. C. Brooke, English naturalist, as the result of experiments in the regulation of hair growth. Hair, Brooke says, is purely a matter of heredity. In his experiments he produced a strain of mice whose head became bald in sixteen days. A few days later they lost the fur on their backs and a little later all their hair.

RADIO the Voice of the Air

RADIO CHAOS GETS WORSE WAITING LAW

Crowded Atmosphere Cause of Much Distortion.

MORE STATIONS

Soon There Will Be 750 Station to Listen to— 12 News Stations.

The squeals, whistles and howls that you hear during an evening's session before the radio receiver are not the fault of the set as much as they're a sign of an over-burdened atmosphere.

The chaos that radio broadcasters long have been trying to squelch has broken loose.

We are tuning in on 595 broadcasters at this writing on only 89 wavelengths. And these aren't evenly distributed over the country so as to minimize the whistling that results from the clashing of wavelengths.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover winked his left eye when he had the Attorney-General notify him of his helplessness in controlling the wavelength situation for lack of an adequate law. It was a diplomatic move on his part, for he knew it would be thrust back at the millions of radio fans whose voices would be heard much more easily by the political attaches in Congress.

Some Action Due.

By the first of the year, it is very likely, they will have a definite law in effect, or they'll at least adopt a temporary measure to clear the air of squeals and howls while they confer on a lasting provision for the good of radio.

In that case every license now in effect will be revoked and a temporary permit issued to old as well as new broadcasters. Most stations already broadcasting will be permitted to continue on the wavelengths on which they have been transmitting. But even the temporary provision will see that the Secretary of Commerce, or a similar authority, controls the distribution of frequencies.

This much, at least, is assured by those representatives and Senators who are most interested in the broadcasting situation. Difference of opinion over various details, however, is holding them up on the ultimate law.

More Stations Coming.

By the time even the temporary regulations are put into effect, it is estimated we'll have about 750 stations to listen to. They'll be on all sorts of wavelengths, some even pirating wavelengths set aside for Canadian stations, others assuming intermediate frequencies that impose on established broadcasters.

Weekly there are from six to 12 news stations on the list issued by the Department of Commerce. And the schedule of changes in wavelength and power is too confusing to understand.

Broadcasters are free to do anything they please under present conditions except advertise bootleg liquor or spread seditious propaganda.

Outside the law, their only limitation is imposed by the fact that radio receivers are designed to tune in wavelengths ranging from 200 to 560 meters. It would be futile to broadcast on shorter or longer wavelengths.

To a Philadelphia Fan So Close Yet Far Away

A radio receiver proved a useful ear-trumpet at the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Philadelphia to a far-sighted fan whose seat was three-quarters of a mile from the ringside. He threw a wire over his shoulder and listened to the broadcast, while he tried to see what he could with a pair of binoculars.

A Rare Treat Of Old-Time Minstrelsy

If you want to spend a pleasant Sunday evening some time, get the old jimmy pipe out and tune in to one of the minstrels broadcast by WGBS. After listening to several of them, this department is willing to testify before a Congressional committee to the effect that WGBS is putting on a series of minstrel shows worth anybody's cigar store coupons.

If you have been in the habit of listening to some of the minstrels broadcast from here and there and from time to time, you will probably accuse us of being goofy after making such a statement. Be that as it may, WGBS is releasing every other Sunday a line of "nigger talk" that is about as funny as anything that we have ever heard broadcast—with the possible exception of Mr. MacNamee's rollicking reflections on the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

'KEYS' CEREMONY HEARD OVER RADIO

Picturesque Custom of Locking Tower of London Is Broadcast.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Millions of radio listeners in throughout the British Isles on Thursday night heard from within the walls of the grim old Tower of London the "Ceremony of the Keys"—a ceremony which has been performed nightly for well-nigh 700 years.

The ceremony is the formal locking of the fortress until the morning. Prisoners of high birth—men and women—awaiting a fearful meeting on the morrow with the executioner and his axe on Tower Green heard it in the days of the Henrys and of Queen Mary; it reached the ears of those of the King's enemies of ten years ago who had been caught spying within the King's realm, and who were within the Tower bravely preparing themselves for a sinister file of Grenadiers.

The Yeoman porter, wearing a long scarlet cloak and bearing a huge bunch of keys, attended by another porter carrying a lantern, appears in front of the guard-house. "Escord for Keys," he loudly demands.

The Sergeant of the Guard and six men turn out and accompany him to the spur, or outer gate. Each sentry challenges the little party. "Who goes there?" "The Keys." "Pass, Keys."

The outer gate is carefully locked. Nobody may now enter the Tower until daybreak. The procession returns to the guard-house. The sentry here gives a loud stamp with his foot.

"Who goes there?"

"The Keys."

"Whose Keys?"

"King George's Keys."

"Advance, King George's Keys, and all's well."

"God bless King George," cries the Yeoman porter.

"Amen," respond the guard.

The procession then goes on its way to deposit the Keys at the Lieutenant's lodgings.

On Thursday this ancient ceremony was heard by listeners-in around firesides from Eddystone to the Orkneys. In order to secure adequate reception no fewer than six microphones were specially installed at different points within the Tower.

IMPROVE METHOD OF RADIO ACTION

Cleverly Arranged Tones Make Radio Dramas Real.

The playhouse hidden within your receiver is getting better because of the realization that your ears refuse to be deceived.

Tune in WGY or WJZ or WOOD or any other first-class broadcaster for an evening of dramatic art, nowadays, and you may realize the great advance made in this field. The plays, especially the actions depicted by their sounds alone, are more real than they have been in the first few years.

Our ears have demanded this improvement. The radio director has gone to all means to supply it.

As a result, the broadcasting station offers at the same time no greater problem and no greater radio art than that of furnishing the "props" for radio plays in the form of sound.

Two Types of Noise.

While some directors have abandoned the production of plays by radio as futile, because of this stringent demand, others have accepted the challenge and come forth victorious.

Two methods have been adopted. One is the direct method of recording the various sounds, as made in real life, for their use later in connection with any radio play calling for them.

The British Broadcasting Company, for instance, placed a microphone at a busy London corner to get its sounds as background and local color for a play it was broadcasting.

Maurice Wetzel, director of station WOOD, at Grand Rapids, Mich., is perhaps the pioneer in this class of play broadcasting. He has a large library of records on which he has collected all sorts of sounds from real life, for production in the radio studio whenever needed. Automobiles, trains, boats and all other sources of essential noises are on tap ready to take their parts in a play.

Sound Factories.

The other method for the production of sounds in the studio is that adopted, and perhaps originated, by station WGY, at Schenectady, N. Y.

In this studio, as well as many others, are all sorts of peculiar contraptions for noise making. Here, in place of putting on a record to repeat the actual noises of an express train, the director collects a locomotive bell, its whistle, a pair of skates, a sheet of steel, two cords, a flour sifter and two blocks of wood covered with sandpaper. It requires five persons to work these "instruments," but their combined efforts produce the sound of a passing express acceptable to the critical ear.

At WJZ, in New York, recently, as many as 50 bells were tried out to get the most realistic reproduction of a locomotive bell, one which would enable the ear to recognize a locomotive without any explanatory remarks. Yet an actual locomotive bell failed to convince the ear of even a veteran engineer.

That's the difficulty in bringing reality to radio.

Eye Easy to Please.

At the movies, the sight of a locomotive on the screen is enough to tell us what it is, even though the weird swishing, ringing and whistling from the orchestra tends to spoil the effect.

But in radio, with nothing to see, as suggesting to us the source of a sound or group of sounds, the noises made in the studio have to be extremely accurate to convince us.

Directors have come closer to this attainment than ever before.

CANADIAN STATIONS COMBINE BROADCAST

Like United States Stations, Will Give Joint Programmes.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(United Press).—Canada's permanent radio broadcast hook-up went into effect recently when CNRM, Montreal, and CNRO, Ottawa, jointly broadcast the first of a series of musical programmes. Permission was granted the operators of CNRO by the Canadian Government Radio Department to change its periods of broadcasting from Wednesday and Saturday evenings to Monday and Thursday evenings.

While two or more of the CNR stations have tied in for broadcasting a common programme on several occasions in the past, yesterday marked the first Canadian hook-up of any permanence. Two programmes originating in each city will be broadcast during the month. It is expected that the next addition to the string will be CNRT, Toronto.

Relay of the programmes from city to city will, of course, be performed by telephone wires. Arrangements have been made to continue the joint programmes until midnight each night, the later hours being taken up with a dance programme by the Chateau Laurier Orchestra at Ottawa.

Harry—How long have you been married?

N.A. of Pro. Baseball League Selects Dallas for 1927 Session

TWO SOUTHERN TRAINING CAMPS PICKED BY M'GRAW FOR GIANTS

Will Work First at Sarasota and Then at St. Augustine.

START APRIL 1ST.

Homeward Journey Again To Be Made With the Senators.

(By JAMES R. HARRISON)

The Giants, always to be relied on to spring something new in the world of baseball, sprang it yesterday. Through John J. McGraw they announced that the club would not be content with one training camp next Spring; the Giants will go their rivals one better by having two training sites, one in Sarasota, the other in St. Augustine.

From Feb. 20 to March 20 the McGrawmen will warm up in Sarasota, on the West Coast of Florida. From March 20 until April 1 the Giants will hold their daily dozens at St. Augustine, which is located on the East Coast, a few miles south of Jacksonville. Thus the Giants will divide their patronage equally between the two coasts of Florida.

"Six weeks in one place is too monotonous," said McGraw in explanation of the decision to maintain dual training camps. "Besides, it gets too hot in Sarasota near the end of March. The climate in St. Augustine, which is much further north, is ideally suited for a ball club in the latter part of March. It affords an easy transition to the cool weather to be found in the north as the ball clubs advance homeward."

The Giants, incidentally, will make the northward tour in company with the Senators, who have been their Spring opponents for the last two years. The journey with Washington will begin at St. Augustine on April 1, ending with two games at the Polo Grounds on the Saturday and Sunday before the opening of the championship season.

McGraw, it was known, was not entirely satisfied with the results attained at Sarasota last year. He was of the opinion that the hot weather there was too much of a good thing; the athletes were baked out and overtrained by the end of the training season. By shifting to a cooler climate he hopes to get away from the continuous hot weather.

At Sarasota the usual schedule of exhibition games will be played with other major league clubs, including a few side-trips to nearby training camps. One or two big league teams also will be played at St. Augustine in the nine days which will be spent at the East Coast resort.

The Giants will play on the same field at Sarasota and stop at the Sarasota Terrace Hotel, where they put up last Spring. They will be lodged at the Alcazar Hotel in St. Augustine.

Another advantage to be found at St. Augustine is Sunday baseball, which is forbidden at Sarasota. The Giants expect to get in two Sunday games at their second training camp.

The Yankees have been suspiciously quiet since that melancholy afternoon when they lost the final game of the world's series to the Cardinals. Monsieur Barrow has had nothing to say, and neither has Professor Huggins, who spent two weeks at a health farm preparatory to retreating to the sun-kissed shores of Florida.

It would not be surprising to see the Yanks bob up with one or two surprising trades in the form of purchases of minor league pitchers. Messrs. Barrows and Huggins are now at the minor league meetings in Asheville, where they are said to be closeted with the lesser magnates in deep conferences.

The Yanks need nothing quite as much as pitchers. Their catchers, infielders and outfielders are more than passing fair, and the only department which gives Mr. Huggins cause to worry is the pitching. His veterans are disquietingly aged — Pennock, Shocker, Reuther, Shawkey, Jones and Hoyt. Any or all of them may crack at any given moment. They gave evidences of bending at rather critical moments last season. The younger set of twirlers is nothing to boast of and Huggins must depend on a fresh influx of candidates from the minor leagues.

Western Association Plans Housecleaning

ASHEVILLE, N.C., Dec. 11.—The Western Association plans a housecleaning reorganization that will leave only two clubs of the 1926 circuit on the roster when the curtain goes up next year. A new President also is proposed. Lack of patronage is the cause of the wholesale changes. Only Springfield, Mo., and Fort Smith, Ark., of the present league would be retained in the new, but there would be eight clubs instead of six. The circuit was revamped in 1924 and 1925. The proposed new President is Dale Gear, now the head of the Western League. Plans for the change were broached at the minor league session.

RICKARD NAMES RING RIVALS FOR SHARKEY

Boston Fighter To Meet Persson-Malony Winner in February.

PAOLINO IN MARCH.

If He Beats Both Hub Heavyweight Will Box Berlenback.

By James P. Dawson

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—The opponents definitely selected for Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight title match next Fall with Gene Tunney are the winner of the Harry Persson-Jim Maloney battle to be held in the Garden on Dec. 20; Paolino, the Basque woodchopper, and Paul Berlenbach, former world's light-heavyweight champion.

The prospective ring rivals for Sharkey were made known yesterday when Promoter Tex Rickard revealed his plans following announcement of the nature of the contracts he had signed by Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, on Buckley's return to Boston. Rickard expressed regret that his plans had become prematurely known, but at the same time the promoter expressed satisfaction with his plans for one of the most elaborate heavy weight elimination tournaments ever undertaken.

Rickard plans on Sept. 15 next to promote a bout in which Tunney will defend title he won last Sept. 23 from Jack Dempsey. This battle, Rickard said, will be staged at the Yankee Stadium here, unless opposition develops, as was encountered in the promoter's plans for the Dempsey-Tunney bout. In that event Rickard undoubtedly will undertake to erect a mammoth outdoor arena, bigger than any now in existence and more satisfactorily constructed from the spectator's standpoint.

Arena Plans Under Way

Although the promoter would not comment on the subject, it was learned yesterday Rickard already has launched plans for the erection of an arena to cost $2,000,000, and it is understood the plant will be located in Jersey City. Rickard probably will divulge his plans in this direction within a short time.

On Feb. 7, Sharkey is signed to fight the winner of the Persson-Maloney encounter. The Hub conqueror of Harry Wills will tackle Paolinio on March 14, and on June 9, in Rickard's first important outdoor event Sharkey is slated to battle Paul Berlenbach at the Yankee Stadium. Sharkey must batter his way past these three rivals, and perhaps one other, before Rickard will undertake to match him against Tunney. The promoter admits he has not yet signed Tunney, but declared he is proceeding on the theory that he will be able to beat the offer of any rival promoter when Tunney really decides to defend his title. He will have the challenger under contract, a detail which will give him the advantage over any rival promoter who may attempt to snare the title bout.

In his proposed elimination series for Sharkey and leading to Tunney, Rickard has purposely omitted mention of Dempsey and Jack Delaney, world's light-heavyweight champion, who is clamoring for a crack at Tunney. The promoter explained this by saying that he did not seriously consider Delaney as qualified to battle for the heavyweight title, and added that in the case of Dempsey the former champion can enter the series at any time Dempsey selects. Sharkey is under contract to Promoter Humbert Fugazy until Feb. 1, and for this reason Rickard has made his plans for the period subsequent to that date, and with the understanding a defeat in any one bout will eliminate Sharkey.

FOOTBALL SUPPER HELD AT 'GROVE'

Crowning Event of Autumn Season Held on Thursday Evening.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 11. — The football supper, the crowning event of the autumn season at "The Grove," was held on Thursday evening.

Including the staff, the guests and the boys, more than one hundred and thirty people sat down to supper in the spacious dining-room of the school, which was in festal attire. The school colors, green and red, were used extensively combined with Christmas greens and red candles on the tables, added a dainty touch to the scheme of decoration.

When the supper proper was concluded, the headmaster, Rev. A. W. Mackenzie rose and proposed the toast to the King, which was honored in the usual way.

The second toast is one which always calls up to the older friends of the school and the old boys' visions of lads, individual boys, who used to be boys of the school, playing on teams and who on the state occasion of the football supper sat at the most important table (that of the team) and perchance responded o the toast, making a maiden speech in manly schoolboy fashion. The names of the boys remembered in the second toast (the silent one) are inscribed on the roll of honor of the school and on the roll of honor of their country. Silently, reverently, the toast is drunk and honored.

Mr. O. A. Langley proposed the toast to the School, which he deemed a great privilege, as he regards The Grove as one of the finest institutions, which has developed from a small beginning 30 or 40 years ago with a few local boys to the size it is to-day. It is a power in the village and in the land, with many of its ex-pupils in the best positions in the country. Old boys are leaders of society in every walk of life all over Canada, and in other countries too. The Grove is well-known and has become, under the splendid leadership of the head, Mr. Mackenzie, almost a national institution. The public schools are doing good work, but there is a necessity for such places as The Grove, and the speaker is greatly pleased at its growth and success.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie replied, expressing thanks to Mr. Langley for his graceful manner of proposing the toast. The speaker was reminded of Mr. Hilliard, who said once, "They call it the football supper, and we hear very little about football." So on this occasion Mr. Mckenzie spoke a few words about the game itself. In Canada football is in its transition stage; the old English game had a scrim of nine men, and it was played in this fashion in the speaker's college days when he played the game with his fellow-students. Shortly afterwards the rules were altered and developed more along American lines, although, luckily, not all the way. We had an opportunity of seeing the American game in Toronto last fall, and it has many points of contrast to our game, as, for instance, to play the American game one must perforce be a big man, as weight counts for much more than speed; there is no place for the small, quick man to slip through. This winter will decide whether Canadian rules will be put back a bit toward the English rules, and you boys should form your opinions of the methods and help further whatever plan is best for the country. It is a very important matter, for any game played all over the country is important to that country, as cricket is in England and baseball in the United States.

Speaking of the school, Mr. Mackenzie said: "The school is neither the building, the masters nor even the boys, but the product of the school." Each school is proud of its product, and we too are proud—it is difficult to pick any special boy and say "there is the typical product of the school," but a composite boy made up of say the prefects of the past few years would be nearer the mark. Some one who will always play the game, whether winning or losing, and who assists the weaker ones. The story of the old Maori chief conveys an idea of this spirit. When the British were fighting the Maoris in New Zealand, a force of the former were beseized in a fort, and after a while their firing ceased, so the Maori chief sent over to know the reason and received the reply that their powder was all gone, so he sent a barrel of powder so the fight could go on.

Mr. E. R. Tate proposed the toast to the Ladies, as one of the greatest importance, and one which was to be approached in no light manner, and the man who handles it must be no sluggard. It is the first time the speaker has had this honor and for the first time he can speak to the ladies and about the ladies as long as he likes without fear of interruption. He closed by recalling the words of a former rector, a popular bachelor, who was always called on for this toast, and who said, "The subject was like a book, every man needed a new edition."

Mr. J. A. Creasor replied, saying that it was a great honor to reply on behalf of the ladies, and would, on their behalf, thank the gentlemen for drinking their health. The matter of replying to this toast is a bachelor's job, probably because he doesn't know the ladies. As this is the last opportunity for the speaker to officiate in this capacity, he esteems it an honor to be asked to do so.

Mr. T. J. Wood proposed the toast to The Team, who were seated in the place of honor in the middle of the room at a special table, over which was suspended the football, the emblem of the feast. Mr. Wood spoke of the good work of the team this year, over half of which was recruited from the lower school. It was a fine aggregation, and inspired the school just as the former teams have inspired this team. What you are in the football field or hockey rink you are in the school: play hard but with no rankling animosity but play to win, for that is the Canadian spirit which has placed Canada where she stands to-day. The boys are, as it were, in a lower school through which they must pass to the bigger school, the world and if you practice the principles of fair play and sportsmanship which you have learned here you will find the world not such a bad old place after all.

Some of the boys won their colors and some didn't; the former have won their award while the latter have something to work for. Then there are the little fellows who play on the little field, who emulate the bigger players and make heroes of them, which is right and proper, as it is an inspiration to a boy to feel he is a smaller boy's hero and it raises his standard, and the small boy wants to follow his hero, so that it works both ways. The speaker travelled with the team to all their outside games, and everywhere they were well received and complimented on their good sportsmanship.

E. Boultbee, the captain of the team, replied, thanking Mr. Wood for his kind words and for the spirit with which he inspired the team. All his words do not compare with his kindness in coaching. Mr. Marling, too, deserves thanks for the capable manner in which he handled the games.

The toast to Old Boys and Absent Friends was proposed by Mr. F. W. B. Marling, who said he might talk till next Christmas about the old boys, who are, in the widest sense, the largest part of the school and it is by them that people judge the school. It is a curious thing that in thinking about old boys one naturally thinks, where did they play on the team. Of absent friends the most felt absence is the ones remembered in the silent toast. We have the kindliest feeling for the old boys, and are sure they are not giving anything but a favorable impression wherever they go, and we are glad to see them return.

Midshipman Hugh Pullen replied to this toast, thanking Mr. Marling for his kind remarks. He said, "I belong to that rather funny body, the Canadian Navy, and the school has produced most of the officers. The senior officer is an old Grove boy, and another officer, also a Grove boy, has been made A.O.C. to the Governor-General."

Mr. E. de C. Fletcher proposed the toast to the new boys, saying that he would like to talk a long time on this most important toast, for if there were no new boys, no school. This year there are fourteen new boys, and we should congratulate ourselves on the type of new boys who were once described as painful necessities.

Several new boys replied, led off by A. Bagg.

During the course of the toast list several rousing and appropriate choruses were sung, accompanied by Mr. Connell.

Following the toast list was the distribution of the sports prizes, cups, medals and other trophies. The oldest of these is the Cowley medal, which is given by Mr. G. B. Hilliard, who in 1899 first instituted this race. The Cowley medal is the most coveted of all the trophies and this year it was won by Hunt, the time prize was won by Strickland i.

The prizes were presented by the headmaster:

The Seaforth Cup — Big side — Hudson.

The Seaforth Cup—Little side—Owen.

The Seaforth Cup—Junior—Carter iiii.

Mr. FitzGerald's Challenge Cup was won by Griffiths.

Mr. Marling's Cup for the half-mile race was won by Hudson, 2 Strickland, 3 Griffiths.

The Grove Cup—Lavery i.

Mrs. Mackenzie's Shield for the pole vault—Robertson.

Long jump, intermediate — 1 Owen, 2 Macrae, 3 Adams.

Long jump, open — 1 Peck, 2 Strickland, 3 Duff.

High jump, intermediate—1 Carter i, 2 Strickland ii, 3 Duff.

High jump, open—1 Griffiths, 2 Peck, 3 Robertson.

Kicking the football—1 Hudson, 2 Bagg, 3 Earle.

Throwing the cricket ball — 1 Robertson, 2 MacDonald, 3 Griffiths.

Bicycle race, junior—1 Munro i, 2 Hepburn, 3 Dawson iii.

Bicycle race, intermediate — 1 Owen, 2 Elmsley, 3 Beardmore.

Bicycle race, open—1 MacDonald, 2 Strickland i, 3 Bagg.

220 Yards, intermediate—1 Owen, 2 Adams, 3 Macrae.

220 Yards, open — 1 Hudson, 2 Strickland i, 3 Griffiths.

Pole vault—1 Robertson, 2 Strickland i.

Hurdles, junior—1 Goldsborough, 2 Munro ii, 3 Atwood.

Hurdles, intermediate—1 Owen, 2 Adams, 3 Macrae.

Hurdles, open — 1 Boultbee, 2 Bagg, 3 Macdonald.

100 Yards, open — 1 Griffiths, 2 Boultbee, 3 Hudson.

Colors: E. Boultbee (captain), F. Hudson, J. Robertson, K Macdonold, H. Griffiths, E. Peck, H. Peck, N. Earle, D. Neilson, N. Adams, B. Earle, B. Hunt, A. Bagg, W. Macrae.

The remainder of the evening was taken up with a movie, "Tiger Rose," with a thrilling story and matchless mountain scenery. A personal touch was given by a moving picture of part of the old boys' game on the morning of Thanksgiving Day, and loud applause followed the appearance on the screen of old boys who are heroes to the school, and whose return is welcome to both school and village.

This year's supper repeated the success of other years; it was a happy occasion to all, and one which lingers long as a pleasant memory, for The Grove School holds a unique place in the community, never losing, in its expansion, the personal note which is one of its chief charms.

Perhaps this is best described in the verses inscribed on the menu card:

"There is no school like the old school,
The old school that we knew;
There's no rule like the old rule
To play the game right through.
The faces and the teams change,
The rule is still the same,
For Lakefield on the hill, man,
For her you play the game.
With reverence may we sing thee,
Our home of happy days;
Nor e'er forget to hymn thee
And ne'er forget our praise.
And though you play a losing game,
Play clean, and with a will;
You play because you love the name
Of the old school on the hill."

PARLEY ENDS AT ASHEVILLE

No More Winter Baseball To Be Played By Players.

DALLAS FOR 1927.

ASHEVILLE, N.C. Dec. 11—The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues selected Dallas, Texas, for its 1927 meeting and completed its business.

The association agreed that no more winter baseball would be played by players owned by clubs in the leagues which make up its membership. There has been a regular winter season on the west coast, and some winter baseball in Florida and South Georgia.

Atlanta sent Pitcher Jim Marquis to Buffalo. He was with Reading last season.

Shortstop Engle has been farmed out by Philadelphia Athletics to Memphis of the Southern League.

Syracuse, of the International League, secured Joe Poetz from Portsmouth, of the Virginia League. He is a pitcher.

Ted Sullivan, one of the founders of minor league baseball, was signed by Manager Dan Howley of the St. Louis Browns, as coach.

Pitcher Henry Thormahlen was sold by Rochester to Nashville, of the Southern League.

Asheville, of the South Atlantic League, purchased Infielder Sam Hackett from Detroit.

Deals reported at the meeting today included purchase by Charlotte, South Atlantic League, of First Baseman Duryea from Rochester, International League.

BETHANY W. M. S.

BETHANY, Dec. 11. — The December meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, was held at the home of Mrs. Rev. Johnston on Tuesday afternoon; 12 ladies were present and an interesting programme was given.

Miss Dickson, who is spending the winter with Mrs. Johnston, told the ladies present a little about her work and experience while she was engaged in missionary work in Africa a few years ago.

A very generous fall thankoffering for the missionary work was received amounting to almost $30, at the close of the meeting.

The young ladies' mission club held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Bert Monk on Tuesday evening. An interesting programme was given under the leadership of Miss Priscilla Howden.

At the Young Peoples' League meeting on Wednesday night, Rev. A. Poulter gave an illustrated talk on missionary work in China.

Miss Rhena McKinley of Fleetwood spent several days this week with her friend, Mrs. George Foster.

The recent fall of snow has enabled the people to get about in sleighs and cutters, doing away to a certain extent with the motor cars. The cheerful jingle of the sleigh bells helps to make people realize that Christmas is not very far away.

The local stores are almost all ready for their Christmas trade, and they look very nice in their holiday attire.

Mr. Will Hunter of Peterboro was a visitor to the village on Thursday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. A. Poulter were visitors to Peterboro on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Richard Howden of Peterboro spent a few days visiting her sister, Mrs. William Lee this past week.

DEMPSEY AIMS TO RUN WINNER IN RICH WINNER

Former Champion Gathering Big Racing Stable of Thoroughbreds.

RACE IN KENTUCKY.

Has Engaged John and George Colburn To Train Horses.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 11—Jack Dempsey battled his way to the tip-top of the heavyweight ring of the world. Then he drank sour cream, or something, and lost his title to Gene Tunney, the gentle bookworm.

Now, Jack is all set for another high mark. He plans to win the Kentucky Derby. He is one of a million who have had this ambition. But Jack has made a good beginning and is in dead earnest.

At Jim Coffroth's Tijuana race track Dempsey has been issued owners and trainers' badge No. 1, which means so long as he has one horse, or more, in training there he can go and come at will, without visiting the ticket seller on the way in. His colors are duly registered with the Tijuana stewards—here they are—green, red collars and cuffs and red cap, sort of an Irish-British combination!

Coburn To Train.

Jack has engaged John A. and George Coburn, of Oakland, Cal., to train his horses, and, until he gets out of all legal entanglements connected with his prize ring activities, his stable will be raced in the name of his wife, Mrs. Estelle Taylor Dempsey.

Johnny Coburn left here Saturday and will arrive at Tijuana tomorrow to take charge of and begin training the Dempsey horses, and it will not be long before they make their first appearance in races at the Mexican track. Dempsey does not intend to allow his ring work, or anything else, to stand in the way of his racing plans. He will strengthen his stable as fast as the Coburns can locate suitable horses, always with an eye to buying likely Derby material. By all means, Jack wants to be in the Derby picture of 1928.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ISABELLA GLOVER

The death occurred early this morning, after a brief illness, at her late residence at 367 Mark street, of Isabella Milliken, widow of the late Peter Glover who pre-deceased her eleven years ago.

The late Mrs. Glover, who was born in London, England, lived at Grafton, Ontario, prior to her marriage, but has been a resident of Peterborough for more than fifty years. She was a real home woman of the older generation, a woman of happy Christian life, whose chief interests were in her home and family, her church and her garden, for she was an ardent lover of flowers and floriculture. A true friend and neighbor, she will be greatly missed by those with whom she came in contact in her daily life.

Survivors left to mourn her loss are two daughters, Mrs. Carleton Perry at home and Miss Jessie of Rochester, N.Y., and two sons, Terrot H., of the Inspection staff of the Department of Customs and Excise, and Roland M., managing director of the Peterborough Examiner.

The funeral will take place from her late residence at 367 Mark street on Monday afternoon, at two o'clock.

JUVENILE L.O.L. ELECTS OFFICERS

Miss G. Foster, Worthy Mistress of District Number Three.

2nd Committee—O. Meeks.
3rd Committee—F. Simmons.
4th Committee—G. Fullbrook.
5th Committee—J. Mann.

Following the election the gathering sat down to a splendid banquet, provided by members of the L.O.B.A.

Man Yields To Lures Of Wax Siren In Window

NEW YORK, December 11. — United Press. — Returning from sitting up with a sick friend, John Kiernan was unable to resist the alluringly outstretched arms of a wax siren in evening gown when she deliberately confronted him from the window of Max Vogel's Exclusive Shoppe.

Kiernan knew women and their wiles but even at that he could not resist. With a despairing cry he went through the plate glass window, and surrendered himself to her arms.

At this point the police arrived.

ST. PAUL'S W.M.S. JUBILEE MEETING

Many Members of Congregation Gather To Celebrate Anniversary.

A very happy event at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last evening was the celebration of their fiftieth golden jubilee anniversary by the Women's Missionary Society of the church. There was a large attendance of members of the congregation, the Sunday School room being filled with the men and women who assembled to celebrate with the ladies of the society its attainment to the half-century mark of achievement. Decorations were carried out in gold, wherever possible, with the Sunday School room arranged with with palms, ferns and 'mums, and the Lecture Room downstairs, where refreshments were served at the conclusion of the programme, arranged with a central table on which the chief item of interest was the large storey birthday cake, with its fifty lighted candles and its swathing of golden tulle. Gold-colored candles and flowers and the golden idea carried out very effectively in the bright copper tea service used, made a dazzling arrangement for the table, where tea was poured by Mrs. W. R. Turner and Mrs. G. S. McKee. Mrs. J. Sands and Mrs. Wm. Lyburn ushered the guests into the tea room, where assistants were Mrs. C. A. White, Mrs. M. Comstock, Mrs. J. Garbutt, Mrs. H. Morgan, Mrs. T. Gilgour, Mrs. M. MacNabb, Mrs. S. Taylor, Mrs. W. J. Hancock, Mrs. J. H. Hall, Mrs. A. Craig and Miss M. Rannie. The guest were received by the president of the Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Robert Hall, and the vice presidents: Mrs. Jas. Dutton, Mrs. Wm. Allan, Mrs. E. F. Mason and Mrs. A. McLeish

The programme of the evening, presided over by Mrs. Robert Hall, who gave some interesting reminiscenes of the early days of the society, which was founded in 1876, and of which Mrs. Hall is the only charter member now living.

Greetings were extended to the society from past presidents and secretaries, from the Peterborough Presbyterial, voiced by Mrs. Ewart of Cobourg, from the Fraser Auxiliary, voiced by Miss M. R. Rannie, from the Faithful Workers' Mission Band, extended by Miss Elsie Cameron, from the Ladies' Aid Society, by the president, Mrs. D. Jordan, and from sister societies of the city.

A very fine address was given by Mrs. Strachan of Toronto, second vice president of the Council executive of the Women's Missionary Society, who brought greetings from the executive and reviewed the work of women's missionary societies of the church in national and overseas centres.

The presentation of a life membership certificate in the W.M.S. was made by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, to Miss J. Kingan, and Miss Daisy Davidson, president of the Faithful Workers' Mission Band, made the presentation to Mrs. Robert Hall of a bouquet of golden chrysanthemums from the ladies of the W.M.S.

Mr. James Dutton spoke encouragingly of the splendid service rendered the church by the Women's Missionary Society, and the singing of The Doxology concluded the programme, which also included vocal solos rendered by Mrs. Gerald McClelland, Miss Bertha Hill and Miss Daisy Davidson, with accompaniments played by Mrs. W. A. Lagon.

BETTER SERVICE FOR SHIPPERS

U. D. C. Plans To Have Ice Storage For Cheese at Campbellford.

NEW WAREHOUSE.

Dairy farmers in the Campbellford district are likely to be given a service in connection with the shipment of their cheese next season for which they have been asking for years, through the equipment of a building with ice storage facilities for the storing and grading of their cheese before shipment. Hitherto the cheese has often been subjected to unfavourable weather conditions before being loaded on the cars, and has been shipped away and weighed and graded at outside points. At one time, when the local cheese board was operating, Campbellford dairymen succeeded in getting local weights and payment at the car door.

United Dairymen Cooperative, Ltd. the big cooperative cheese selling company which is selling cheese for a considerable number of the factories in the Campbellford district, is now planning to equip a storage warehouse at Campbellford. Messrs. W. R. Shield of Peterboro and S. L. Joss, of Belleville, representing the company, were in Campbellford recently and selected a building which it is believed will be suitable for the purpose. A meeting of the dairymen of the district is to be held on Thursday of next week in the public library to discuss the matter more fully. It is intended to so equip the building that factories which draw their cheese in will be able to put it in storage and have it properly graded before the Dominion Government grader grades the cheese. It will also be weighed at Campbellford and sold according to grade by United Dairymen Cooperative, Ltd., as is done in connection with the warehouses the company is now operating at Belleville, Picton and Montreal. By storing cheese at Campbellford the directors of the cooperative company expect at times to be able to get better prices for it, as buyers in the Western part of the province frequently are prepared to pay better prices for cheese from this part of province but when the cheese is shipped to Belleville or elsewhere the freight rates are such that this market is not available except at increased cost when shipping. Numerous resolutions have been passed by dairymen in the Campbellford district suggesting that arrangements of this kind should be provided but this is the first real move that has been made to meet their wishes.

MARCONI LOOKS FOR TELEVISION

Recalls Marvel Wireless Was When Atlantic Was First Passed.

25 YEARS AGO.

LONDON, Dec. 11.— Guglielmo Marconi recalled yesterday the experiment which first sent a wireless message across the Atlantic, the twenty-fifth anniversary of which will be Sunday.

"There is possibility that television will become an actuality and, apart from ordinary transmission and reception of wireless messages, transmission of power over moderate distances may be developed," he said, when asked to look forward as well as backward. "You must leave to your imagination the uses which can be made of these powers; they probably will be as wonderful as anything which we have experienced so far.

"On December 12, 1901, I sat in a room of a disused barracks on Signal Hill, St. John's, Newfoundland. On a table in front of me stood some instruments connected by a thin wire which a kite held up at a height of about 100 feet by an Atlantic gale. To the same instruments was connected a telephone, in which shortly after noon I heard sounds constituting evidence that in far-distant Cornwall rhythmical siganls corresponding to the letter S in the Morse code had been projected into the ether of space and actually had crossed the Atlantic.

"I knew then I had been absolutely right in my anticipations. Electric waves had traversed the Atlantic, serenely ignoring the curvature of the earth, which so many doubters considered a fatal obstacle. I knew the day on which I should be able to send full messages without wires or cables across the Atlantic was not very far distant."

INDIANS ASSAULT DESERONTO CHIEF

Police Officer Says Assailants Had Been Drinking.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 11.— At an early hour yesterday, Chief of Police Alex. Wilkins, of Deseronto, was roughly handled and injured to some extent by a party of Indians, who it is alleged were under the influence of liquor and were creating a disturbance on a street. When the Chief arrived upon the scene, he was set upon by three men, one of whom struck him over the head with a pole, rendering him partially unconscious.

CHAPLIN'S WIFE RETURNS TO FAITH

Will Obtain For Children Consolation She Threw, Away, She Says.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11 (Canadian Press).—The Times says that Lita Grey Chaplin, estranged wife of Charlie Chaplin, has announced her intention of returning to the Roman Catholic Church, which faith, she says, she renounced when she married the film comedian. She would have her two children baptized by the Catholic Church so that "they might enjoy the consolation" she says she "threw away."

IN MEMORIAM.

COONEY.—In loving memory of Viola Cooney, who passed away Dec. 12th, 1924.

"December brings sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
Who will always be remembered
By those who loved her best.

The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory clings,
But death has left a vacant place
That never can be filled.

But some day we hope to meet her
And to behold her smile,
Where love reigns evermore
And friends do not depart."

IN MEMORIAM.

COONEY.—In loving memory of Viola Cooney, who passed away December the 12th, 1924.

"Often, often my thoughts do wander
To a grave not far away,
Where we laid our dear sister
Just two years ago to-day.

Ioftimes think of you, dear sister,
No eyes may see me weep,
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.

Friends may think I have forgotten
When at least they see me smile,
But they little know the heartache
That the smile hides all the while."

—Sadly missed by her Loving Sister Kathleen.
